PART V.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 25th October, 1892, and is hereby promulgated for general information:

ACT NO. X OF 1892.

An Act to provide for the levy of a rate on private estates under the management of the Government to meet the cost of supervision and management.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the levy of a rate on private estates under the management of the Government to cover the cost of all Government establishments in so far as they are employed in the supervision and management of such estates, other than establishments specially entertained for any particular estate or group of estates, and to meet all contingent expenditure incurred by the Government in connection with such supervision and management; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Government Management of Private Estates Act, 1892.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, inclusive of Upper Burma and British Baluchistan; and (3) It shall come into force at once.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "immoveable property" includes land, buildings, hereditary allowances, rights to ways, lights, ferries, fisheries or any other benefit to arise out of land, and things attached to the earth or permanently fastened to anything which is attached to the earth, but not standing timber, growing crops or grass;

(2) "gross income" includes all receipts of every kind in produce or cash, except money borrowed, recoveries of principal and the proceeds of sale of immoveable property or of moveable property properly classed as capital: and

(3) "private estates under Government management" include—

(a) estates under the Court of Wards;

(b) encumbered estates under Government management;

(c) estates attached for default of payment of Government revenue;

(d) minors' estates placed under the guardianship of a revenue-officer of the Government by a Civil Court;

(e) estates managed by a Collector in pursuance of any order made under the Code of Civil Procedure: and XIV

(f) all other estates made over to or taken under the management of a revenue-officer of the Government as such under any law for the time being in force or in virtue of any agreement.

Power to levy rate.

3. It shall be lawful for the Local Government—

(1) to levy on all private estates under Government management a rate, not exceeding five per cent. on the gross income, calculated, as nearly as may be possible, to cover—

(a) the cost of all Government establishments in so far as they may be employed in the supervision or management of such estates other than establishments specially entertained for the supervision or management of any particular estate or group of estates, and

(b) all contingent expenditure incurred in consequence of such supervision or management;

(2) from time to time to vary such rate; and

(3) to reduce or remit such rate in any special case or cases as may be equitable:

Provided that, in deciding the amount of the rate to be levied under this Act on any particular estate or group of estates, the Local Government shall consider the expenditure incurred on special establishments for such estate or estates.

Power to levy special charges.

4. In cases where an officer of the Government is employed to give legal advice or to audit accounts on behalf of any estate, the Local Government, if it considers the services rendered to be of a special nature, may, in its discretion, direct a special charge to be made against that estate on account of such services, irrespective of the rate leviable under the last foregoing section.

Saving as to special expenditure.

5. Nothing in this Act shall apply to the cost of establishments specially entertained or to expenditure of any description specially incurred in respect of any particular estate or estates.

Validation of levy of past rates.

6. All rates for general supervision or management levied by any Local Government before the commencement of this Act shall be deemed to have been levied under this Act.

Power to make rules.

7. The Local Government may make any rules and issue any orders which may be necessary for carrying this Act into effect, and which are consistent therewith.

Exemption from jurisdiction of Courts.

8. Where any Government establishment is employed in such supervision as aforesaid, the Local Government shall be the sole judge of the cost attributable to such employment, and its decision thereon shall not be questioned in any Court of Law or otherwise.

Repeal.

9. Section 17 of the Court of Wards Act, 1879 (passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council), and so much of Act III of 1881 (also passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council) as relates to section 17 of the said Court of Wards Act, 1879, are hereby repealed.

S. HARVEY JAMES,

Secretary to the Government of India.

Apl. 22nd	202	8vo dy.	1st...	1,000	Printed	1 0 0	Nakuleshvar Vidyábhúshan, Manoharpukur, Kálighát.	A well-written work of fiction. A young Bengali Babu, a graduate of the Calcutta University, does not like his wife, and after a long travel accepts the hospitality of a Rájá, who had from other causes renounced the world, and their company, and lived in stricter seclusion. They form the project of going to the Mahâprasthâna, i.e., to heaven life is always in danger owing to the intrigues of the Rájá's enemies. In one of the elevated valleys the Rájá his party were passing over a deep khud, his enemies cut down the rope-bridge, and he and the hero of the tale fall passage and there meets a German explorer with scientific appliances, and the hero escapes into a cave convent whence the wife plunges into the holy Ganges and dies in the presence of her husband.	869

The writer thinks that the fate of India would have been otherwise if people had universally received the religion of Chaitanya ; that Rúpa and Sanátan were Muhammadans, while they are said to be Brahmans in Musalman service. He thinks that Rúp and Sanátan were themselves, and that Chaitanyism was a substitute of the Varnásh rama dharma of Manu and others which, under the Muhammadans, had fallen into decay.	989

1890. Nov. ...	58	8vo f.cap	1st ..	100	ditto ...	1 0 0	B. S. V. Roydu, Mahárája Sitabaldi, Nagpur.	The writer says that his ancestors were rulers, warriors, and farmers of revenue in his native realm; that his claims have been overlooked by the English Government, and so he wants to cultivate the goodwill of good men among the English by his books. His theory is that the sun's rays in falling upon the cloud passes through an analysing and resolving medium.	2728

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE BHAGALPUR DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1891-92.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 8th November 1892.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual General Administration Report of the Bhagalpur Division for the year 1891-92.

THE General Administration Report of the Bhagalpur Division for the financial year 1891-92 is submitted by Mr. Quinn, who held the post of Commissioner throughout the year. He begins as usual with an account of the tours of himself and the officers subordinate to him, and it is satisfactory to record that the orders contained in the Tour Resolution of 17th October 1891 were in all instances observed. The Commissioner's tour covered a period of 124 days, spread over April, July, August, and every succeeding month up to the end of March. The Collectors of the large districts of Bhagalpur and the Sonthal Parganas were out for 123 days and 137 days, respectively, and the Collectors of the remaining districts for more than 90 days. All the Sub-divisional Officers were in camp for the prescribed time, with the exception of the Sub-divisional Officer of Kishanganj, who was prevented by illness and only completed 81 days. In every district of the division except Malda the conditions of the year pointed to the necessity for watchfulness in guarding against famine, and Mr. Waller in Monghyr, Mr. Waco in Bhagalpur, Mr. Vowell in Purnea, and Mr. Carstairs in the Sonthal Parganas directed their attention during the tours of the cold weather and March 1892 in the first place to a forecast of the measures which might become necessary for the relief of distress. In the latter end of January relief works were opened in Monghyr, Bhagalpur, and Purnea.

During the course of the year several parts of the division were visited by the Lieutenant-Governor. In April 1891, accompanied by the Commissioner, he visited Purnea and the Sonthal Parganas, in July Rajmahal and Malda, and in March and April 1892 His Honour made a tour of inspection through the affected tracts of the three districts in which relief works were in progress.

Weather and crops, health and condition of the people and sanitation.

2. The agricultural conditions of the year were far from normal, and the Commissioner reports that, owing to the early failure of the monsoon, and the almost entire absence of rain in the autumn and cold weather, the bhadoi crops generally, and the winter rice and rabi crops, with small local exceptions, were much below the average. In addition to an unpropitious season, the cultivators had further to contend in several districts with visitations of locusts, which made their appearance in June and July, favoured, it is said, by the fact that the rains were late in setting in. In consequence of the short harvests prices ruled higher than usual, while wages showed a tendency to decline in all districts except the Sonthal Parganas, where emigration affords the means of relief for a congested labour market. There can be no doubt that the strain which the events of the year have put upon the resources of the people has not been without its effect on their material condition, but there has been no permanent deterioration, and the Commissioner remarks that the manner in which the raiyats have been able to bear up in this hard time shows that there must be a considerable margin in good years, and that the food-stocks are much larger than is generally supposed. Turning to public health, the Commissioner observes—

"Throughout the division generally the year was an unhealthy one, and the number of deaths reported exceeded those of the previous year by fully one-third. The rainfall was insufficient, and, whether from this cause or otherwise, fever was extremely prevalent; but there is nothing in the figures to connect the increased death-rate with the scarcity and distress which prevailed over a great part of the division. Distress was severer in Bhagalpur than in Purnea, but the death-rate was lower both absolutely and in comparison with the previous year; whereas Malda, which was outside the distressed area, shows the highest death-rate of all."

It would seem to be an undoubted deduction from experience that the rainfall on which the people depend for the replenishing of their supply of drinking water is a factor of great importance in determining the conditions of health, and that the absence of rainfall will produce a high death-rate even in tracts where there are no symptoms of scarcity of food. Of deaths due to starvation, there has been no authentic instance, and the occurrence of distress closely followed by the opening of relief works and the distribution of gratuitous relief can only have a remote and indirect influence on the rate of mortality. The following table shows the total number of deaths for the past and two preceding years :—

DISTRICT.	Population by census of 1891.	TOTAL NUMBER OF DEATHS—
		1889-90.	1890-91.	1891-92.

Purnea	1,944,658	49,418	44,125	81,031
Malda	814,919	17,076	17,667	37,123

Famine-relief.

3. As already stated relief works were opened in Monghyr, Bhagalpur, and Purnea in January 1892. The numbers on the works were largest at the end of February and beginning of March. They were closed in Purnea towards the end of May, in Monghyr in July, and in Bhagalpur not till September. The history, therefore, of the relief operations belongs rather to the year following that under report. It is only necessary to say here that the Collectors and Assistants of these three districts—Mr. Vowell, and Mr. Duke in Purnea, Mr. Wace, Mr. Coxe and Mr. Egerton in Bhagalpur, and Mr. Waller and Mr. Oldham in Monghyr—showed an amount of energy and discretion in dealing with distress which deserves the Lieutenant-Governor's warm commendation. Several of the native noblemen and gentry, and especially the Maharajas of Gidhour and Sonbarsa, exerted themselves liberally and were of material assistance to the Government in this time of trouble.

Emigration.

4. There is very little emigration from any of the districts of the division except the Sonthal Parganas, from which there is an annual exodus of coolies in search of employment. Owing to the bad harvests a larger number of Sonthals than usual left their homes in the year under report, but things being equally bad elsewhere, many were compelled to return empty-handed. Six hundred and seventy-one coolies were sent to Chittagong for employment there by Government. Besides this stream of temporary emigration there was also an increase in the number of emigrants who left their homes for good to settle elsewhere. Four hundred persons emigrated to the Revd. Mr. Shields' Sonthal colony in the Jalpaiguri Duars. Registered emigration to the labour districts of Assam under Act I of 1882 is reported to be on the decline in favour of the free system, rules for the further regulation of which are now under the consideration of Government and will shortly be issued. The number of cases in which the system was abused does not appear to have been very numerous, if an opinion may be formed from the fact that in the Sonthal Parganas, the only important centre of emigration in the division, only 5 out of 25 persons brought to trial in 20 cases connected with emigration of either kind were convicted. It is possible that other cases occur which are never brought to light, but the new rules will make it easier to follow the movements of free emigrants, and local officers should have no difficulty in putting down the evils of which they now complain.

5. Trade was affected by the prevailing poverty of the season. There was less to export, and the people were not in a position to import as largely as in a prosperous year. But here again the Commissioner remarks with reference to Bhagalpur that an increase in the exports of wheat, oilseeds, and miscellaneous food-grains shows that the old stocks must have been considerable. No very precise information is given as regards manufactures. Indigo is grown in every district of the division, and the outturn in the Sonthal Parganas is reported to have been large, the quantity manufactured in the Sahibganj factory being rather more than double that of the previous year. The silk industry in Malda suffered for want of rain, which affected the mulberry plants. The tassar industry in Bhagalpur is said to show signs of revival. The Madankata coal mine in Deoghur is still being worked, but the output has considerably diminished, and, as stated in last year's Resolution, the mine is probably approaching exhaustion.

Manufacture, trade, and commerce.

6. The results of the census of 1891 show a large increase of population, ranging from 14·5 per cent. in Malda to 3·3 per cent. in Monghyr. The settlement of certain private estates recently concluded in the Sonthal Parganas revealed a considerable extension of cultivation in that district.

Statistics.

Taking one title suit as equivalent to three rent or money suits and one Small Cause Court suit as a third of an ordinary suit, the average number of unit cases disposed of by each munsif was 1,845. The number recorded against the Nawabganj Munsif is extremely large: perhaps there is some mistake as to the time during which the different officers held the post; according to the return it was occupied for six months of the year only. After Nawabganj the Munsifs of Malda, Kishanganj, and Kadwa did the most work. The officers of the Sonthal Parganas are excluded from this comparison as they are of a different status, having criminal and executive work as well. The Munsifs at Jamui and Banka disposed of much the smallest amount of work.

The ratio of witnesses detained over two days to the total number of witnesses examined was greatest in the Court of the Munsif of Banka, and the ratio of 10 per cent. was exceeded by all the Munsifs except those of the Purnea district, who disposed of their witnesses with great celerity, and those of Bhagalpur Sadar. In the Sonthal Parganas no register has been hitherto kept of the witnesses who attended, but the increase recently sanctioned to the clerical establishment will enable this to be done in future. The Munsifs at Madhipura, Bhagalpur, and Begusarai show the largest proportion of pending cases to cases disposed of. The lowest ratio of decisions upheld in appeal is in the Bhagalpur and Malda districts, 56 per cent.; the highest in Monghyr, 71 per cent.

Criminal Justice.

8. With regard to crime, the number of non-cognizable cases remained approximately the same as in the preceding year, the figures for the two years being 14,072 and 14,109 cases, respectively. Cognizable cases rose from 11,135 in 1890 to 11,911 in 1891, showing an increase of 776 cases, and this class of crime was marked, as the Commissioner observes, by a recrudescence of dacoity in the districts of Bhagalpur and Malda. The total amount of crime, however, was not so great as in 1889. The following table exhibits the amount of criminal work actually done in each district:—

District.	Sub-division.	Class of officers.	Number of officers.	Cases disposed of.	Persons disposed of.	Ratio per cent. of persons convicted to disposed of.	Number of witnesses attended.	Ratio per cent. of witnesses detained over two days to total number attended.	Ratio per cent of cases modified or reversed in appeal to total appealed.	Number of A cases disposed of.	Number remanded six times and more.	Average of cases disposed of per officer.	Average of witnesses attended per case disposed of.	Ratio per cent of column 12 to column 11.

The Stipendiary Magistrates at Jamui in Monghyr and Pakour in the Sonthal Parganas disposed of most cases, and those at Begusarai, Banka, Kishanganj, and Deoghur considerably exceeded the average. At Purnea and Monghyr the work was light. The average number of witnesses summoned per case was about 6, and the largest ratios were at Monghyr and Begusarai (9 per case), and at Madhipura and Supaul (8 per case). The number of witnesses who attended is not given for the Sonthal Parganas for the same reason as was stated in the preceding paragraph. The ratio of the number of witnesses detained more than two days to the total number who attended is only 5 per cent. for the whole division, and was highest at Begusarai (9 per cent.) and Monghyr and Purnea (8 per cent.). The Stipendiary Magistrates at Banka and Madhipura in Bhagalpur, at Kishanganj and Araria in Purnea, at the Sadar station of Malda, and at Jamtara in the Sonthal Parganas show the largest ratios of cases modified or reversed on appeal to the total number of cases, the ratio being in two instances over one-third. The average number of police cases postponed six times and over was only 8 per cent.; it exceeded 10 per cent. in the Courts of Monghyr, Purnea, Kishanganj, Deoghur, and Rajmahal. The worst individual cases were those of Babu Shoshi Bhushan Dutt (12 cases out of 24, or 50 per cent.), and Mr. Reily (8 out of 25, or 30 per cent.).

The work done by Honorary Magistrates was not very heavy, averaging 124 cases per Bench; but the Benches at Monghyr, Begusarai, and especially at Bhagalpur, did a large amount of work. In Purnea they do not seem to be sufficiently utilised. At Begusarai witnesses were detained rather too long (17 per cent. were detained over two days), and more than 10 per cent. of the police cases tried were remanded six times or more. Elsewhere the work was got through with creditable punctuality and stood the test of appeal fairly well.

9. The following statement shows the attendance of Honorary Magistrates:—

District.	Number of times asked to attend.	Number of times actually attended.	Number of absences—
			With leave or notice.	Without leave or notice.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6
Monghyr	1,698	1,121	148	429	577
Bhagalpur	1,688	1,095	190	403	593
Purnea	312	168	67	77	144
Malda	581	404	25	152	177
Sonthal Parganas	57	25	2	30	32

The attendance was better in Malda than elsewhere, but in no case good, and in all districts Honorary Magistrates absented themselves more often without than with the precaution of asking leave or giving notice. Many gentlemen, however, put in a great number of attendances, and some attended every time they were summoned. Those who did not attend at all might be invited to resign if they do not care to exercise their powers.

10. The following table shows the impositions, realizations, and collections of fines during the year, district by district:—

	District.
	Monghyr.	Bhagalpur.	Purnea.	Malda.	Sonthal Parganas.

Amount pending at end of year	7,241 3 1	8,862	8,315 4 0	3,516 6 9	11,334 10 7

In every district the balances outstanding were larger at the end than at the commencement of the year; these results are not satisfactory and require the attention of the Commissioner and District Officers.

Sessions trials.

11. The number of Sessions trials and their results in each district for the year 1891 are shown below:—

	District.
	Monghyr.	Bhagalpur.	Purnea.	Malda.	Sonthal Parganas.

Number of above in which sentence modified or reversed by High Court ...	2	2	3	2	1
Number of cases acquitted by Sessions Judge... ...	14	10	5	6	4

The ratio of convictions (75 per cent.) is good and shows care in the preliminary investigations.

Registration.

12. The following statement shows the registration work done in each district, from which it would seem that registration is more popular in Purnea than elsewhere. The number of rural sub-registrars might perhaps be increased in that district:—

District.	Class of Registration Office.	Number of offices.	Number of documents registered.	Average per office.

The total current demand of Land Revenue was Rs. 33,58,011, of which Rs. 32,79,877 were collected, leaving a balance of Rs. 78,134, as compared with a balance of Rs. 86,773 in the preceding year. The percentage of current collections on current demand was 97·6, showing a slight improvement on the previous year. The percentage of arrear collections on the arrear demand was 84·8, as compared with 94·7 in the previous year. The percentage of the total balance on the total demand was 2·4 against 2·5 in the previous year. The collections from permanently-settled estates were worst in Bhagalpur and best in the Sonthal Parganas and Purnea. The collections from estates held direct by Government were indifferent in Monghyr and Bhagalpur and bad in Purnea. They were fair in Malda and very good in the Sonthal Parganas. In the first three districts the short collections may be attributed perhaps to the agricultural conditions of the year. The road cess collections were worst in Monghyr. The arrear under all heads was about Rs. 1,60,000 at the beginning of the year and about Rs. 1,60,000, or the same amount, at the end, which, considering the badness of the harvest, is pretty good. On the whole the work of the division may be considered satisfactory in respect to the collection of Government dues.

Certificates.

14. The statement below shows the number of certificates filed during the year and how they were disposed of. The number of cases pending at the close of the year in Monghyr was 2,882, as compared with 2,187 at the close of the year preceding. This increase is not satisfactory. The certificate files were reduced in Bhagalpur and the other districts :—

Settlements.

16. The settlement of the Srinagar-Banaili Estate was completed during the year. In the course of the proceedings 698 square miles were surveyed, and 666 square miles were brought under settlement, the increase in the recorded area being 8 per cent., and in the rental 23 per cent.

The Commissioner's concise account of the progress made with the Sonthal settlement is extracted verbatim—

SONTHAL SETTLEMENT.

The progress made in this settlement may be gauged from the following enumeration. In all 1,432 villages with a total area of 443,756 acres had been brought under settlement, and during the year the rates of assessments and rents for all these were fixed and jamabandis prepared.

The individual holdings and rent were explained to every raiyat and to every sub-raiyat in 55,620 holdings, and all objections, 6,372 in number, were disposed of.

Pattas and kabuliyats were prepared in triplicate, and the records of rights were published locally in all the villages.

Mustajirs were appointed for 422 villages measured in the previous season. Pattas were issued and kabuliyats executed in all the villages, excepting in 177 villages of Borkope, where the headman refused to accept pattas.

During March, April, and May, the village misls were arranged, signed, bound, and indexed, and then made over to the record-room.

The final report of the settlement proceedings is under preparation. The financial result is an increase of the rental by about 35 per cent., owing mainly to the assessment of reclaimed waste.

The final report has recently been received by Government.

Education.

18. The Commissioner gives an abstract comparing the statistics of 1891-92 with those of 1890-91, from which it appears that there has been a substantial decline in the number of schools and pupils, the loss being most marked in the case of lower primary schools. The total number of Muhammadan pupils fell from 20,756 to 17,181, and there was a decrease also in the number of aboriginal pupils. The prevailing scarcity and sickness are regarded as the causes of these unsatisfactory results.

The subjoined table shows the number of schools of all classes in each district, the number of pupils and the incomes, with the sources from which the incomes are derived, and the cost per head of the pupils :—

District.	Class of schools.	Number of schools.	Number of pupils on rolls.	Cost. Provincial.	District Board.	Municipality.	Fees.	Others.	Total.	Cost per pupil.	Population of district. The ratio of boys at school to boys of school-going age is very small in all the districts, but is best in Malda. In Purnea it is only 7 per cent., which is the lowest ratio in the province. The cost per pupil in the high schools is above the average. It exceeds Rs. 20 in two districts and Rs. 30 in three districts. In no district except Monghyr do the municipalities appear to have realised their responsibility as regards the primary education of the boys living in the municipal area, and in Bhagalpur if this statement is correct, they gave nothing whatever to this object. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts he will not have occasion to make this remark again.

Dispensaries and hospitals.

19. The following table shows the number and income of the dispensaries and hospitals of the different districts and the daily average of indoor and outdoor patients. The ratio of outdoor patients to the total population was greatest in Malda and least in Purnea, but even there the number (12,701) exceeded the number of pupils in the schools :—

Local Self-Government institutions.

20. The Commissioner makes the following observations regarding the District Boards :—

The District Boards showed a praiseworthy readiness to contribute liberally from their funds, and to give the services of their officers to the execution of works for the relief of the distress which prevailed in three out of the five districts of the division, but little or no assistance seems to have been derived from the local knowledge of these bodies as regards the character or extent of the distress or the measures required for its relief. In this respect I cannot find that the district officers were in any better position than they were in the famine of 1874, when Local Self-Government was still in embryo.

The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to acknowledge the readiness with which the District Boards recognised their responsibilities in respect to the relief of distress, and he takes this opportunity to congratulate them as well as the officers of Government on the improved aspect of affairs.

With regard to the municipalities there are causes both for satisfaction and for the reverse. The Monghyr Municipality is working well under a non-official Chairman. The Bhagalpur Municipality levied a water-rate for the first time during the year, and is said to have at last recognised the necessity for increased taxation. The conservancy arrangements of the Malda Municipality were so bad that the fact was brought during the year to the notice of Government; and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to observe that the state of things has now improved. The municipalities of Deoghur and Sahibganj in the Sonthal Parganas are well spoken of. The chief work done by the former was the cleaning out and the improvement of the Sivagunga Lake at a cost of Rs. 17,711, to meet which funds were provided by the liberality of the Maharaja of Darbhanga.

Conduct of zamindars.

21. T Lieutenant-Governor desires to acknowledge the assistance rendered by the following zamindars in the relief of distress—the Maharaja of Gidhour, Babu Tarini Prosad, and Chaudhri Mahbub Ali in Monghyr; the Maharaja of Sonbursa, the sharers in the Banaili Estate, Babu Janardhan Singh of Barail, and Mr. H. D. Christian of Bangaon in Bhagalpur; Babu Dharam Chand in Purnea. The Collector of Malda has reported unfavourably of the zamindars of his district. In the Sonthal Parganas Babu Seitash Chandra Panre of Pakaur had the title of Raja conferred upon him during the year. Of the other zamindars of the district, except the Ghatwals of Bamangain, Sarath, and Deoli, not much which is favourable can be said.

Conclusion.

22. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to convey to Mr. Quinn and the district officers under him his acknowledgments for the way in which they have carried on the work of administration during a trying period. The Commissioner's report on the character of officers will be communicated to the Appointment Department, information being given according to the rules laid down by the Lieutenant-Governor to all on whom any serious censure is recorded.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

ADDRESSES, TESTIMONIALS AND PUBLIC ENTERTAINMENTS TO OFFICIALS FORBIDDEN BY GOVERNMENT.

RESOLUTION.

JUDICIAL.

Dated Calcutta, the 7th November 1892.

THE attention of Government having been drawn to many reports, which have lately appeared in the newspapers, of entertainments to officials of rank on occasion of their leaving their station or district, the Lieutenant-Governor considers it necessary to republish the standing orders of the Government of India on the subject, contained in the Resolution of the Home Department, No. $\frac{29}{1629-45}$, dated 22nd July 1887, and to take this opportunity of warning all officers under this Government that any breach of the rules therein laid down will be seriously dealt with.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to all officers subordinate to this Government for information and guidance; that a copy be communicated to all departments of this Government for information; and the Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. S. COTTON,

Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION—By the Government of India, in the Home Department, No. $\frac{29}{1629-45}$, dated Simla, the 22nd July 1887.

Read—Home Department Resolution No. $\frac{19}{740-62}$, dated 11th May 1885, prescribing rules for the receipt of testimonials and addresses by servants of Government.

In re-issuing the rules contained in Home Department Resolution of the 11th May 1885, with certain necessary additions, the Governor-General in Council desires to invite the renewed attention of Local Governments and Administrations to the subject with which they deal, and to impress on all concerned by them the duty of exact obedience to these regulations.

2. The rules do not apply to the receipt of addresses by the heads of any Government or Administration.

RULES.

1. Save as in these Rules otherwise provided, all servants of Government, covenanted or uncovenanted, are forbidden to receive complimentary or valedictory addresses in any form, or to accept testimonials of any kind, or to attend public meetings or complimentary entertainments of a formal and public character held in their honour.

2. The Government views with disfavour all similar manifestations in the case of retired officers, when following immediately upon their retirement from active service, and designed as an acknowledgment of acts done by them while in the service of Government.

3. It is not intended to prohibit such an expression of regard for the private or official character of an officer retiring from service, or leaving his station or district, as is involved in a farewell entertainment supported by his personal friends, even though some of these may be his official subordinates. But it is expected that the proceedings on such occasions will be substantially of a private and informal character.

4. Local Governments and Administrations are authorized to forward to an officer who has left a station or district the resolution of any local public body recording a vote of thanks to him for help and advice afforded during his official connection with the station or district.

5. Medical officers are not prohibited from receiving pecuniary recognition of their services from a community or body of persons which may desire to acknowledge these, but the previous sanction of the Local Government or Administration must be obtained by medical officers before receiving any complimentary address.

6. Nothing in the above rules is meant to prohibit compliance with the request of a public body that a Government officer should sit for his portrait, bust or statue in recognition of his public services; provided that the portrait, bust or statue is not intended for presentation to the officer concerned.

7. The participation of Government officers in the raising of funds for the foundation of scholarships, or for procuring a portrait, bust or statue, as a spontaneous recognition of the services of a Government officer is not forbidden; but it should be clearly understood that any solicitation on the part of officers of Government for subscriptions from any person who does not voluntarily come forward to contribute, is disapproved by the Government of India.

8. The previous sanction of the Government of India must be obtained to the relaxation of these rules in any special case in which the Local Government or Administration may think this desirable.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE CALCUTTA MUNICIPAL CORPORATION FOR THE YEAR 1891-92.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MUNICIPAL.

RESOLUTION No. 2876M.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Calcutta Municipal Corporation for the year 1891-92.

This Report, which should have been in the hands of Government on the 1st August, was received on the 23rd September. In 1891 the date of receipt was the 17th September, and in 1890 it was the 17th October. In his Resolution on the Report for 1890-91, the Lieutenant-Governor commented on the delay which then occurred, and he regrets to find that those comments have produced no good effect: he is informed that the detailed examination of the draft report, paragraph by paragraph, by the General Committee of the Commissioners necessarily delays its submission, but if this process of examination cannot be avoided, due provision should be made for the delay which it entails, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the report for the current year will be punctually forwarded. Having said so much, Sir Charles Elliott gladly turns to acknowledge the improvement visible in the form of the present report, and the attention which has been paid to the instructions given in the Resolution on the Report of 1890-91. The introductory chapter by Mr. Lee, the Chairman, who was absent on leave when the report was prepared and submitted, is a useful contribution to the value of the whole, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes to see a similar summary added to future reports.

Attendance of Commissioners

2. The tabular statements in which the number of meetings held and the attendance of the Commissioners are set forth, show that the majority of them discharged their important functions with a regularity and assiduity which merit the commendation of Government. The total number of meetings held was 280, as against 276 in 1890 91 and 282 in the preceding year; the various Standing Committees, including the General Committee, upon the satisfactory working of which the regular progress of business so largely depends, met 161 times, a considerable advance on any previous year. The percentage of attendance of all Commissioners at all meetings was 47, that of the elected Commissioners being 46, and of the nominated Commissioners 48. The General Committee, which is the backbone of municipal administration in Calcutta, consisted for the greater part of the year of 18 members besides the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, and the average attendance at their meetings was nearly 68 per cent. Twenty-two Commissioners, as against eighteen in 1890-91, attended more than 50 meetings in the year, and out of this number ten were present more than 100 times. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that four of the latter were nominated Commissioners.

Proceedings at meetings.

3. In the second paragraph of the Resolution on the Report of 1890-91, the Lieutenant-Governor observed that the Report contained "no connected account of the work done by the Commissioners at these various meetings," and he is now glad to see that the remark has been noted and the requisite information given in the report now under review. Paragraphs 12 to 78 of the Report are devoted to this subject, and they show that several matters of great moment were dealt with by the Commissioners during 1891-92. Among these were—improved rules for the speedy realisation of rate bills, and for the supply, maintenance, and issue of stores; the issue of a 4½ per cent. loan for 20 lakhs of rupees; the proposal to exempt charitable institutions from the payment of rates; the deputation of the Health Officer to the Hygenic Conference in London; the electric lighting of the new road; the supply of medical aid to the Southern Suburbs of the town; the better disposal of objections to assessment; the proposed extension of municipal limits; the veterinary treatment of sick cattle, the property of the municipality; and the construction of a new incinerator. Many of those important questions are still under consideration, but the Lieutenant-Governor observes that, with regard to several of them, no information is afforded as to the stage which they have reached, although he has reason to believe that action has been taken. This omission should be supplied in future reports.

4. The loan liability of the Corporation at the beginning of the year amounted to Rs. 2,12,61,771-5-6 as follows:—

Loans.

	Rs.	A.	P.
6 per cent. Debentures	1,12,000	0	0
5 ditto ditto	1,43,00,900	0	0
4½ ditto ditto	10,48,300	0	0
	1,54,61,200	0	0
Consolidated loans from Government	58,00,571	5	6
Total ...	2,12,61,771	5	6

During the year this was increased by a loan of 20 lakhs raised in the open market, by a sum of 2 lakhs borrowed from the Port Commissioners for three years without interest, and by the issue of the balances of previous loans aggregating in all Rs. 1,01,000. Half of the loan of 20 lakhs was set aside for the acquisition and construction of the Harrison Road, 6 lakhs were allotted for the extension of the water-supply, and the remaining 4 lakhs for drainage. On the other hand, the Commissioners were able to pay off Rs. 2,20,103-7-9 of the consolidated Government loans, and Rs. 1,03,500 of the public debt as follows:—

	Rs.
Balance of the 6 per cent. loan of 1867 (by transfer to the 5 per cent. loan of 1887-88)	3 000
Balance of the 6 per cent. loan of 1870 (in cash) ...	3,000
6 Per cent. loan of 1871 (do)	97,500
Total ...	1,03,500

Consequently at the end of the year their total loan liability was represented by the following figures:—

	Rs.	A.	P.
Balance of 6 per cent. debenture loans ...	8,500	0	0
5 Per cent. debenture loans	1,44,01,900	0	0
4½ Ditto ditto	30,48,300	0	0
	1,74,58,700	0	0
Balance of consolidated loans from Government ...	55,80,467	13	9
Loan without interest from the Port Commissioners	2,00,000	0	0
Total ...	2,32,39,167	13	9

Against these liabilities the Commissioners held on the 31st March 1892 a sum of Rs. 6,30,196-11-9 in the 1 per cent. Reserve Fund. The borrowing capacity of the Municipality, based upon the annual valuation, was during the year Rs. 3,06,00,000. The circumstances under which the loan of 20 lakhs was floated show that the credit of the Municipality stands higher than ever. The permission of Government was originally obtained to the issue of a loan bearing interest at 5 per cent., but it was decided to reduce the rate of interest to 4½ per cent., and the amount of the loan at this rate was tendered for more than six-and-a-half times over.

5. In reviewing the Report for 1890-91, the Lieutenant-Governor was constrained to complain that the figures in Chapter II had been given without any sort of explanation: in the present report this fault has been corrected to some extent, but the form of the explanations still leaves something to be desired; not only should it be stated under what heads variations have occurred, but the cause of these differences when considerable should also be briefly explained. The gross income of the municipality was Rs. 45,68,085 against Rs. 42,06,412 in 1890-91, and the expenditure Rs. 44,98,862 against Rs. 44,71,169, leaving a surplus of Rs. 69,223 on the year's working. The principal items of each are as follow :—

Receipts.	Rs.
General rate at Rs. 9¾ per cent. ...	16,07,146
Sewage rate at Rs. 2 per cent. ...	3,38,240
Water-rate at Rs. 6 per cent. ...	9,30,751
Lighting rate at Rs. 2 per cent. ...	3,38,486
Taxes on professions, &c. ...	5,25,113
Municipal market receipts ...	1,22,478
Receipts from sale of water ...	86,805

Expenditure.	Rs.
Interest on general loans ...	4,47,192
Contributions for repayment of loans ...	1,86,629
General establishment ...	3,88,022
General office expenditure ...	1,07,697
Road department	4,34,383
Gowkhana	2,06,044
Conservancy	1,65,360
Basti cleaning	1,07,235
Sewage-rate charges... ...	2,79,976
Water-rate charges	10,84,278
Lighting-rate charges ...	3,65,147

The total rates now realised are equivalent to 19½ per cent. on the annual valuation of assessable property, and the existence of a surplus at the close of the year appears to justify the decision not to raise the rate to 20 per cent. The incidence per head of all taxation is Rs. 5-12-1 according to the census of 1891, as against Rs. 5-10-11 in 1890-91.

Collection of arrears.

6. The collection of rate bills in Calcutta is entrusted to two officers, known as the Collector and the Joint-Collector, the area of whose operations corresponds, respectively, with the Town proper and the Suburbs, as they stood before the amalgamation under Act II of 1888. If bills are not paid voluntarily, they are referred to the Warrant Department for realisation, or in case of dispute or failure of service to the Assessor's Department for further enquiry. The operations of the Collector during the year just past showed some improvement since he raised the percentage of collections on the value of bills issued from 83·94 to 86·40, and it is pointed out that this improvement was apparent in each of the three classes into which rate bills are divided, viz. those against owners, occupiers and basti owners.

7. The Lieutenant-Governor has learned with satisfaction, from paragraph 6 of the Chairman's introductory note, that this result is largely due to the fact that for the last quarter of the year the Commissioners consented to allow notices of demand to be issued by the Collector directly upon the expiry of the seven days allowed for payment under section 142 of the Municipal Act, and he would be glad to see the same rule extended to the collections for every quarter of the year. Sir Charles Elliott is surprised to learn that the usual practice has been for unpaid bills to be kept by the Collector for three months without any process being taken out; at the end of that time notices of demand, the writing and serving of which often takes from two to three months, are issued by the Warrant Department, so that the municipal rates, instead of being collected within a month of their falling due, are frequently not paid till six months have elapsed. The prompt realisation of public dues is absolutely essential to, and a distinctive feature of, vigorous municipal administration, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the able and experienced gentlemen who represent the Corporation of Calcutta will take steps to correct the defect which he has now pointed out.

8. The form in which the demand, collections and balances of basti bills are given in paragraph 5 of the Chairman's introductory note is not clear, for the Lieutenant-Governor finds that what is shown as gross demand is really the current demand, and that "collection" means the gross collections: in future, what is current and what arrear should be distinguished in the demand, collection and balance columns.

9. The work of the Joint-Collector's department was less satisfactory : it is true that he has made some improvement in his collections during the last three years, the percentages having been 60·17, 73·85, and 76·66: but even the latest figure is far below that obtained by the Collector. In the miscellaneous department his percentage of collections has fallen from 75·4 to 67·7. This is an unsatisfactory record, and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that the careful attention of the Commissioners will be directed to this department at an early date.

10. The Warrant Department has received well deserved censure in the Chairman's note: while the warrant officer collected Rs. 1,93,361 he had in his hands at the close of the year uncollected bills to the value of two and a half lakhs, and his percentage of collections was 36·2. Sir Charles Elliott hopes that the Sub-Committee, which has been appointed to report on the working of the Warrant Department, will compass its thorough reform. It is this department to which belongs the obloquy incurred in a recent case, where, in attempting to collect an arrear which was in the main justly due, the warrant officers contrived to perpetrate so many technical errors, and acted in so harsh and inconsiderate a way, that the learned Judge who tried the case decreed heavy damages against the Municipality.

Valuation and Assessment.

11. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see that there has been greater activity in disposing of the objections to assessment, and that the number disposed of in the year slightly exceeded the number filed, but he will defer any detailed examination of the revision of the assessment in Calcutta till next year, when, as promised by the Chairman, more complete and accurate figures will be available; he takes, however, the opportunity of requesting that in future reports the extent to which the Assessor's valuation has been rejected on objection may be noted and explained. A reference to the figures on page 51 of the Report shows that in the eleven wards where the assessment has been completed and revised, the result of objections has been a decrease of nearly four lakhs of rupees upon the Assessor's original valuation: the figures are so large that they should not have been passed over in silence. It appears from paragraph 33 of the Chairman's note that some of the Commissioners felt a doubt as to the precise meaning of the word "moderate" in a recent letter of Government as applied to the assessments made by the Municipal Assessor. Mr. Lee has correctly interpreted the Lieutenant-Governor's meaning, which was that if the assessments erred at all it was on the side of leniency.

License Department.

12. Under the general title of License and Registration are comprised such different matters as licenses to carry on trades and professions, or to keep carriages and animals, and fees for the registration of carts and hackeries, hackney carriages and palkis, and it is satisfactory to observe that in the aggregate there is an excess of Rs. 31,207 over the Budget Estimate, and of Rs. 16,699 over the receipts of last year. The tax on trades and professions as usual brings in more than half the total receipts (Rs. 3,31,716), while the only other item above a lakh of rupees is the tax on carriages and animals, which realised Rs. 1,42,144. The figures given in paragraph 166 of the Report show that there is still a considerable arrear of the tax first named, only 72 per cent. of the gross demand having been collected; but the Lieutenant-Governor notices that this figure is an improvement on that for the previous year, which was 69·2. It is also to be observed that the percentage of collections varied in different divisions of the town from 83·8 to 52·5, but it is stated that drastic measures have been adopted which should lead to an improvement. Special efforts were made to collect the arrear demands, and 4,400 licenses were issued with retrospective effect, representing a sum of Rs. 52,689, a larger number than in any previous year. The number of regular appeals against assessments was only 29, and of this number only 6 were successful. The tax on carriages and animals and the number of licenses issued continue to show a steady advance. The licenses issued were 7,212 in number as against 7,051 in 1890-91, and the tax aggregated Rs. 1,42,144, showing an advance of Rs. 1,129 on the figures of 1890-91, and of Rs. 2,219 on those of 1889-90. The registration of hackney carriages and palkis, and their drivers and bearers produced Rs. 21,258 as against Rs. 16,037, and the number of carriages registered was 5,741 as against 8,534. The increase in fees is partly due to a change of the date for taking out licenses, by which fees for 18 months were collected in the year under report, and partly to an increase of the fees for second class carriages from Rs. 2 to Rs. 3. The number of palkis has increased from 380 to 609, and palki bearers have advanced from 928 to 1,614; these figures are remarkable in the face of the great numbers of passengers carried by the Tramway Company, but they doubtless have a direct relation to the falling off in the number of third class carriages, due to the higher fees sanctioned by the new Act, and to the demand of 18 months' fees upon the change of date. These statistics lead to the conclusion that the margin of profit to proprietors of hackney carriages of the lower classes in Calcutta is very small. It is also pointed out in the Chairman's note that another cause of this falling off is that a large number of third class carriages and their ponies, and a smaller number of second class carriages and their ponies, were rejected as not coming up to the standard prescribed by the bye-laws under the Hackney Carriage Act. The Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that these bye-laws are not yet enforced with sufficient stringency, and he is informed that many unfit carriages and ponies may still be seen plying in the streets. It is suggested that at every hackney carriage stand and police outpost notices should be posted in English and Bengali, stating the standards of efficiency required by the bye-laws for both carriages and ponies, and inviting the public to complain if they are not complied with.

Litigation.

13. The results of the litigation in which the Municipality was involved during the year were on the whole satisfactory. The Commissioners appeared as plaintiff in twenty-eight and as defendant in thirteen Civil suits. They were successful in all the suits in which they were the plaintiffs; as regards those in which they were sued, they seem to have been ill-advised in defending the suit brought by the Official Assignee on behalf of the estate of Babu Jagannath Khunnah, and in the case of Babu Jadu Lal Mullick, which has been decided since the close of the year, and which has already been referred to in paragraph 9; they were found by the Judge to have acted harshly, and to have disregarded certain technical obligations.

14. The statistics of prosecutions instituted by the Commissioners under the Municipal Act seem to show that criminal proceedings have been taken with greater care and discrimination than has hitherto been the case: not only was the number of persons prosecuted less than in 1890-91 (16,307 as against 17,502), but the number of those whose cases were dismissed was smaller, being only 354 against 450 in 1890-91. The Commissioners complain again of the inadequate fines imposed upon conviction, and it is shown that in prosecutions by the License Department the average fine was Rs. 4-3 in 1891-92 and Rs. 4-12 in 1890-91; that in the Health Department cases they were smaller still, averaging Rs. 2-3-6 and Rs. 2-4, while in prosecutions by the Road Department they were even more insignificant, being Rs. 1-6-9 and Rs. 1-5. When it is remembered that these prosecutions referred among others to matters of such public importance as keeping animals without a license (1,387 cases), keeping offensive matter for more than 24 hours (630 cases), and allowing sewage to flow on the street (272 cases), it can hardly be said that the fines were deterrent. Under the Vaccination Act, 597 summonses were issued, including pending cases, as against 679 in 1890-91. In 386 cases the necessary action was taken on receipt of the summons, and the children were either vaccinated or brought for inspection, as the case might be, and the number actually convicted and fined was only 76. In 1890-91 the corresponding figures were 416 and 78.

Printing Department.

15. The cost of the Printing Department, in which the Municipality prints its own bills, forms, notices, and reports, amounted to Rs. 22,520 against Rs. 21,803 in 1890-91. There seems reason to believe that a considerable amount of economy can be effected in this Department.

Education.

16. The relation of the Commissioners to the education of the youth of Calcutta is the same as it was last year, when it attracted the unfavourable notice of Government. A Sub-Committee was appointed to enquire and report upon the observations made by the Lieutenant-Governor; but so far their report has not, been received, and no reform has been carried out. From the Commissioners report, it appears that a sum of Rs. 2,950 was allotted, of which Rs. 2,935 were actually expended during the year as grants-in-aid to 66 schools, but it is not stated what the number of scholars was, nor of which sex they were. It follows from the character of the population that the number of children of a school-going age is less in Calcutta than is usual: the Director of Public Instruction, in paragraph 11 of his report for 1891-92, adhering to the usual ratio of 15 per cent. on the male population, assumes that the number of boys between 5 and 15 years of age is 67,011, but the Health Officer, in page 2 of his report, basing his figures on the census, states the number of boys of that age in the Town proper to be 36,564, which gives a percentage of 11·5 on the male population: this ratio, applied to the whole municipal area, would yield 49,142 as the real number of boys of the school-going age in Calcutta. This figure may be accepted as showing the number of boys for whom the Corporation of Calcutta is bound to see that educational provision is made, and this duty has not hitherto been performed. From the statistics given by the Education Department, it seems probable that a very large proportion of these boys is actually at school. The question has to be examined carefully and separate orders are being issued about it: but if the facts are so, it is not the Municipal Administration nor the Municipal Funds to which the credit is due. Indeed the Town of Calcutta has never (it seems) given a single rupee to education; but when the larger part of the Suburban Municipality was included in the Town, a grant of Rs. 3,000 which it used to make was taken over and maintained, so that this inconsiderable sum is still the sole contribution of the leading municipal body in Bengal to the fulfilment of one of its primary duties. On the other hand, the Provincial Government gave during last year the sum of Rs. 44,179 to Primary Education within the limits of Calcutta alone. Such a distribution of funds is quite indefensible. The general tax-payer of Bengal must not be called on to meet the charges for educating the sons of Calcutta residents, who already pay taxes on a scale which should certainly suffice to defray the cost of primary schools. The Lieutenant-Governor desires the Commissioners to understand that though he will not take any sudden steps which might embarrass them before they have time to arrange for meeting their responsibilities, he will eventually withdraw the whole of the Provincial Funds now spent on the elementary teaching of boys, and will expect the Corporation to supply the deficiency thus caused.

Water-supply.

17. Turning now to the chief material improvements chronicled in the Report, it may be mentioned in the first place that the extension of the water-supply, both filtered and unfiltered, has been vigorously carried on during the year, 581 stand-posts for filtered water having been erected, and more than 36 miles of pipes laid down, chiefly in the suburban area, while the completion in August 1891 of the Bhawanipur project for the south suburban area practically completed the supply for the enlarged metropolis. The Lieutenant-Governor cordially concurs in the approbation which the Commissioners bestow on their Engineer officers for the rapid and efficient execution of this important project. At the end of the year the daily supply of water was 19 million gallons of filtered and 4¼ million gallons of unfiltered water, giving a daily average per head of 35·93 gallons of filtered water in the Town, and 15·11 gallons in the Suburbs, besides an additional supply of 10 gallons per head of unfiltered water in the Town for bathing and cleansing purposes. Land was acquired at Pulta during the year (though the fact is not noticed in the Report) for the construction of two more settling tanks; it has been cleared, and the construction of a circumscribing road is in progress. The erection of additional bathing platforms is a matter which should not be lost sight of, but the reason given by the Chairman for not more largely increasing their numbers during the year, viz., the fear of exceeding the capacity of the pumping engines, must be accepted.

Roads.

18. Another important work which has been carried nearly to completion during the year is the Central Road, which has lately been re-named the Harrison Road in commemoration of the late Sir Henry Harrison, who for nine years filled with conspicuous ability the post of Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality. The original plan was for the acquisition of a strip of land 170 feet broad from the Hooghly Bridge to the Sealdah Road, down the centre of which a first class road was to be constructed 70 feet in breadth, including foot-paths, while the surplus land on either side was to be sold as sites for buildings of a superior class. Had this scheme been carried out in full, the road would probably have been constructed free of cost to the rate-payers, since the surplus plots would have been sold at a very large profit; but much of the surplus land was exempted from acquisition on special terms arranged with the owners, and it is estimated that the cost of the scheme will be about 20 lakhs exclusive of the compensation which may be awarded in an important case not yet finally decided.

Disposal of refuse.

19. A new incinerator has been constructed at Goragatcha for the consumption of the refuse of the Suburbs, and it is reported that since the conclusion of the year under report it has been started, and is working with complete success. It is hoped that if this experience is sustained, the Commissioners will be enabled to decide on adopting this mode of disposing of their refuse generally in preference to the rude and dangerous method now followed. Very valuable testimony to the superiority of this system of destroying refuse has been borne by so eminent an authority as Sir Spencer Wells who, in an address on the 5th January 1892 to the Calcutta Medical Society, ascribed the great prevalence of deaths from tetanus to the practice which has existed for so many years of throwing the refuse of the city into the Salt Lakes.

Drainage.

20. The drainage system of the Town proper has practically been complete for some years past, and the length of pipe sewers now open is 200 miles. Since the amalgamation of the Suburbs the Commissioners have had to face the important question of draining the added area, and they have arranged to take up the surface drainage scheme first at an early date. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that this important matter will not be forgotten, since there can be no doubt that the higher death-rate in the Suburbs is very largely due to the unsystematic and inadequate drainage of that part of the municipality.

Expenditure on Suburban improvement.

21. Under section 37, clause 7 of Act II of 1888, the Municipality are bound to expend annually a sum of not less than three lakhs of rupees on the improvement of the area newly added to Calcutta by that Act, and in the Resolution on the Report for 1889-90, the Lieutenant-Governor requested that in future the manner in which this obligation had been fulfilled should be clearly stated. The Commissioners have not yet been able to decide exactly what expenditure is debitable to this head, but, as a matter of fact, during the past year they fully discharged this obligation, since a sum of eight-and-a half lakhs was expended on new and important works in the suburbs, of which the principal are the extension of the water supply (Rs. 2,94,122), the Bhawanipur pumping station (Rs. 2,71,078) and the prolongation of Lansdowne Road (Rs. 1,13,014).

Basti improvement.

22. Praiseworthy progress has also been made in the structural improvement of bastis. Nearly two lakhs of rupees were expended on this work during 1891-92, and the Chairman has recorded with justifiable satisfaction that almost as much work was done in this department during the year just past as in the preceding four years. The required improvements have been carried out in eight bastis in the Town, while improvements are in progress in eleven others, and many more have been inspected and surveyed in preparation for the current year's work. In the Suburbs, to which for the first time the provisions of sections 252 to 259, Act II of 1888, have been applied, orders have been passed for the improvement of eight bastis in all.

Vital statistics.

23. The Health Officer of Calcutta has as usual submitted a careful report supported by elaborate statistics relating to many matters connected with his department. In the Resolution on the Report of last year, the Lieutenant Governor approved the proposal of the Commissioners that the Health Report for the year 1891 should deal with the municipal area as a whole instead of as two separate portions—the Town and the Suburbs. But it appears that the Health Officer inadvertently overlooked these orders, and the report has been submitted in its old form, the superiority of which Dr. Simpson strongly urges on the ground that the conditions of the two areas differ completely, and that a general report would have no value of its own, while it would give no details of the two different areas which it included. The Lieutenant-Governor, in admitting the force of these arguments, accepts the Commissioners' recommendation that in future Calcutta should be treated as a whole in the first instance, and that comparisons and details for Town and Suburbs should be added as supplementary.

24. The population of the municipal area of Calcutta was found in 1891 to be 681,560, divided as follows:—Town (i.e., the original municipal area as in 1881)

466,460, and Suburbs (the portion added by Act II of 1888) 215,100. No figures are available to show the variation of the population of the combined area since 1881, but the increase in the Town has been 33,241, or 3·55 per cent. Attention has frequently been drawn to the abnormal composition of the population of Calcutta, and it has been pointed out that it consists of a disproportionately large number of temporary adult inhabitants, that the proportion of males is unusually high, and that as a consequence the proportion of infants and children is abnormally small; moreover, that the individuals in this floating population are prone on the approach of illness or death to leave the city for their homes. These considerations sensibly affect the local death-rate, and render it abnormally low for an Indian city; while another important consideration has now been stated by the Health Officer, which detracts considerably from the credit due for the low death-rate, viz., that the death-rate of a town is largely influenced by that of its infant population, so that, when the latter is extremely small, the general death-rate must ordinarily be correspondingly favourable. The Health Officer gives figures in support of his conclusions that, during the ten years which have elapsed since 1881, some 100,000 immigrants have entered Calcutta, while 25,000 inhabitants have left it: the number of deaths during the same period was over 122,000, and of births 80,386.

25. Dr. Simpson has also taken the opportunity of reviewing the average annual mortality of Calcutta from 1881 to 1890 with reference to the mean population of the city during that period, which he has calculated from the census figures of 1891. There is much practical interest in the two diagrams given in paragraph 11 of the Health Officer's Report showing the birth and death-rates in the different wards for the two quinquennial periods 1882 to 1886 and 1887 to 1891. In the first diagram the quinquennial period shows nine wards with a death-rate above 30, while in the second diagram there are only three wards with a death-rate above that figure. Again, if the death-rates in the same wards are examined for the two periods, it will be found that there is a decreased death-rate in fourteen out of the eighteen wards into which the municipality is divided. Those figures bear valuable testimony to the improvement in the general sanitary condition of the town.

26. The figures for the year 1891 show that there was an unusual number both of births and deaths in Calcutta during that year. They are reproduced in the following statement:—

	Urban Calcutta.		Suburban Calcutta.		Total Municipal Calcutta.
	Number.	Ratio per mille.	Number.	Ratio per mille.	Number.	Ratio per mille.
Births	8,256	17·6	4,221	19·6	12,477	18·3
Deaths	13,033	27·9	8,484	39·4	21,517	31·5

The general death ratio of 27·9 in the Town is considerably above the decennial mean, which is 25·8, while in the Suburbs it was 39·4 against 37 in 1890. This figure, besides being in proportion much higher than that of the Town proper, is absolutely very high, but in 1891 the general provincial rate of mortality was higher than in 1890, and in comparing the suburban death-rate with that for Calcutta proper, it should not be forgotten that excluding four or five specially unhealthy wards in the Town, the general sanitary condition of the Suburbs is worse than that of the urban area: the water-supply has not yet been fully extended to the suburbs, the conservancy arrangements there are still in a rudimentary state, foul tanks and open drains and ditches abound, and thick tropical vegetation finds space to grow which conceals impurities in life, and breeds malaria in decay.

Sanitary recommendations.

27. Three important points of general interest are noticed in the Health Officer's report, viz., the necessity of more stringent building regulations in order to prevent overcrowding and to maintain proper ventilation in spaces which have already been cleared and improved; the need for reservoirs of pure drinking water in bastis; and the gradual but universal pollution of the sub-soil and the atmosphere from the leakage of sewers. To the first matter the attention of the Commissioners will doubtless be directed in due course. The second they have already taken up; the difficulty is that the great mass of the labouring population who dwell in bastis return from their work in the evening, when there is no pressure on the mains, and have either to use for drinking and cooking purposes water stored in their houses, and open to every sort of contamination, or else resort to impure wells and tanks. Permission has been given to basti owners to construct covered reservoirs for filtered water, but so far advantage has not been taken of this salutary concession. With regard to the third point, in his report on the drainage of Calcutta, much stress was laid by Mr. Baldwin Latham upon the pollution of the sub-soil from the leakage of the sewers, and his observations are corroborated by the personal observations of the Health Officer and the Chairman himself. The Lieutenant-Governor commends these efforts to put theory to the test of practical observation, and will be glad to see these investigations carried further still: careful notes should be recorded of a large number of experiments in all parts of the town in order to ascertain of what kind the pollution is, to what distance it extends, and whether it is due solely to the inadequate fitting of the joints in sewers as the Chairman would seem to think, or to exhalation, or to both in combination.

28. In conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor desires to congratulate the Commissioners on the improvements in administration which have been carried out during the year, and on the progress which has been made in works beneficial to the health and prosperity of the city. No doubt, as Mr. Lee points out, this progress is effected with much more effort and strain than when these officers perform the same duties with independent powers of their own. On the other side has to be set this advantage that, when under Municipal Government, such unanimity or such an agreement on the part of the majority is obtained, we may expect that the rate of progress will be accelerated and the impact of projects of reform will be irresistible. For their share in securing these results, the thanks of Government are due to the Commissioners generally, and particularly to the Chairman, Mr. Lee, the Health Officer, Dr. Simpson, and the Municipal Engineer, Mr. Kimber.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

J. A. BOURDILLON,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal

ESTABLISHMENT OF A FEMALE WARD ATTACHED TO THE KRISHNAGAR CHARITABLE DISPENSARY.

No. 2872Med., dated Calcutta, the 8th November 1892.

From—J. A. BOURDILLON, ESQ., Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your memorandum No. 9M. Medical, dated the 14th October 1892, and enclosure from the Magistrate of Nadia, forwarding a copy of a letter from Babu Nafar Chandra Pal Chaudhury, in which he offers a donation of Rs. 2,500 for the construction of a female ward attached to the Krishnagar Charitable Dispensary under the auspices of the Lady Dufferin Fund, and two stipends of Rs. 4 each per mensem for five years for the training of midwives.

2. In reply, I am directed to say that the Lieutenant-Governor accepts the offer, and to request that you will convey to Babu Nafar Chandra Pal Chaudhury an expression of His Honour's thanks for his liberality. This letter will be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE HOWRAH BRIDGE FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST MARCH 1892.

No. 2573Marine.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL,—MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 2nd November 1892.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Howrah Bridge for the year ended 31st March 1892.

THE following statement shows the ordinary receipts and working expenses of the bridge during the year under review as compared with the previous nine years:—

2. The income during the year amounted to Rs. 1,67,195, being less than the receipts of the previous year by Rs. 11,829. The decrease was caused by the loss of interest on the sum of two lakhs lent to the Corporation of Calcutta, and to the short earnings of the steam tug Hetty, which was laid up some time for repairs. The income, however, exceeded by Rs. 9,598 the estimate (Rs. 1,57,597) of the Committee appointed in 1888 to consider the revised scale of tolls and fees which should be levied after the bridge debt had been paid off.

3. The expenditure, exclusive of that on plant for electric lighting and payments made to Government on account of proportion of Sinking Fund on consolidated and debenture loans, amounted to Rs. 1,67,732 against Rs. 1,47,066 during the previous year. This increase was due to the extensive renewal of the wearing surface of the bridge and to the cost of the overhaul of the steam tug Hetty. The expenditure exceeded the income of the year by Rs. 537.

4. In addition to the ordinary receipts, viz., Rs. 1,67,195, the following sums which may be classed as extraordinary were received:—

	Rs.
Interest on Government securities of Pontoon Renewal Fund	2,000
Amount recovered by sale of Reserve Fund Government securities for Rs. 1,90,000	2,01,029
Total ...	2,03,029

while the corresponding expenditure under the same head was as follows:—

	Rs.
Amount advanced to Calcutta Municipality as temporary loan	2,00,000
Sinking Fund on loan	3,347
Total ...	2,03,347
Deficit ...	318

5. The machinery for the electric lights was estimated to cost Rs. 42,050 but owing to the fall in exchange the actual expenditure has amounted to Rs. 48,658. The installation was completed on the 1st September 1891, when the lights were exhibited for the first time.

6. The bridge was opened for the passage of vessels on 153 occasions during the year, of which 105 were on the ordinary fixed days of the week, and 48 on Sundays on special application. The number and description of the vessels which passed through the bridge on these occasions are given in the table below:—

	1891-92.	1890-91.	1889-90.	1888-89.	1887-88.	1886-87.	1885-86.	1884-85.	1883-84.	1882-83.

Total ...	2,086	2,110	1,863	1,741	1,679	1,596	1,949	1,755	1,621	1,557

7. No sea-going vessels collided with the bridge in passing through the opening, but there were 95 collisions of other vessels against 115 and 149 in 1889-90 and 1890-91, respectively. Two lives were lost in boats wrecked by collision with the bridge.

8. The bridge was kept in thorough working order during the year. The second new pontoon imported from England will be put in place during the ensuing cold weather.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Bridge Commissioners for information.

Ordered also that this Resolution be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. W. ODLING,

BURDWAN DIVN.
1	Burdwan Nov. 5, '92 Kalna ... Katwa ... Raniganj ...	3·07 4·03 2·70 0·72	Weather—cloudy and rainy in the early part of the week but now clear. Rain has done much good and prospects much improved in Katwa and Kalna subdivisions. Sowing of rabi crops going on. Prices of common rice:— Srs. Burdwan ... ... 9 to 12 Kalna ... ... 9 to 12 Katwa ... ... 12 Raniganj ... ... 11½ } per rupee.
2	Bankura „ 5, '92 Vishnupur ...	3·93 4·44	There was heavy rain on the first three days of the week; since then the weather has again become hot. The heavy rain has done good to the backward rice. It has slightly injured that which was more forward, but on the whole has done more good than harm. Sowing of rabi is in progress. The outturn of áman rice may be estimated at 8 annas on an average. Prices of common rice:— Srs. Sadar ... ... 11½ Vishnupur ... ... 10 } per rupee. Fodder and water sufficient.
3	Birbhum „ 5, '92 Rampur Hát ...	0·58 0·37	Cold weather has set in. Rain is of no more use to the crops. No doubt the total of the crops of this district will reach a standard of between 14 and 15 annas at the least. Fodder and water plentiful. Prices of common rice still 12 to 14 seers per rupee, but the latter rate is only to be got in the Rampur Hát subdivision.
4	Midnapore „ 5, '92	4·99	Weather—rainy and much cooler. The rain has benefited the crops on the high land, but it has probably damaged those on low-lying lands. The reports from Ramnagar and Egra are very unfavourable. Prices of common rice:— Srs. Sadar ... ... 10½ Contai ... ... 9 to 10½ Tamluk ... ... 10 to 11 Ghatál ... ... 10 to 11 } per rupee.
5	Hooghly „ 5, '92 Serampore ... Jahánabad ...	5·75 6·10 3·51	Steady rain for three days; weather since fair. The rain has been of great benefit to the áman crop and to the earliest sowings of rabi. It will injure the latest sowings which took place just before it, but it is not too late for further sowings. It has also done great good in filling tanks. Prices of common rice:— Srs. Sadar ... ... 9 Serampore ... ... 10½ Jahánabad ... ... 10 } per rupee.
6	Howrah „ 5, '92 Ulubaria ...	1·67 3·07	Weather—rainy and cool. The rain of the present week has improved crop prospects. Rabi being sown. Condition of cattle good. Fodder and water-supply sufficient. Price of rice 10 to 11 seers per rupee.
PRESIDENCY DIVN.
7	24-Parganas „ 5, '92	1·92	Weather—cloudy and rainy during the first part of the week; now seasonable. Aman and sugarcane doing well. Rabi sowing still in progress. Condition of cattle good. Fodder and water sufficient. Common rice sells at from 10 to 11 seers per rupee.
8	Nadia „ 5, '92 Kushtia ... Meherpur ... Ranaghat ...	3·83 1·27 0·68 3·57	Weather—cloudy and rainy. Rain has done much good to the standing crops. Rice sells at from 10 seers 5 chitaks to 11 seers 8½ chitaks per rupee. Health of cattle good.
9	Khulna „ 5, '92 Satkhira ... Bágerhat ...	2·62 0·91 2·28	Weather—rainy in the beginning of the week, bright during the last two or three days. The recent rain has done much good to the áman. It has retarded rabi cultivation, but will not do any permanent injury. Prices continue high. Common rice selling at from 9 to 12 seers per rupee. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient. Cattle-disease in a few villages in thána Kalaroa.
10	Jessore „ 5, '92 Jhenida ... Magura ... Narail ... Bangaon ...	10·11 6·00 5·76 4·95 5·06	Almost continuous rain during the first four days of the week; weather now fair. The heavy rainfall of the week has done some injury to the rabi crops. Prospects of áman favourable. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient.
11	Murshidabad „ 5, '92	0·60	Weather—cool and clear. State of the áman crop continues favourable on account of the late rain. Rabi cultivation in progress. Sugarcane doing well. Fodder for cattle sufficient. Common rice selling at 12 seers per rupee.

No.	District and date of return.		Rainfall at Sadar Station in inches.	Character of the weather and state and prospects of the crops.

Chittagong Divn.
12	Chittagong	Nov. 5, '92	4·97	Weather—seasonable. Prospects of crops good, but a little injury is reported to have been done towards Sitakund by insects and heavy rain, and in the south by rain. Cultivation of winter crops going on. Prices stationary. Condition of cattle generally good. Supply of fodder sufficient.
13	Noakhali	,, 5, '92	7·57	Weather rainy. State and prospects of crops excellent. Fodder and water sufficient. No cattle-disease. Price of common rice 10 seers per rupee.
14	Tippera	,, 5, '92	3·30	Weather—hot in day, cold at night. Recent rain has done much good to áman crop. If it does not rain more, áman will be a very good crop. Price of rice has fallen, that of jute has risen a little.
15	Chittagong Hill Tracts.	,, 4, '92	3·44	Weather—cloudy and rainy. Harvesting of early plough-paddy going on. Continued cloudy weather and unseasonable rain likely to have affected the plough-paddy, cotton and vegetables. Condition of cattle good. Common rice selling at 8 seers 14 chitaks per rupee.
Dacca Divn.
16	Dacca	,, 5, '92	8·96	Weather—cloudy and rainy. Rain throughout the district. Prospects of áman paddy favourable. No cattle-disease. Fodder available. Common rice selling at from 8 to 10 seers per rupee.
17	Faridpur	,, 5, '92	10·06	Weather—cool. Prospects of áman crop favourable. There was abundant fall of rain during the week. Reaping of early amán paddy commenced in some places. Common rice sells at 10 seers per rupee at Sadar, 11 seers at Goalundo, and 10½ seers at Madaripur. Condition of cattle good, and fodder available.
18	Backergunge	,, 5, '92	2·96	Weather—seasonable. State and prospects of crops good. Ordinary rice sells at from 8½ to 11 seers per rupee. Water and fodder sufficient.
19	Mymensingh	,, 5, '92	0·26	Clouds have cleared. Weather hot in day and cool at night. Aman will be a bumper crop in places. With the exception of a portion of Durgapur thána, where the crop was destroyed by inundation, the outturn will everywhere be 14 to 16 annas. Cutting will commence in places in a few days, and in most places in ten days. Rain has done good to cold-weather sowings. Supply of water sufficient. Fodder in places insufficient. Prices of common (aus) rice:— Srs. Sadar ... . 7 to 10 Jamálpur ... ... 8 to 12 Tangail ... ... 7¼ to 10½ per rupee. Netrakona ... ... 6 to 10 Kishorganj ... ... 8 to 10

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 8th November 1892.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 5TH OF NOVEMBER 1892.

In the second half of the previous week a barometric depression had formed to the east of the centre of the Bay, and had then advanced in a westerly direction towards the Madras coast. During its passage it did not intensify to any material extent, but, though by no means an intense storm, the disturbance connected with it extended over rather a wide area, particularly to the north of the centre. The depression passed inland during the night of October 28th and the early morning of the 29th, or the last day of the previous week, the centre crossing the coast between Masulipatam and Nellore. During the existence of the feeble storm, moderate indraught set in from Bengal towards the Bay and towards the depression, and hence for the last two days of the previous week winds were generally more or less northerly and north-easterly in Bengal, and rainfall was practically absent. As the small storm passed across the coast it probably to a considerable extent broke up and became more diffused, and the area of low pressure with its attendant disturbed weather and with a wave of moisture-laden winds advanced northward. Indeed, on the 30th of October pressure fell moderately to rapidly over Bengal and became rather largely in defect of the normal; winds also became more southerly at the southern stations, and the sky began to cloud over, while moderate general and rather heavy rain was reported from Orissa and some of the neighbouring districts of Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal, and also over considerable parts of South Bihár. On Monday, October 31st, there was again a moderate fall of pressure over the whole of the western and southern half of the province, though pressure was rising at the eastern stations, and pressure became below the normal by amounts ranging up to 0·155 inch at Dehri. Winds had also become easterly and south-easterly over the whole province, and the humid wind current from the Bay had therefore again spread over practically the whole of Bengal, and on this day rather heavy general rain was reported in Orissa, South-West Bengal, East Bengal, and Chota Nagpur, while a few showers were also reported in North Bengal and Bihár. A further rather rapid fall of pressure again occurred on November 1st, the fall in Orissa equalling a tenth of an inch, and hence what practically amounted to a barometric depression was formed over Bengal; the defect ranging up to 0·217 inch at Chaibassa, and to 0·202 inch at Balasore. Winds on this day had changed slowly, the southerly element had to a great extent disappeared, and winds had become easterly and north-easterly. This probably pointed to the fact that the moist current had ceased to advance and was being influenced by an opposing northerly wind current. The rainfall on this day was again general and heavy in the southern districts, but was mainly confined to Orissa, South-West and East Bengal, and Chota Nagpur. On the 2nd a further moderate fall of pressure occurred at all except a few of the south-western stations, and the seat of minimum pressure was transferred to Jessore; and again a very distinct barometric depression existed over Bengal, for the defect ranged up to nearly a fifth of an inch at Calcutta and Jessore. Winds also had become much more northerly, showing that the moist air current was being again further driven back, and there was also a very distinct tendency to cyclonic circulation over South and South-East Bengal and the Sundarbans. Conditions therefore had become very favourable for rainfall over South-East Bengal and the south of the province generally, and exceedingly heavy rain was reported on this day in the districts of Tippera, Dacca, Faridpur, Bankura, Jessore, Hooghly, 24-Parganas, and Midnapur, while heavy general rain was reported over the whole of the south of the province. On this day falls of about five inches and upwards were reported at Ghatál, Serampore, Faridpur, and Dacca, and a good many stations received more than three inches. On the 3rd a very distinct reaction set in, pressure rose rather rapidly over the whole province, and the depression over Bengal to a considerable extent filled up. Winds became westerly at the western stations and northerly elsewhere, showing that the humid current from the Bay had to a great extent been driven back, and on this date the rainfall reported was confined to small parts of South-West Bengal and to the greater part of East Bengal, and the remaining divisions were practically rainless. On the 4th, again, a further rapid increase of pressure took place, the increase at the northern stations in several cases exceeding a tenth of an inch, and the distribution of pressure became fairly normal for the cold weather. Again on this day winds were north-westerly and northerly over the greater part of the province, and beyond a few light showers of rain in East Bengal, the whole province had become rainless. On the 5th a further moderate increase of pressure took place, and the pressure distribution became quite that of the north-east monsoon or cold weather season, and a steady north-westerly air current flowed over the whole province. The sky then rapidly cleared, humidity and temperature decreased, and rainfall became entirely absent, and the north-east monsoon conditions may be said to have established themselves in Bengal from this date.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has hence been below the normal in all districts, the usual defect equalling about 0·08 inch, and the defect being generally largest at the western and south-western stations. In Assam also a rather large defect has been recorded, and it averages 0·087 inch, and it is, as has been usually the case for some time, largest at Sibsagar, where it equals 0·105 inch.

Temperature.—The mean temperature has been in defect of the normal in East and North-West Bengal, and above it elsewhere.

The extreme variations are from a defect of 1·1° in East Bengal to an excess of 2·6° in South Bihár. For the whole province the mean temperature for the week has been 0·6° in excess of the normal. In Assam, on the other hand, there has been a defect of 0·8°.

Rainfall—Has been extremely heavy in East and South-West Bengal, Orissa, and Chota Nagpur, and light in South Bihár and North Bengal, while North Bihár has been practically rainless. East Bengal has received the large average fall of 4·25 inches, and South-West Bengal one of 3·29 inches. In Orissa also the fall has averaged 2·50 inches, and in Chota Nagpur 1·74 inches. In all these divisions the fall in all districts has been general and heavy, the districts receiving the heaviest falls being Puri, Cuttack, Midnapore, 24-Parganas, Hooghly, Jessore, Bankura, Chittagong, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Backergunge, Noakhali, Faridpur, Dacca, Tippera, Lohardaga, and Singbhum. In South Bihár the small average fall of 0·36 inch is recorded, and the falls have been fairly equally distributed except in Monghyr, where an average fall of 1·25 inches is recorded. In North Bengal an average fall of about a fifth of an inch is reported, but in this division the rainfall has been practically confined to Pabna, Malda, Rangpur, and Darjeeling, while smaller falls have been received in Dinajpur and Rajshahi. North Bihár, as stated previously, has been almost rainless except in the Bhágalpur district, where moderate rain fell.

In Assam also rather heavy rain has fallen during the week, Silchar having received 5·67 inches, Sibsagar 2·08 inches, and Dhubri 0·02 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 5th of November 1892:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·8 lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; d, drizzling rain; p, passing temporary showers; t, thunder; ⍊, dew.

Comparative Statement of principal commodities carried on the Eastern Bengal State Railway during the month of August 1892.

INCREASES.

	Tons.
Cotton piece-goods	2,500
Possibly due to traffic in anticipation of the Pujahs which fall earlier this year than last.
Jute, screwed	3,238
The increase was principally from stations on the Northern and Dacca sections. The demand was brisk, stocks being low.
Jute, unscrewed	30,845
Goalundo, Panga, Atrai and Raninagar show large increases under this head. The demand was brisk, stocks being low.
Kerosine oil	2,418
Due to the prohibition of carriage by boat within certain limits of the port of Calcutta.
Tea	1,105

DECREASES.

	Tons.
Coal	1,084
Ordinary fluctuation.
Rice	2,065
The principal decreases are in despatches from Northern and Bihár section stations, due to short crop.
Railway plant and rolling-stock	2,546
Due probably to less repairs and renewals.
Oil-seeds	1,470
said to be due to short crop.

AUSTRALIA, NORTH COAST—TORRES STRAIT.

Proudfoot shoal light-vessel—intended withdrawal.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 437 of 1893) that on 14th January 1893, Proudfoot shoal light-vessel will be withdrawn from her station in the western approach to Torres strait, and not replaced.

Approximate position : lat. 10° 32½′ S., long. 141° 28½′ E.

CAUTION.—As the withdrawal of this light-vessel will leave the dangerous Proudfoot shoal unmarked, care should be taken in approaching Booby island from the westward to keep well to the southward.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 201.

AFRICA, NORTH-EAST COAST—RED SEA, WESTERN SHORE.

Shoal reported north-west of Difnein Island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 448 of 1892) that information has been received from H. B. M. Consul at Jidda that Mr. Baldwin, commanding the British S.S. Akbar, reports that, when approaching North Massawa channel from the northward on 1st July 1892, the ship, drawing nearly 20 feet water, touched slightly at 8 P.M. on a shoal (probably composed of coral) lying with Difnein island bearing about S.S.E. ¼ E., distant 12 miles. A sounding of 5 fathoms was obtained near the spot, and soon after the ship was anchored in 22 fathoms. The weather at the time was hazy, and there was a slight swell from the southward.

Position as given to be considered very doubtful, lat. 16° 47′ N., long. 39° 12′ E.

CAUTION.—There being many indications of shoal patches northward of Difnein, and the area being but imperfectly examined, caution is necessary in approaching that island. A note to this effect has been placed on Admiralty chart No. 164.

Alteration in buoyage—Coles and South channels.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 426 of 1892) that the following alterations will be made in the buoyage of Coles and South channels, port Phillip entrance, during the last week of September and on 6th October 1892, respectively:—

1. COLES CHANNEL.—The existing North, South, and Wreck buoys will be withdrawn, and in lieu thereof three conical buoys, painted red, will be moored as follows:—

North buoy in 18 feet water, on north-west edge of West sand, with Pile lighthouse, West channel, bearing E. ¾ S., distant $1\frac{5}{10}$ miles, and high lighthouse, Queenscliff, S.S.-W.

Middle buoy in 20 feet water, on west edge of West sand, with Pile lighthouse, West channel, bearing N.-E. ¾ E., and South Red bluff beacon N. by W., distant $1\frac{5}{10}$ miles.

South buoy in 18 feet water, on south-west edge of West sand, with Pile lighthouse, West channel, bearing N.-E. by N., and north extreme of Duck island N.-W. by W. ¾ W., distant $1\frac{2}{10}$ miles.

2. SOUTH CHANNEL.—The green light now shown from No. 15 black buoy, at East end of Middle ground, will be discontinued, and in lieu thereof an occulting white light, occulted eight times every minute, will be exhibited.

SOUTH PACIFIC OCEAN—SOLOMON ISLANDS.

Shoals in Maramasike passage.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 425 of 1892) of the existence of the two undermentioned shoals lying in Maramasike passage, east coast of Malaita island :—

A shoal, with a depth of 3 fathoms, extends about one mile W. by S. from Sail rock. Approximate position, lat. 9° 15′ S., long 161° 14′ E.

A shoal, with 4 fathoms water on it, lies with Bushman inlet bearing W. ½ N., distant about 1½ miles. Approximate position, lat. 9° 20½′ S., long. 161° 14′ E.

Shoal eastward of Vella Lavella island.

Also of the existence of a shoal, with 5 fathoms or less water on it, the bottom being distinctly seen, lying about 1½ miles eastward of Vella Lavella island, in approximately lat. 7° 52′ S., long. 156° 42′ E.

NOTE.—It is considered that this shoal may be identical with, or an extension of, the shoal charted as lying about 2 miles south-west of the above position.

Shoal in Lengo channel.

Information has been received from H.M.S. Lizard, dated 8th July 1892, of the existence of a shoal, with apparently 4 fathoms water on it, lying in the fairway of Lengo channel, with Pari Sule bearing N. 65° E., distant about 5¼ miles.

Approximate position, lat. 9° 17′ S., long. 160° 13′ E.

Shoal southward of Gizo island.

Also of the existence of a shoal, with an estimated depth of 6 fathoms, and on which the sea broke (there being a heavy swell at the time), lying with the east extreme of Gizo island bearing north, distant 3½ miles.

Approximate position, lat. 8° 9′ S., long. 156° 49′ E.

Alteration in colour and shape of buoys in Kurrachee harbour.

INFORMATION has been received from the Port Officer, Kurrachee, dated 17th October 1892, that the colour and shape of buoys in that harbour have been altered.

All buoys marking the channel are now in accordance with Exhibit "B" of the Report of the Committee on the Universal System of buoyage, dated November 1891, viz., those on the Starboard hand are conical and painted red; those to Port, flat-topped and painted black.

TRIAL BY JURY IN BENGAL.

NOTIFICATION.

The 9th November 1892.—The following papers are published for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

H. J. S. COTTON,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

[No. 1.]

No. 742, dated Simla, the 31st May 1890.

From—C. J. Lyall, Esq., C.I.E., Offg. Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

In the correspondence which has recently been under the consideration of the Government of India regarding the working of the Police and the machinery for the repression of crime, it has been alleged by several of the authorities consulted that the jury system has, in some degree, favoured the escape of criminals, and in paragraph 7 of my letter of the 28th instant, I stated that His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor would be separately addressed on this subject.

Trial by jury is not in force in the greater part of India, and where the system has been applied it is only certain offences that are tried by jury. In the large province of Bengal trial by jury prevails only in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Hooghly, Howrah, Burdwan, Murshidabad, Nadia, Dacca and Patna; in Bombay, only in the districts of Poona, Ahmedabad, Belgaum, Thana, and Surat, and the city of Karachi; in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, only in the districts of Allahabad, Benares, and Lucknow; in Assam, only in the districts of the Assam Valley. The system is in force throughout the Madras Presidency with the exception of certain agency or non-regulation tracts; but the class of offences triable by jury has always been strictly confined to certain offences against property,* of which theft is an element. In the North-Western Provinces and Oudh also the scope of the system is limited much in the same manner, but it extends in addition to the following offences, viz., kidnapping and abduction, rape, criminal misappropriation, mischief, and offences relating to marriage. In Bengal all offences comprised in Chapters VIII, XI, XVI, XVII and XVIII of the Indian Penal Code come before juries. In Bombay the classes of offences so triable vary in different districts; but wherever the system has been introduced at all murder is one of the offences of which juries take cognizance. This is the more remarkable, seeing that cases of homicide

* Theft,—Sections 379, 380, 382, Indian Penal Code.
Robbery and Dacoity,—Sections 392-395, 397-399, 400-402.
Receiving Stolen Property,—Sections 411, 412, 414.
House-trespass in order to commit theft,—Sections 451-459.
Breaking open a closed receptacle,—Section 461.

have been carefully excluded in Madras and the North-Western Provinces, and that one of the objections most strongly urged against juries is the reluctance of a native juryman to convict when there is any possibility of a capital sentence being passed.

2. It is now some years since any detailed examination of the working of the jury system has come before the Government of India, though the Governor-General in Council observes from the Proceedings Volumes of the Local Governments that they have not failed from time to time to review its operation. I am therefore desired to ask that His Honour may be moved to consider and report how the system has worked in the Lower Provinces, what opinion is entertained as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime, and what improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

3. I am to say with reference to paragraph 3 of Home Department letter to the High Court, No. 400, dated 27th March 1885, that the Honourable the Chief Justice and Judges have been addressed on the subject.

IN forwarding the accompanying copy of a letter No. 742, dated the 31st May 1890, from the Government of India in the Home Department, I am directed to invite your attention to paragraph 2, and to request that you will be so good as to favour the Lieutenant-Governor with a report on the points therein raised in connection with the working of the jury system.

From—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal,

To—The Registrar of the High Court.

WITH reference to a communication* received from the Government of India in the Home Department, regarding the working of the jury system in Bengal, I am desired to request that, with the permission of the Hon'ble Judges, the Lieutenant-Governor may be favoured with a copy of any recommendations they may make to the Government of India in the matter.

* No. 742, dated the 31st May 1890 (copy enclosed).

2. I am further desired to enquire whether the Hon'ble Judges would wish to see the reports which the Lieutenant-Governor has called for on the subject from Commissioners and District Judges and the Inspector-General of Police, on the subject.

[No. 4.]

No. 1606, dated Burdwan, the 7th July 1890.

From—H. F. MATHEWS, ESQ., Offg. Sessions Judge of Burdwan,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

REFERRING to your office circular No. J 6 1/2 2, dated 23rd June 1890, I have the honour to state that my experience of the working of juries has been rather limited, but that, so far as it goes, I consider the system as prevailing in the Bengal mufassal to be, in general, a complete failure. As regards its merits as a means for repression of crime (to quote the words of the Government of India's letter), I am inclined to think that they do not exist. It is hardly to be expected that a system, which in many advanced European countries has only been introduced within the memory of persons now living, should prove adapted to the widely different circumstances of the Indian mufassal.

2. So far as I have seen, the tendency of the native juries with reference to charges of homicide is almost invariably to acquit even in the plainest cases.

With regard to offences against property, they evince a greater tendency to convict, though even in trials for this class of crimes verdicts, quite at variance with the weight of the evidence, are far from uncommon. For the Judge to proceed under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code (except in the most flagrant cases) is generally worse than useless, as he simply wastes his own time and that of the High Court as well. I am not inclined to recommend any more extensive powers with a view to the rectification of improper verdicts being conferred on judicial officers. Until such a change takes place in public sentiment as is consistent with the beneficial action of the jury system in the mufassal, I think it would be far better to suppress the institution there altogether, than to legislate in the direction above alluded to.

3. The failure of the jury system as a means for the repression of crime may be traced to various causes, the chief of which I consider to be two—first, the absence of anything in the Indian mufassal corresponding to the British middle class from which the bulk of jurors in the United Kingdom are ordinarily drawn; second, the intense distrust and aversion with which the police is generally regarded by the people of this country. As regards the first cause it may be said that its operation is practically to limit the selection of jurors to the pleader and muktear class. The upper ranks of native landholders will do almost anything to escape serving on a jury. The lower are sometimes prevailed upon to serve, but they are not in general possessed of the inclination or ability required for the independent formation of a sound conclusion on a complicated mass of facts (however clearly put before them), and are moreover particularly liable to be led astray by the specious sophistries of an able advocate. Thus, they are apt either to form a wrong opinion on their own account, or, more frequently, to acquiesce at once in the conclusions arrived at by one of the lawyer members of the jury, in order to save themselves the trouble of thinking or to avoid the invidious duty of returning a verdict against the prisoner. With reference to the second cause, of course the only remedy lies, as has been pointed out so often, in the improvement of the pay and prospects of the police, especially in the lower grades, so that they may be above the temptation to corruption to which they are now so generally exposed. The present practice of allowing officers under the grade of Sub-Inspectors to investigate heinous cases should be entirely stopped. I think myself that every case likely to be committed to the Sessions ought to be investigated by an Inspector or a first grade Sub-Inspector at the very least. The suggestion of corruption or partiality in the case of the investigating police officers is the most familiar, as well as the most effectual, way of breaking down a strong case against a prisoner now adopted by the mufassal criminal bar, and its success is quite proportional to its frequency.

4. While, with reference to the above remarks, it will be seen that I could not conscientiously recommend any extension of the jury system, I think it doubtful whether its abolition in the districts where it has now existed for many years could be accomplished without exciting a degree of apprehension in the minds of the inhabitants, and a distrust of the motives of Government, which it would be scarcely worth while, under all the circumstances, to provoke. In those districts, therefore, all efforts should be made to improve the working of the system as it is. The duty should be rendered less onerous and unpopular. The old practice of summoning juries only from within a certain area within comparatively easy access of the sadar station should be reverted to. The present system by which they are liable to be summoned from all over the district, causes needless annoyance and expense to a great number. Better provision should also be made in the local court houses for the accommodation of jurors than generally exists at present. In one jury district in which I was employed there was even no withdrawing room for the jury to retire to for deliberation. The presiding officer should do everything in his power to promote the comfort and convenience of the jury and to impress them with a sense of their own importance and the serious character of their functions. The duty may thus in time become less unpopular than at present, and the natives of the better class be induced to regard it with less aversion. In such circumstances there can be no question but that the character of the work done by juries will gradually improve.

No. 477, dated Kishnaghur, the 19th July 1890.

From—F. F. HANDLEY, Esq., Sessions Judge of Nadia,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Judicial Department.

WITH reference to your No. J6 T/8 2, dated 23rd June 1890, I have the honour to submit the following report.

The jury system was introduced into this district from the year 1862.

The annexed table A will show that from the year 1862 down to 1883, the convictions always exceeded the acquittals. But it must be observed that under the first Criminal Procedure Code the powers of Magistrates were somewhat limited, and many offences then only triable by the Court of Sessions were made triable by Magistrates. Hence the number of commitments has fallen off since 1862, and now averages about 40 per annum.

Next it will be seen that up to the year 1869 the cases wherein the Sessions Judge disagreed with the jury were few. In 1870, 1871, 1883, 1884, and 1888, the cases of disagreement are alone remarkable. But it is further to be noted that this only represents the note by the Sessions Judge in the calendar of his concurrence with or disapproval of the verdict of the jury. It does not represent the number of cases referred by the Judge under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code, which may represent perhaps only one per cent.

This expression of concurrence or disapproval is after all only an opinion of the Judge as against the verdict of the jury, and is only recorded for statistical purposes submitted with the annual report on the nature of the working of the jury system during the year.

2. There have been two special reports submitted to the Honourable High Court on the jury system from this district—

(1) By Mr. (afterwards Sir Rivers) Thompson, No. 33, dated 28th February 1863.

(2) By Mr. (afterwards Sir W. J.) Herschell, No. 14, dated 24th January 1872.

There was a report submitted by Mr. Dickens, No. 290, dated 12th September 1882, to Government on a serious defect in the working of the system.

If the above reports of Mr. Thompson and Mr. Herschell are not before Government, I would recommend that copies be procured from the Honourable High Court, as they are of some length and contain the views of officers of distinction, whose opinions on the point are valuable. This much was remarked by Mr. Thompson: "The system of jury trial here is, I think, a salutary one in the interest of justice. I should be sorry to see it removed. Every year shows an improvement in the knowledge acquired by jurors of their duties and in the manner of their discharge."

3. The following are extracts from the Annual Reports on the Administration of Criminal Justice:—

1866. Paragraph 15.—"I do not myself see much advantage in the system; it certainly gives a larger number of jurors to pick from, and thus lightens their duties, but it delays work." — Mr. W. F. MacDonell.

1867. Paragraph 15.—"The juries as a general rule take great interest in the cases tried by them, and every year they are improving and acquiring a better knowledge of their duties. The system is answering, I consider, as well as could be expected." — Mr. W. F. MacDonell.

1868. Paragraph 15.—"I have myself generally found the jury of great assistance, and, as I said last year, consider the system to be working as well as could be expected. — Mr. W. F. MacDonell.

1869. Paragraph 15.—"I am of opinion that the system has not broken down in the way that many hold it has. The jury system has had a very fair trial in Nadia, and though I do not say that in a few cases there had not been a failure of justice, yet the cases have been but few, and as a general rule I have found the jury a great assistance." — Mr. W. F. MacDonell.

4. From 1870 to 1878 no remarks appear to have been made.

In 1879 the Honourable High Court made the following remarks on the Annual Report submitted by Mr. Dickens:—

"The Judge of Nadia, who was, however, in charge for a portion of the year only, reports that he had every reason to be satisfied with the working of the jury system, so far as it came under his observation, during the three sessions at which he presided. In 39 cases heard by him there were 26 convictions and 12 acquittals, and in the remaining case one person was convicted and one acquitted."

In 1880 the same Judge made the following remarks:—

"I have every reason to be satisfied with the working of the jury system, except, perhaps, in murder cases. The disinclination of Hindus to convict capitally is notorious, and it is, I think, worthy of the consideration of Government whether this disinclination, based as it is on deep-seated religious convictions, does not constitute a sufficient reason for withdrawing such cases from trial by jury. Failures of justice constantly arise from this cause. In my opinion either the punishment of death should be abolished or the power of finding on facts necessitating the punishment should be withdrawn from persons whose religious convictions militate against returning a proper finding. Having to choose between two conflicting duties, they not unnaturally adopt what they consider the paramount duty of blood-guiltlessness. I may mention as an illustration the remark of a juryman, not of course made to the court, which came to my knowledge through a trustworthy source. Five persons were charged with murder, but the majority of the jury acquitted, though, I have no doubt, they would have found a verdict on the facts had a capital sentence not been the probable legal consequence. The remark was 'that it was better that one man should be killed than that five others should be killed for killing him.' I believe this remark to have been made in perfect good faith."

No further remarks till in the report of 1888, whence in paragraph 11 the following occurs by the present writer:—

"I find that my predecessor disapproved wholly of the verdict of the jury in four cases and partially in five cases. Myself I thought in one case the jury took a hard view of the facts against the prisoner. During the sessions over which I presided, the jury convicted in every one of eight cases in the November Sessions."

In 1889 the same Judge remarked in paragraph 10 as follows:—

"Of the 35 cases disposed of, in 31 cases the Sessions Judge approved of the verdict. In one case the verdict was disapproved of and referred, and the prisoner was convicted of murder and sentenced to death. In three cases the verdict was wholly disapproved of, and in one case partially disapproved of, but no reference was considered necessary in these four cases, they being of no public importance. In the case of Daragatullah Sheikh, No. 2 of July Sessions, the Court summed up for a conviction of grievous hurt, and the jury returned a verdict of simple hurt. Of the three cases wholly disapproved of, one was No. IV of July Sessions. The charges were of culpable homicide and hurt against Sabil and Jamadar Fakir. The jury found Sabil only guilty of hurt. The evidence was the same against both. The next case was No. IX of September Sessions. It was a charge of an unnatural offence upon a school-boy by a respectable elderly resident of Santipore. The question was one of fact, and though the Court had no reason to doubt the guilt of the accused, the jury acquitting on the facts, no reference was made. The last case No. 10 of September Sessions. It was a charge of abandoning an infant. The jury acquitted on the ground that the woman was 'not all right.' Thus on the whole this Court expresses a favourable view of the working of the jury system. In no case was the verdict of the jury perverse except in the murder case. The other verdicts were honest expressions of opinion in which the jury in the case of Daragatullah took a lenient view of the act whereby death was caused, and in the other three cases gave the prisoners the benefit of the doubt the jury entertained."

5. Thus it will be seen that up to the present there has been, on the whole, a feeling on the part of Sessions Judges in favour of the jury system in this district.

6. On receipt of the circular under reply, the opinions of the Bar Library and the Government Pleader were called for, and I append copies of the replies received (B and C). I am inclined to agree with the views expressed in their reports. I myself express a favourable opinion in favour of the jury system. On the few occasions where the Judge disapproves of the verdict, as already observed, it is after all only a difference of opinion on a view of the facts in which the opinion of the five jurymen is likely to be more correct than that of the Judge, and that this is so is shown by the small number of cases wherein the Judge considers it necessary to refer the case to the Hon'ble High Court against the verdict of a jury. That mistakes are occasionally made cannot be denied. It is difficult to get juries to convict in capital cases, whereas there is generally a tendency to convict dághis or old offenders and dacoits on the slenderest of evidence.

7. I concur with the Bar Library and the Government Pleader that it would be impossible to abolish the system. It cannot be supposed that Sessions Judges can dispose of Sessions cases alone. Either assessors must be employed or juries, and of the two I consider juries infinitely preferable. The assessors are not sworn. The Judge is not bound to follow their opinion (not verdict). This fact is well known to the general body of assessors, and is not without its effect. I have heard rumours of the bribing of assessors, but only once of bribing a juryman.

8. Thus the jury system being accepted, the question is whether it cannot be improved, and I consider, with the Bar Library and Government Pleader, that it can.

In the first place, under section 321, Criminal Procedure Code, the Sessions Judge has no voice in the preparation of the list of jurors. This is done by the Collector. How the names are selected that officer can say. I can concur with the Government Pleader that occasionally illiterate jurors have presented themselves. As an administrative matter, I think more care should be exercised in selecting jurors. If Sub-Inspectors of Police submit lists of names through the collectorate head-clerk, it is probable many are omitted who ought to be on the list, and others submitted who were better absent from the list.

Next, I think the suggestion of having a special jury list, as in Calcutta, is an excellent one. In murder and dacoity cases, or any other exceptional cases, whenever the Judge ordered it either of his own motion or on the application of either party, special juries could be summoned.

9. Then I consider that Sessions Judges should be vested with power to declare a charge unsustainable, as is possessed by a Judge of the High Court under section 273, Criminal Procedure Code. In this last half-year, out of 39 persons committed, there were three persons with respect to whom the Sessions Judge would have entered up that the charges were unsustainable. The percentage of acquittals to convictions is thus increased. Say there are 50 committals and 10 unsustainable, 20 convictions and 20 acquittals: the acquittals would amount to 30 as against 20 convictions, because of the want of the power of entering up "Charge unsustainable." Moreover the inclusion in a charge of one against whom the evidence is weak, weakens the case against the others, because mufassal juries are not strong in the power of discriminating between varying degrees of guilt.

10. Thus on the whole my opinion is the jury system is working as well as can be expected; that on the one hand it can be reformed by greater care in the selection of the jurors and in the creation of a new list of special jurors, and on the other hand the administration of criminal justice can be improved by empowering Sessions Judges under section 273, Criminal Procedure Code.

F. F. HANDLEY, Sessions Judge, Nadia.

Dated Kishnaghur, the 19th July 1890.

From - BABOO RAJENDRA LAL LAHIRI, Secretary to the Bar Library, Kishnagar,
To—The Sessions Judge of Nadia.

WITH reference to your No. 445, dated the 8th July 1890, I have the honour to submit my report on the three points noted therein, viz. (1) the working of the jury system, (2) its merits as a means for the repression of crime, and (3) what improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

As to the first, the members of the Bar Library are of opinion that the system is a very salutary one in the interests of administration of criminal justice. The advantages of this system are manifold. The material assistance which an intelligent jury can afford in gleaning out truth from the intricacies of a mass of questionable evidence very often placed in a sessions trial, which may not unlikely puzzle an English Judge of small experience of the country in dealing alone with it, their intimate knowledge of all matters connected with the domestic life, habits, manners and customs of the people, their thorough acquaintance with the multifarious questions of caste and religion of their fellow-subjects, and above all their being regarded as a safeguard against errors of judgment, and a guarantee that even the minutest details of a case will receive the most careful and anxious consideration before any conclusion is arrived at, cannot fail to induce any one to pronounce a verdict in favour of the continuance of the system. There may be occasional cases of complaint against it, but they are generally more imaginary than real, and are due to accidental circumstances. The fact that there are several acquittals in trials by jury cannot in any way detract from its utility. The imperfect and careless way in which committals are in very many cases made, the inexperience of some of the committing officers, the inordinate desire of the police to secure convictions by means foul or fair, the harsh, too technical interpretations given by Magistrates of short experience to the already stringent provisions of the Penal Code, and the injudicious selection of jurors in some instances (generally nominated by subordinate police officers at the time of the annual preparation of the list), may well account for those acquittals which are said to be open to objection. The members have no hesitation in saying that the system has worked very satisfactorily in this district on the whole.

With reference to the second point, I beg most respectfully to submit that the merits of the system as a means for the repression of crime depend in a great measure on the absence or otherwise of the defects of the system indicated above, which are quite susceptible of reform. Considered as an abstract question a better system of trial cannot be devised.

In respect to the third point, I beg to state that some improvements are necessary to render the system as efficient as it could be wished. In the first place it seems to the members of the Bar Library that there ought to be some sort of qualification which a person is to be possessed of before he can be enlisted as a juror, so as to secure a set of sufficiently intelligent jurymen. This course, it is hoped, may, to a great extent, minimise, if not wholly do away with, the difficulty complained of in very rare cases. At present the list of jurors is prepared from information obtained from Sub-Inspectors of Police in charge of police-stations, without any attempt on the part of the more responsible magisterial officers at ascertaining the mental capacities and other attainments of the men nominated. A man who in point of education has to read up to the standard of vernacular scholarship examination, or who in a pecuniary point of view is not worth Rs. 200 per year, is, in the opinion of the members, hardly qualified to fill the responsible office of a juryman.

In the next place, the members are of opinion that there ought to be some provision in the Code, authorising the keeping of a list of special jurors (much like that of a High Court, as provided for in the Code) in the mufassal sessions courts. The special jury is to be empanelled at the discretion of the presiding officer at the instance of the Government Pleader, or the accused in exceptional cases, thus avoiding the risks which may be apprehended in the case of a chance jury. The members of the Subordinate Judicial Service residing at the Sadar station may be made ex-officio special jurors, which may give them a training in the criminal branch of the administration of justice, a training which may be of ample use to them whenever they may be called upon to discharge any or all of the functions of the Court of Sessions Judge in any place.

C.

From—BABU RAM CHANDRA MUKERJI, Government Pleader, Nadia,
To—The Sessions Judge of Nadia.

IN reply to your letter No. 445, dated 8th July, I have the honour to state for information that the system of trial by jury is working well in this district. I have been working out this system from the time of its introduction in this district, and I have no reason to complain against it. In my humble opinion, the system is a salutary one in the interests of administration of criminal justice, and it does great assistance to the Judges in determining the truth of intricate facts concerning the manners, habits, domestic affairs, &c., of the natives of this country. No doubt there were some cases in which the verdict of the jury was at first considered unsatisfactory; but it afterwards came to light that such unsatisfactory verdict was the result of the misconduct of the parties themselves, or of the police attempting to prove too much in a case. Sir Rivers Thompson and Sir William Herschell at first seemed to be against the system, but as they gained experience in the administration, they had to change the opinion they formerly entertained, and they afterwards reported in favour of the system. As far as I know, your predecessors in office were all satisfied with the working of the system in this district, and that they had, as a rule, no reason to make any complaint against it.

With reference to the second point I need not say much: the system, if it be worked out satisfactorily, will be a good means for the repression of crimes. The number of acquittals in trials by jury may sometimes appear to be great owing to bad commitments rather than to the system itself. If the committing Magistrates be a little more careful and scrutinize the acts and conduct of the police before making any commitments, the result of trials in the Sessions Court will be more favourable than at present. The Judges have often found that the police were wanting in their duty, inasmuch as they had failed to make proper enquiries during their investigations before sending a case to the Magistrate.

In reference to the third point, namely, improvements that could be suggested in the way of the application of the system, I beg to say that the list of jurors prepared under section 321 of the Criminal Procedure Code ought to be more carefully prepared than at present Persons not at all fit for doing the duties of the jury are now indiscriminately enlisted without any regard to their education and position in life. I remember cases where persons who can scarcely sign their names were selected as jurors in such important cases as murder, forgery, &c, and there is nothing strange that in such cases a failure of justice will be the expected result. I should therefore think that persons whose names will be enlisted in the jury list should be men of certain qualifications, and the names of such persons ought to be collected by more responsible officers under the Magistrate of the district.

I should also consider that there should be a list of special jury who can be called to sit over trials in cases which the Judge thinks important and sensational. On this point my suggestions have been given in the opinion that has been expressed from the local bar, and I need not say anything further except that the special list should contain the names of persons of known abilities and probity, whether they be private gentlemen or officers employed under Government in the district.

From—J. TWEEDIE, ESQ., Judge of Patna,

To—The Officiating Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, bearing the mark "Judicial Circular No. J 6 $\frac{T}{2}$-2," and dated 23rd June 1890, forwarding a copy of a letter of the Government of India, in the $\frac{\text{Home Department}}{\text{Judicial}}$, dated 31st May 1890, calling for a report on certain points stated, bearing on the Jury system.

2. In reply, I beg leave to annex a report on the points prescribed, and send the report in a detached form, and without passing it through the office here, so that it may not obtain any further publicity than the Government thinks fit to give it.

No. $\frac{SCT}{197}$, dated 21st July 1890.

Report on the Jury system, sent in reply to the letter of the Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Judicial, Political and Appointment Departments—"Judicial Circular No. J 6 $\frac{T}{2}$ 2, dated 23rd June 1890"—forwarding a copy of a letter from the Government of India, in the $\frac{\text{Home Department}}{\text{Judicial}}$, dated 31st May 1890.

THE points on which a report is asked are these:—

i—The working of the jury system.

ii—What opinion is entertained as to the merits of the system.

iii—What improvements, if any, are called for.

2. First point.—On the first point I beg leave to make the following remarks.

3 In my opinion the system of trial by jury has not worked well, and I hardly think that, in the near future at least, it is likely to work much better.

4. The principal circumstances which make against its working well are these:—

i—A want of good material out of which to get good jurymen, resulting from defect of general intelligence, absence of a liberal education, deficiency of experience in affairs, and like causes.

ii—Caste and social prejudice.

iii—An objection on the part of many men to much of our law—as for example, the law of joint-liability for crime and (especially in the case of Muhamadans) to our law of evidence, which does not render "eye-witnesses" indispensable.

iv—The common feeling against convicting in any case of homicide, lest the guilty person should be hanged.

v—The further feeling that it is a good and generous action to help a guilty man to escape.

vi—Downright sympathy with some forms of crime, such as perjury and forgery.

vii—Amenability to external influences—fear, favour, popular sentiment, and money-payments.

viii—An eagerness to seize on any small point of difficulty in a case or "discrepancy," so as to throw out the case on that.

ix—An inability or unwillingness to balance this against that and reach a decision by a critical treatment of the whole of the materials before them.

x—Almost complete irresponsibility.

xi—The total absence of public or social condemnation for such an act as returning a false verdict.

xii—The absence of moral, not to say religious, training from the up-bringing of a large part of the community.

xiii—The impossibility of keeping a jury apart from the general public in cases which last more than a day; and these are the majority.

5. Second point.—On the second point I beg leave to make the following remarks:—

6. I have held conversations with gentlemen of standing as to the opinion entertained by them of the merits of the jury system in the matter of the repression of crime.

7. The opinions expressed are universally unfavourable. As one gentleman said, "the theory is excellent, but......" Gentlemen of standing will do much in order to avoid serving on a jury. This arises from three causes—a sense of incompetency, caste or class prejudice against being closely associated with men of inferior status, and a natural objection to mixing themselves up with a body of men whose integrity in the discharge of their duties is more than a matter of mere suspicion.

8. I have been told that the great body of the people, high and low, excepting only persons who are wrongly interested in the maintenance of the system, would be glad to see it swept away. But many, even of those who do not want to retain it, would probably seize on its abolition as the basis of a sentimental grievance, and I suppose that its abolition is not now practicable; but it seems to me that unless matters are to go from bad to worse, the classes of cases which are tried by jury in Bengal ought to be reduced (see below, paragraphs 14 et seq).

9. Third point.—On the third point I beg leave to make the following remarks:—

10. The Magistrate and myself are at present engaged in revising the jury list, and are giving much personal attention to the work. Our aims are to take the compiling of the list out of the hands of the police; to raise the social and educational status of the jurymen; and to secure a better representation of all suitable classes of the community, so as to check the tendency of jury-business to become an ordinary branch of legal professional work. Our endeavours are also directed to enhance the reputation of the jury in a proper direction, and to induce persons to consider service on a jury as an honourable part of their duties as citizens (as the office of an Honorary Magistrate is regarded), but on this last point we hardly hope, at least at first, to succeed, for the past record is sadly against us.

11. Still we hope for considerable improvement as the result of our work, and I mention it in order that, perhaps, similar attempts may be made elsewhere.

12. Another point is that in every district there should be a select "special jury" list, to be used in the sole discretion of the Judge, in order to draw from it either a whole jury or some members of a jury.

13. There should also be given to the Judge a power to draw the lots, not from the common bag or box only, but from classes, when he thinks it desirable to have on the jury, in any particular case, any particular class of juryman—Hindu, Muhammadan, banker, jeweller, cloth merchant, and so on. It gives one a great feeling of security, as regards probity and intelligence, to find even one Christian (European or superior Eurasian) in the jury box; but at present, if I deliberately drew such from the bag, I should be "packing" the jury.

14. Lastly, in the interests alike of honesty, human life, and the administration of justice, it has become necessary to withdraw from the cognizance of juries certain classes of cases.

15. In many parts of Bengal there is a regular system of settling disputes—chiefly about land by a kind of petty warfare, and this is encouraged by a knowledge that a "conviction" hardly ever follows on trial. The chief reason why convictions fail here is that behind the actual rioters there are powers which the provisions of the Penal Code never, within my experience, reach—namely contending zamindars or, more commonly, thikadars, who, unless universal report is wholly at fault, hesitate not to bring unlawful influences to bear on jurors: while the common belief, further, is that these influences are not as a rule resisted. We may thus have either a conviction or an acquittal based on something which has nothing to do with the facts of the case or the evidence given in it.

16. Therefore, in my opinion, all cases falling under chapter VIII of the Indian Penal Code, and also all offences committed at a riot, whether such that the rioters are all responsible for them under section 149 of the Code, or such as only the individual offender can be held answerable for, should be withdrawn from the cognizance of the jury.

17. Another class of cases with which, in my opinion, a jury is wholly incompetent to deal is that composed of giving false evidence and bringing false charges.

18. The short reason for this is that these are offences for which the ordinary native mind has no abhorrence.

19. A third class is made up of offences relating to documents. There are two reasons for withdrawing these—first, that just given bearing on false evidence and false charges; and secondly, because our law of documents (chapter XVIII, Indian Penal Code) is so complex that no jury seems able to understand it. Moreover, the native has his own ideas of offences relating to documents, even where he recognizes that an offence has been committed, and to these he adheres, and cares not about chapter XVIII of the Penal Code

20. Good also comes, I think, of Judges persistently, but with careful discretion, submitting erroneous verdicts for revision by the High Court under section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. This is the only check on the irresponsibility of a jury. It may be out of place for me to say anything about the High Court, yet I will venture to remark that that Court exercises its powers freely, and with full consideration of the matters submitted to it. Thus, out of three cases which I have sent up during the past months, two of the verdicts

(acquittals) were reversed; in one instance (also of acquittal) the Hon'ble Court recorded no approval of the verdict, but said that it was not so bad as to justify interference. These three acquittals were recorded, respectively, in cases of homicide (with rioting), false charge of murder, and homicide in rioting. The first two were reversed; the last, without being approved, was allowed to stand.

21. References of this kind, when successful, have a good effect, but what causes a Judge to hesitate before making them is the feeling that an unsuccessful reference is worse than no reference at all.

22. The working of the jury would, I think, be improved if the police were prohibited from making a record of so many "statements" as they now make under section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. They are naturally both incomplete and also in excess of what is allowed for judicial purposes, inasmuch as the police are quite right to record "hearsay" evidence for their guidance. Yet juries do not distinguish these matters, and on finding that a person has told the police something which in court he or she is compelled to admit was not "known" to him, or to her—as knowledge for judicial purposes is required to stand—the case at once becomes jeopardised.

23. It will be remembered that it is always in the power of the defence to summon the investigating police officer and to require him to bring all his records (except the diary) with him for the purpose of thereby "refreshing his memory." Moreover, even in cases in which it is quite plain that the investigating officer cannot possibly know anything personally about the occurrence, still it is an "argument" which always "goes down" with a jury to ask "why the Crown has not dared to place before you the evidence of the investigating officers?"

24. Similarly, if at any future revision of the Code of Criminal Procedure any plan could be found by which enquiries by committing officers could be made a little less like "trials," much advantage would be gained. In Scotland, I believe, such matters are managed with privacy, if not secrecy, and with good results. If committing officers could perform the functions—or at least the earlier part of them—performed by the "Procurator Fiscal" in Scotland, we should be much more likely to reach the truth than we are under our present system of public quasi-trial before committing officers.

25. Given a jury, copious police papers, and prolonged enquiry in the court of the committing officer, and the result—if depending honestly on what is heard by the jurors at the trial—may be foretold. In vain are the "jurors" told that not even they themselves could give an identic account of a complicated matter three times with long intervals often between. No, there are the "discrepancies," and so the case is false.

26. I would say, lastly, that in my opinion no man should be appointed to a jury district who cannot speak its language as it ought to be spoken, fluently and colloquially. It is probably true that juries do not go much by what the Judge says in his "charge," but this ought never to be, because the jury are unable to understand the Judge's language, or because the Judge is unable to lay the case fully and clearly before the jury.

27. These remarks are based on experience of juries in the 24-Parganas, in Patna, in Hooghly, and in Krishnagar. All my remarks are not illustrated in all these places, but each place contributes its quota to the criticisms advanced and the suggestions made.

[No. 7.]

No. 763, dated Alipore, the 9th August 1890.

From—C. B. Garrett, Esq., District and Sessions Judge of the 24-Parganas,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Judicial Department.

Referring to Judicial Circular No. J 6 $\frac{T}{V}$ 2 of the 23rd June last, I have the honour to report that I have not had any exp erience of juries since 188 , but between 1872 and 1885 I served in every jury district in Bengal, except Nadia and Cuttack, having been Judge of Dacca, Murshidabad, Patna and Hooghly, and Additional Judge of the 24-Parganas and Hooghly.

I am bound to say that the result of my experience is that the jury system is on the whole a failure. No one can doubt the immense benefit that trial by jury has been to England, yet even there the system seems somewhat to have past the time appointed. I believe there are few persons who, if innocent, would not prefer being tried by a single impartial and experienced Judge, or who, if guilty, would not clamour for the inestimable privilege of being judged by twelve honest men in a box. Because trial by jury has done a great work in England, the authors of the Criminal Procedure Code probably thought it would do an equally great work in India, and therefore transplanted it to India. But, as we all know, all plants transplanted to an alien country do not thrive there, and some become a mere fantastic caricature of what they are in their native soil.

Now there is a very essential difference in respect of the administration of criminal law in England and India. In England we are, on the whole, a homogenous nation: we all approve, on the whole, our system of criminal law. The jury sympathise with the law which is administered in our criminal courts; they have confidence in the presiding Judge, and last, and not least, being jurymen, they are content to be jurymen only to find facts and to leave everything else in the hands of the Judge.

Now in India all these conditions are reversed. We are Western foreigners, trying to permeate Orientals with ideas in many respects unsympathetic to them. However certain we may be, with our wider knowledge, of their superiority of those ideas, it cannot be said that the mass of Indians are as yet convinced of this fact, and no reasonable person, I think, would venture to assert that in this end of the century these ideas have penetrated much below the surface in India generally. Therefore, instead of our criminal code being sympathetic to the Indians generally, I believe it is on the whole unsympathetic. They have therefore little or no confidence in the presiding Judge, not because they believe that he will convict unjustly, but because they believe that, given a conviction, he will often award a punishment very different to what they would have awarded. Is it wonderful that, under these circumstances, Indian jurors constitute themselves Judges as well as jurymen, and that in many cases, with an absolute disregard of honour and propriety, they convict prisoners under sections not carrying a larger punishment than they think should be awarded; and sometimes, I suspect, if they think that the offence should not be punished at all, they go the length of acquitting them altogether.

Now I presume that it is our desire that, on the whole, India should be governed on Western and not on Indian principles, and hence I think that a system by which the criminal law is administered, not on Western, but on Indian lines, can never work satisfactorily in the opinion of the Western rulers until that far off millennium arrives when Western ideas and civilization shall have thoroughly percolated all India.

I regard this therefore as one reason why the jury system is not, and is never likely to be, satisfactory to us in India.

Another general reason, why the jury system works unsatisfactorily, I think, in India is the want of intelligence of the great majority of jurors. They are for the most part persons of very moderate education; they have little practice in drawing inferences; they get utterly confused by the lengthy cross-examinations of the witnesses and the voluble harangues of the pleaders. No doubt this obtains to some extent also in England. You have stupid jurymen there, and you have counsel who do their best to confound them. But, on the whole, I think the average English jurymen is superior to the average Indian jurymen, and is more on a par with the counsel; and, moreover, an Englishman, when he gets hold of an idea or a belief, sticks tenaciously to it, whereas it is unfortunately a failing of the Indian character that the average Indian may be talked into or out of any belief, provided he be only talked at enough. Moreover, in England the Judge's summing up, which is heard with attention, goes a great way to remove any false impressions which the eloquence of the defendant's counsel may have created in the minds of the jury. While in India the summing up of a Sessions Judge is, with the majority of the juries, of very little efficacy.

This arises no doubt from the fact that few Sessions Judges have had any practice in public speaking, and have in many cases to address persons in a language which they speak and pronounce imperfectly.

This, therefore, is a second reason why I think the verdicts of the jury in this country are unsatisfactory, even when it cannot be supposed that the law which they are called on to administer is particularly unsympathetic. No doubt, however, one may hope that by degrees the qualifications of jurors will improve.

I come now to consider a fact noticed in the conclusion of the second paragraph of the Government of India's letter—that is, the great reluctance of native jurymen to convict in cases where there is any possibility of a capital sentence being passed. Mr. Beveridge seems to trace this characteristic to the good nature of the Indian jurymen—a view to which I cannot very much subscribe. I trace it to a more complex feeling. I trace it first to a morbid dread of responsibility, joined with a very much lower estimation of the sacredness of human life than that which prevails among Englishmen. There is no doubt that an Indian feels a morbid and almost superstitious dread of having anything to do with a capital sentence, and therefore he comes to the conclusion that he will in such cases reject any evidence, except evidence of so extremely clear a character as can seldom be obtained. On the other hand, he does not recognize, equally with an European, the guilt of homicide and the absolute necessity of expiating blood by blood. It may seem at first that the reasons I have given are contradictory of each other, but rightly considered I do not think they are so. A morbid superstitious dread of being in any way connected with taking life seems to me quite compatible with a very imperfect idea of the sacredness of human life. This is the feeling which prompts a man to spare a noxious reptile or to refrain from killing an animal when old age or sickness have made its life a burthen to it. Such feelings appear to me quite consistent with a secret feeling that after all we must all die, and are as water spilt upon the ground that cannot be gathered again, and therefore that there is no reason why homicide should be expiated by taking another life.

That this last was the attitude of nearly all antiquity towards homicide is plain enough from the history of Greece and Rome, and I believe that the reluctance of Indian jurymen to convict in cases where a capital sentence may be passed arises from a mixture of these sentiments—partly from a superstitious dread of the responsibility of taking life, and partly from a feeling that it is not necessary to expiate murder by the death of the murderer.

Having now given my reasons for considering that, on the whole, the jury system is a failure in India of to-day, it remains to consider what improvements are called for in its application. Of course the first remedy which suggests itself is its abolition, except in that class of cases to which it seems to be confined in the Madras Presidency, and in which no doubt it does well enough—sometimes, I have thought, a little too well. But this would be called a very retrograde measure: it would raise a terrible clamour, and I do not think the gain would repay the clamour it would raise.

No doubt the jury system will never be extended to districts in which it does not now obtain. I do not see that in districts in which it now obtains it could possibly be done away with, except perhaps, and I say this with much hesitation, in cases in which a Sessions Judge thought on the depositions that it was absolutely clear that, if these deposition were believed, there ought to be a capital sentence. The only other remedy I can suggest is the Legislature arming the High Courts with wider powers to deal with improper verdicts than, be it said with all respect, the Hon'ble Courts believe themselves at present to possess. Many Judges seem to think they can at present interfere with no verdict unless it is absolutely perverse. I would submit that, considering what Indian juries are, as to which everybody is agreed, that the High Court should not throw a glamour round them, but interfere in cases where the verdict is seriously against the weight of evidence given, and the reasonable inferences to be drawn from that evidence.

And I must say that I agree with Mr. Beveridge over a very heterodox suggestion that he makes, viz., that when a Judge disapproves a verdict, he should be allowed to ask the jury the reason for their verdict. The enquiry might show that their reasons were good, and founded on solid sense and a proper appreciation of the case: on the other hand, it might show that the reasons for the verdict were absolutely unsound. Given the position that it is even right to interfere with the verdict of a jury, I cannot see why it should be wrong to ask the people who give the verdict why they did so.

No 252 dated Alipore, the 9th July 1890.

From—H. Beveridge, Esq., Additional Sessions Judge of the 24-Parganas,
To—The District Judge of the 24-Parganas.

I have the honour to submit the report called for by your memorandum No. 654 of the 4th instant.

2. I have had experience of trial by jury for ten years, first at Patna and afterwards at Alipore and Howrah. And the conclusion that I have formed on the subject is that trial by jury is an unsatisfactory system, and that it leads to the escape of many criminals. The test of a system is its ability to deal with difficult or exceptional cases. The majority of criminal cases are simple, and criminals are for the most part poor men and unable to engage Barristers and pleaders In such cases it is perhaps not very easy for a court to go wrong, and they are adequately dealt with by juries. But whenever a case is a difficult or intricate one, when it depends on circumstantial evidence, or when the accused can employ counsel, the jury are, generally speaking, of little assistance. They are not practised in drawing inferences, and they get bewildered by the endless cross-examinations and by the length and number of the speeches addressed to them. They are apt, too, to get terrified by the impassioned appeals made to them not to convict a gentleman or one of their countrymen of an offence for which the Judge can sentence to death or transportation for life. The Bengali is certainly as a rule a good natured man. He is more accessible to arguments ad misericordiam than are numbers of robuster nations, and he is also perhaps more of a sceptic. As he has not seen the crime committed, and as he does not feel as certain of the prisoner's guilt as of his own existence, he yields to the prayer of the prisoner's pleader and gives the accused the benefit of the doubt.

13. If, then, the jury system is to be considered merely on its merits as a means for the repression of crime, my unhesitating opinion is that it is a failure and should be done away with. But if it is to be considered also as a political institution and as a means of educating the people and interesting them in the subject of crimes, then there is a good deal to be said for the retention of the system. I almost doubt, too, if the question can be considered as still an open one. Though jurymen intensely dislike having to serve, and though they are often put to great trouble and even expense (for they are made to come from all parts of the district, and have often to undertake journeys of two or three days), yet the educated classes regard, or affect to regard, trial by jury as a bulwark of liberty. It must be admitted, too, that trial by jury tends to mitigate the very natural feeling of repugnance as to being tried in court presided over by foreigners. I believe that if all the Session Judges were natives, trial by jury would be dropped by acclamation; but so long as this is not the case, I do not think that we can abolish juries in the districts where they are in use. If this is to be done, it can only be by a gradual ripening of public opinion. If the English people should find out, as perhaps some day they will, that the jury system is as unsatisfactory in criminal cases as it is in civil, then the Bengalis may do so likewise.

4. Juries oftener go wrong in culpable homicide cases than in cases of offences against property. But I do not think it would be practicable to restrict their functions to trials for dacoity and the like. This would be too much of a reductio ad absurdem. For if juries were pronounced incompetent to try cases of offences against the person, it could scarcely be maintained that they were competent to try offences against property. If the jury system is to be retained, I am rather in favour of extending than of limiting the jurisdiction. That is, I would allow juries to try offences against the coinage and offences against marriage. It is inconsistent not to allow them to try coiners while they are allowed to try forgers of currency notes, and I think that juries are peculiarly well qualified to try marriage cases.

5. If trial by jury is to be maintained, then the improvements I would suggest are that provision should be made for special juries, as is already the case in the presidency towns (section 276 of the Code), and for paying jurymen their travelling expenses. I would also fix some reasonable limits to the liability to serve, and not leave them conterminous with the district as they are at present. The result of present arrangements is that in the 24-Parganas jurymen have to come from Basirhat and from beyond Diamond Harbour.

6. It would be an advantage, and tend to bring the two races together, if Europeans and natives were to serve together on juries; but in the mufassal this is impracticable, as the European generally pleads ignorance of the language. I think this difficulty might in many cases be got over if clause G of section 278 were altered so as to include interpretation by the Judge or brother jurymen. We have no regular interpreters in our court, and I do not recommend their introduction. I think, too, that inducements should be held out to non-official Europeans to learn the language and so qualify themselves for serving on juries. For instance, rewards might be given, and they might even have their income-tax remitted if they regularly served as jurymen.

7. I would also suggest that the Judge be empowered to ask the jury reasons for their verdict. The present system of references under section 307 is very unsatisfactory. It is not fair either to the jury or the prisoner. The Judge does not know what has led the jury to return the verdict of which he disapproves, and can only make guesses on the subject, and the jury have no means of defending or explaining their verdict. There should also be some change as regards the record of the Judge's charge. Shorthand writers should be attached to the court, and the Judge should not be compelled to recount all the facts of the case to the jury. At present he does this, not for the information of the jury, in whose minds the details are fresh, but because he knows that the case will probably be appealed, and that the High Court will want a statement of the facts. Provisions might be made for the Judge giving this in a separate note whenever a case is appealed.

8. In conclusion, I beg leave to quote some remarks which I lately published on the subject of trial by jury. I venture to do this, because I should only repeat myself if I went again over the same ground.

"The question of trial by jury is far too difficult and important to be treated of in this paper. I shall only say that in my humble opinion trial by jury rests on the mistaken notion that the weighing of evidence is not an art, and that any fairly educated man can decide on a witness' credibility or on the value of a piece of circumstantial evidence as well as the most experienced criminal Judge. If this is so, why are juries not more used in civil cases, and why do suitors in England so generally abstain from asking for a jury? In most civil cases the points at issue are as purely questions of fact as they are in criminal cases. Men do not take the "average layman" view in other matters. Much of practical life consists in drawing inferences, and no one who has to draw a particular kind of inference for the first time thinks that he is as likely to be right as one who has been drawing such inferences all his life. On the contrary, the maxim is greatly favoured that every one should be believed in his own art. The sailor infers from certain phenomena that there will be a storm, the doctor infers from his patient's symptoms what his disease is, and the average layman who stands by and also observes the phenomena never dreams of pitting his opinion against that of the skilled observer. In criminal matters, however, the opinion seems strongly held that any man can decide if a witness is speaking the truth, and draw correct inferences from facts. And it is to this idea that we owe such outbreaks of public folly as the agitators about the Amethurst and Maybrick cases.

"The jury system is admired by some, because they regard it as a bulwork of public liberty. This view is rather out of place in India at present, as political and quasi-political cases are excepted from trial by jury. Juries do not even try cases of defamatory libels in newspapers or cases of coining. I may add that they do not try offences against marriage, though one would think native juries peculiarly qualified to try such cases.

"Those, however, who praise the jury system for protecting life and liberty seem to forget some of the worst cases of injustice recorded in history were jury trials. It was juries who condemned the accused in the Popish plots and other infamous State trials in Charles II's time. It was jurymen who gave the verdicts in the Bloody Assizes. If it be said that in these cases the Judge, and not the jury, was to blame, still what becomes of the bulwork?"

[No 8.]

No. 11832, dated Calcutta, the 2nd September 1890.

From—J. C. VEASEY, Esq., Inspector General of Police,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

As desired by Mr. Lyon's Circular No. J6 $\frac{T}{2}$ 2 of 23rd June, I have the honour to submit a report on the points raised by the Government of India in their No. 742 of 31st May in connection with the working of the jury system. The question is not one with which I have personally been brought at all closely in contact, and such opinions as I have been able to form are based on what I have seen of the results of trials or on information given me by Police officers.

2 It seems to be a subject of general complaint that, in the absence of any qualifying test, jurors are often persons more or less unfit to discharge the duties imposed upon them, and are thus unable to appreciate their responsibility. As now-a-days many or most sessions trials last for more than a day, the jury can be easily got at by interested outsiders, and a case is mentioned in which the verdict had been arranged and was openly talked about two or three days before the trial ended.

3. It may be said that as the law requires an unreasonable verdict to be referred, it is not, after all, an obstacle to justice; but the High Court have shown themselves so unwilling to interfere with verdicts that Judges do not care to court a rebuff which damages their own authority, and in practice these references are seldom made. It is only, too, in very exceptional circumstances that an appeal can be preferred with any chance of success, and verdicts therefore possess a degree of finality which is certainly not due to their own merits.

4. The reluctance shown by juries to convict in murder cases is a matter of general notoriety, but the common impression that this is in a way made up for by their willingness to do their duty in cases of offences against property is not, I believe, well founded. If, as is generally understood to be the fact, many Native Deputy Magistrates are afraid of the consequences of convicting a budmash, what are we to expect from a juror?—and where private feeling opposes public duty, the former is tolerably certain to prevail. Trial by jury may have its advantages in cases of defamation and offences against marriage, but it is not worth continuing under such restrictions, and I would do away with it as a useless exotic.

5. The inherent vice of our mufassal jurors is their own weakness—their amenability to outside influence, and this gives additional importance to a subject which has not hitherto attracted the attention it deserves—I mean the personality of the presiding Judge. It is difficult to illustrate this without mentioning names, but an instance is afforded by Burdwan in 1887-88 under Mr. C. D. Field, when judicial vigour entirely neutralized the influences brought to bear from opposing quarters. The testimony of an acute observer, Mr. H. N. Harris, who was then District Superintendent, is that he cannot remember a single occasion on which the jury ignored the Judge's directions, and I much doubt if there is any district in which the same thing could be said now. Yet in Patna a rise in the percentage of convictions from 38·6 in 1888 to 68·9 in 1889 was undoubtedly due to a change of Judges.

6. The annexed table, the figures for which have been extracted from the annual reports of this Department, should be found interesting. It shows that for the first seven years of the decade of 1880—89, the average percentage of convictions in jury districts never fell below 50 per cent., and was only thrice less than the average for the Lower Provinces generally. But in 1887 a change set in, and the fall which commenced then has been rapid and continuous, Howrah and Patna being the only exceptions to a very bad return all round. Our rising Judges may be better lawyers than their predecessors, but their opinions evidently have less weight with the half-educated persons they attempt to guide. The reason for this is no doubt to be found in their very limited executive experience, and it affords an additional reason, in my opinion, for recommending that trial by jury should be discontinued.

No. 1016, dated Dacca, the 2nd September 1890.

From—D. Cameron, Esq., Officiating Sessions Judge of Dacca,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

In reply to your circular No. J6 $\frac{T}{2}$2, dated 23rd June last, calling for a report on the points raised in the Government of India letter No. 742, dated 31st May, therewith received, on the working of the jury system, I have the honour to state that my experience of the system is limited to 21 trials held during the past few months in the single district of Dacca. I am not thus in a position to give an opinion on the subject based on experience gained in any other district.

2. My personal experience of the working of the system in Dacca has been so far favourable. The jury convicted in 15 cases out of 21; their verdicts were as a general rule in accordance with the directions given them, and in no case out of the few in which I found occasion to differ from them did I think it necessary for the ends of justice to make a reference to the High Court. Even in Dacca, however, where the jury list is, I believe, larger and the jurors probably more intelligent than in any district in Bengal, with the exception of the 24-Parganas and Hooghly, the results of trials by jury have not hitherto been satisfactory. In the three years 1887, 1888, 1889, the Judge disagreed, either wholly or partially, with one verdict out of every three delivered by the juries. Out of 124 cases tried, 12 were referred to the High Court under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code, with the result that the High Court interfered with the verdict of the jury in seven cases. Three of the latter were references in connection with verdicts of acquittal in murder cases, and in two of these cases the High Court sentenced the accused to death, and in the third to transportation for life. It cannot therefore be said that the jury system has hitherto been very successful in Dacca, at any rate in dealing with cases of murder.

3. As to the merits of the system as a means for the repression of crime, I do not think anything favourable can be said. The jury districts in Bengal nearly always show a smaller percentage of convictions to trials than those districts in which trial by jury is not in force. It is notorious that native juries generally are reluctant to convict in cases of murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder, even when the evidence against the accused is perfectly clear. I think, therefore, that some improvement in the application of the system is urgently called for. I never could see why a jury should be thought more capable of arriving at a just conclusion on the facts of a case than a fairly experienced Judge sitting with assessors; but if it be deemed too sweeping a measure to do away with the system entirely, I would recommend that at least cases of murder and culpable homicide, if not, indeed, all cases under Chapter XVI, Indian Penal Code, should be wholly withdrawn from the cognizance of juries in the mufassal.

[No. 10.]

No. 1334, dated Hooghly, the 22nd/23rd September 1890.

From—J. Crawfurd, Esq., Offg. Sessions Judge of Hooghly,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

In compliance with the request contained in your Judicial Circular No. J6 T/2 2 of 23rd June last, and subsequent reminder, I have the honour to report as follows on the working of the jury system, so far as I have had experience of it—that is, in the districts of Nadia, Patna, and Hooghly.

2. Having only recently joined this district, I have asked for and obtained the opinion of the Government Prosecutor, an officer of great experience, and I have also been favoured with an expression of the opinion of the pleaders and mukhtears practising at head-quarters. All these reports are forwarded herewith in original.

3. In answer to the question put, I have to say that I am not aware that the jury system has, nor do I think that it is generally considered to have, any merits as a means for the repression of crime. In my experience, cases rarely occur in which a jury convicts contrary to the expressed opinion of the Judge. The jury system is regarded as, and undoubtedly is, a very valuable safeguard to the liberty of the subject. It is valued by the people generally in those districts where it is in force as providing a tribunal in full sympathy with their habits and opinions. It is valued by the criminal classes as affording them certain chance of escape from punishment, which they might not have without it. It is valued by the Bar as affording an opportunity for the display of forensic eloquence, which might otherwise miss its mark. It is valued by the Judge as affording him assistance in ascertaining the facts with some degree of certainty in large classes of cases. It is disliked by executive authorities, as they distrust it.

4. The jury system, like all other human institutions, has its defects, and must be taken the good with the evil. In my opinion, the good preponderates. The evil is chiefly a reflection of the evils incident to the existing state of native society, and may be expected to diminish as that improves.

5. It is easy to find fault with the system by pointing to cases in which failures of justice have occurred, but it is not easy to say how far in each case the jury system was responsible for what occurred. I have differed from the verdicts given in not a few cases, but seldom, till quite recently, have I succeeded in persuading the High Court that the verdict of the jury was wrong.

6. I have not myself the least hesitation in affirming, in consonance with the views expressed in the reports forwarded, that a great many cases break down in the Court of Session from causes for which the jury is in no way responsible. The careless, inefficient manner in which commitments are dealt with, now that the European Joint-Magistrate is practically a thing of the past, is too patent an evil to escape comment. The delay, sometimes unavoidable, often the contrary, with which trials are held, necessarily leads to the weakening, if not to the entire destruction, of the evidence. The general bad repute of the police, the uncontrolled manner in which investigations are held by them, the obviously doubtful character of the evidence produced by them in many cases, the delays and the opportunities thus given to them for bringing pressure to bear on both the witnesses and the accused,—all tend to produce on the minds of the jurors generally a rooted distrust of the prosecution, which they cannot be expected to shake off at the outset of any trial.

7. There is also in the minds of the jurors a strong feeling of sympathy with the accused merely as such. They regard him as being subject to all the weight of official pressure brought to obtain a conviction. They seem to consider themselves bound to stand between him and punishment, if there be any plausible reason for doing so. The real reason of this I take to be that they are not in sympathy with our penal system, which appears to them to be unduly harsh and inelastic. Many a wrong verdict, I believe, is given simply because the jury consider that the prisoner has already suffered sufficiently for his crime before the trial, or because they are afraid that a verdict of guilty would be followed by a punishment out of all proportion to the offence.

8. A principle, which is too often lost sight of in Indian administration, is that it is the certainty of punishment, and not the severity of punishment, which is the best deterrent from crime. It is too often sought to supplement the defects of the machinery of justice by imposing sentences of great severity. Such proceedings defeat their own object. By awakening sympathy with the criminal and distrust of the Judge in the minds of the jury, they lead to acquittals or to the minimising of the guilt of the accused. There is no doubt that in the Criminal Code the punishments awarded for certain offences are far beyond anything sanctioned by native opinion. In particular, I believe that capital punishment for any offence, however heinous, is looked on with disfavour. I myself feel no doubt that in some very important cases that has been the real, though perhaps the unconscious, motive for acquittal.

9. In no case in my experience has there been any allegation of corruption or of wilful misconduct against a jury. In one important case it was represented to me that the jury had acted through fear of the consequences to themselves if they convicted. I referred that case to the High Court, however, and it was held by it that the verdict of the jury was the right one.

10. Among all classes there is a strong dislike to sitting on the jury, and every device is resorted to for the purpose of escaping what is considered as a burdensome duty. When once empanelled, however, I have usually found that the jurors followed the case with interest, and were closely attentive to the evidence and to the arguments of the pleaders on either side. I have not found the same attention to the summing up of the Judge, and have more than once had reason to believe that the minds of the jury were made up before it was begun.

11. I think it must be admitted that the defects to which I have alluded are defects incident to the jury system wherever it has been introduced, in its earlier stages at least. The juries in England and Scotland in last century, before the repeal of the inhuman provisions of the old Penal Code, were more prone to acquit than they are now, and that for a very obvious reason. On the other hand, where political feelings run high, justice is seldom obtainable, even now, from an English jury. And I think it much to the credit of Indian juries that except in respect to the sacred caste, class feeling seems so little to bias them.

12. It seems to me that it would be as unreasonable to do away with the jury system in India, because it does not come up to unreasonable expectations, as it would be to uproot a young tree because it did not grow so quickly as its planter desired, instead of cultivating, training, and supporting it.

13. Amendments are, I think, necessary, but not so much in the law as in the practice under the law. In the first place, I agree with the opinions expressed in the reports forwarded, that the preparation of the jury lists leaves much to be desired. In particular, I am of opinion that there should be a special jury list for the trial of the most important and difficult cases, as there is in Calcutta. Those on this list should be exempted from service as petty jurors. Many of those now exempted from service as jurors altogether, and especially Honorary Magistrates, should be bound to serve as special jurors.

14. Special arrangements should be made executively, at least once every five years, for the preparation of the jury list afresh. Situated as I am at present here, I have no sufficient knowledge of the place, or of the people, and I have no establishment to enable me to draw up a list in the way that it ought to be done. The rich and influential have means of keeping their names out of the lists, which are now usually based on information received from the police. The Collector, through his ordinary staff, might do a good deal to mend matters, but time given to such a matter is grudged as being taken away from their more legitimate duties.

15. Now that jurors may be summoned from distant parts of the district, it is all the more necessary that the duty of attending court should be rendered less burdensome and less disagreeable than it is. I consider that the money would be well spent if the Government were to allow the jurors their travelling expenses and a daily allowance when they are attending court. Proper accommodation should be provided for them when in attendance. Every Court of Session should have a jury room, properly furnished, not only to meet the personal convenience of the jurors, but as due to them in respect to their position.

16. In conclusion, I desire to say that I consider that it is essential to the proper working of the jury system that on references being made under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code, cases should be gone into by the High Court on their merits, and that proper weight should be given to the opinion of the Sessions Judge, no less than to that of the jury, which may be governed by the voice of a single, ill-educated, inexperienced, or prejudiced juror.

No. 74, dated Hooghly, the 15th July 1890.

From—The Public Prosecutor of Hooghly,

To—The District Judge of Hooghly.

WITH reference to your memorandum No. 842 of the 5th instant, inviting my opinion on the points raised in paragraph 2 of the lettter from Government of India regarding the working of the jury system in the Lower Provinces, I have the honour to submit the following:—

1. By a notification, dated 7th January 1862, Calcutta Gazette, 1862, page 87, it was ordered that trial by jury should be held in the districts of 24-Parganas, Hooghly, Burdwan, Murshidabad, Nadia, Patna, and Dacca, of all offences mentioned in the Penal Code, as defined in chapter 8 relating to offences against public tranquillity, chapter 11 to false evidence and offence against public justice, chapter 16 offences affecting the human body and offences against life, chapter 17 to offences against property.

2. By a second notification, dated 27th May 1862, Calcutta Gazette, 1862, page 2041, the trial by jury was extended to the said districts to offences as defined in chapter 18 of the Penal Code, viz., offences relating to documents and to trade or property marks.

3. By a further notification, dated the 13th October 1862, Calcutta Gazette, 1862, page 3416, it was ordered that abetments of and attempts to commit any of the above-mentioned offences in the districts mentioned above, should be tried by jury. Thus it is found that trial by jury prevails in 7 out of 46 districts of Bengal.

4. Of the several chapters of the Indian Penal Code above referred to, the police have to initiate proceedings in offences under chapters 8, 16 and 17, and they have very little to do in offences under chapters 11 and 18.

The Government letter referred to raises three questions for consideration:—

1st.—How the system of trial by jury has worked in the Lower Provinces.

2nd.—What opinion is entertained as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime.

3rd.—What improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

As regards the first question, I am of opinion that the trial by jury has worked well as regards offences under chapters 11 and 18. The reason probably is that in such offences the jury have not only to deal with oral, but generally with some documentary, evidence, and they have something more tangible than oral evidence to proceed upon. Such cases, besides, are shaped by the parties interested, and they seem to think that they tread on firm ground.

5. As regards offences against property, chapter 17, I am of opinion that when in cases of theft, robbery, or dacoity, the stolen property has been found out and properly identified, and the ownership established, and even in cases when no property has been found out, but the oral evidence is satisfactory, the verdicts of jurors have been generally satisfactory and correct. It has been said that in Bengal native jurors are too prone to convict dacoits, previously convicted thieves, &c., but I do not agree with this view. They generally act upon the evidence; but if they find anything suspicious in the proceedings of the police, or that the evidence is against probabilities, they bring in a verdict of not guilty.

6. In cases connected with public tranquillity, specially in cases of rioting or affray, the verdicts of the jury in the majority of cases are not bad; but in cases of rioting, if the commission of the offence is proved, the verdict of the jury depends upon the strength or weakness of the evidence on the identification of accused persons.

7. It is only in cases of homicide that the jurors have in some cases shown an inclination to acquit, and did acquit, where a Judge accustomed to weigh evidence, specially the evidence of Indian witnesses, would have probably convicted the accused; and I am aware of cases also when they have erroneously convicted where they should have acquitted, and, in such cases of erroneous convictions the High Court had set aside the convictions by the jury, but the preponderance is more for acquittal than for conviction.

8. On the whole, I am of opinion that the working of trial by jury in offences other than those of homicide is satisfactory, and as regards offences of homicide it has not worked so well, but I must state that I share the opinion of those gentlemen who think that the majority of ordinary native jurors show a reluctance to convict when there is any possibility of a capital sentence being passed; but I also say that I have had opportunities to observe that when the jurors are men of education and of respectable position in life, they do not shrink from the discharge of their duties if the facts of the case justify a conviction; and here I may add that the inclination of the ordinary native jury is not so much to acquit as to reduce the offences from murder to culpable homicide, and from culpable homicide to grievous hurt or to simple hurt.

9. It cannot be denied that in some cases of homicide the findings of the jury have been unsatisfactory; but the causes of such failures can be remedied, and they are not far to seek, and

I shall touch upon this subject in the third question raised in the Government letter. I take leave, however, to observe that the failures are not those of the system of trial by jury, but the result of improper selection of jurors, and incomplete and perfunctory investigation in the preliminary stages of the cases.

10. The law has not made the acquittals or convictions by jurors final. The Sessions Judge has the power under section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code to send up cases to the High Court when he completely differs from the verdict of the jury and he considers it necessary for the ends of justice that a reference should be made; but practically how many references are made? Such references are few. I have on several occasions applied to the Sessions Judges to make such references, but except in a very few instances the Sessions Judges decline to do so, and this chiefly on the ground that the case is not so complete as would justify a reference.

The proportion, then, of wrong acquittals in homicide cases to the number of cases in which accused are acquitted on such charges depends upon the number of successful references by the Judge to the number of acquittals by the jury, and this information, so far as this district is concerned, can be gathered from your office; but I presume the proportion is very small, and this fact shows that miscarriage of justice is not wholly to be attributed to the jury.

The other check upon erroneous acquittals is an appeal by Government, but in cases triable by a jury an appeal can be made under section 418 of the Criminal Procedure Code only on a question of law or a misdirection by the Judge. An appeal by Government does not touch the incompetency of the jurors, but of the Judge, and as a matter of fact there has been no appeal by Government in this district for many years.

11. In calculating, again, the verdicts of native jurors in offences against life, you should take into consideration the number of commitments made by Magistrates wherein deaths are caused from ruptures of the spleen or from accidental circumstances, and when either no intention to cause death exists, or when the accused could not have known that there was a likelihood of death being caused. Almost in every sessions sitting we have one or two cases of this kind, but a strong Magistrate would in such cases convict the accused of their real offences instead of sending them up on higher charges to the sessions.

The result in Fuller's case and the circulars on the subject might induce the Magistrates to commit such cases to the sessions, but at any rate the failure of graver charges in such cases cannot be attributed to the jury.

As regards the second point, it is difficult to give a decided opinion on this subject.

12. Trial by jury is considered by the people of Bengal the most popular and impressive branch of the administration of justice. Every one, of whatever creed or colour, is interested in it. No one could ever have witnessed a trial by jury and its proceedings without being impressed with its solemnity. It is surrounded by solemnities which create an awe and respect for the administration of justice. The accused are afraid of a commitment to the sessions, but those who are erroneously charged at the same time prefer a commitment to the sessions to a trial by a Magistrate, partly because they think they may escape from the ignorance of the jury, but mostly because they think that in a trial by jury their cases will be tried under the directions of a trained Judge accustomed to weigh evidence, and they can appeal to the experience of their own countrymen, who have an intimate knowledge of the manners and customs of the people. Whatever may be the mode of trial, either by Judge or by jury, prosecutions are the great safeguards of society. If the criminal classes did not realise that, notwithstanding the shortcomings of the jury in some cases, a certain retribution awaited their wrong-doing, crime would have gone on increasing since the introduction of the jury trial for more than a quarter of a century.

13. In considering this question whether trial by jury, as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime, is desirable, one must take into consideration how the cases are initiated and completed by the police and managed by, and conducted before, the committing officer, and sent up to the jury for trial.

In this connection I must say that the cases which grievously fail before the jury are badly sent up by the police, and some of them are badly managed by the committing officers; and I am bound to state my opinion that real crime, whether of homicide or of other offences, properly investigated by the police and intelligently enquired into by committing officers, very seldom go unpunished before an intelligent jury.

14. I do not mean to say that there has been no miscarriage of justice in properly investigated cases: but in such cases, specially in cases of homicide, the failure is to be traced to the selection of ignorant or prejudiced jurors, and in such cases it must be said that trial by jury has a contrary effect as to the repression of crime.

15. I now turn to the third question, viz., what improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

The first point to which I should call your attention is the selection of the jury.

Section 319, Criminal Procedure Code, provides that all persons between the ages of 21 and 60 are liable to serve as jurors. I would raise the age from 25 to 60. In France jurors must be 30 years of age and in full possession of political and civil rights. Young men, just arriving at majority, have not that experience in this country which would enable them to be responsible for their verdicts in serious cases, and I have seen that young men simply sit in the jury-box and take no intelligent interest in the trial.

16. The jury list should be carefully prepared. Section 321, Criminal Procedure Code, provides that the Sessions Judge and the Collector should prepare a list of jurors; but the Collectors and the Sessions Judges, from their position, know very few persons of the district, and constant changes in the personnel of these officers practically prevent them from knowing many persons, and these higher officers practically leave the preparation of the list to sub-inspectors, nazirs, or other subordinate officers. I would suggest that these officers should appoint a committee of respectable native gentlemen who have been long in the district, first, to prepare a list. A Deputy Magistrate and a Subordinate Judge or Munsif who has been in the district for some time, the Chairman or Vice-Chairman of the Municipality and District Board, an experienced pleader, and one or two zamindars or Honorary Magistrates, should form a committee, and after these gentlemen have prepared the list the Judge and the Magistrate shall examine and approve it. This, I think, would require no change in the law. In selecting the names of the jurors, their education, moral character, property and position in society should be looked to, and endeavour should be made to select jurors from all sections of the community. In England the qualifications for a common juror is that of being owner of a free-hold estate of £10 a year, or a lease-hold of £20, or being a householder rated at £20, or in Middlesex at £30. The qualifications of special jurors is the occupation of a house of £50 in large towns and £100 elsewhere, or being a banker or merchant or entitled to be called Esquire (33 and 34 Vict., chapter 77, section 6). In the jury list names of (1) dalals or touters of cases, (2) zamindar's gomastas, (3) men once charged with an offence before the Sessions Court, (4) persons who have no means of an honest livelihood and live upon the charities of others, should be excluded. The reason why I exclude the third class of persons is that men who were once in the dock in the Sessions Court generally cannot forget their old position in the same place, and they identify themselves with the accused.

17. In my opinion the provision of section 313 which applies to High Courts should be extended to the mufassal courts, and a list of common, and a separate list of special, jurors should be made, and in the preparation of this latter list special regard should be had to the property, character and education of persons whose names are entered therein; and I may observe that if this provision is found necessary in Calcutta, I think the necessity is greater in the mufassal.

18. In my opinion, trial of homicide cases should be made exclusively triable by jurors whose names are to be found in the special jury list.

19. The next point to which I would advert is that the law as to peremptory challenges of jurors as made applicable to the High Court by the last clause of section 277, Criminal Procedure Code, should be extended to the mufassal.

The challenge as to array being an objection to the whole body of jurors summoned, as it prevails in England, need not be introduced here, as the jurors in this country are summoned by the court and not by the sheriff; but the accused, as well as the Crown, should be allowed an opportunity for an order that a certain number of jurors should stand by. A departmental rule should be made by the Magistrate that it would be the duty of some officer to give information to the Public Prosecutor as to what jurors should be objected to.

20. Considering the manner in which commitments are made upon imperfect investigations, I think it desirable that the Legislature should extend the provisions of section 273 of the Criminal Procedure Code to the mufassal sessions court.

The Sessions Judges should be authorised by making an entry to stay proceedings before the commencement of the trial whenever it appears to them in any case that any charge or portion of a charge is clearly unsustainable. This would prevent many acquittals, and may lead to future convictions.

On this point Sir James Stephen observes: "It is by no means uncommon for offenders to be committed in cases in which the Judge sees, though the committing Magistrate did not, that a link in the chain of evidence is wanting, or that the evidence itself is of such a nature that the petty jury would be sure to acquit. In such cases it is usual to advise the grand jury to throw out the bill, and in this way open failures of justice are often prevented. This is specially common in the case of crimes of a disgusting nature imperfectly proved, the open trial of which is itself an evil and by no means a small one."

In my experience I have seen several cases in which this course, if adopted, would have prevented a failure of justice; but as the law now stands, a Sessions Judge must go through a trial unless the Public Prosecutor, with the consent of the Judge, withdraws from the prosecutions, and when he does so the effect of withdrawal is an acquittal.

Another point to which I should call your attention is that the second clause of section 300 makes provision that no one should, without the leave of the court, speak to or hold any communication with any member of such jury. This may hold good when the jury are sitting in the court-house and are engaged in the trial, but I think there should be a provision made that no one should speak to any member of the jury on any point or matter of the case which they are trying at any time, in court, in tiffin time, in the way or elsewhere, and I think there should be some penalty for such acts. I also think that the oath which is administered to the jurors should contain a clause that they should not talk about the case in which they sit to try an accused person with any one before they deliver their verdicts. Section 296 of the Criminal Procedure Code provides that the High Court may from time to time frame rules as to keeping the jury together during a trial lasting for more than one day. I am not aware whether any such rules have been framed, but this much I am aware, that in Hooghly the jury were never kept together in charge of an officer of the court in trials lasting for more than a day.

In my opinion in important trials the provisions of this section should be followed.

The next point to which I would call your attention is the perfunctory way in which the cases are investigated by the police, and in my humble opinion disastrous results in cases triable by the jury are owing in a great measure to the incompetency of the lower grade of police officers generally to thoroughly investigate cases, and specially cases of homicide and dacoities.

As matters now stand, the first enquiry is taken up either by a head-constable or a sub-inspector. These officers are not sufficiently educated in the science of detection of crime, and they generally spoil the cases before any higher police officer reaches the place of occurrence. It can be assumed generally that if anything can be done in the detection of crime, it would be done within three or four days of the date of the commission of the crime. The officer who would take up such investigation should know something of law, and specially the rules of the law of evidence; and I may be allowed to say that I have observed in many cases a want in these officers of a patient study of facts and the circumstances connected with them, a want of mastery of details, and a sad want of perception of what is evidence from what is not, which lead to the failure of justice.

I admit that the difficulties in the way of detection of crime in Bengal are great. Whenever a homicide occurs, except in few instances, people do not assist the police. They keep themselves back, either from fear of the police, or from interest they take on account of the accused. The investigating officer is beset with difficulties, which in my opinion are beyond the abilities of the young police officers who generally conduct the first investigation. It needs tact and judgment to deal with a village full of rustics, each intent on deceiving the police to the best of his ability. I come therefore to the conclusion that the great improvement needed to ensure success in jury trial is the improvement in the class of officers who first take cognizance of important criminal cases.

The next point to which I would call your attention is the manner in which cases are prepared for the jury. A committing officer in my opinion should not send up a case simply because there is some evidence. The facts of the case should be carefully developed by legal evidence; he should examine the witnesses in detail, and see that the chain of evidence is complete, and that there is a high degree of probability of conviction before they send up a case

I have often observed that many cases are sent up although the evidence is not complete, and on this point the police and the committing officer should remember that a committal on insufficient grounds leads to an acquittal, but a discharge by a Magistrate may lead to future convictions, if further evidence be forthcoming. It is true, as I have already stated, that in homicide cases the native jurors show an inclination to acquit or reduce the offences from a higher to a lower one, but I think it is equally true that the police officers generally show an inclination to send up cases upon weak or insufficient grounds, probably to clear off their files and show that they have done their portion of the work. The committing officer finds there is some evidence, but not the whole evidence, but probably he does not like to differ from the view of the investigating police officer, and he commits the case to the sessions, thinking that the phrase primâ facie case includes cases where there is some evidence against the accused. The result of such commitment can be very well anticipated, and the incompetency of the jurors to decide offences of homicide cannot be judged from such instances.

The next point to which I should call your attention is the manner in which prosecutions are conducted before the committing officers. On this head I am of opinion that in every homicide and other important cases a competent pleader should be engaged for the prosecution before the Magistrate. A head-constable or court sub-inspector is absolutely incompetent to conduct prosecutions in serious cases. In every important case the accused employs counsel or a pleader, and the prosecution virtually goes unrepresented. The cases that come before the Sessions Court are based upon the police view of the case, not on the view of a lawyer, and loopholes and gaps are left which lead to failure of justice. The Public Prosecutor, remarks Sir James Stephen, has no other duties than those of an ordinary Counsel for the Crown. He has nothing to do with getting up the case, and this branch of the subject is entirely left to the lower grades of ill-paid police officers, who had no training to conduct prosecutions.

If the cases on charges of homicide are better prepared, the safeguards provided by law against wrong acquittals by the Procedure Code are sufficient.

I may here take leave to state that the trial by jury is a success in Calcutta and other Presidency towns because—

(1) There is a police who knows how to detect crime.
(2) The committing officers are generally lawyers by profession.
(3) The Government Solicitor takes up the prosecution in important cases.
(4) The jurors who try the accused are generally gentlemen of education and position in society.

And I may in conclusion state that the improvements necessary are—

(1) Employment in the police force of competent detectives.
(2) Lawyers who have seen criminal practice should hold the preliminary enquiries.
(3) Competent pleader should conduct criminal prosecution before Magistrates in important cases.
(4) Gentlemen of education, respectability, and position should be selected as jurors.

Dated Hooghly, the 14th July 1890.

From—Babu Keshub Chunder Roy, Secretary, Bar Association, Hooghly, To—The Officiating Sessions Judge, Hooghly.

With reference to your memorandum No. 852, dated the 7th July 1890, forwarding copy of letter No. 742, dated the 31st May 1890, from the Government of India, regarding the working of the jury system, I have the honour to state that, in the opinion of the members of the Bar Association, Hooghly, the jury system has done good and useful work in places where it has been introduced. Indeed, the people appreciate its value and are in favour of it as a beneficial institution in the country. As a matter of fact, it has been found that, where the evidence is full, sufficient, and satisfactory, the jurors have seldom failed to return a proper verdict. If in any instance there has been a failure of justice, or the result of the case has not been so fair and satisfactory as would be expected, it has been owing either to a bad selection of jurors or the careless and misdirected investigation by the police and the perfunctory enquiry by the committing Magistrate; and sometimes also it has been due to a misdirection to the jury on the part of the presiding Judge, and not to any inherent defect in the system.

2. The reason not unoften urged against the jury, as referred to in the letter of Government under notice, with regard to the reluctance of a native juryman to convict when there is any possibility of a capital sentence being passed, is not, in the opinion of this Association, fair and well-founded.

3. The members would now crave leave to point out that the present practice of selecting jurors, without due regard to their education, social position, and intelligence, is highly to be deprecated, as it tends in some measure to defeat the object which the jury system is intended to secure. But if greater care and discrimination were used in the matter, the members have no doubt that the evils complained of would be remedied, and the benefits of the jury system as a means for the repression of crimes fully realised.

4. To ensure therefore a more satisfactory working of the system, it is absolutely necessary that a better and more efficient class of men should be selected: in short, those only should be appointed to serve on the jury who, by their education, respectability, and intelligence, are best fitted to discharge the onerous duties which they are called upon to perform.

5. With a view to a better selection of jurors, I am directed to suggest that it would be desirable to consult Chairmen of Municipalities and the District and Local Boards in the preparation of a list for the purpose.

From—BABU SYAMA CHURN HALDAR, Mukhtear, Hooghly,
To—The District and Sessions Judge of Hooghly.

ACCORDING to your honour's direction by memorandum No. 841, dated the 5th ultimo, I beg respectfully to communicate to your honour the opinion of the Mukhtears practising in the criminal courts of the Sadar station of this district on the subject alluded thereto, after holding a meeting.

The jury system has worked satisfactorily in this district.

The working of this system is in no way favouring the escape of criminals, but it does in a great way for the repression of crimes. It does substantial justice to cases, though we have observed in some cases that accused persons said to have made confessions in the lower court are acquitted by the jurors. It occurs only in cases in which the accused persons retract their confessions before the Sessions Court by pleading that their confessions were extorted from them by police by fear, force, and other unlawful means. In trying such cases the jurors, being aware of the unpopularity, and having a keen insight into the character, of many of the police officers of this country, cannot convict the accused persons. We have also observed that in some police cases accused persons are acquitted by the jurors on account of false evidence being adduced. For such acquittal the jury system is not to be blamed. The blame lies on police. The jury system is a great boon to the people of this country, and the desirability of its introduction in extension is beyond all question.

The jurors, being natives of the place and well acquainted with the habits, customs and manners, &c., of the people, are in a better position to weigh evidence, and therefore are the best judges of facts.

As regards its improvement, we are of opinion that if a little more care be taken in the selection and appointment of jurors, that is, if qualified and able persons only be selected and appointed, and some reformation in the police staff be made, the jury system would work more satisfactorily.

No. 589G., dated Bankipore, the 24th September 1890.

From—W. KEMBLE, ESQ., Offg. Commissioner of the Patna Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I HAVE the honour to submit the report called for in your No. J 6 $\frac{T}{2}$ 2, dated 23rd June 1890, on the working of the jury system.

2. The only district in the division in which it is in force is Patna, which, owing to its size and importance, is the best suited of any for giving it a fair trial.

3. The general opinion, in which I concur, is that the system is not suited to this country. One of the best and most experienced Deputy Magistrates in this division, who is a man of good common sense and business habits, and who, I believe, enjoys the confidence of the native community amongst whom he works, writes as follows:—

"The number of jurors is upwards of 700 (it has at the last revision been reduced to 400). They are not generally men of education or of liberal views. The system is not looked upon with favour. When a case is committed to the sessions and jurors are appointed, endeavour is made on both sides to influence vulnerable jurors, and they are really influenced in some cases. If the judge be left unfettered by a body of jurors, better justice is expected than when he is encumbered with such a body. The jury system may be abolished, or the lists ought to be revised and bad jurors weeded out. But the difficulty lies in laying hands on a sufficiently large number of really efficient jurors."

4. The system markedly fails in cases of great importance, such as those in which a man of high caste commits any crime, in cases of murder where there is a possibility of a capital sentence being passed, and in cases of forgery or cognate offences where the accused holds a respectable position in society. The juror who would convict a fellow-countryman in such cases as these would be a bold man.

5. The Magistrate of Patna thinks that deliberate attempts are made in all cases to bribe the jury, and he has grounds for his opinion. Perhaps bribes are not paid so freely to jurymen as they are by persons who ought to be on the jury list in order to escape enrolment.

6. The principal causes which militate against the efficiency of the system are—

(1) That the material in this country from which both grand juries formerly and now special juries and common juries are selected in England is as a rule uneducated and most unwilling to serve.

(2) That the only educated persons who understand the ways of our law courts and our mode of dealing with crime are lawyers of various sorts, who, though very capable of working up a case to place before a Judge, attach too much importance to technical points of law, and are not the best judges of facts.

(3) Caste and religious prejudices, which lead to actual sympathy with some crimes.

(4) The innate laziness of the people, which leads them to seize on any flaw to enable them to throw out a case and escape the odium of being party to a conviction—a conviction in court being looked upon by some people as a point scored by a foreign and hostile Government.

7. With regard to the question as to what opinion is entertained on the merits of the system, I refer you to the first part of my letter. It is only looked on as a boon by theorists, who make a grievance out of the fact that it is not extended to all cases and to all districts, as in Europe.

8. As regards any improvements in the system, I agree with the Judge of this district, whom I have consulted, that no cases arising out of disputes about land, cases connected with rioting and cognate offences, should be cognizable by juries. I also think it would be a good plan if lists of jurors could be made by classes, and power given to the Judge to draw one or more members from special classes where he thought fit. Classes could be arranged by creeds and by professions. Great care should be exercised in preparing the lists.

9. I must apologise for the delay in submitting the report.

[No. 12.]

No. 1291, dated Berhampore, the 25th September 1890.

From—W. H. Page, Esq., Sessions Judge of Murshidabad,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

With reference to your No. J6 $\frac{T}{2}$ 2, dated the 23rd June last, and enclosure, on the subject of trial by jury in these provinces, I have the honour to state, after some experience in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Howrah, Burdwan, Dacca, and Murshidabad, that I have no great faith in the system of trial by jury as it obtains here.

2. It is considered a sign of a backward district if trial by jury is not introduced, and the educated inhabitants are discontented until they get it; and when they do, every person does his best to avoid the necessity of serving.

3. I do not consider that we have the most capable inhabitants on the jury lists, the average juror as he appears in court being incapable of understanding any but the most simple question. In any case at all complicated he listens to the arguments of Pleaders with a very faint idea of what it all means, even if he is able to keep awake, and takes his orders at the end from the foreman, who is perhaps the one educated man in the box.

4. I do not think that the jury system necessarily favours the escape of criminals, except in cases where the only choice is between conviction for murder or acquittal, for I think that jurors often convict because they are unable to understand the objections to the acceptance of evidence.

5. In simple cases of offences against property there is a very fair probability of a reasonable verdict, but in such cases a Judge does not stand in need of the aid of a jury, and I am not aware that their verdict is more to be relied upon than the finding of a Judge sitting alone.

6. It is said to be the duty of the Judge to decide questions of law, but the end to which the efforts of jurors of some education is directed is to find some offence for which persons under trial may not receive a heavier sentence than in the jurors' opinion ought to be inflicted. In the same manner in which they show their reluctance to convict where there is a possibility of a capital sentence being passed, native jurors are very much given to twisting the law, so as to prevent a Judge, whom they suspect of being over-severe, from being able to inflict too heavy a punishment. Thus I have had men found guilty under sections of the Penal Code which had never been thought of as applicable by Pleaders on either side or myself, simply because the section which would have applied left too wide a discretion as to punishment, and I have been addressed by jurors in some such words as these—"We find the prisoner guilty, but we do not agree with you as to the section."

7. One principal reason of the faith in trial by jury in England is the assurance that the jurors will decide the case on the evidence brought before them in court, while on the other hand it is difficult to trust such juries as we have in Bengal not to be influenced by rumours and gossip heard outside. I have a very distinct recollection of a case which I tried at Alipore about 10 years ago. The case was one of a very horrible murder, if the story of the prosecution was true, and after a trial of about three weeks, the jury were divided in opinion. That was all I knew at the time, but it turned out afterwards that there were three for conviction and two for acquittal. I sent them back to see if it was not possible to come to a unanimous verdict, and they returned in about five minutes with a unanimous verdict of guilty. Before they left the Court, the two were asked what had made them change their minds so quickly. They replied—"When we returned to the jury room, we told the majority we could not convict on evidence which was so plainly concocted; the majority answered, 'of course the evidence is concocted, but everybody knows these are the men,' and so we gave in;" and these were men with a sufficient knowledge of English to follow the arguments of Counsel and the summing up in that language. I think it is improbable that we have better material for jurors in the mufassal.

No. 1357J., dated Dacca, the 7th October 1890.

From—A. Power, Esq., Officiating Commissioner of the Dacca Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

With reference to your No. J 6 $\frac{J}{2}$ 2, dated 23rd June 1890, calling for a report on the points raised in India Government No. 742, dated 31st May 1890, on the subject of the working of the Jury system, I have the honour to state that Mr. Monahan, Officiating Magistrate of Dacca, says that he has no experience whatever in the matter; and that Mr. Hare, the permanent Magistrate, had not time before he left to record his opinion. Mr. Monahan has sent the accompanying copy of a note of certain cases recently tried at Dacca, in which the Jury system is said to have failed.

2. I myself, too, have had no experience, as a Magistrate, of jury districts, and therefore write more or less ex cathedra. When guided by an able Judge, mufassal juries appear to return fairly sensible verdicts; but then it is open to remark that an able Judge could very well dispense with their services, and a jury in conjunction with a moderately efficient Judge is more likely to go wrong, and the wrong is less likely to be righted, than when cases are tried by such a Judge with the aid of assessors only; for the Judge is at any rate trained to the work, and the jury is not: third-rate professionals are on the whole superior to first-class amateurs.

3. That as a means for the repression of crime it ranks below the assessor system is a proposition concerning which, I take it, there can be little difference of opinion.

4. In this country special characteristics have to be considered, e.g., religious scruples against taking life; caste, social, and racial prejudices; general timidity; aversion to give offence to any one likely to retaliate, and, where wealthy persons are concerned, the danger of bribery: in short, want of moral fibre and robustness. Is, then, retention or extension of the jury system likely to be a gain? The accused person's interest must be secondary to that of the public. In England it is beginning to be felt that trial by jury is an anachronism: its sphere is being contracted, not extended. There the system had a history and a meaning. It was specially valuable in State cases, when the impartiality of the Judge could not be trusted. The converse is now much more likely. Partial and perverse verdicts occur almost daily in Ireland, and have been common for generations past. A specimen of his class was the juror who, after the trial of Daniel O'Connell, boasted that he "would have eaten his boots sooner than find the Liberator guilty of anything." Attempts to eliminate gentlemen of this kidney by exercise of the right of challenge is called by the Patriots "packing a jury." In India Judges hold office by right, not by favour, and are entirely independent of political influence. Juries are far less likely to be impartial. I think the aid of assessors is sufficient for explaining ambiguities of native witnesses' language and bearing of their customs on evidence, and am of opinion that there would be a distinct gain in the administration of justice if the system of trial by jury were wholly discontinued.

NOTE ON CERTAIN RECENT CASES EXEMPLIFYING THE WORKING OF THE JURY SYSTEM IN DACCA.

Gacha Murder Case (No. 3 of 1884).

This case arose out of a dispute between the Raja of Bhowal and one Mohim Chandra Choudhury of Gacha regarding some lands concerning which a partition case was then pending.

The Raja, some time before the occurrence, established a cutchery at Gacha, of which the deceased, Umesh Chandra Bakshi, was in charge. There was constant feud between the Raja's men and Mohim Choudhury's people, which one day culminated in an attack on Umesh Bakshi, who received severe injuries and died shortly after.

The total number of persons accused in this case was 13, of whom four—

1. Subha Singh,	3. Bhairab Singh,
2. Subedar Khan,	4. Kalimuddi, were sent up in the first trial before the Court of Sessions, which took place on 1st March 1884.

All these persons were charged under sections 148, $\frac{149}{455}$, $\frac{149}{302}$, Indian Penal Code. Subha Singh was also charged under section 302, Indian Penal Code, and Kalimuddi was also charged under section $\frac{114}{302}$, Indian Penal Code.

Three of the jury acquitted all four men on all the charges. Two of the jurors found Subha Singh guilty under sections 302, $\frac{149}{302}$, $\frac{149}{455}$, Indian Penal Code, and acquitted the other accused.

One of the jurors found all the accused guilty under section 148, Indian Penal Code.

Four found all the accused not guilty under that section.

The Judge completely disagreed with the verdict of the jury, and referred to High Court under section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

The High Court passed the following sentence:—

Subha Singh	...	Sentenced to transportation for life under section 302, Indian Penal Code.
Subedar Khan	...	Sentenced to 7 (seven) years' rigorous imprisonment each under sections 326 and 149, Indian Penal Code.
Kalimuddi	...
Bhairab Singh	...

In the second trial before the Sessions Court—

1. Dengari alias Balai, | 2. Shaharali, were sent up as accused. This trial took place on 24th August 1885.

The jury, by a majority of four against one, returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The Judge, differing from the verdict of the majority, referred to the High Court.

The High Court passed the following sentence:—

Shaharali	...	Sentenced to ten years' rigorous imprisonment under section $\frac{326}{149}$, Indian Penal Code.
Dengari alias Balai	...	Sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment under section $\frac{326}{149}$, Indian Penal Code.

The last trial before the Sessions Court in this case took place in September 1889. Surendra Nath Roy Choudhury, who had been absconding until 29th June 1889, when he voluntarily gave himself up, was the accused.

The jury returned an unanimous verdict of "not guilty." The Judge, differing from the verdict, referred to the High Court. The High Court sentenced Surendra Nath Roy Choudhury to three years' rigorous imprisonment under sections 149, 147, and 114, Indian Penal Code.

During the Sessions trials in 1888 the Judge differed from the jury in four cases, and referred them to the High Court.

In the first of these cases the accused killed a connection of hers by hitting him on the head with a wooden stool. She was charged under sections 302, 304, and 325, Indian Penal Code. The Judge charged for conviction. The jury returned a verdict under section 304A. The Judge referred to the High Court, and the accused was sentenced to transportation for life under section 304, Indian Penal Code, by the High Court.

In the second case the accused were committed under sections 376, 457, 454, and 323, Indian Penal Code. The charge was rather for acquittal. The jury returned a verdict of "guilty" under sections 457, 354, and 323.

The Judge referred to the High Court.

The High Court acquitted the accused.

In the third case seven accused were charged under sections $\frac{304}{149}$ and $\frac{325}{149}$.

Three of the jury were for an acquittal. The other two found all guilty under section 148, and three under section $\frac{325}{149}$.

The Judge acquitted two accused and referred the case against the other five.

The High Court convicted three under section $\frac{147}{149}$ and acquitted two.

The fourth case is one well worthy of notice.

The facts of the case are these:—

The accused stayed with a prostitute for three days. On the morning of the fourth day, a woman who had lived in the same bari, hearing a noise, looked into her friend's hut, and saw the accused hacking the deceased with a dao, and then saw him bolt.

She raised an alarm, and the accused was seized by perfect strangers, who happened to be coming along. The jewellery of the deceased was found on him, and wet blood was on his person.

The accused was committed under sections 302 and 380, Indian Penal Code. The evidence was of the clearest possible kind.

The Judge charged strongly for a conviction of murder, but the jury unanimously acquitted; the foreman stating in Bengáli "we are unable to find him guilty of anything."

The Judge referred to the High Court.

The High Court ordered the man to be hanged.

No. 106J.G., dated Calcutta, the 16th October 1890.

From—E. V. Westmacott, Esq., Offg. Commissioner of the Presidency Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

With reference to your telegram of this day's date, I have the honour to state that no reports have yet been submitted by the Magistrates of any of the districts of this Division except Nadia. I enclose a copy of Mr. Glazier's report, but will not myself say more at present than that my opinion of the Jury system as tried in Bengal is that it has by no means strengthened the administration of justice, but has enabled many guilty persons to escape punishment. Even in England it is popularly believed to be for the advantage of an innocent person to be tried by a Judge sitting alone, and for the advantage of the guilty to be tried by a jury, and the popular belief is by no means unfounded. In Bengal it is still more advantageous for a guilty person to be tried by a jury. When the Bengáli is not a Government servant acting under the supervision of superior authority, but is irresponsible, I do not consider that he can be trusted to decide a question upon the evidence before him, especially if his verdict is likely to entail capital punishment on anybody, or any punishment at all on a person of good caste. There are many crimes with which the Bengáli feels sympathy, and the Bengáli juror gives his verdict according to his feelings and not according to the evidence.

No. 1470J.G., dated Krishnagar, the 30th September 1890.

From—E. G. GLAZIER, Esq., Magistrate of Nadia,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

IN reply to your No. 110J.G., dated 5th September 1890, I have the honour to report that I am of opinion that the Jury system is quite unsuited to the native of this country, and tends to the protection rather than the repression of crime. An ordinary jury is averse to convict in a case of a capital crime, or when a man of high caste or social position would be liable to punishment, and miscarriage of justice constantly occurs. On the other hand, there is no doubt that the abolition of the system would be most distasteful to the educated classes of Bengal. I would recommend that jury cases be confined to those falling under Chapter XVII of the Indian Penal Code (Offences against property), and that some qualification of education be fixed for those to be called to sit on as jury in criminal trials.

No. $\frac{201TJ}{292JG}$, dated Camp Midnapore, the $\frac{31st\ October}{5th\ November}$ 1890.

From—G. TOYNBEE, Esq., Offg. Commissioner of the Burdwan Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

IN reply to your circular No. J6 $\frac{T}{2}$ 2, dated the 23rd June 1890, I have the honour to submit the following report:—

I.—How the Jury system has worked.

2. I enclose a table showing the results of sessions cases in the three jury districts of this division during the past five years. The figures speak for themselves, and require little or no comment from me. Those shown in column 7 by no means represent all the cases in which the Sessions Judges concerned disagreed with the jury, and I cannot but think that there is more hesitation on their part than there ought to be in supporting their own opinion by a reference to the High Court under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code. The orders given in paragraph 22 of the Government Resolution on the Police Report for 1885 do not appear to have had much effect in this respect.

3. Mr. R. C. Dutt, the Magistrate of Burdwan, writes as follows:—"During the short time that I have been in Burdwan, the jury system has worked in a manner most detrimental to the interests of justice, and also to repression of crime." This Magistrate recently asked me to request Government to file appeals against three acquittals at the sessions, and in two of those cases I complied with his request (vide this office No. 115TJ, dated the 23rd September last, and No. 116TJ of the same date). The result of the applications is not yet known.

4. I forward in original a very able and outspoken report (No. 1725, dated the 9—11th August 1890) received from Mr. H. G. Cooke, the District Magistrate of Hooghly, in which the evils of the present Jury system are fully exposed. My experience is entirely in accord with him, and it extends to an incumbency of five-and-a-half years in the same district.

II.—The merits of the Jury system as a means for the repression of crime.

5. I have no hesitation in saying that it has none. On the contrary, an accused person committed to the sessions in a jury district has far more chance of escape than one tried by a Judge or Magistrate sitting singly, or aided by assessors. Mr. Cooke has clearly pointed out how this is so.

III.—What improvements are called for.

6. I agree with the Magistrate of Hooghly that the best improvement is the total abolition of the system, as wholly and inherently unsuited to this country. I do not advocate any attempt at improvement in the way of changes in the schedule of offences triable by juries, or in the amendment of the procedure of chapter XXIII, K, sections 319 to 332 of the Criminal Procedure Code. It is quite impossible, as Mr. Cooke points out, for any District Officer to obtain in his division, from among the persons qualified under section 319 to act as jurors, a quorum of jurors who can conscientiously be said to be fit to exercise the function. If the jury system be retained, the qualifications attaching to the liability to serve should be very considerably raised. To do this would throw the burden of attendance on a very limited number, and would render frequent service as a juryman so unpopular as to jeopardise the administration of justice still more seriously.

No. 1725, dated Hooghly, the 9—11th August 1890.

From—H. G. Cooke, Esq., Magistrate of Hooghly,
To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

With reference to your circular No. 140JG of the 5th July 1890, I have the honour to submit the statement called for and to make the following remarks.

2. It is not given to an executive officer to study minutely the working of the jury: he is only in a position to judge by results and to bring to light any incidents that may come to his notice extra-judicially. I shall first judge the Hooghly jurymen by the results of the period of five years under consideration.

3. I think it reasonable to give the jurymen the advantage of the doubt in such cases as were not referred to the High Court by the Judge, though in doing so I am aware that I am making a great concession. From my intercourse with Judges, which has been very constant and close for many years, I can say with some confidence that Sessions Judges are averse to submitting cases in which they differ from the jury to the High Court, under the impression that the tribunal seldom interferes with the decision of a jury on a question of fact. I have known Sessions Judges display a strong disposition to refer cases, but abstain doing so for the above reason. So that I think I may say that the number of cases actually referred to the High Court is far from representing the number of failures of justice which may be attributed to the jury system. But I have no intention of quoting, nor am I in a position to quote, instances of the kind, and I shall confine myself to making the statement, which, I have reason to believe, will be confirmed by the Judges themselves.

4. Nor is it necessary, in the case of Hooghly at least, to go so far afield to establish the charge of incompetency in the case of juries. The statement annexed will show that in five cases of murder the verdict of acquittal of the jury was referred for reversal to the High Court, and in four it was reversed. In a sixth case, where the charge was an attempt to murder, the acquittal was not set aside. In 13 cases referred in five years, 6 referred to murder or attempt to murder, and 4 of these acquittals were reversed.

5. But the Hooghly jurymen's sympathies are not restricted to murderers. Of the seven remaining cases, in all of which acquittals were set aside, the jury were dealing with habitual burglary, on two occasions with arson, perjury, forgery, false charge, kiddnapping, adultery, and mischief with explosives.

6. From this I think it must be conceded that Hooghly jurymen, as administrators of criminal justice, are bad all round. Were the verdicts of acquittals set aside by a Magistrate, or even by a Sessions Judge, it might be suspected that executive zeal had been at work; but the Hon'ble High Court has no sympathy with executive zeal, and we may assume therefore that in every case of an acquittal being set aside, the acquittal was due either to perversity or stupidity.

7. Not even the most ardent advocates of the introduction of European institutions into Bengal would venture to apologise for their failure by saying that the Bengáli is stupid. It is necessary therefore to attribute the failure of juries in Hooghly to perversity.

8. Next to consider facts that have incidentally come to my notice in relation to trial by jury in India. In the letter of the Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, I find one cause of such perversity is set forth, though, I believe, imperfectly set forth. There is a reluctance on the part of the native juryman to convict where there is any possibility of a capital sentence; but I believe that this reluctance is not extended uniformly in all cases, and that it is not connected, save in rare cases, with any delicacy about taking human life as such. There is not one year, in the period under consideration, in which a Hooghly jury has not convicted under section 302; but I venture to say that in none of these cases was the accused a Brahman, or even a member of that ill-defined class who are styled "bhodro" or respectable. I feel confident that the fate of a Mussulman or low class Hindu cæteris paribus would not be the same at the hands of a jury as that of a bhodro; and that notably the Brahman would enjoy a certainty of acquittal.

9. Here, then, we have a defect in the jury system in India, which cuts at the root of the impartial administration of justice, and disqualifies the Indian juryman from being capable of administering justice between man and man; his religious and social prejudices over-rule his oath and sense of right: it is impracticable to obtain from him a just verdict.

10. Nor do I believe that such moral obliquity is at all restricted to cases in which a capital sentence is possible. I believe the same feeling would influence the jury in a case of rape, perjury, forgery, or burglary in which a "bhodro" was concerned.

11. Another cause of the failure of jurymen to convict was brought to my notice very recently by a late member of the Viceroy's Council, who told me that the people of Bengal did not agree with our criminal law, and took this means of testifying their dissent. I have heard of Judges of high tribunals modifying the statute law to bring it into accordance with their own notions of what law should be, or what law is in other lands; but the idea of jurymen giving perverse decisions as a protest against the statute law of an alien Legislature is quite new. The only parallel that I can recall is that of an Irish officer of some standing in the Indian service, who propounded the theory that no Irishman was bound by the laws of the United Kingdom, because he did not make them.

12. However grotesque the attitude of the jurymen may be, who seek by perverse verdicts to adjust the practical working of the criminal law so as to bring it into accord with their own conceptions of what it should be, that such a sentiment exists is exceedingly probable, and this should not be lost sight of.

13. A third reason why jurymen show a disposition to acquit is that in nearly every instance cases coming before the Sessions Court have been handled by the police, and it proves invariably a trump card in the hands of the pleader for the defence if he can point out the smallest suspicion of crooked dealing on the part of the investigating officer; and in view of the fact that the class from which jurymen are drawn, like as all other classes in Bengal, had the most intense distrust and suspicion of the police, it does not take much proof of irregularity to prove fatal to a case.

14. The above are, I believe, the three main causes that predispose a jury to acquit. I may perhaps add a fourth, viz., extra-judicial influence. I am aware that it is considered an important matter for the Crown Prosecutor to get a case concluded in a day, because if it stands adjourned the matter will be discussed and decided out of court by a sort of plebiscite, to the formation of which clerks, muharrirs, and even chaprásis will all contribute. An ingenious and fanciful theory to account for the innocence of the accused will be put in circulation, and will be accepted by the jurymen and the public generally in preference to the story of the prosecution.

15. What Magistrate has not had these plausible stories offered him, sometimes in court and sometimes by a Deputy Magistrate in explanation of a somewhat extraordinary decision which is irreconcilable with the record.

16. As for improvements in the working of the jury system, there is but one improvement that will do good, and that is its abolition. The material for forming reliable juries is so scanty, that I say without hesitation that there are not a dozen men in the district in whom I should feel the same confidence of obtaining in every case that strict impartiality as I should expect from an ordinary English common jury. And twelve men is not enough for the purpose.

17. It was to be expected that the defects of the jury would be attributed to any cause but the inherent unfitness of the people of Bengal for the work. Thus it has been said that the fault lies in the selection of jurymen. I do not think that this at all accounts for the failure. Indeed, it is notorious that the jury lists are nowhere complete. The Judge and Collector have very little discretion in their selection. Section 319, Civil Procedure Code, prescribes, with certain exceptions specified in section 302, that all persons between the ages of 21 and 60 are liable to serve as jurors. The list, even in a small district, if complete, would amount to some tens of thousands of names. Section 320, it is true, gives the Judge and Collector power to declare persons qualified, but how this operation is to be performed on such a list is one of the riddles that the Legislature sets an official without supplying a hint as to its solution, beyond that one qualification seems to be that a juryman must not be a person likely to be successfully objected to under section 278.

18. As a matter of practice, the jury lists consist of names supplied by the amla of men of fair position and education. I say by the amla, for no Judge or Collector could make out such a list from his personal knowledge. He may personally know a few men in his district: possibly, if an affable gentleman, as many as two or three score, but often less. He may, by reference to lists of Honorary Magistrates, and Boards, and Committee members, add to that list; but as for making any approach to an exhaustive list of persons qualified, I do not believe that there is a Judge or Collector who would venture to claim the power to do it. Then the law is vague, and any narrowing the list, to suit fastidious ideas as to who is qualified to act as a juror, does not seem to be in accordance with its spirit.

19. I take it that the list of jurors, far from exhausting the list of men who are as qualified as those at present on the lists, omits the names of many who are equally qualified. There is an abundance of such material. It is not good I admit, but if all who attain that rigid standard of qualification which the cases demand were excluded, the balance would not suffice for the practical working of the jury system.

20. It only remains to briefly refer to two recent cases in which the jury lamentably failed. The first was that of Khan Chand Boid, who shot a brother constable dead from pique, because his victim, a low-caste man, had thrown him in a wrestle. This man was acquitted by a jury, as far as can be judged, because he was a Brahman—that fact having been urged in his defence by his pleader. The High Court transported him for life.

21. The second, Rassik Ghosh, who killed his wife, Felli Gowalini, by striking her with a dao, as she had fallen in love with one Kader Ghosh. He was committed to the Sessions Court for trial under section 302, Penal Code. In this case the accused was acquitted by a jury, but awarded seven years under section 304 by the High Court.

No. 4096J., dated Calcutta, the 12th December 1890.

From—P. C. Lyon, Esq., Offg. Under-Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Judicial Dept.,
To—The District Judge of Dacca.

In forwarding the accompanying copy of a letter No. 742, dated the 31st May last, from the Government of India, in the Home Department, I am directed to draw your attention to paragraph 2, and to request that you will be so good as to favour the Lieutenant-Governor at your earliest convenience with a report on the points therein raised in connection with the working of the jury system.

[No. 17.]

No. 45, dated Dacca, the 16th January 1891.

From—T. D. Beighton, Esq., District and Sessions Judge, Dacca,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I have the honour to reply to your No. 4096J., dated 12th ultimo, asking my opinion in connection with the working of the Jury system in Bengal. My views have been frequently expressed on this subject at much greater length and with more minutiæ of detail than are probably required at present; and I believe the Government are already in possession of more than one official statement of my opinion on the system. I may perhaps be permitted to draw the attention of Government to a report submitted by me while I was Sessions Judge of Patna in 1884.

2. Further experience has only strengthened my conviction as to the general unsuitability of the jury, system for certain classes of crime; and although I have to traverse ground already fully covered, it would perhaps be desirable to recapitulate the heads of the conclusions at which I have some time ago arrived, observing that my experience now embraces all the jury districts of Bengal, with the exception of Nadia.

3. The main object to be attained is (1) to lessen the necessity as much as possible for reference to the High Court under section 307, and (2) at the same time to increase the efficacy of such references when made. The existence of such a provision, by which a unanimous verdict may be altogether set aside, is of course a complete anomaly, rendering the expression "trial by jury" in this country misleading and inaccurate as regards the essential features of its prototype in England. It is therefore naturally the weakest point in the system, and the one which lends itself most easily to attack, and it is not surprising that native public opinion should strongly condemn the reversal of a verdict by a means which has no counterpart in the English law. It is then clear that if a jury is to be retained in this country at all for educational or semi-political reasons, it is desirable to minimise such references. For this reason, as has been repeatedly pointed out, the first essential is the withdrawal from the cognizance of juries of trial for any offence in which death has occurred (sections 302, 304, and 396, Indian Penal Code). I find that, except in Bengal and in a very few districts of the Bombay Presidency, murder and culpable homicide cases are nowhere in India triable by jury. More than half the references which come before the High Court are from acquittals for offences under sections 302 and 304, Indian Penal Code. Native jurors are essentially, by habit of mind, ancient custom, and race prejudice, unfitted for pronouncing a just and true verdict where a capital sentence may be the penalty. The feeling among all but the most educated classes, of whom the majority are found in the metropolis, is the fatalistic one that, because one life has been sacrificed, which is now irremediable, it would be wanton and useless cruelty to sacrifice another life. This is the attitude which is still prevalent among a considerable section of the classes from whom our jury lists are maintained. One illustration of a verdict, which can only be accounted for by considerations such as the preceding, may be given here. It occurred in the district of Patna during my incumbency. A Brahmin sepoy in one of the Bengal Native Infantry Regiments ran 'a-muck,' shot several of his comrades, barricaded himself in a hut in the centre of the Native Infantry lines with his rifle and several rounds of ammunition, and threatened death to any one who approached. He was finally seized by an English officer, who crept into the hut from behind. The murders had been committed in the sight of nearly the whole regiment, and numbers of eye-witnesses were examined. The accused had literally no defence, but on a simple plea of not guilty in the Sessions Court the jury acquitted him.

4. To attain the second of the ends above specified, i.e., to render a reference under section 307 thoroughly efficacious when it unhappily becomes necessary to refuse to accept the verdict, an emendation of section 303, Criminal Procedure Code, appears to me essential. One portion of this section runs as follows:—" and the Judge may ask them such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is. Such questions and the answers to them shall be recorded." I would alter this clause as follows—" and the Judge shall ask them such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is, and the reasons for such verdict." As long as the right of interference with a verdict exists, it must be obvious that the reasons which guide a jury to a certain conclusion are the most important elements to consider in arriving at a conclusion whether a verdict is reasonable or not. I consider therefore that a Judge should be bound to enquire, after every verdict, the ground on which a jury find the accused guilty or not guilty. In both cases the verdict not being absolute, the Crown and the public alike have the right to know the grounds by which the jury are actuated in convicting or acquitting the accused. It may often happen that a Judge who is at first sight disposed to differ from a verdict of acquittal may, after considering the reasons assigned, come to the conclusion that they are reasonable. On the other hand, if the reasons are manifestly unsound; if they betray either a gross misconception of fact or the existence of prejudice, the educated native public would themselves, it is to be hoped, prefer that they should be brought to light and be subjected to the criticism of the higher authorities. Assuming the fitness of the native community in the seven jury districts for the performance of this function, there can be no impropriety in placing on record the considerations by which in each case they are actuated. Lastly, it would greatly assist the High Court in the discharge of the difficult task imposed upon them. The Judge is already bound to record the opinions of assessors, although he is not compelled to conform to them. He is, however, bound to give effect to a verdict of a jury unless it is perverse or unreasonable; but to decide as to the perversity or unreasonableness of a verdict, without knowing the reasons which guided the jury to it, is, it appears to me, often an impossibility.

5. The next suggestion I have to make relates to the possibility of inclusion among the offences triable by jury in the present jury districts, or some of them (as to which I have something to say hereafter), of certain other offences which are now excluded from the list—a change which, I need scarcely say, may be made by the Local Government under the provisions of section 269, Criminal Procedure Code, without the necessity of fresh legislation. The list of offences triable by jury in the North-Western Provinces appears to me to be the best that could possibly be made with a view, on the one hand, to the utilization of the special aptitudes of native jurors for dealing with matters affecting their own rites and customs, and the elimination on the other of that class of cases which, owing to native prejudice and habit of reasoning, cannot be tried in a dispassionate and impartial manner. I think therefore that offences relating to marriage, triable under Chapter XX of the Indian Penal Code, should be included among offences triable by jury. It may be observed that offences involving the decision of questions analogous to those arising in marriage cases are even now cognizable by the jury. The offence of kidnapping or abducting a woman with intent to marry her against her will, or to seduce her to illicit intercourse, is already so triable. The peculiar fitness of native tribunals to decide as to the bearing of facts connected with the rites and customs of various sects of the Hindu and Muhammadan communities is sufficiently obvious. A decision as to the existence or force of a particular caste or local custom, which is often essential to a determination as to the guilt or innocence of the accused person, is one which, it appears to me, can be more fairly and satisfactorily decided by a native jury than by an English Judge. In such cases, too, the jury is likely to have a keener insight into the motive of the accused.

6. I think, however, that before any new offences are included in the category, something more is required as a basis for action than the reports of officials, however experienced they may be. The matter is one of serious importance, and I consider it would be desirable to tap all the recognized channels of native public opinion, and in addition to take some evidence in the jury districts themselves. These are the only legitimate means by which we can thoroughly ascertain the feeling of the public as to the desirability of change in an important class of cases.

7. The only other point which I think it desirable to notice in this very brief abstract of my views is the desirability of reconsidering the local limits of the system. There are at present seven jury districts. The only public documents of which I am aware, which throw any light on the relative success which attends the administration of criminal justice at courts of sessions in each of these districts, are the Police Administration Reports. The data therein available do not, however, profess to be exhaustive, and the report is of course treated from a necessarily narrow and professional point of view. The High Court Administration Report is silent as to any detailed comparison between the results of trials in different districts. There can, however, be no doubt that the results are worse in some districts than others; or in other words, it can be shown that each year, in some districts, a very appreciable amount of mischief and miscarriage of justice takes place in regard to certain classes of cases. Among these I should be inclined to say that Patna is pre-eminent.

But before any order is revoked or altered under the provisions of section 269, Criminal Procedure Code, I think detailed inquiries should be made. A careful supervision and scrutiny, not only of the results of cases for some years back, but of the records themselves, the personnel of the jury, and other matters affecting the trials, should be effected. The results of a careful examination would be invaluable, and would throw light on many complex questions at present untouched; e.g., the class of jurors whose verdicts are most frequently found open to objection, the prevalence of such classes in a greater or less degree in any particular district, and the extent to which Brahmin criminals obtained a larger immunity than others of the lower castes. The jury lists should also be very closely sifted. I think also that, as the jury system is one of the matters with which native public opinion very largely concerns itself, if would be desirable to have a native unofficial member in any Commission which Government might think it desirable to appoint. A complete inquiry into the subject, accompanied by evidence locally recorded, will at any rate enable the Local Government to safely effect certain modifications under the provisions of sections 269 and 274, Criminal Procedure Code, and may perhaps show the necessity for an amendment of the Criminal Procedure Code on the lines suggested in paragraph 4.

From—H. W. C. Carnduff, Esq., Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

Adverting to your letter No. 425J of the 27th ultimo, I am directed to say that the Judges have not yet addressed the Government of India on the subject of the working of the system of Trial by Jury in Bengal, but that their reply to the reference made by that Government is about to issue. A copy of it will be forwarded without delay for the information of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

No. 540, dated Calcutta, the 9th February 1891.

From—H. W. C. Carnduff, Esq., Registrar of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 745, dated the 31st May 1890, in which the Government of India has asked for an expression of the views of this Court on certain specific points connected with the working of the system of Trial by Jury in the Lower Provinces of Bengal and Assam.

2. In reply, I am to state, for the information of His Excellency the Governor-General in Council, that the Judges have on more than one occasion discussed the important questions thus raised by the Government of India, but that, owing to considerable divergence of opinion among them, they have been unable to formulate any reply to this reference which would satisfactorily represent their views as a body. They have therefore resolved to adopt what seemed to them to be, under the circumstances, the only practicable course, and have directed me to forward the accompanying copies of the separate minutes noted on the margin, in which the subject under consideration has been dealt with by the individual members of the Court.

Minute by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice on the questions raised by the Government of India in MR. C. J. LYALL'S letter No. 745, dated the 31*st May* 1890.

IN the letter quoted above, the Judges of this Court are asked for an expression of their opinion—(1) as to how the system of Trial by Jury has worked in the Lower Provinces of Bengal and Assam; (2) as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime; and (3) as to what improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

2. As regards the first and second points raised by the Government of India, I am unwilling to express any opinion unfavourable to the existence of the system of Trial by Jury, as it is called, in these Provinces, or as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime.

3. With reference to the remaining question as to whether any improvements in the application of the system under consideration suggest themselves, I am of opinion that some extension of the right of appeal in jury cases is desirable, but am not prepared to offer any further suggestions.

W. COMER PETHERAM,
Chief Justice.

Minute by MR. JUSTICE TOTTENHAM on the questions raised in the Government of India's letter No. 745, dated the 31*st May* 1890, regarding the working of the system of Trial by Jury in Bengal and Assam.

THE figures furnished by the Registrar for the five years from 1884 to 1889 show that in 325 cases out of the 1,708 tried by Jury in Bengal and Assam, the Sessions Judges disapproved of the verdict, that is, in about 20 per cent. But only in 114 cases were references made to the High Court under section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. In 211 cases therefore no attempt was made to remedy the failure of justice, which, in the opinion of the Sessions Judges, the juries occasioned. And in cases referred under section 307, this Court has shown a tendency to refuse to interfere with the verdicts, unless satisfied that they were altogether perverse or otherwise insupportable.

In particular districts the system has seemed to work well in the majority of cases tried: but, looking at the system as a whole, I do not think that the results as shown by the figures are satisfactory.

The enactment of section 307 was itself a proof that the system could not be continued in the unrestricted form in which it was set going in the Code of 1862. And a Jury system carried on under the restriction of section 307 has not, so as I can see, any great advantage over the Assessor system; while, on the other hand, it is to some extent anomalous and productive of inconvenience and of dissatisfaction.

2. As regards the merits of the system as a means for the repression of crime, I do not believe, that per se it has any; i e., I do not believe that an intending criminal would be deterred by the knowledge that if detected he would be tried by a Jury and not merely by a Judge with Assessors. I do not suppose that his conduct would be influenced one way or the other by the probable mode of his trial.

3. The improvements called for in the application of the system are, I think, such as to reduce it still further towards the level of a trial with Assessors only. For I think it is clear that there should be an appeal on the facts in all cases in which the Jury are not unanimous, and in all cases in which the Judge differs from the Jury: and I believe that in capital cases it would be well to do away with the trial by Jury in the mufassal.

L. R. TOTTENHAM.

Minute by MR. JUSTICE PRINSEP on the question raised in the Government of India's letter No. 745, dated the 31*st May* 1890.

OUR opinion has been asked on three points:—

(1) How the system of Trial by Jury has worked in the Lower Provinces and Assam;

(2) What opinion is entertained as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime; and

(3) What improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

I would reply thus:—

I. The system has not been altogether successful in its results, but it is capable of improvement and has been much benefited by the power given by the Codes of 1872 and 1882 to a Sessions Judge of refraining to give effect to a verdict of which he many disapprove, and of obtaining the judgment of the High Court on the case.

2. It is impossible for us to express any opinion how far this system of trial has been the means for the repression of crime. This system of trial has not been extended throughout Bengal, nor has it been applied to every class of offence, and therefore its effect must be limited. It is, moreover, impossible to distinguish its effect in any districts in which it may be in operation, since the Magistrate's powers of punishment and repression of offences are so large that they must have a very appreciable influence in such a matter. I doubt, moreover, whether the mode of trial, to which he might subject himself, would have any deterring influence on the mind of a person about to commit an offence. The fear of the punishment prescribed by law would rather be present to his mind.

If it can be fairly said that Trial by Jury has any influence on crime in Bengal, I should say that the uncertainty which it imports into the administration of justice would certainly not be calculated to repress crime.

3. To give an answer to this necessitates some discussion and explanation.

The system of Trial by Jury outside Presidency towns was first introduced by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1861, and was extended to some selected districts in Bengal, in regard to certain offences only, in 1862. By that law the verdicts were conclusive, even on appeal, except on a point of law, and it was further provided that there might be a verdict by a majority, provided that that majority was not a bare but an absolute majority of the jurors depending on the number of the persons constituting the jury. Thus, if the jury consisted of five, seven or nine persons, a majority of four, five or six respectively was necessary for a verdict (section 323). If the verdict was not unanimous or of such a majority of the jurors, a re-trial was necessary.

In consequence of numerous well-founded complaints of failure of justice, the Legislature, in the amended Code of 1872, altered the effect and also the constitution of the verdict of a jury. It provided (section 263) that if a Sessions Judge disagreed with the verdict, and considered it necessary for the ends of justice that he should do so, he should not record judgment on that verdict, but should submit the case to the High Court. It further provided that the High Court should deal with a case so submitted as it would with an appeal convicting or acquitting the accused person on the facts as well as law on the charges regarding which the reference might have been made. At the same time, however, the Code of 1872 also enabled a Sessions Judge to receive and pass judgment on the verdict of any majority of the jurors, if he did not so disagree with it. The actual responsibility was thus taken from the jury and placed on the Sessions Judge, and through him on the High Court. In appeal or revision, the verdict of a jury was final except on a point of a law; but in a case submitted for confirmation of sentence of death, it was always open to the High Court to consider and find on the facts, notwithstanding the verdict of a jury.

The Judges of the High Court, however, on any reference so made, refused to consider the case on its merits unless they were first shown that the verdict, which the Sessions Judge had refused to accept, was a perverse or unreasonable verdict; that is to say, they attached more weight to such a verdict than to the opinion of the Sessions Judge who had refused to accept it, because he considered it to be against the weight of evidence. The first case, I believe, in which this view of the law was not adopted, is the case of Empress versus Mukhan Kumar, I, Calcutta Law Reports, 275, decided on June 23rd, 1877, but the practice was not completely changed; it varied according to the inclinations of individual Judges.

The Code of 1882, section 307, provided that if a Sessions Judge should disagree with the verdict so completely that he considered it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he might refer the case to the High Court and abstain from passing judgment upon such verdict. It also provided that, in dealing with a case so submitted, the High Court may exercise any of the powers which it may exercise on an appeal; but it may acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the Jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it.

The practice in this High Court still varied. The matter was fully considered and discussed in the judgment delivered on 29th August 1887, in the case of Empress versus Itwari Saho, Indian Law Reports, XV, Calcutta, 269, but the practice is still unsettled.

I have followed the course of legislation and of our practice at some length to show the difficulties under which Sessions Judges labour in dealing with cases in which they think that the verdicts are contrary to the weight of the evidence. I have strong grounds for knowing that this uncertainty prevents them from referring cases, and that consequently failures of justice not unfrequently occur. I can speak from my own experience as a Sessions Judge, and also from cases brought to my notice since I have occupied a seat in the High Court. To set these difficulties at rest, if there is to be any legislation on the subject, I think that the terms of the law should be made more explicit and clear. My most recent experience as one of the Vacation Judges sitting with Wilson, J., is that there is little, if any, improvement in the verdicts of juries, especially in cases of homicide amounting to murder. Six referred cases were tried by the Vacation Bench, in none of which the verdict was accepted. Three of these were cases of murder, in one of which the jury were for acquittal and in two others they returned verdits only of culpable homicide of the lowest degree. The accused persons in all these cases were convicted by us of murder, the prisoner in one of the last mentioned cases being sentenced to death, the sentences in the other cases being of transportation for life, and in none of these cases could there be any doubt that the jury obstinately refused to convict of murder against the clearest evidence. In the other three cases tried regarding other offences, the verdicts were for acquittal. We convicted in all of these cases. It may also be stated that these six cases came from five different districts. My experience is in accordance with the opinion frequently expressed by the High Court, that in cases of homicide the jury are prone to acquit or take an unreasonably lenient view of the conduct of the accused, while in cases of offences against property they are too ready to convict on weak and doubtful evidence. For these reasons, I think that an amendment of the law is necessary to provide against failures of justice. I have already stated in what respect I would have the law amended as to the practice of the High Court.

I am also of opinion that the law should make it incumbent on every Sessions Judge to refer every case to the High Court in which he does not approve of, or agree with, the verdict of a jury. This is the opinion recently expressed by the Madras High Court in Empress versus Guruvadu and others, I. L. R. 13, Mad. 343.

I am opposed to the introduction of special juries. It would tend to deprive ordinary juries of their best men, and any one conversant with the constitution of juries in the mufassal knows how difficult it is to obtain what is recognised as a good jury. Moreover, there would be the same influences at work which have hitherto injuriously affected verdicts, while from the probable greater weight to be given to the verdict of a special jury, there would be greater disinclination to set such a verdict aside in cases referred to the High Court; for if such weight is now attached to the verdict of an ordinary jury, considered by the Sessions Judge to be contrary to the weight of evidence, what chance would that officer have of obtaining the judgment of the High Court on the evidence if he referred a case of a wrong verdict of a special jury? There would, in my opinion, be no security for a proper verdict against the influences I have mentioned, while the remedy allowed by law would be enforced with greater difficulty. Cases of manifest failure of justice would consequently increase.

The law leaves with the Local Government discretion to fix the number of jurors within certain limits, and I do not suppose that, if any valid reason were shown for increasing that number, the present number would be retained. For my part, I am aware of no objection hitherto made to the present number.

I can see no advantage of returning to the practice of an absolute majority of the jury to complete a verdict. The result would be re-trials without any possible benefit and with much inconvenience and loss of time to all concerned. All this seems to be necessary when such a verdict would be operative with the concurrence of the Sessions Judge, and when, as the law now provides, the case can be dealt with on its merits by the High Court, if the Sessions Judge thinks it necessary to refer it for the ends of justice.

I am also of opinion that the powers of appeal should be relaxed, and that there should be an appeal on the facts, at least, against a verdict which is not an unanimous verdict, whether it be for conviction or acquittal.

Minutes by MR. JUSTICE AMEER ALI and MR JUSTICE O'KINEALY on the questions raised in the Government of India's letter No. 745, dated the 31st May 1890.

THE three points on which the Government of India seeks the opinion of the Judges are the following—1st—How the system has worked in the Lower Provinces and Assam?

2nd—What opinion is entertained as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime?
3rd—What improvements, if any, are called for in its application?

1.—With reference to the first question, I am not in a position to express any opinion as a Judge, for I have not yet had an opportunity of sitting as a member of the Bench taking criminal cases. But from my experience at the Bar, in the course of which I had many opportunities of forming a conclusion as to the merits of the system of trial by jury, I am able to say that the system in question has not satisfactorily answered the object for which it was devised. As I understand the matter, trial by jury and trial with assessors were introduced as a means for the investigation of the real facts of a criminal case. In certain districts juries were introduced, in others assessors, to assist the European Judges, who were supposed to be unacquainted with the customs of the country, in the consideration of particular kinds of cases. These two systems were in substitution of the old system, under which English Judges were assisted by Muhammadan Muftis. At a very early stage the miscarriage of justice, which resulted from perverse verdicts of juries, led to the introduction in the Criminal Procedure Code of the provision which is now embodied in section 307 of Act X of 1882. In cases of homicide, even when the crime is of an atrocious character, Indian jurors are notoriously averse to bringing in a verdict which would submit the accused to capital punishment. In other cases, e.g., dacoity, rape, &c., race-feelings and popular prejudices, beside other influences, play a great part. And in certain districts popular prejudices and race-feelings have, owing to a variety of circumstances, lately become more accentuated, with the result that gross miscarriage of justice has often been occasioned by trials by jury. The notion that section 307 supplies a corrective to the evil is not well-founded; for, in the majority of cases in which Sessions Judges have formed a different conclusion as to the truth of a case, they have refrained from making a reference, and this is borne out by the figures furnished by the Registrar for the five years from 1885 to 1889. This arises partly from the words of the section itself, which declares that, when the Judge disagrees with the verdict of the jury so completely that he considers it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he shall do so, thus throwing a heavy responsibility upon the Judge; and partly from the fact that Sessions Judges are aware that, except in extreme cases, the High Court is loath to interfere with the verdict of a jury, and are naturally averse to submit themselves to rebuffs. Section 307 affords, no doubt, some protection against the vagaries of jurors, but by no means to the extent which, in my opinion, is desirable. In certain kinds of cases conviction, in others acquittal, is a foregone conclusion. Verdicts are not arrived at upon the evidence, but upon prejudices and predilections, and upon what is heard outside the Court. For these reasons I am of opinion that the system of trial by jury requires considerable "improvements in its application" in order to become an efficient agency in the investigation of facts.

2 As regards the second question, if I rightly apprehend its meaning, it is answered in the foregoing observations

3. With reference to the third point, I would suggest, in order to safeguard the liberty of the subject, as well as to meet the requirements of justice, that a right of appeal be given in every case from trial by jury. At present the accused has a right of appeal from a conviction arrived at in a jury trial only on questions of law. There is no right of appeal on facts, and unless the Judge chooses to refer the case under section 307, the injury inflicted by an improper verdict upon a perverse view of the evidence is irremediable. The prosecution, too, is similarly fettered in the case of unjust acquittals. Having regard to the provisions of sections 307 and 309, I perceive no difference, excepting a barely sentimental one, between the position of jurors and assessors. Assessors are primâ facie as well educated as jurors. In my experience in the profession I have found them as intelligent as the general run of mufassal jurors. And it seems to me an anomaly that for the mere sake of a name, there should exist that vast distinction between trials by jurors and trials with the aid of assessors. Under the Procedure Code the accused has a right of appeal, both on facts and law, from a conviction arrived at with the aid of assessors; in case of acquittal the Crown has a right of appeal. Why should not the law be the same in jury trials? Either section 307 is necessary, or it is not. If it is necessary, then, so far as the right of appeal is concerned, the two systems should be assimilated. Of course in a trial by jury the Judge will have the benefit of the opinion of five men instead of two or three. and in case of an appeal from an acquittal, the prestige of the verdict of the jury will tell in favour of the accused in the High Court.

Minute by MR. JUSTICE TREVELYAN on the questions raised in the Government of India's letter No. 745, dated the 31st May 1890.

I HAVE had so little experience of the working of the jury system in the mufassal, that it is difficult for me to express an opinion of any value on the questions referred to us.

What little I have seen, however, is sufficient to show me that in cases of conviction there should be an appeal as of right. In cases of acquittal the Judge should, I think, be compelled to refer whenever he differs from the jury.

E. J. TREVELYAN.

The 19th January 1891.

Minute by MR. JUSTICE NORRIS, MR. JUSTICE GHOSE, and MR. JUSTICE BANERJI on the questions raised in the Government of India's letter No. 745, dated the 31st May 1890.

THE Government of India asks for an expression of our views on three points connected with the working of the jury system, namely—(1), how the system has worked in the Lower Provinces and Assam; (2) what opinion is entertained as to its merits as a means for the repression of crime; and (3) what improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

2. Upon the first point we are of opinion that the system has worked fairly well on the whole—a conclusion which is based upon statistics furnished to us by the Registrar of the High Court, and upon our individual experience, gathered from our having from time to time sat as members of the Criminal Bench.

3. From the statistics supplied to us it appears that there were 1,708 cases tried by jury in Bengal and Assam in the five years from 1885 to 1889. References were made to the High Court under section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in 114 of these cases, that is to say, in 6·67 per cent. In 63 of these references, that is to say, in 55·26 per cent. (or in 3 6 per cent. of the whole number of jury cases), the verdict of the jury was set aside. In 211 out of the above 1,708 cases, the Sessions Judges, although they disagreed with the jury, made no reference to the High Court under section 307. This, we think, we may well presume was owing to their not having so completely disagreed with the verdict of the jury as to lead them to consider "it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court." These facts and figures, we venture to think, warrant our saying that in our opinion the system has worked fairly well upon the whole.

4. The results of our experience lead us to the same conclusion. No doubt some of the references which have come before us have disclosed cases of verdicts which we could not but think were opposed to the weight of evidence, but their number was small: and the instances in which such verdicts were so entirely opposed to the weight of evidence as to justify their being looked upon as perverse were rare. Failure of justice, however, in such cases has been prevented by the operation of section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the provisions of which, as will be seen from the foregoing figures, the Sessions Judges avail themselves of, as, indeed, it is their duty to do, where they consider it necessary for the ends of justice. We are unable to say to what causes verdicts opposed to the weight of evidence were referable; they may have been due in some instances to prejudice on the part of the jury, or to their inability to grasp the numerous details of complicated cases. On the other hand, some of these verdicts may have been due to the Judge's charge being defective.

5. We are not sure that we rightly understand what the Government of India means in inviting an expression of the opinion we entertain "as to the merits of the jury system as a means for the repression of crime." If, as we suppose, it is intended to ask our opinion as to whether the system has favoured the escape of criminals, we should, putting aside exceptional instances, answer in the negative; but if we are asked whether in our opinion the system has been successful in obtaining the conviction of guilty persons, our answer would be in the affirmative. The system would probably occasionally fail in cases of murder but for the provisions of section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. There can, we think, be little or no doubt that popular feeling in these Provinces is opposed to capital punishment, except for cases of revolting brutality, or such as, in addition to involving death, outrage the highest religious precepts; and unless the evidence is absolutely clear and direct, the fear that an adverse verdict will be followed by a capital sentence does in some cases operate to induce a jury on insufficient grounds to acquit altogether, or to find a verdict of culpable homicide not amounting to murder. But the provisions of section 307 above alluded to, which we think are sufficiently explicit and clear, render the risk of a failure of justice in such cases almost inappreciable.

6. We think the Jury system would be improved by the adoption of the following suggestions, viz.—

(a) That where practicable, offences punishable with death, or any other offences which the Sessions Judge may direct to be so tried, should be tried by a special jury.

(b) That where practicable, the number of the jury should be seven, and that no verdict should be received unless concurred in by five out of the seven; that where the jury consists of five, no verdict should be received unless concurred in by four out of the five.

(c) That if the law as to receiving the verdict of a bare majority remains unaltered, an appeal upon the facts (as well as that now allowed on the law) should be allowed against all convictions where the jury are not unanimous.

The 13th January 1891.

Minute by MR. JUSTICE BEVERLEY, on the questions raised in the Government of India's letter No. 745, dated the 31st May 1890.

ON the first question on which our opinion is asked by the Government of India, I have little to add to what I wrote in 1884. I am of opinion that the system of trial by jury in the mufassal has worked well on the whole, but that instances of wrong verdicts do occasionally occur, specially in certain classes of cases. I am also of opinion that section 307 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provides a wise and necessary safeguard against the miscarriage of justice in such cases, and I agree with Prinsep, J., in thinking that the provisions of that section should be made more stringent.

2. As to the merits of the system as a means for the repression of crime, it seems to me that it is difficult to form an opinion. I should think it extremely improbable that a murderer or a dacoit before committing the offence would sit down to consider whether in the event of his being apprehended he would be tried by a Judge sitting with assessors or by a Judge and jury. On the other hand, the employment of juries to try criminal cases does tend to disseminate a knowledge of the Criminal Law, and such extended knowledge, it may be presumed, must have a tendency to repress crime. A statistical test of the merits or demerits of the jury system as bearing upon the repression of crime might be afforded by a comparison of the statistics of heinous crime before and after the introduction of the system in 1862, or by a comparison of the statistics of such crime in jury districts and those districts in which the system has not been introduced. But any such statistical comparison would seem to be impracticable, and even if practicable it would be by no means conclusive.

3. On the third point I agree with Prinsep, J., that it should be made compulsory on Sessions Judges under Section 307 to refer to the High Court every case in which the Judge is not prepared to accept the verdict of the jury, and that it should be distinctly laid down that it is the duty of the High Court in such references to determine the case on the merits in the same way as on an appeal from a sentence passed in a trial by a Sessions Judge with assessors. If this were done, I am of opinion that no charge is required in the law of appeal.

4. I am opposed to the introduction of special juries into the mufassal, as well as to the proposal to increase the number of the jury.

H. BEVERLEY.

[No. 20.]

No. 14JG, dated Calcutta, the 18th February 1891.

From—A. SMITH, ESQ., Commissioner of the Presidency Division,
To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

IN continuation of this office No. 106JG, dated the 16th October last, and with reference to your No. 424J, dated the 27th ultimo, I have the honour to report that the only other districts in this Division in which the jury system prevails are the 24-Parganas and Murshidabad. The Magistrates of these districts have submitted statements showing the results of sessions trials in them, the former for the five years from 1885 to 1889, and the latter for the ten years from 1880 to 1889. Copies of these statements I enclose. In the 24-Parganas these results are generally satisfactory, while in Murshidabad they are very poor. The satisfactory results in the former are ascribed to two causes. The first is that in this district the Crown is more efficiently represented in sessions trial than in most districts of the mufassal. There is now a special public prosecutor who does no civil work for Government, but is exclusively employed in the conduct of criminal cases, which are unusually numerous, having averaged more than 90 per annum during the last five years. The remuneration attached to the office is thus sufficient to attract pleaders of good standing in their profession. It is the opinion of Babu Bunkim Chunder Chatterjee, an experienced and capable Deputy Magistrate, that the bad results in jury trials in the mufassal are greatly due to the superiority of the legal talent available for the defence over that for the prosecution, and Mr. Bolton thinks that the results would be greatly improved if in jury districts the emoluments of the Government pleader were enhanced so as to secure the services of the best legal talent locally available.

2. Another, I think, very important cause of the good results obtained in the district is that the class from which jurymen are drawn is both larger and of better material than in the mufassal. Even in the 24-Parganas there are complaints that improper persons are appointed, but in the mufassal things are much worse.

3. To these causes specified by the local officers, I would add the fact that the ablest and most experienced Judges, Magistrates and police officers are generally posted to the 24-Parganas, and that the larger publicity secured by the proximity of a large number of newspapers and the stronger public opinion are not without influence.

4. Mr. Luson, the Magistrate of Murshadabad, writing on this subject observes as follows:—

"My own opinion is that in simple and short cases concerning offences against property, native jurors are not liable to make many mistakes; but that in serious and complicated cases, such as murder, dacoity, &c., they being quite untrained as judges, become confused, and consequently give verdicts for the accused. Scarcely any spectacle, it seems to me, can be more painful than that of a body of ignorant men sitting as jurors at a trial extended through many days as is often the case, with their mental balance completely disturbed by the complicated procedure of the courts and the methods of the legal advisers of the parties, especially as the wrong decision of the case may involve the peace and security of a large tract for years."

5. Both Messrs. Bolton and Luson are of opinion that an improvement in the personnel of juries is necessary. In order to effect this improvement it is suggested that a property and educational qualification should be prescribed for jurors, and as this would reduce the number of eligible jurors, it is suggested that the number of the jury should be reduced from five to three. Mr. Bolton, however, does not approve of this proposal. He suggests that section 276, Criminal Procedure Code, should be extended so that the system of special juries may be applied in the mufassal. He observes that from the list of common jurors a smaller list of special jurors may be prepared, for whom a somewhat high property and educational qualification should be prescribed, and it may be enacted that on the application of the prosecution or of the accused, in cases of exceptional importance or difficulty, it should be within the discretion of the Sessions Judge to grant a special jury. Mr. Bolton also suggests that each special juror should be allowed a fee of (say) Rs. 16 a day for his services. This may give rise to a class of professional jurymen; but in his opinion if payments are confined to special jurors, and if these are not permitted to serve oftener than once in 12 months, the danger will be avoided.

6. The Magistrate of the 24-Parganas further suggests that officers employed in drawing up jury lists should be enjoined to include only persons whose character and position are beyond question. Muktears and hangers-on of the courts should, he thinks, on no account be admitted; but in his opinion there is no objection to pleaders being included.

7. The Magistrate of Murshidabad is of opinion that trials by jury should be confined only to offences under sections 363, 366, 368, 369, 379, 380, 381, 382, 384, 385, 392, 393, 403, 404, 406, 407, 408, 411, 412, 414-417, 420, 457-459, 461, 462, 493-498 of the Indian Penal Code. Mr. Bolton, however, observes that if the special jury system be introduced, he does not think that any class of offences now triable by jury in Bengal, even murder and culpable homicide, should be withdrawn. On the other hand, he thinks there are certain offences not now triable by jury, such as offences under Chapter XV (religion), XX (marriage), XXI (defamation), and XXII (criminal intimidation), which may, with advantage, be made so triable.

8. Mr. Luson observes that there is a very decided opinion held by many that the Calcutta High Court have set themselves against interfering under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code, with the verdicts of juries on being moved to do so, and quotes the following dictum given in the case of Sham Bagdi, 20 W. R., 74:—

"If the High Court is to interfere in every case of doubt in any case in which it may with propriety be said that the evidence would have warranted a different verdict, then it must be held that trial by jury is absolutely at an end." If the High Court dealt with the cases referred to them under section 307, Criminal Procedure Code, more upon their merits, he thinks that fewer miscarriages of justice would take place, jurors would feel themselves constrained to exercise more conscientious deliberation, and the jury system would be less discredited.

9. My own opinion is that the system of trial by jury is not under existing circumstances a good one even in England, and is still less suited to the circumstances of India. I can see no advantage in removing the decision of questions of fact from a Judge, who has probably spent the greater part of the working days of his life in weighing evidence and deciding on it, and whose large experience consequently qualifies him in every way to decide correctly, and vesting it in a body of men who, if not ignorant or corrupt, have certainly had no judicial experience or training. From the excessive regard for technicality, which too frequently influences trained lawyers, such a body will doubtless be free; but this hardly operates substantially to improve the administration of justice, because the technicalities are generally in the domain of law, and have to be dealt with by the Judge on the questions of fact with which they have to deal. A capable jury will, in a rough kind of way, arrive at a conclusion which, in many cases, and particularly in the simpler ones, will probably be the right one. It is all the more likely to be so if the Judge indicates what the decision should be, and the jurors accept his counsel. It is, however, hardly to be doubted that when they differ the decision of the trained Judge is the more likely to be correct. The probability varies according to the degree of capability of the jury. I would be inclined to vest the decision in the Judge. Whether the decision be so vested or not, it would, in my opinion, be largely in the interests of justice to reduce greatly the present excessive latitude of appeal allowed in criminal cases. There is no appeal in England, and the courts here are in these times, whatever they may have been formerly, quite competent and honest as the corresponding courts at home. They have the advantage of seeing the parties and the witnesses, and are thus in a much better position to determine truly than the superior courts. Where the two differ on a question of fact, it is very far from probable that the judgment of the Court which has the least opportunity of judging rightly is the more correct.

[No. 21.]

No. 122J—D, dated Darjeeling, the 22nd June 1891.

From—Sir John Edgar, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal,
To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

I am directed to acknowledge your letter No. 742, dated the 31st May 1890, asking the Lieutenant-Governor to report how the jury system has worked in the Lower Provinces, what opinion is entertained as to its merits as a means of repression of crime, and what improvements, if any, are called for in its application.

2. This Government has consulted the Sessions Judges and the District Officers of the districts in which the system is in force, as well as the Commissioners of the Divisions in which these districts are situated, and the Inspector-General of Police. Copies of the reports received are enclosed.* The Lieutenant-Governor has also considered the seven Minutes of the Judges of the High Court, which were forwarded to you with the Registrar's letter No. 540 of the 9th February 1891.

From Mr. E. V. Westmacott, Officiating Commissioner of the Presidency Division, No. 106J.G., dated the 16th October 1890.
From Mr. G. Toynbee, Officiating Commissioner of Burdwan, No. 201T.J.—292J.G., dated the 31st October 1890.
From Mr. T. D. Beighton, District and Sessions Judge of Dacca, No. 45, dated the 16th January 1891.
From Mr. A. Smith, Commissioner of the Presidency Division, No. 14JG, dated the 18th February 1891.

3. It will be seen from the reports and the Minutes of the Judges of the High Court above referred to, that the majority of the most experienced Judges and officers consulted emphatically condemn the system as at present worked in Bengal, and that all are of opinion that it is capable of improvement. The Chief Justice, though unwilling to express any opinion unfavourable to the existence of the system, thinks that an extension of the right of appeal from the verdicts of juries is desirable. Mr. Justice Tottenham is of opinion that, looking at the system as a whole, the results as tested by figures are not satisfactory, and that the system should be reduced nearer to the level of a trial by assessors only. Messrs. Prinsep, Wilson, Pigot and Macpherson state that the system has not been altogether successful in its results, and that improvement is necessary. Messrs. Amir Ali and O'Kinealy write that the system has not satisfactorily answered the object for which it was devised ; that in cases of homicide even when the crime is of an atrocious character, Indian jurors are averse from bringing in a verdict which would subject the accused to capital punishment; that in other cases, e.g. dacoity, rape, &c., race-feelings and popular prejudices play a great part, with the result that gross miscarriage of justice has often been occasioned by trials by jury; that in certain kinds of cases conviction, in others acquittal, is a foregone conclusion; and that the system of trial by jury requires considerable improvement in its application, in order to become an efficient agency in the investigation of facts. Mr. Justice Trevelyan thinks improvement necessary in allowing appeal as of right and in compelling the Judge to refer to the High Court cases in which he differs from the jury. Messrs. Norris, Ghose and Banerjee, quoting the same returns as Mr. Justice Tottenham, say that they venture to think the facts and figures warrant their saying that the system has worked well on the whole, and that the results of their experience lead them to the same conclusion, but that some of the references which have come before them have disclosed cases of verdicts which they could not but think were opposed to the weight of the evidence. Mr. Justice Beverely thinks that although the system in the mufassal has worked fairly well on the whole, instances of wrong verdicts occasionally occur, especially in certain classes of cases. The four Divisional Commissioners consulted are entirely opposed to the system. The Commissioners of the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions would abolish it altogether, and the Commissioner of Dacca would substitute assessors for jurors. The Commissioner of Patna states that he concurs with the general opinion that the system is not suited to the country. The Inspector-General of Police thinks that it is not worth continuing the system even under restrictions. Of the nine Sessions Judges consulted, seven pronounce trial by jury to have been a failure. Of the two Judges who express themselves favourably of the institution, one states that it is difficult to get juries to convict in capital cases, whereas there is a tendency to convict old offenders and dacoits on the slenderest evidence; and the other says that many a verdict of acquittal is given simply because the jury consider that the prisoner has suffered sufficiently before trial, and because they are afraid that a verdict of guilty will be followed by a punishment out of all proportion to the offence. None of the Magistrates of jury districts—except the Magistrate of the 24-Parganas—speak at all favourably of trial by jury: some of these officers express themselves very strongly against it: thus Mr. Romesh Chunder Dutt, Magistrate of Burdwan, writes: "During the short time I have been in Burdwan, the jury system has worked in a manner most detrimental to the interests of justice and the repression of crime."

4. The statistics before Government, which show the results of jury trials, are of great significance. In an article published in the January number of the Calcutta Review for 1888, Mr. Beighton, now Judge of Dacca, points out that of 1,060 jury trials in Bengal in the four years 1882-85, the Sessions Judge dissented in 249 cases, or 23·5 per cent. From the minutes of Mr. Justice Tottenham and Messrs. Norris, Ghose and Bannerjee, it appears that of the 1,708 cases tried by jury in Bengal and Assam in the five years 1885-89, the Sessions Judge disapproved of the verdicts in 325 cases, or about 20 per cent., and referred 114 cases, or 6·7 per cent., to the High Court, who set aside the verdicts in 63 cases, or 3·6 per cent A very remarkable fact is stated in Mr. Justice Prinsep's Minute, that six cases were referred from five different districts during the last vacation, and that Mr. Justice Wilson and he refused to accept the findings of the juries in any of them, holding that "in none of these cases could there be any doubt that the jury obstinately refused to commit of murder against the clearest evidence." The Officiating Judge of Dacca shows that in the years 1887, 1888 and 1889, the Sessions Judge of that district disagreed in part or whole with the findings in one in three of the 124 cases tried by jury, but he only ventured to refer 12 of these, in seven of which the High Court reversed the verdicts given. The Commissioner of Dacca refers to a scandalous case tried in 1884 in the Dacca district, and notices four cases in 1888 in which the High Court set aside the findings of the juries. In Nadiya, where the system has not been so condemned as elsewhere, the Sessions Judge disagreed in 177 or 11·3 per cent. out of 1,563 cases tried since 1862. A large number of figures has been given showing the proportions of acquittals and convictions by juries, as compared with acquittals and convictions in non-jury districts; but the Lieutenant-Governor does not desire to lay much weight upon these. He thinks the verdicts should be judged by the proportion of cases in which the Sessions Judges have dissented or the High Court interfered, and in considering such cases, it is necessary to bear in mind the reverence with which the system of trial by jury is regarded in England, and the consequent bias which exists in the minds of English Judges against disagreeing with the verdicts of juries. This feeling is given expression to in the ruling of the Calcutta High Court in the case of Sham Bagdi, 20 W. R. 74, as follows:—"If the High Court is to interfere in every case of doubt in any case in which it may with propriety be said that the evidence would have warranted a different verdict, then it must be held that trail by jury is absolutely at an end." Taking this in consideration, the figures given above are much more telling than they at first appear.

5. A careful consideration of the opinions and figures now obtained leaves no doubt in Sir Charles Elliott's mind of the failure of the jury system in these Provinces in its present shape. It would be scarcely possible to obtain opinions from a large number of men more nearly approaching to unanimity than is the condemnation of the jury system in Bengal contained in the reports and Minutes above referred to; and it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor that there can be no more convincing proof of its failure than this. His Honour thinks that if the result could have been foreseen, no advocate would have been found for the introduction of this Western institution into India. But as it has been introduced, and is prized as a rudimentary beginning of giving power to the people, Sir Charles Elliott deems it indavisable on political grounds that it should be abolished altogether, but he would take early steps to make such changes in its working as seem best calculated to limit the injury to justice which it entails.

6. All the Judges of the High Court are agreed upon one point, viz., that some extension of the right of appeal should be made. Messrs. Prinsep, Wilson, Pigot, and Macpherson recommend that there should be an appeal on the facts, at least against a verdict which is not a unanimous verdict, whether it be for a conviction or not. This is much the same as a suggestion made by Messrs. Norris, Ghose, and Banerjee, and none of the other Judges seem opposed to it. The Lieutenant-Governor accepts with a slight modification the recommendation on this point in Mr. Justice Prinsep's minute, and would amend the law so as to provide that there should be an appeal on the facts whenever the jury is not unanimous, unless the Judge records his agreement with the majority.

7. Still more important is the proposal that section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code should be amended so as to make it incumbent on the Sessions Judge to refer to the High Court every case in which he differs in opinion from a jury. This is the opinion of Messrs. Prinsep, Wilson, Pigot, Macpherson, Trevelyan and Beverley. There can be little doubt that if the reference in such cases were made obligatory by the law, one effect would be to counteract the tendency of the High Court "to refuse to interfere with verdicts unless satisfied that they were altogether perverse or otherwise insupportable." Those are the words of Mr. Justice Tottenham; and Mr. Prinsep's minute, which is concurred in by three more High Court Judges, shows that the practice of the High Court in dealing with references is still unsettled, that the uncertainty prevents Sessions Judges from referring cases in which they think that the verdicts are contrary to the weight of the evidence, and that consequently failures of justice not unfrequently occur. Sir Charles Elliott entirely agrees to make references compulsory in all such cases.

8. It has also been suggested by several of the most experienced Sessions Judges that section 303 of the Criminal Procedure Code should be altered so as to make it incumbent upon the Judge to ascertain and record fully the reasons of the jury for their verdict. It is pointed out that as long as the right of interference with a verdict exists, the reasons which guide a jury to a certain finding are among the most important elements in arriving at a conclusion whether a verdict is reasonable or not. His Honour is disposed to favour the proposal, because it is a simple but reasonable way of enabling the Judge to be sure that he ought to disagree with the jury.

9. Several of the Hon'ble Judges and the great majority of the officers consulted are of opinion that the system of trial by jury in Bengal is particularly unfitted for certain classes of cases, especially those relating to murder. Sir Charles Elliott is aware that the power of withdrawing classes of offences from juries rests with the Local Government; but as the Government of India has referred the question specially for the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion he deems it better to submit his views, and not to give effect to them on his own authority. His Honour would withdraw the whole of Chapter VIII of the Indian Penal Code, offences relating to public tranquillity, the whole of Chapter XVI, offences against the human body, except those triable by jury in the North-Western Provinces, viz., kidnapping, abduction, and rape, and also the whole of Chapter XVIII, offences relating to documents and trade-marks. He would leave to juries all Chapter XVII, offences relating to property, and would add to their power Chapter XX, offences relating to marriage. Sir Charles Elliott considers the evidence adduced clearly points to the necessity of making the withdrawals proposed.

10. A great deal has been said by Sessions Judges and local officers concerning the personnel of jurors, and suggestions have been made that some qualifications as to property, education, and respectability, should be laid down by law. The Lieutenant-Governor conceives that it is possible that suitable men have not been selected for jurors in many districts; but His Honour thinks that this is due to the failure of the Judges and of the other officers associated with them under section 321 of the Criminal Procedure Code, to take care that only qualified persons are entered in the jury lists prepared by them, and he proposes to impress strongly on all Judges in jury districts that under the law they are primarily responsible in this matter. In some districts where suitable men are difficult to obtain the local Government might with advantage fix the number of jurymen at a trial at three instead of five as at present. This matter will be separately considered. His Honour thinks it neither necessary nor desirable to reserve any class of cases for special jurors, especially if capital cases are no longer to be triable by jury. Careful calculations should be made of the number of jurymen likely to be required in a jury district every year, and care should be taken that the most suitable men up to that number are entered in the lists. The Lieutenant-Governor would raise the limit of age to 25, but cannot see his way to advising that any rules as to qualifications should be prescribed by law.

11. Sir Charles Elliott hopes that if the various improvements suggested in this letter are adopted, the almost universal complaints of failures of justice in some of the most serious cases under the criminal law will cease, and that this reform will be effected without much outcry from the educated classes.

[No. 22.]

No. 1107, dated Simla, the 25th August 1892.

From—C. J. Lyall, Esq., c.i.e., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,

To—The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

I am directed to reply to Sir John Edgar's letter No. 122J.-D., dated the 22nd June 1891, forwarding, with enclosures, a report on the working of the jury system in Sessions Courts in the Lower Provinces of Bengal. Your confidential letter No. 4675J., dated the 21st December 1891, is replied to at the same time.

2. It is understood that under existing orders the jury system is in force in Bengal in the districts of Burdwan, 24-Parganas, Hooghly, Howrah, Murshidabad, Nadia, Dacca and Patna, and that all offences under the Penal Code which fall within Chapter VIII (offences against public tranquillity), Chapter XI (false evidence and offences against public justice), Chapter XVI (offences against the person), Chapter XVII (offences against property), and Chapter XVIII (false documents and offences against property marks), and also attempts to commit and abetments of these offences (Chapters V and XXIII) are triable by jury before the Court of Session.

3. The result of the recent inquiry, so far as Lower Bengal is concerned, is to show that the system of trial by jury, as hitherto carried out, has worked in an eminently unsatisfactory manner. The opinions of District Executive and Judicial officers and of Divisional Commissioners are almost unanimous in its condemnation. In this conclusion the Local Government concurs. On such a question, however, the Governor-General in Council has felt bound to attach the greatest importance to the opinions expressed by the Judges of the Calcutta High Court. The Judges have been unable to formulate a reply which would represent their views as a body, and have recorded separate minutes on the subject; but the balance of opinion, as given in their minutes, in distinctly unfavourable in regard to the manner in which the system has worked in Bengal and Assam. The only opinions at all favourable are embodied in a joint minute recorded by the Honourable Justices Norris, Ghosh, and Bannerjee, and in a separate minute by Mr. Justice Beverley. The Honourable Justices Amir Ali and O'Kinealy condemn the system. Mr. Justice Tottenham considers that it has worked unsatisfactorily, and suggests that capital cases should be withdrawn from juries. The Honourable Justices Prinsep, Wilson, Pigot and Macpherson also consider that the system, as at present in force, has worked unsatisfactorily, but think that it is capable of improvement of certain substantial changes of law and procedure are made. The Honourable the Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Trevelyan have abstained from giving an opinion on the merits of the question. It is observed that even those Judges who report favourably on the system rely to a great extent on the provisions of section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code as a safeguard against failures of justice, and that practically all the Judges are inclined to the opinion that some action should be taken in the direction of granting a right of appeal on the facts or of adopting other measures for rendering the verdicts of juries less final than they are at present.

4. The Government of India have also observed that the Committee* recently appointed under the orders of the Lieutenant-Governor to enquire into the question of police administration in the Lower Provinces have unanimously condemned the jury system in the mufassal. In paragraph 209 of their Report are the following remarks :—

* Mr. John Beames, President.
,, J. F. Stevens.
,, J. C. Veasey.
,, E. Macnaghten.
Raja Peary Mohan Mookerjee, C.S.I.
Mr. H. H. Risley, C.I.E.
} Members.

The conclusion seems inevitable that the jury system is responsible for a not inconsiderable number of failures of justice. We think that some restriction of the system in Bengal is desirable in the interests of public justice, and we would suggest that cases of murder and culpable homicide, in which its failure is notoriously most conspicuous (as also it is most serious in its results), should be excluded from its operation.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor's general conclusions are summed up in paragraph 5 of Sir John Edgar's letter under reply, in which it is stated that "a careful consideration of the opinions and figures now obtained leaves no doubt in Sir Charles Elliott's mind of the failure of the jury system in its present shape. It would scarcely be possible to obtain opinions from a large number of men more nearly approaching to unanimity than is the condemnation of the jury system contained in the reports and minutes above referred to; and it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor that there can be no more convincing proof of its failure than this. His Honour thinks that if the result could have been foreseen no advocate would have been found for the introduction of this Western institution into India." As, however, it has been introduced, Sir Charles Elliott would not abolish it, but he would take steps to make such changes in its working as are essential to secure the due administration of justice.

The proposals of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor for amending the law with a view to remove the defects which exist in the present system of trial by jury are, briefly stated, as follows :—

(1) that a reference to the High Court should be made compulsory in all cases in which the Sessions Judge thinks that the verdict of a jury is contrary to the weight of the evidence;
(2) that it should be made incumbent upon the Sessions Judge to ascertain and fully record the reasons of the jury for their verdict; and
(3) that a right of appeal should be granted on the facts against the verdict of a jury, when the jury is not unanimous, unless the Judge records his agreement with the majority.

The first and third proposals are based on the minutes recorded by Mr. Justice Prinsep and other Honourable Judges of the Calcutta High Court; and the second on the suggestions of experienced Sessions Judges. The result of the changes recommended by the Lieutenant-Governor would be to extend the power of modifying or reversing the verdicts of jurors, and thus to reduce trial by jury more to the level of trial by assessors as regulated by the Code of Criminal Procedure.

6. His Honour further proposes to withdraw from the list of cases triable by juries the whole of Chapter VIII of the Penal Code, offences relating to public tranquillity; the whole of Chapter XVI, officers relating to the human body, except those which are now triable by jury in the North-Western Provinces, viz. kidnapping, abduction, and rape; and the whole of Chapter XVIII, offences relating to documents and trade marks. On the other hand, he would add to the list offences under Chapter XX relating to marriage. The list of offences which would then be triable by jury would apparently include the following classes of cases:—Chapter XI, false evidence and offences against public justice; the offences of kidnapping, abduction, and rape, sections 363—369, 372, 373 and 376 in Chapter XVI (all other offences in this Chapter being omitted); Chapter XVII, offences against property; and Chapter XX, offences against marriage ; and also abetments of and attempts to commit any of the above offences (Chapters V and XXIII). It is within the competence of the Local Government to make these changes on its own authority under section 269 of the Criminal Procedure Code, but His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor has thought it best in the first instance to place his views before the Government of India.

7. I am now to communicate the conclusions at which the Governor-General in Council has arrived after careful consideration of the entire question. In the opinion of His Excellency in Council, derived from a review of the reports from other Provinces as well as from Bengal, the defects of the present system of trial by jury appear to be mainly attributable to two causes—

(1) to the extension of the jury system (a) to areas to which it is unsuitable, and (b) to classes of offences which, as the experience now gained has shown, ought not to be cognizable by juries;

(2) to the fact that the provisions of section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code, which were intended to give Sessions Judges and the High Courts power to remedy and correct wrong verdicts, have failed to fulfil this intention.

8. As regards the first of these causes, section 269 of the Criminal Procedure Code confers on Local Governments and Administrations complete liberty of action in respect of the determination of the areas within which offences shall be tried by juries, as well as of the classes of offences which shall be so triable. The Governor-General in Council has no desire to interfere with or to limit by legislation or otherwise the discretion entrusted to Local Governments in the matter; but he is constrained to express his concurrence in the Lieutenant-Governor's view that cases of murder and culpable homicide should be withdrawn from the cognizance of juries, and he is further inclined to agree in the view that cases of rioting under Chapter VIII of the Penal Code should be withdrawn. His Excellency in Council has no doubt that the action which His Honour proposes to take for the revision of the list of offences triable by jury in Bengal, as described in paragraph 6 above, is fully justified by the results reported.

9. The difficulty under the second head seems to arise from the interpretation which Sessions Judges and Judges of the various High Courts place or have placed on their duty in making or dealing with references under section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code. In many instances a strong disinclination has been exhibited by the High Courts to interfere with the verdicts of juries, and as a consequence Sessions Judges are often reluctant to make references under this section. It has been proposed by the Governments of Madras and Bengal that the law should be so amended as to make such references compulsory in every case in which a Sessions Judge disagrees from the verdict of the jury. The Governor-General in Council is, however, unwilling to adopt this course. Section 307 in its present form prescribes that the Sessions Judge shall refer such cases when he considers that there has been a substantial failure of justice, and it confers on the High Court the fullest power to deal with such references. It does not seem to the Government of India to be desirable that the Judge should be bound to refer cases in which the failure of justice is not quite clear—such as cases in which he differs from the jury on some minor point, or those in which the evidence is possibly so nearly balanced that even trained Judges might differ in their conclusions on it. His Excellency in Council has not overlooked the fact that there is a strong body of opinion among the Honourable Judges of the Calcutta and Madras High Courts in favour of the proposal in question; but on the whole he would prefer not to make an alteration in the law which might have the effect of encouraging unnecessary references. If the practice of the High Court is based on the principles laid down in 1887 by Prinsep and Pigot, JJ., in the case of Itwári Sasu* no such alteration of the law is required; while on the other hand, if a different and narrower practice is allowed to prevail, the mere fact of a reference under section 307 being obligatory on the Sessions Judge would probably not affect the view which the High Court is likely to take of its duty in dealing with those references.

* I. L. R., 15 Calcutta, 269.

10. It has however been suggested by the Bengal Government that in order to facilitate the disposal of references under section 307 of the Code, the Sessions Judge should be specifically empowered or required to ascertain and record the reasons of the jury for their verdict. The Governor-General in Council admits that the present system is defective in so far as the Judge, although bound by the Code to refer to the High Court cases in which he considers this course to be necessary for the ends of justice, is not in a position to place before the High Court in a proper shape materials for determining whether the verdict is a wrong one or not. His Excellency in Council, however, is averse to requiring or authorizing Sessions Judges to question juries as to the reasons for their verdict, except in cases already provided for by section 303 of the Code. In the first place no room should be allowed for anything approaching to a cross-examination of the jury. Besides, not only would it be difficult for untrained men, such as the jurors would be in most cases, to formulate their reasons in a satisfactory shape, but it is doubtful whether a mere statement of their reasons would help materially towards the disposal of the case. It seems to the Government of India that a statement of the facts found by the jury, rather than of the reasons for their finding, is what is desired for the purpose of enabling a satisfactory decision to be arrived at as to the correctness of their verdict. His Excellency in Council would therefore adopt the alternative proposal made by the Judges of the Bombay High Court* and amend the law so as to empower the Sessions Judge, if he thinks fit, whether before or after a general verdict has been taken, to require special verdicts from the jurors on particular issues of fact, and perhaps on the general credibility of particular evidence. Such an amendment of section 303 would be sufficient both to place the Sessions Judge in a position to decide whether a reference should or should not be made to the High Court under section 307, and to furnish the High Court with proper materials for determining whether the verdict is one which should be upheld or not. This point has accordingly been noted for further consideration when the Criminal Procedure Code may next come under revision.

11. Lastly as to the question of allowing an appeal on the facts from the verdict of a jury. The concession of a right of appeal in one form or another is advocated by the Bengal Government, by a strong majority of the Judges of the Calcutta High Court, and by some of the Judges of the Madras High Court; and it has been forcibly contended that mistakes on the part of a jury, like other supposed judicial errors, should be left to be brought before the appellate Court by the parties concerned instead of by the presiding Judge. Accordingly, the Government of India have very anxiously considered whether section 418 of the Code should not be amended by allowing an appeal on the facts either when the jury is not unanimous and the Judge does not approve of the verdict of the majority, or when the opinion of the jury is unanimous but the Judge expresses a positive disapproval. The latter rule would be in accordance with section 307 as it now stands, while the former would do little more than extend to Sessions Courts mutatis mutandis the rule which prevails in High Courts under section 305.

But after due deliberation, and while attaching full weight to the expressions of opinion above quoted, the Governor-General in Council has come to the conclusion that it is not expedient, at all events without some further trial, to permit an appeal to be made against the decision of a jury. It is not clear to His Excellency in Council what advantage there would be in retaining the jury system at all, if it is to be reduced so nearly to the level of a trial with assessors; and he is reluctant to abolish the distinctive feature of trial by jury, the comparative finality of the verdict, until all other available methods for the improvement of the system have been exhausted. The Government of India are, moreover, of opinion that no such change in the law as that involved in the proposal under consideration will be really necessary if cases which have been shown by experience to be unsuitable for trial before juries are removed from their cognizance, and if, in addition to this, the safeguard against failures of justice aleady provided by section 307 of the Criminal Procedure Code is strengthened in the manner proposed in the preceding paragraph.

12. With these remarks I am to commend the subject to the consideration of the Bengal Government, and to suggest that such action as the Lieutenant-Governor may consider necessary should be taken under section 269 of the Criminal Procedure Code. The Government of India will be glad to be informed in due course of the action taken by His Honour in the matter.

NOTIFICATION.

The 20th October 1892.—It is hereby notified for general information that, in the exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 269 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to modify the orders contained in the notifications, dated the 7th January, the 27th May, and the 13th October 1862, published in the Calcutta Gazettes of the 8th January, the 28th May, and the 15th October 1862, respectively, under which offences defined in following chapters of the Indian Penal Code, viz.—

Chapter VIII (offences against the public tranquillity),
„ XI (false evidence and offences against public justice),
„ XVI (offences affecting the human body),
„ XVII (offences against property), and
„ XVIII (offences relating to documents and to trade or property marks), and abetments of, and attempts to commit, such offences, are declared to be triable by jury in any Court of Sessions established in the districts of the 24-Parganas, Hooghly, Burdwan, Murshidabad, Nadia, Patna, and Dacca; and hereby revokes so much of the aforesaid orders as apply to offences defined in the following chapters of the Indian Penal Code, viz.—

Chapter VIII (offences against the public tranquillity),
„ XVI (offences affecting the human body), with the exception of sections 363 to 369 (kidnapping and abduction), 372 (selling a minor for purposes of prostitution, &c.), 373 (buying a minor for purposes of prostitution, &c.), and 376 (rape), and „ XVIII (offences relating to documents and to trade or property marks).

These orders shall take effect from and after the 1st November 1892.

The Lieutenant-Governor is further pleased, in exercise of the powers conferred on him under section 269 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, to direct that from and after the 1st November 1892 all offences defined in Chapter XX of the Indian Penal Code (offences relating to marriage), and abetments of, and attempts to commit, such offences, shall be triable by jury in any Court of Sessions established in the districts named above.

[No. 24.]

No. 917J—D, dated Darjeeling, the 24th October 1892.

From—H. J. S. Cotton, Esq., c.s.i., Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal,
To—The Sessions Judges of the 24-Parganas, Hooghly, Burdwan, Murshidabad Nádia, Patna and Dacca.

In continuation of my memorandum No. 907J—D, dated 20th October 1892, forwarding, for your information, a copy of a notification of the same date, which has been issued by the Lieutenant-Governor, effecting certain alterations in the classes of cases triable by a jury in those districts of Bengal to which the jury system has been extended, I am directed to invite your attention to the necessity for a careful revision of the jury list of your district.

2. In the course of correspondence on the subject of the working of the jury system, many representations have been made to Government by Sessions Judges and other officers concerning the personnel of jurors, and suggestions have been made that some standard of qualification as to property, education, and respectability should be laid down by law. It was explained in this Government circular No. 9J, dated 13th April 1886, that under the existing law all qualified male persons, European and Native, between the ages of 21 and 60, in a jury district, not being exempted under section 320 of the Criminal Procedure Code, are liable to serve as jurors. This does not, however, interfere with the discretion of the Judges and Collectors sitting together, to select "qualified" persons for this service under section 321 of the Code. It was laid down by this Government, in the Circular on the subject issued as long ago as the 13th June 1865, that the duty of selecting jurors should not be delegated to any incompetent or irresponsible subordinate, and that every endeavour should be made to bring into the list only respectable and intelligent men of all classes. It was added that it was the duty of those responsible for the preparation of the lists to represent and practically to treat the duty of a juror as one of great responsibility and trust, and to make jurors feel that their co-operation in the administration of justice is sought for as a means of conferring a benefit on their countrymen, and not merely to assist the Judges in their labours. These observations the Lieutenant-Governor desires to repeat and emphasise, and he is convinced that if the power of selection is judiciously exercised, the number of persons found to possess suitable qualifications will still be sufficient for the requirements of any Sessions district.

3. I am to request that each of the Sessions Judges to whom this circular is addressed will arrange a day which shall be mutually convenient to himself and to the Collector of the district, in the latter part of December of each year, and that the two officers sitting together will draw up a list of qualified persons to serve on the jury during the next calendar year, care being taken to place on the list only persons of such character and intelligence as are likely to give material assistance in carrying out the ends of justice.

4. In conclusion, I am to say that, in His Honour's opinion, no person should ordinarily be selected to serve on a jury whose age is less than 25 years.

This certificate must be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate resides, or if in Calcutta by the Resident Physician or the Resident Surgeon of the Calcutta Medical College Hospital. The fee for medical examination will in all cases be Rs. 4.

(5) That he is of active habits and able to ride. The certificate must be signed by a District Officer (or in his absence from head-quarters by the Joint-Magistrate in charge), or by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.

Each candidate shall also submit a statement showing the landed property owned by him, or in which he may have any interest, or which may be held by and managed by his wife or by any other member of his family, living with or in any way dependent on him.

The Lieutenant-Governor may, at his discretion, call for such additional proof as he may think fit in reference to any of the above points.

3. No candidate, who is already serving under another Government, will be allowed to compete, unless he obtains the previous permission of that Government.

4. The subjects of examination and the marks to be awarded will, until further orders, be as follows:—

(a) English.—The examination will be so arranged as to test a candidate's ability to write correct and idiomatic English, and will include précis-writing and letter-drafting. In awarding marks in these papers, great weight will be attached to good and legible handwriting.

(b) Vernacular.—Candidates will be examined in one of the following languages at their option:—Bengali, Urdu, Hindi, and Uriya. The examination will include—

(1) Translation into English of proceedings, petitions, reports, &c., written in manuscript.

(2) Translation from English into the vernacular selected.

(c) Law—

(1) Regulation I of 1793 and Field's Introduction to the Regulations; Act VIII of 1885; Regulation VII of 1822; Act X of 1870;

(2) The Penal Code; the Code of Criminal Procedure; the Code of Civil Procedure; the Evidence Act.

(d) Surveying.—Survey and mensuration.

The marks will be given on the following scale:—

		Total	...	800

5. It is at present proposed to select seven candidates for Deputy Collectorships and seven for Sub-Deputy Collectorships. These will at first be appointed as probationers, on salaries of Rs. 50 and Rs. 30 a month, respectively. Four of the probationers for Deputy Collectorships will be appointed from the first four candidates on the list in order of merit; and three will be selected by the Lieutenant-Governor from among those who have obtained a minimum of one-third of the total marks. From the remainder of those qualified by obtaining one-third of the marks, the Lieutenant-Governor will select seven more candidates as probationers for Sub-Deputy Collectorships.

6. No probationer will be appointed to officiate as a Deputy Collector and Magistrate or as a Sub-Deputy Collector unless he has given satisfactory proof, during his period of probation, of physical and mental capacity and of general good conduct. He must before appointment afford such further evidence of his ability to ride as may be required.

INDIA FOREST DEPARTMENT APPOINTMENTS.

2. The Examination usually takes place in June of each year.

3. The number of candidates to be selected annually varies according to the requirements of the Forest Service in India; the figures as regards each particular year will be advertised from time to time. In 1893 there will be nine appointments offered for competition.

4. Candidates for the Indian Forest Department are selected under the following arrangements :—

(a) An applicant must be a natural-born British subject, and must be above 17 and under 20 years of age on the 1st June of the year in which he competes for an appointment. He must be unmarried, and if he marries before reaching India he will forfeit his appointment.

(b) An applicant must send‡ to the Revenue Department of the India Office on or before the 1st day of May of the year in which he proposes to compete—

(1) His name and parentage, a certificate or other satisfactory evidence of the date of his birth, and the written consent of parent or guardian that his name should be recorded as a candidate.

(2) A statement of the places of education at which he may have been, accompanied by testimonials of good conduct, during the last four years.

---

* The staff of the College is only given in so far as it concerns the Forest Service Branch.
† Sir D. Brandis is not on the staff of the College.
‡ There is no form of application. The documents specified in clauses (1) and (2) should be enclosed in a coverin letter addressed to the Secretary, Revenue Department India Office, London.

(c) Applicants will have to appear before a Medical Board* at the India Office, particular stress being laid upon good vision and hearing. A physical test will also be imposed so as to ensure the selection of persons of active habits and powers of endurance.

(d) The applicants who have successfully passed the medical examination and the physical test will be required to undergo an examination before the Civil Service Commissioners† in the following subjects (Classes I to III), marks being assigned as follows :—

Subject	Marks.
Class I.—Obligatory Subjects.‡
1. Mathematics (lower), viz., Algebra up to and including the Binomial Theorem; the theory and the use of logarithms; Euclid, Books I to IV and VI; Plane Trigonometry up to and including the Solution of Triangles and Mensuration	2,500	In each of these subjects a candidate must obtain not less than one-third of full marks in order to qualify.
2. English Composition	1,000
3. German (400 for colloquial)	2,000
Class II.—Optional Subjects.‡
4. Mathematics (higher), including Analytical Geometry, Conic Sections, Statics, and Dynamics ...	2,000	A candidate may take any two, but not more than two, of the optional subjects. Under "Optional Subjects" Nos. 9, 10, 11, and 12, the examination will be partly practical.
5. French (400 for colloquial)	2,000
6. Latin	2,000
7. Greek	2,000
8. English History. There will be set one general paper; one paper limited to a fixed period, which will be from the year 1702 to the year 1760 for the examination of 1893	2,000
9. Botany, viz., the elementary parts of Vegetable Morphology, Histology, and Physiology, and the principles of a natural system of classification as illustrated by the more important British natural orders. Candidates will be required to describe plants in technical language. Questions will not be set on Vegetable Palæontology or on the geographical distribution of plants	2,000
10. Chemistry, viz., the Elements of Inorganic Chemistry ...	2,000
11. Physics: Elementary properties of Electricity, Magnetism, Heat, Light, and Sound	2,000
12. Physical Geography and Geology, chiefly Economic; including the recognition of the more familiar minerals and rocks, and their properties and uses ...	2,000
Class III.—Additional Subjects.
13. Freehand Drawing	500	Either or both of these subjects may be taken in addition to the obligatory and the two optional subjects.
14. Geometrical Drawing	300

(e) From the competitors who attain the above-mentioned minima of marks in obligatory subjects and satisfy the requisite conditions in other respects, the Secretary of State will select candidates in order of merit as probationers to enter the College, where they will be further trained for the Forest Service of India.

(f) If the full number of competent probationers required in any year cannot be obtained from the persons so examined, the Secretary of State reserves a discretion to fill up the deficiency by selecting any other person or persons who may satisfy the authorities of the College that he or they are properly qualified to become probationers for the Forest Service.

5. The course of study for candidates for the India Forest Service extends over about three years, divided into nine terms. During eight terms the candidates will prosecute their studies at the College, and during the remaining term they will visit, under suitable supervision, such British or Continental forests as may be selected for the purpose. Excursions will also be made for purposes of instruction, both during term time and during part of the vacations. The cost of all such tours or excursions is borne by the Secretary of State (see paragraph 9).

6. Each annual session begins in September, and is divided into three terms, with vacations of about four weeks at Christmas, two weeks at Easter, and eight weeks in the summer.

---

* With a view to prevent parents and guardians from incurring the inconvenience and expense of preparing candidates who may be physically unfit for the Forest Service, it is suggested that, before any such preparation is begun, candidates be submitted to examination by the medical adviser of the family, or any other qualified medical practitioner, with regard to the following points :—

(1) A weak constitution.
(2) Defective vision.
(3) Impaired hearing.
(4) The existence of any congenital defect.

It is to be understood that this private examination is merely suggested to lessen the chances of disappointment, and that it is by no means intended to take the place of, or to influence in any way, the official examination.

On the subject of the standard of eyesight required for the Indian services, a pamphlet has been published, under the authority of the Secretary of State in Council, by Messrs. Churchill and Sons, 11, New Burlington Street.

† A fee of 4*l*. is required, which can be paid by means of a stamp of that amount. Instructions on this point will be issued to candidates the day before the examination.

‡ Attention is invited to the appended Syllabus giving further details regarding the extent and character of the examination.

7. A charge of 61*l.* for each of the first eight terms and 60*l.* for the ninth term is made for each student. The amount must be paid terminally in advance to the Bank of England. Receivable orders, with full directions as to the mode or payment, will be forwarded from the India Office to the parents or guardians shortly before the fees fall due. A student will not be allowed to come into residence until his fee has been paid.

8. A deposit of 5*l.* is required to be paid by each student on admission to the College as caution money to cover charges incurred by him for damage to books, instruments, &c., or any College bills outstanding on leaving the College. Any balance over and above such charges will be repaid. This deposit is to be paid with the fee for the first term, making the total payment on that occasion 66*l.*

9. The foregoing payments cover all charges for tuition, board according to the College tariff, lodging with washing, and ordinary medical attendance while in residence at the College. When students are on tour and during the course of practical instruction, whether in Great Britain or on the Continent, the Secretary of State will defray the expenses of (1) board, lodging and washing (the maximum expenditure on such account being 10*s.* per diem); (2) travelling expenses; and (3) fees to local Forest Officers, &c.

Students are required to provide their own class books and drawing instruments. Drawing paper, drawing boards, and surveying instruments are provided by the College.

10. The prescribed course of study at present comprises the following subjects:—

I.—Auxiliary Subjects.

1. Geometrical Drawing.
2. Freehand Drawing.
3. Surveying.
4. Forest Engineering.
5. Accounts.
6. German.
7. Mechanics.
8. Physics.
9. Chemistry.
10. Geology and Mineralogy.
11. Entomology.
12. Botany.
13. Drill and Gymnastics.

II.—Forestry, Theoretical and Practical, in all its branches.

11. Every student is required to conform to the College rules, to exhibit due diligence in his studies throughout the course, and to give evidence of satisfactory progress in such manner as may be required, failing which, or in the event of serious misconduct, he will be liable to be removed from the College, or to be sent back from the forest tour, which may entail the loss of his appointment.

12. During the course of study, the proficiency of the students will be tested by periodical examinations, and on the termination of their studies there will be a final examination. Each student may also, at the discretion of the Secretary of State for India, be required to appear before the Medical Board at the expiration of the first year of residence at the College, and, should the result be unsatisfactory, he cannot claim to be allowed to complete the course.

13. The subjects enumerated in paragraph 10 are grouped in certain main branches of study,* and a fixed minimum of qualification is required in each branch and in the subjects taught during the forest tours, as well as a certain minimum for all branches taken together. Students who obtain these minima will receive the College diploma in Forestry.

14. Candidates who have obtained this diploma and are found to be of sound constitution and free from physical defects which would render them unsuitable for employment in the Forest Department (the final decision on which points will rest with the Secretary of State for India) will be appoint d Assistant Conservators in the Forest Department of India in the order of their standing at the end of the final examination. They will be allowed, before leaving the College, to choose the provinces in which they desire to be first employed according to the order in which they pass out of the College. But this choice can only be exercised according to the available vacancies in the different provinces, and on the understanding that officers are at all times liable to be transferred from one province to another at the pleasure of the Government of India.

15. Within a month of his nomination as Assistant Conservator, each nominee must sign articles of agreement describing the terms and conditions of his appointment; he must embark for India when required to do so by the Secretary of State, and will be provided with a free passage. Failure to embark at the stated time will, in the absence of satisfactory explanation, lead to forfeiture of appointment.

16. The pay of an Assistant Conservator of Forests will begin from the date of arrival in India. Probationers who acquit themselves creditably during their course at Cooper's Hill College will begin on a salary of Rs. 350 a month. It will, however, rest with the President of the College, in consultation with the Principal Professor of Forestry, to decide whether any of the probationers, though they have obtained the College diploma in Forestry, have failed to deserve that rate of initial salary. Such probationers, if any, will begin on a salary of Rs. 250 a month; and this difference of salary will continue until the first departmental examination is passed in India.

17. Promotion, leave, and pension will be regulated by the rules of the Service for the time being. A copy of the Regulations relative to these matters can be seen on application either at the Library or the Record Department of the India Office. The principal rules, however, are contained in the Abstract of the Civil Service Regulations, as given in the "India Office List" or the "India List," published respectively by Messrs.

* For details, see Royal Indian Engineering College Calendar.

Harrison and Sons, 59, Pall Mall, and Messrs. W. H. Allen & Co., 13, Waterloo Place, S. W., either of which can be procured through any bookseller.

18. Every candidate before proceeding to India will be required to furnish to the President of the College satisfactory evidence of his competency in riding.

GENERAL RULES.

19. Chemical, physical and botanical laboratories, a forestry museum, a forest nursery, a library and gymnasium are attached to the College. Means are also provided for the practice of photograhy. Students making use of the laboratories are supplied with the needful apparatus.

20. The responsibility for the discipline and management of the College and for the superintendence of the studies is vested in the President under the control of the Secretary of State for India.

21. The students are distributed in divisions under personal charge of one of the Professors or Instructors selected by the President; such tutor being responsible for exercising the proper degree of personal supervision over each student in his division, and for conducting necessary correspondence with the student's parents or guardians.

22. Each student residing in the College is provided with a separate room, and with fuel and light, also with the necessary attendance. Furniture and bedding are supplied by the College, but students are required to provide their own towels and bed linen. Meals are taken in hall. Wine and beer are not included in the ordinary fare, but can be obtained from the College cellar at fixed prices.

23. A chapel is attached to the College which the students residing in the College are expected to attend, unless specially exempted.

24. Every student will be required to go through a course of gymnastice and also of military exercises, including the use of the rifle.

25. Students are required to wear academical dress under such regulations as may be prescribed from time to time.

STUDENTS NOT NOMINATED FOR THE INDIAN FOREST SERVICE, BUT DESIROUS OF OBTAINING A DIPLOMA IN FORESTRY FROM COOPER'S HILL COLLEGE.

26. Students not nominated for the Indian Forest Service may be received into the College as far as the available accommodation permits. Such students may pass through the course of instruction prescribed for the nominees of the Indian Forest Service as detailed above, or they may be permitted to participate in the instruction given in certain subjects only. On attaining the prescribed minima of marks in the several branches of study and in totals as laid down above, they will receive, as the case may require, either the College diploma in Forestry or special certificates showing in what subjects they have followed the instruction, and with what result.

27. Candidates who desire to be admitted under paragraph 26 may submit the necessary application at any time, but not later than the 15th day of June of the year named for admission, except with the special permission of the President. The application must be made on the prescribed forms, which can be obtained from the Secretary of the College.

28. Candidates whose applications are found satisfactory as to character and in other respects will be required to undergo an examination, to be held at the College, about the last week in June of the year for admission. The object of the examination will be to ascertain whether the candidate is qualified to follow the course of instruction with advantage (or certain parts of it, as the case may be). Candidates who do not come up to the required standard will not be admitted to the College.

The President may dispense with the whole or any portion of this examination in the case of a candidate who produces an University diploma or other similar certificate granted by a recognized examining body.

29. Candidates admitted to the College under paragraph 26, who propose to pass through the full prescribed course of study, will be required to pay the same fees in every respect as those paid by the nominees for the Indian Forest Service. Candidates who do not become resident, and are admitted only to certain subjects of study, will be required to pay the fees which may be fixed in each special case in consideration of the extent of their studies. The candidates of both classes will be required to abide by the general rules of the College.

FOREST EXAMINATION.

Syllabus showing the extent and character of the Forest Examination.

In a letter addressed to the Civil Service Commissioners on the subject of the examinations for admission into the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, and the Royal Military College Sandhurst, the Director-General of Military Education observes :—"The main object to be borne in mind with reference to the Entrance Examination is to secure a youth who has had a thoroughly well-grounded liberal education as an English gentleman. Any curriculum which renders those who are unsuccessful unfit for other professions is greatly to be deprecated." The Regulations for the Forest Examination, which follow the lines of the Sandhurst Examination, are intended to provide a test that the candidates have received such an education as is indicated in these words. By these Regulations certain of the subjects specified are prescribed as obligatory for all competitors, while in the choice of the subjects described as optional allowance is made for varieties of taste and inclination in each candidate. In view of the influence which the Regulations must necessarily exercise on the education of candidates for admission to the public service, the Civil Service Commissioners deem it expedient to specify with more fullness than in the Regulations themselves the character of the examination which the candidates will be called upon to undertake.

CLASS I.

(Obligatory Subjects.)

Mathematics.—The extent of the examination will be as defined in the Regulations.

English Composition.—An Essay to be written on one of several subjects specified by the Civil Service Commissioners on their examination paper.

German.—There will be translations of unseen passages from German into English and from English into German; the knowledge of pronunciation will be tested by dictation and the vivâ voce examination. The passages for translation will be taken mainly from standard authors (Schiller, Lessing, Alexander v. Humboldt, Ranke, &c.), and a few simple questions may be asked on the passages set, as to the structure and character of the language, and allusions of obvious and general interest.

CLASS II.

(Optional Subjects.)

Higher Mathematics.—The extent of the examination will be as defined in the Regulations.

Latin.—Passages will be set for translation into English selected from the authors usually read in schools. Passages from English authors will be given for translation into Latin prose and verse, but candidates will be allowed in the place of verse composition to answer questions of a simple character which will test whether they possess a fundamental knowledge of the grammar of the language and such an elementary acquaintance with Roman History as is required for the intelligent study of the books they have read.

Greek.—Passages will be set for translation into English from the authors usually read in schools, and in other respects the examination will proceed on the same lines as in Latin.

French.—The passages for translation will be taken from standard authors (Corneille, Madame de Sévigné, Guizot, Taine, &c.), and in other respects the examination will proceed on the same lines as in German.

English History.—The general paper in this subject will test whether the candidates are accurately acquainted with the facts of English History, and also possess an intelligent knowledge of the meaning of the facts. The paper on the fixed period will, of course, require from the candidates more minute knowledge than the general paper.

Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, and Geology.—The standard of Examination in these subjects will be such as may be reasonably expected from the education given at schools possessing appliances for practical instruction, such as a Laboratory, &c. A considerable portion of the marks will be allotted for the proficiency shown in the practical part of the examination.

GENERAL.

Handwriting.—In estimating the papers of candidates, a limited number of marks, namely 100 out of the maximum allotted to each subject, is held to be assignable for handwriting.

Bengal.	Assam.
North-Western Provinces and Oudh.	Coorg.
Punjab.	Ajmere.
Central Provinces.	Andamans.
Burma.	Hyderabad.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy be forwarded for information to the Governments of Madras and Bombay, the Local Governments and Administrations noted in the margin, the Inspector-General of Forests, and the Comptroller and Auditor-General.

Ordered also, that a copy be forwarded to the Foreign Department for communication to the Agent to the Governor-General in Baluchistan, and that these papers be published in the Supplement to the Gazette of India.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL GENERAL ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE RAJSHAHI DIVISION FOR THE YEAR 1891-92.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS—No. 3143.

Calcutta, the 15th November 1892.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual General Administration Report of the Rajshahi Division for the year 1891-92.

Tours.

1. The Report is submitted by Mr. Nolan, who was in charge of the Division from December to March, in succession to Mr. Lowis. The tour of the Commissioner extended to 114 days, Mr. Lowis spending 17 days away from head-quarters, and Mr. Nolan the remaining 97 days. Mr. Nolan's valuable tour enabled him to appreciate the indications of scarcity, and to decide that the only district in his Division in which preparations for opening relief works were necessary was Dinajpur. His attention was also directed to other matters of general administrative importance, and his observations have led to several improvements, either effected or in progress. All District and Sub-divisional Offices were inspected except Nilphamari, which place Mr. Nolan was unable to visit owing to an accident to himself.

The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in recognizing the loyal spirit in which the orders contained in the Tour Resolution of October 1891 were carried out by District Officers, the Commissioner being able to report that the length of the total tour in every instance was as great or greater than the maximum prescribed by Government. Sub-divisional Officers too were not behindhand, and the Commissioner specially notices the useful work on tour of Babu Barade Kanta Ganguli, Sub-divisional Officer of Thakurgaon in Dinajpur. Mr. Coxe, however, Sub-divisional Officer of Kurseong, who was to a certain extent incapacitated by a recently broken arm, did no real touring, his 62 days' absence from head-quarters consisting exclusively of his fortnightly visits to Siliguri. In another case the arrangements made and the work done on tour were so unsatisfactory that the Commissioner was compelled to report the officer responsible to Government. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to hear that all Sub-divisional Officers, with one doubtful exception, keep horses, and hopes that he may assume that they are able to ride them and habitually do so.

Material condition of the people.

2. The year 1891-92 is characterised by the Commissioner as a year of drought succeeding a year of floods, the want of rain causing a diminution in the outturn of the earlier harvests, but being most felt in the months of September and October, and therefore occasioning a serious deficiency in the outturn of the áman crop. In consequence the year was one of high prices, but in no instance did the price of rice rise more than 50 per cent. above the average and that only for a short time. The effect on wages was hardly noticeable, the fact being no doubt that the rate of wages is more or less stereotyped, and does not change as rapidly as the price of food. In this division as elsewhere the year was a particularly unhealthy one, and the returns show a large increase in all districts of deaths from cholera, and in Dinajpur, Rajshahi, and Rangpur a large increase also of deaths from fever. Owing to these adverse causes, any temporary change in the material condition of the people must have been for the worse. There was, however, sufficient employment for hired labourers at the usual wages, and those cultivators who saved their crops benefited by the high prices, and especially by the high price of jute. The Commissioner remarks—

"In this Division the raiyats as well as the labourers are better off than in Upper India, including Bihár, and can ordinarily stand even the complete loss of one season's crop. The class of persons on fixed incomes is very large in this Division, including thousands who are very poor, but nevertheless have some minute share in landed property. The effect of the bad harvests on these is measured by the rise in the price of food."

The following table shows the total number of deaths for the past and two preceding years:—

Districts.	Population by census of 1891.	Cholera.			Fever.			Others.			Total.

Manufactures, trade, and commerce.

3. Two facts stand prominently forward from the statistics of commerce as ascertained and thrown together by the Commissioner—the diminution in the quantity of rice exported, owing to the poor harvests, and the largely increased export of jute, due to the brisk demand. In Rajshahi, for instance, the principal rice-producing district of the division, the export of rice fell from 7,55,208 to 4,90,222 maunds, and in Dinajpur, which comes next, from 5,80,630 to 5,40,237 maunds. Of jute the Commissioner writes:—

"The high prices induced everyone to sell their whole stock in order to meet the extraordinary demand. Dinajpur exported 7,44,731 maunds against 4,75,646 maunds in 1890, and Rajshahi about 1,30,728 maunds against 1,28,116 maunds. Jute forms the most important article of export of the district of Pabna. There has been an increased exportation of this article from that district. The Steamer Companies have alone exported 71,55,771 maunds of raw jute, as compared with 23,08,789 maunds in the previous year. Besides the above, a large quantity is exported by country boats, of which no trustworthy statistics are available. As in the case of rice, all this is not Pabna-grown jute, but some of the produce of the northern districts passes through it."

So, too, from Bogra 1,46,724 maunds were exported in 1891 against 90,772 maunds in 1890, from Jalpaiguri 2,00,060 maunds against 1,42,428 maunds, and from the Darjeeling Terai 1,12,597 maunds against 65,597 maunds. A considerable part of this jute was grown in 1890, having been kept back by the dealers until the high prices of 1891 induced them to throw it on the market.

The number of tea gardens in Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling increased from 350 to 356, and the total amount of tea exported from the Railway stations of Jalpaiguri and Shikarpur increased from 3,70,373 maunds to 4,14,462 maunds. The Darjeeling gardens are estimated to have produced 268lb. per annum, and those in the Duars 541lb.

The decrease in the number of cinchona plants on Government plantations is due to the gradual abolition of the Succirubra, the Calisaya Ledgeriana being the only kind now in favour. In two of the four private plantations, the cultivation of cinchona has been practically abandoned. The Bhutan Cinchona Association, the largest private undertaking, is said to be unable to work at a profit, owing to the low price of quinine. The outturn and financial results of the Government plantations have been reviewed in a separate Resolution.

The export to Calcutta of gunny bags and cloth manufactured at the Sirajganj Jute Mills shows a slight increase, being 2,40,724 maunds against 2,25,300 maunds in 1890.

Another noticeable fact indicating that the season was unfavourable to agriculture is the decrease in the amount of oilseeds and pulses exported from Pabna, the figures being 80,000 maunds and 25,000 maunds against 1,75,000 maunds and 1,25,000 maunds respectively in the previous year.

As regards imports, it is observed that, in spite of an increase in the import of European piece-goods, the weaving of cloth by hand still continues to thrive with some show of vigour in Pabna. The increase in the quantity of salt imported into some districts is remarkable. In Dinajpur the increase in the amount imported by rail was more than a lakh of maunds, being 3,25,617 maunds against 2,10,292 maunds in 1890. The amount imported into Darjeeling by the Himalayan Railway was nearly double, being 17,203 maunds against 9,399 maunds in the previous year. Bogra imported less by rail, but is supposed to have imported more by river. The Deputy Commissioner failed to give any returns for Jalpaiguri.

The imports and exports by the Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway both show an increase. The downward steamer service of Sirajganj carried 31,10,741 maunds, valued at Rs. 2,00,19,469, of goods, against 26,58,393 maunds, valued at Rs. 89,53,176 in the previous year, but the goods brought by the upward service show a decline both in weight and value. There was a considerable decline both in the export and import trade with Bhutan, while on the other hand the trade with Nipal, Thibet, and Sikkim, both export and import, increased in volume.

The figures in column 12 are obtained by treating one title suit as equivalent to three rent or money suits, and one Small Cause Court suit as one-third of an ordinary suit. On this basis the average number of cases disposed of by each Munsif was 1,394. Deducting, however, the three Munsifs of Alipur, Kurseong, and Siliguri, who are officers with Criminal and Revenue work besides, there remain 24 regular Munsifs with an average of 1,544 cases apiece. The largest amount of work was done by the Munsifs of the Sadar and Thakurgaon stations in Dinajpur and the Munsif of Sirajganj in Pabna. Those of Gaibanda and Rajshahi did the least.

The worst returns of detention of witnesses over two days by Munsifs are shown by the Munsif of Serajganj and the Munsif of Kurseong, and the ratio of 10 per cent. was in several other instances exceeded. The ratio was smallest in the case of the Munsif of Raiganj in Dinajpur, who, in 1,892 unit cases disposed of, detained only eight witnesses per 1,000 over two days. The ratio of cases pending at the close of the year to cases disposed of was greatest in the Court of the Munsif of Phulbari in Dinajpur, where it exceeded 30 per cent., while it was least in the case of the Munsif of Thakurgaon, who shows a ratio of 8 per cent. The average ratio of decisions upheld on appeal was 58 per cent., In Dinajpur it rose to 74 ; in Rajshahi it was as low as 49 per cent.

Crime, Police, and Criminal Justice.

5. The returns of both cognizable and non-cognizable crime show an increase over the figures for the previous year The total number of cognizable cases was 13,499, and of non-cognizable 10,458 against 12,059 and 9,941, respectively, for the previous year. The increase in the amount of dacoity, burglary, and theft is serious—a natural consequence, says the Commissioner, of the partial failure of the crops and the high price of food. In the sections of his report headed Police and Criminal Justice, the Commissioner has made some remarks of extreme importance to which the Lieutenant-Governor desires to give prominence. He finds that the work of the police has been frequently inefficient, and he quotes with concurrence the remarks of Kumar Gopendro Krishna Deb, to the effect that more harm than good has been done by the excessive severity with which the faults of police officers are corrected; that educated and respectable men are deterred from joining the police by this cause; and the Commissioner adds that District Superintendents of Police, in their zeal to prevent abuses by making examples, have exceeded the bounds of discretion. With regard to the work done by the Deputy Magistrates, the Commissioner finds that they often prefer to dismiss a case at once rather than supply missing links in the evidence. They do not investigate, but simply listen to the evidence put before them. Nothing is more common than for the court to discharge a warrant case because the police have not sent up a witness supposed to be material, ignoring the fact that under section 252 of the Criminal Procedure Code it is the Magistrate himself who has to ascertain the persons likely to be able to give evidence, and that he is bound to summon them. Thus many persons who would on proper enquiry be convicted, are allowed to escape because the Magistrates will not discharge the duties imposed on them by law. They prefer to consider themselves Judges, and to assign to the Police the functions of Committing Magistrates.

On the other hand, it is encouraging to hear that there has been considerable improvement of late in the punctuality with which cases are tried. Some of Mr. Nolan's remarks on this subject were quoted in the Government Resolution on the Police Report for 1891, and need not be repeated here, but the Lieutenant-Governor quotes the following with a strong expression of his assent :—

"The system of sending away witnesses unheard with orders to return another day had become an intolerable burden, and I believe it is a mistake to suppose that the Magistrates have to sit late and to do more work. It takes no more time, probably it takes less, to examine a witness at his first appearance rather than at his fifth or sixth."

The sense of the official staff in respect to the administration of justice is awakening, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the faults which the Commissioner notices will be eradicated, and that all Magistrates in the future will dispose of their cases not only with despatch, but with business-like efficiency and attention to detail.

As regards chaukidars, the Commissioner has reported briefly, but his account of an experiment now being made in the Rajshahi district may be quoted :—

"Several beats have been established in Rajshahi as an experimental measure. Each beat is in charge of five chaukidars under a sardar chaukidar They all assemble at nightfall in a house centrally situated. A constable is daily told off to supervise the work of the chaukidars. Two chaukidars with the sardar patrol the entire beat for the first half of the night, and the other two with the constables act similarly for the remaining half. The Magistrate of the district reports that the advantage of having two or more men to keep together and proceed on night duty has been clearly demonstrated, and he is of opinion that burglaries have decreased where these beats have been established."

The average number of cases disposed of by the Stipendiary Magistrates is not large, 212 per head. Those at the Sadar and Thakurgaon stations of Dinajpur, and at the Sadar and Gaibanda stations of Rangpur, disposed of the largest number of cases, and those at Nator, Naugaon, Sirajganj and Kurigram considerably exceeded the average. The work in Jalpaiguri and Darjeeling is light, while the Sub-Deputy Magistrate of Khonjonpur in Bogra disposed of only nine cases. The average number of witnesses in attendance in each case was seven, and this figure was exceeded in the courts of the Magistrates of Bogra and Sirajganj, where so many as nine and eight witnesses, respectively, were present for each case—an average which the Lieutenant-Governor believes to have been probably beyond the requirements of justice The ratio of witnesses detained over two days to the total number who attended was 7 per cent. for Stipendiary Magistrates generally, and was greatest in the Courts at Sirajganj, where it was 21 per cent. The only other Magistrate showing a ratio above 10 per cent. is the Magistrate of the Alipur Duars. The average ratio of cases modified or reversed on appeal was 29 per cent. The ratio was highest in the cases of the Magistrates of Silliguri and Dinajpur, being 41 and 40 per cent. respectively. The Magistrates at the Sadar stations of Rajshahi and Pabna come next, with ratios of 34 and 32 per cent., and there are high ratios elsewhere which the Lieutenant-Governor would be glad to see reduced next year. The Sub-divisional Officers of Nator and Nilphamari show best in this respect.

The number of Police cases remanded six times and more was 6·5 per cent. of those disposed of, which is a good ratio. The Sub-divisional Officer at Thakurgaon, who tried 159 such cases, had not a single case remanded so often. On the other hand the Magistrate at Pabna and the Sub-divisional Officers at Kurigram, Gaibanda and Alipur exceeded 10 per cent.

The Honorary Magistrates disposed of nearly 25 per cent. of the work of the district, as regards number of cases, though naturally many of these were of a simple character and required but few witnesses. The Benches at Darjeeling and Bogra tried the greatest number—513 and 385 cases respectivly. At Sirajganj a quarter of the witnesses and at Nilphamari 18 per cent. were detained over two days. At Nilphamari and Gaibanda half the decisions appealed against were upset. At Bogra and Nilphamari the ratio of police cases remanded six times and more was 23 and 32 per cent. respectively.

7. The attendance of Honorary Magistrates is shown in the following table:—

District.	Number of times asked to attend.	Number of times actually attended.	Number of times absent— With leave or notice.	Without leave or notice.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5	6

Jalpaiguri ...	821	638	78	105	183
Darjeeling ...	150	140	10	......	10

The occasions on which Honorary Magistrates absented themselves without leave or notice were very large in all districts except Bogra and Darjeeling. At the former station several Honorary Magistrates attended on many occasions when they were not called upon to do so, and thus made up for the deficiencies of others. The benches at Rajshahi and Kurseong are also well spoken of.

8. The statements below show by districts the work of the Sessions Courts, and the impositions, realizations, and collections of fines during the year:—

The statement has been carelessly sent up, as the figures are evidently wrong. If 117 had been convicted and 82 acquitted, the total disposed of should have been 199. This inaccuracy makes it impossible to work out the usual ratios of success.

Dinajpur has the smallest balance pending, but either the statement is incorrect, or a large amount was remitted in the course of the year. Considerable remissions would seem to have been made also in Rajshahi, Pabna, and Darjeeling. Except in Dinajpur and Darjeeling, the balances have increased, and on the whole the statement is not a very satisfactory one.

Registration.

9. The following table shows the work done by the different registration offices:—

DISTRICT.	Class of Registration office.	Number of offices.	Number of documents registered.	Average per office.
1	2	3	4	5
Dinajpur	Special	1	4,709	4,709

Darjeeling	(Ex-officio)	3	504	68

The largest number of registrations was in Rangpur. The heaviest work in one office was at Bogra. The number of registering offices might probably be increased with advantage in this district, Pabna, and Rangpur.

The percentage of current collections on current demand was 97·2, of area collections on arrear demand 88·1, and of the gross collections on the gross demand 96·9. The outstanding balance has decreased from Rs. 2,00,771 at the beginning of the year to Rs. 1,89,789 at its close, and the collections were on the whole good. The collection of land revenue from permanently-settled estates (class I) was especially good. In the other two class (II temporarily-settled estates, and III estates held direct by Government) the collections in Rangpur and Pabna fell short, while in Rajshahi they fell short in class III The Commissioner's remarks regarding the leniency shown to farmers and the preventible causes of arrears have been already communicated by him direct to the Board. The Lieutenant-Governor agrees with him that full security should be taken from farmers of estates in class II and III.

Certificate Procedure.

11. The statement below shows the number of certificate cases filed during the year, and how they were disposed of:—

The number pending at the close of the year is very large in Dinajpur and Pabna, and in Rangpur it exceeded the number pending at the commencement of the year.

Settlements.

12. Important settlements were in progress during the year in the Western Duars of Jalpaiguri and in the Government Estate of Kalimpong in the district of Darjeeling. The final report of the latter settlement has been received and reviewed in a Resolution recently published by Government. In the Western Duars 64·77 square miles were cadastrally surveyed by the professional survey party during the course of the year, the cost of the survey operations being Rs. 51,710. In the Mainaguri tahsil, which is about half the whole tract, the work of assessment was nearly completed.

Land Acquisition.

13. The following table shows the land acquisition work of each district for the year:—

The number of cases pending has increased in every district except Pabna and Rangpur. In Rajshahi only one case out of seven was disposed of, and in Bogra no cases were disposed of though two were brought forward from the previous year. This work is in an unsatisfactory condition.

14. The Commissioner complains of the dilatory manner in which partition work is carried on, and attributes it partly to the immense number of appeals allowed by the law. The amendment of the partition law is now under the consideration of the Board and of Government. Out of a total of 64 cases confined to the districts of Dinajpur, Rajshahi, Pabna, Bogra, and Rangpur, only seven cases were disposed of. In Pabna and Bogra no cases were disposed of.

It appears from this table that about 15 per cent. of the boys of school-going age were actually at school, the highest ratio being attained in Bogra and Pabna, the lowest in Rangpur, Rajshahi and Darjeeling. There was an increase of 113 schools and 5,381 pupils over the previous year, an improvement extending to all districts except Rangpur and Rajshahi. As regards primary education the Commissioner observes :—

"The total number of schools maintained was 3,031, and of pupils attending 78,256, being an increase of 87 schools and 465 pupils. The number is still very small in proportion to the population, mainly, no doubt, because of the limited allotment. I am not, moreover, satisfied that the most is made of the slender means available. The statement at page 238 of last year's Report on the Administration of Bengal shows that in every other Division of Bengal Proper the money allotted is made to produce better results. In Darjeeling and Jalpaiguri this is accounted for by special reasons, applicable to a mountainous or terai country; but I know of no satisfactory explanation of the fact that in Rangpur, Rajshahi, and Pabna it costs twice as much to teach a boy his letters as it does in Dinajpur and Bogra. I can only attribute the result to inferior management in the former districts."

The rate of cost per head in primary schools exceeds Rs. 2 in every district except Bogra, and is much too high; but what we have to look to mostly is the payment by District Boards, which exceeds Re. 1 per head in Rajshahi and amounts to nearly Re. 1 per head in Pabna and Rangpur. In Dinajpur and Bogra it is less than eight annas. No doubt much economy can be produced by substituting payment-by-results schools for stipendiary schools.

Municipalities and District Boards have not recognized their responsibilities in respect to primary education, the proportionate expenditure on education other than primary being excessive in all the municipalities, and on the part of all District Boards except Rajshahi. The Commissioner suggests that a rule should be laid down that no municipality shall be allowed to give more to secondary than to primary education. The Lieutenant-Governor prefers to rule that to provide primary education for all the boys resident in the municipal area is one of the first duties of a municipality, and till that duty is performed, it shall not be allowed to give anything to secondary education. The Commissioner notices the high cost of middle vernacular education, and the fact that it is in a declining state in his division. The number of middle English schools and the number of scholars taught at such schools both diminished, but the number of high English schools increased by two, and the number of scholars on their rolls by 166.

Dispensaries and hospitals.

17. The following table shows the working of the dispensaries and hospitals:—

There are twice as many out-patients at the dispensaries as there are pupils at the schools.

Local Self-Government Institutions.

18. The Municipalities of the Division appear to have worked on the whole satisfactorily. As regards the District Boards, the Commissioner has no very decided remarks to make. In all districts, except Pabna and Bogra, difficulty was felt in getting members to attend the requisite number of times. In Dinajpur there were seven adjournments for want of a quorum and in Jalpaiguri five. The absence of interest on the part of District Boards in primary education has been noticed above, and shows that in some respects the Rajshahi Division is the most backward in Bengal proper.

There is little to be said as regards political institutions.

19. The conduct of the zamindars in their relation generally to Government and society as displayed by their loyalty to the former and their liberality to the latter has come favourably to the notice of the Lieutenant-Governor. In their relations with their raiyats they are not so fortunate, and this is specially true of the district of Pabna, where bands of lathials are still employed in the course of agrarian disputes. The Officiating Magistrate, Kumar Gopendro Krishna Deb, is quoted by the Commissioner as follows:—

"The relations between landlord and tenant in this district during the past year were far from satisfactory. From the long list of the disputes kept in the police office which were constantly breaking out either owing to a demand for enhanced rent or to new measurements being undertaken with the view of bringing enhancement suits in future, it would appear that their relations were much strained. There were breaches of the peace also owing to attempts to take possession of disputed máhals by rival zamindars with the assistance of a number of professional lathials and refractory raiyats. In every case, however, energetic measures were taken either to bring the offenders to justice or to prevent the threatened breach of the peace by binding over the parties." He proceeds to give a list of disputes, which I do not quote, as it seems to me far from exhaustive, and adds:—"The conduct of the petty zamindars in this subdivision (Sirajganj) in having recourse to coercive measures against their raiyats and rivals has served to perpetuate 'lathialism,' an institution which is fast dying out in other districts of Bengal. It is to be hoped that the measures promptly taken by the authorities here to enforce order and put down lawlessness in every possible way, will ultimately lead to the total extinction of this much dreaded institution."

I have, since I joined the Division, had ample proof of the existence of the alleged evils, and in particular of the hiring of bands of club-men, the most unmistakeable symptom of a disturbed district. Of the effective measures of repression which the Kumar attributes to his predecessors, I have unfortunately received no such evidence. In my opinion the hiring of lathials by zamindars can be put down in a district such as Pabna, and while the system flourishes I cannot entertain a high opinion of the vigour or vigilance of the local administration. On this subject I am in correspondence with the Magistrate, and I will give it my special attention when I visit Pabna on tour next month. I am aware that the conflict will not be terminated by the suppression of club law, desirable as that event is in the interests of peace: it arises from the uncertainty as to boundaries in a district where all landmarks are liable to be effaced by the fluvial action of the two greatest rivers in India, from uncertainty as to the title of landlords, and uncertainty as to the rent payable by tenants. It was to meet such cases and not without special reference to Pabna that a procedure for the settlement of serious disputes between landlords and tenants was provided by section 101(b) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, and I doubt whether there is any prospect of the establishment of satisfactory relations between the two classes in Pabna until we have recourse to this law in all suitable cases."

The Collector should be told that the present state of things cannot be allowed to continue.

20. Sir Charles Elliott desires to thank Mr. Lowis and Mr. Nolan for their efficient administration of the Division during the year, and Mr. Nolan for an excellent report showing a sound grasp of some of the most important administrative principles. The remarks which have been submitted to Government regarding the conduct of officers will be communicated to the Appointment Department as usual, information being given in accordance with the rules laid down by the Lieutenant-Governor to all on whom any serious censure is recorded.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER 1892.

The meteorology of October in Bengal has been decidedly important, and on the whole the weather in Bengal was rather more disturbed than usual, due to the occurrence and movement of one cyclonic storm and three distinct barometric depressions across the Bay. The rainfall brought up by the disturbed weather has, however, not been particularly large, and hence, except in the southern division of the province, the rainfall during October has been generally very considerably in defect of the normal.

The principal features in the weather of the month have been as follows:—At the beginning of the month the area of lowest pressure, which amounted practically to a barometric depression, and which accompanied the retreat of the south-west monsoon current southwards, had established itself in South-East Bengal, but from the 2nd it passed away in an easterly direction or disappeared. Hence the south-west monsoon current rapidly retreated from the province at the beginning of October, and by the 4th it had practically ceased to affect Bengal, and the monsoon rainfall had ceased. This represents the withdrawal of this current about a week earlier than usual. A period of fine north-east monsoon weather then set in, which was only altered by the occurrence of disturbed weather in the centre and south of the Bay. These disturbed conditions resulted in the formation of a barometric depression which crossed from the east to the west of the Bay, reaching the west coast about the 12th, but the depression was not well defined and was rather unimportant. A second more influential depression also formed in the east of the Bay and advanced across to the west coast near Nellore on the 17th. A small but severe cyclone or cyclonic storm formed in the rear of the second depression, and following almost the same track crossed the Madras coast a little to the south of Coconada on the 20th. This was a very influential storm and caused a wave of moisture-laden winds to advance over Bengal from about the 21st, which was only again driven back about the 27th, and fairly general rain fell in Bengal during this period. A fourth disturbance originated also to the east of the centre of the Bay on the 27th and advanced towards the west coast, and on the 29th an influential barometric depression crossed the Madras coast between Nellore and Masulipatam. This depression on breaking up again caused a further wave of moisture-laden winds to advance over Bengal, but the wave scarcely penetrated so far as it did in the previous case, and gave practically rain to only the southern half of the province; but in this case the rainfall was particularly heavy. This wave of humid winds advanced over Bengal on the 30th and 31st, and hence at the close of the month, particularly over the southern half of the province, the general weather conditions more resembled those of the rains than of the cold season. By these actions heavy rain has been brought to East Bengal, Orissa, Chota Nagpur, and South-West Bengal, and moderate rain to North Bengal and South Bihár, but practically little or no rain has fallen in North Bihár.

The following is a more detailed description of the meteorological conditions of October in Bengal:—

Quite at the close of September the area of lowest pressure in the province had retreated from its previous position in Bihár and North Bengal towards South-East Bengal, and on the last day of that month there was a feeble low pressure area reported in South-East Bengal, together with a distinct tendency for a wind circulation to set up with a centre near Barisál. Hence, though at this time conditions were still favourable for rainfall at all except the western and northern stations in the province, it was evident the south-west monsoon current was slowly retreating from Bengal, and on this day particularly at the western stations rather dry north-westerly winds were reported, and hence rainfall became almost entirely absent in Bihár and over a large part of Chota Nagpur.

On 1st October pressure again fell slowly over parts of East and South-East Bengal, and became relatively high in the west and north of the province, while the barometric depression over the south-eastern districts became more clearly marked, and pressure at Barisál was 0·177" in defect. The cyclonic circulation of winds with the centre in South-East Bengal continued very distinct, and hence conditions remained favourable for rainfall at the south-eastern and southern stations, while in the north and west of the province the monsoon current had almost ceased to give rain. Thus on the first day of the month the conditions were such as usually immediately precede the retreat of the monsoon current from Bengal, and from the 2nd October further important changes in the distribution of pressure commenced and continued, which resulted in the final withdrawal of the current from Bengal about the 4th or 5th instant. On the 2nd indeed a very rapid increase of pressure took place, averaging about a sixth of an inch, the area of low pressure in South-East Bengal filled up or retreated in an easterly direction, and the lowest pressure on this day was recorded in Assam. Rain continued, however, to be reported in moderate amounts in South and South-East Bengal and at a few stations in North Bengal, but the dry westerly current, blowing previously in the west of the province only, had extended and prevailed at all except a few of the eastern stations. Thus on the 2nd a further withdrawal of the monsoon current had taken place from the province. On the 3rd the rise of pressure continued by about a twentieth of an inch, and was succeeded on the 4th by a slight fall. On the 5th and 6th, and to a certain extent on the 7th, there was a continued moderate increase of pressure which hence became above the normal, while the highest pressures were recorded in the north of the province, where an excess of more than a tenth of an inch was recorded, and, on the other hand, comparatively low pressures began to be reported in Burma and to the east of the centre of the Bay. Hence with this distribution of pressure dry westerly and north-westerly winds established themselves over practically the whole province, and the south-west monsoon current retreated even from the southern and south-eastern districts, so that from about the 5th October the whole province became practically rainless. This date of the retreat of the south-west monsoon current is about a week earlier than the usual period, and hence the monsoon season altogether was an unusually short one, having also commenced rather late in June.

A period of fine north-east monsoon weather then set in over Bengal, and generally light northerly winds with an almost entire absence of rain were reported which lasted for a considerable part of the month. These conditions were from time to time altered and partially reversed by the occurrence of disturbed weather accompanied by the formation of three barometric depressions and a cyclonic storm in the Bay, all of which crossed the Bay from east to west towards the Madras coast. The first of these depressions advanced from the east of the Bay towards the Madras coast about the 12th, giving heavy rains in the Circars, while light to moderate rain reached as far north as Orissa, though practically it did not extend to South Bengal. The second depression was a more definite one. Even on the 15th instant, pressure appeared to be low over the centre of the Bay, and winds showed a distinct tendency to cyclonic circulation round the Bay, while also rather strong winds were blowing at the Burma stations. It is therefore probable that a distinct barometric depression existed in the Bay on this day. On the 16th instant, pressure was falling briskly along the Madras coast, while in Bengal and over the remainder of the Bay pressure had risen, so that the depression in the Bay appeared to be moving rapidly towards the Madras coast. The centre of the depression then crossed the coast near Nellore early in the morning of the 17th, giving heavy rain along the Madras coast, and the small storm apparently broke up against the Eastern Ghats. On the 18th another depression or cyclonic storm commenced to form to the north of the Andamans, and from the rapidity of the barometric fall in the east of the Bay, and from the very high wind velocities reported at Diamond Island, it was evident that the storm from its formation was a severe one. On the 19th the storm had probably advanced rapidly in a westerly or west-north-westerly direction and was in the centre of the Bay, and it was evidently still a very severe storm, for at Diamond Island the average hourly wind velocity from the 18th to the 19th was the extremely large amount of 36 miles. From 8 A.M. of the 19th to the 20th, the storm had again advanced with great rapidity in a westerly or west-north-westerly direction, and its centre was crossing the coast near Coconada or to the north-east of Masulipatam at 8 A.M. on the 20th, so that the velocity of its forward movement almost certainly exceeded 20 miles on hour at this time. From the barometric changes accompanying the storm, and from the very considerable wind force experienced both in Burma and on the Madras coast, it is clear that the storm was very severe, and that its influence extended over a large part of the Bay. The inner area of hurricane winds was, however, very small, and there was probably a calm central area, so that it was a true but small cyclone, or perhaps a very severe cyclonic storm. On the 21st the cyclonic storm had passed inland, and had apparently to a great extent filled up, and it was on this day of so little importance that on the 22nd it had practically entirely filled up and disappeared.

The weather in Bengal during this period was entirely dependent on the weather in the Bay. During the passage of the depressions across the Bay, and also at the commencement of the existence of the cyclonic storm, and even during its passage across the Bay, fine clear weather with light, more or less, northerly winds due to the indraught towards the storm were reported over the whole of the province, except in some of the south-western districts. Directly, however, the storm struck the coast and became more diffused in character, the wave of disturbed weather commenced to spread and to advance northwards up the Bay, and pressure began to fall in Bengal from the 20th; the fall was very rapid on the 21st, and moderately rapid on the 22nd, when pressure became about a sixth of an inch in defect of the normal. Heavy rain brought up by the wave of moisture-laden winds which had previously accompanied the storm commenced to fall in Orissa on the 19th to the 20th, and from this date the humid south-easterly and easterly wind current spread northwards over Bengal, and rainfall became fairly general in South-West Bengal, East Bengal, and parts of North Bengal, while over the remainder of the province it continued almost rainless. These falls were heaviest in Orissa and East Bengal, while they were also moderately heavy in South-West Bengal. This moist current at the close of the week hence advanced over a large part of the province, and conditions as to humidity and cloud proportions more resembled those of the rainy season than of the commencement of the cold season. Temperature also increased with the advance of the moist current over Bengal, and thus the meteorological conditions were very distinctly abnormal, for pressure at this period was unusually low, while temperature, cloud proportion, and humidity were very considerably in excess of the normal.

These conditions continued almost unaltered up to the 23rd, when a brisk increase of pressure took place over Bengal, which continued on the 24th and again on the 26th, 27th, and 28th, when pressure again became above the normal at all except a few of the south-western stations, and the general pressure distribution had become fairly like that of the cold weather season. During this period again the moist easterly and south-easterly air current which had been forced over Bengal was gradually driven back and replaced by a northerly current, and during its retreat moderate rain was given to all districts except North Bihár and North Bengal, so that on the 28th ordinary cold season conditions appeared to have again set in over Bengal. The northerly wind current blowing over the province at this time was, however, probably also partially due to the indraught towards another depression which had formed to the east of the centre of the Bay on the 27th, and which gradually drifted in a westerly direction and crossed the Madras coast between Nellore and Masulipatam on the morning of the 29th. It was, however, never an intense storm, though its influence extended over a wide area, particularly to the north of its centre. Hence the rainfall due to this area of disturbed weather extended to Orissa, though on the 28th and 29th, and to a certain extent on the 30th, fine weather prevailed over the greater part of the province.

As in the case, however, of the previous storm, as the depression crossed the Eastern Ghats it appears to have partly broken up and become more diffused. The area of low pressure with its attendant disturbed weather and with a wave of moisture-laden winds then advanced northward. Thus on the 30th pressure fell moderately to rapidly over Bengal and became rather largely in defect of the normal. Winds also became more southerly at the southern stations, and the sky began to cloud over, while moderate general and rather heavy rain was reported from Orissa and some of the neighbouring districts of Chota Nagpur and South-West Bengal and also over considerable parts of South Bihár. On the 31st again there was a moderate fall of pressure over the western and southern half of the province, and pressure became below the normal by amounts ranging up to 0·155″ at Dehri. Winds also became easterly and south-easterly over the whole province, and the humid current from the Bay had spread practically over the whole of Bengal Hence conditions, particularly over the southern parts of the province, on the 31st more resembled those of the rainy season than of the cold weather. Steady and in many cases heavy general rain with very densely clouded skies prevailed over the southern parts and moist cloudy weather generally at the more northern stations. The wave of heavy rainfall, however, did not extend beyond the southern half of the province, and Bihár and North Bengal remained practically rainless during this period.

Hence it will be seen that the general meteorological conditions of the month have been rather unsettled and abnormal, and they have tended to give decidedly heavy rain to the southern half of the province, while the northern districts have received comparatively little rain.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the month have been large, but to a great extent of opposite character, and hence the mean pressure for the month has varied only slightly from the normal. At most stations the variations are less than a hundredth of an inch, and they are almost all in defect of the normal. Larger defects, however, appear to be shown in and near the Himalayas, and at such stations as Darjeeling, Bogra, Darbhanga, Motihari, and Sibsagar, the defects exceed 0·02″. The largest defect of any of the districts appears to be shown in Assam, where it averages nearly 0·02″.

Temperature.—The temperature variations in the month of October have also been large, but they are perhaps not very important. They have also been to a great extent of opposite nature, and hence the mean temperature of October for the whole of Bengal has been only 0·3° in excess of the normal. Indeed, East and North Bengal show very slight defects, and South Bihár, on the other hand, shows an excess of 1°. In Assam a general defect of 0·7° has been registered.

Rainfall.—Average falls of from six to six and-a-half inches are reported in Orissa and East Bengal, while South-West Bengal and Chota Nagpur have received nerly four inches. In North Bengal and South Bihár the falls average about an inch, while North Bihár has only received an average fall of a quarter of an inch. Hence in Bihár and North Bengal the falls have been about three inches less than in normal years, in South-West Bengal and Orissa the fall has been almost normal, in Chota Nagpur there has been an excess fall of half an inch, and in East Bengal an excess fall of one inch.

The following table gives a comparison between the actual monthly and total rainfall and the normal rainfall of the province up to the end of October in the same form as has been employed in the previous monthly abstracts of the present year. The figures represent the ratio of the rainfall of each month of the present year to the normal rainfall expressed as a percentage. The table thus gives a condensed summary of the rainfall data of the year for each meteorological division. The first ten columns give the percentage amount of rainfall received in each month, and the last column the percentage rainfall of the whole period from the 1st of January to the end of October:—

Meteorological Divisions.	January.	February.	March.	April.	May.	June.	July	August.	September.	October.	Actual rainfall of first ten months of 1892 expressed as a percentage of the normal fall for the period.
Orissa	Nil	26	2	31	50	132	83	70	96	102	86
South-West Bengal ..	Nil	26	4	99	89	84	89	58	77	91	78
North Bengal .	Nil	67	118	140	149	75	168	146	51	28	110
East Bengal ...	Nil	69	34	166	120	79	86	66	77	118	87

Chota Nagpur ...	Nil	194	2	23	53	111	96	66	96	116	87

Judged in this way it will be seen that the rainfall of North Bihár, North Bengal, and South Bihár has been exceptionally deficient in October, but that all other divisions have received good falls of rain. When also the rainfall statistics of the year up to date are considered, it will be seen that North Bengal has received a fall ten per cent. above the normal, while North Bihár has received a normal fall. In all other divisions the falls up to date have been in defect; in Orissa, East Bengal, South Bihár, and Chota Nagpur the fall has equalled from thirteen to fourteen per cent. less than the normal, and finally the largest deficiency has been experienced in South-West Bengal, where it equals twenty-four per cent.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of October in all districts of the province. The figures are obtained in the manner explained in previous monthly summaries. The first column gives the average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 15 years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the actual weighted rainfall of the month at the reporting stations in the district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall to the normal as a percentage, and the fourth the same information in a slightly different form:—

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. Rainfall the normal mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional station stations, i.e. from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one of

for the week ending Saturday, the 12th of November 1892.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns ar[e] wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at [lea]st 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 15th November 1892.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M. SATURDAY, THE 12TH OF NOVEMBER 1892.

IN the report for the previous week, it was stated that cold weather conditions had established themselves over Bengal from the 4th or 5th of November. The meteorological changes which have taken place in the present week have been on the whole small, but they have caused the cold weather conditions to become even more pronounced than they were at the end of the previous week, and it may hence be said that in this year the cold weather conditions have set in unusually early and with considerable suddenness, and that they have so far been much more strongly developed than is usual in the early part of November.

The main changes of meteorological conditions were that on the 6th or the first day of the week a rapid fall of temperature was reported, the fall being particularly noticeable in the night or minimum temperatures, which became in defect of the normal by amounts ranging up to from 5° to 7° at such stations as Calcutta, Darbhanga and Patna. A fall of pressure also took place on this day, but the general pressure distribution remained normal for the cold weather. On the 7th pressure fell slowly and became a little below the normal, but temperature continued to fall moderately to rapidly over the whole province, while again the decrease was very noticeable in the night temperatures, which at many stations became about 7° below the normal. On the 8th pressure again commenced to increase, while a further fall of temperature occurred and almost similar conditions prevailed on the 9th, and on the 10th pressure had risen moderately to rapidly, and the temperature changes became decidedly variable. On the 11th the general temperature had increased by from one to two degrees, and the increase of pressure continued, the rise being largest at the north-western stations, and on this day the cold weather distribution of pressure became decidedly more strongly marked than usual, for pressure had become in excess of the normal by amounts ranging from about 0·07 inch in the west of Bihár to 0·03 inch at the south-eastern stations. On the 12th or the last day of the week the pressure changes were very small, while the rise of temperature had continued; but notwithstanding the increase in the last two or three days, the mean temperature for the day was still from about 2° to 3° below the normal. Pressure on the other hand was in excess of the normal by about a twentieth of an inch, and the cold-weather conditions of pressure remained still decidedly more pronounced than usual.

Practically, therefore, the principal changes during the week have been to somewhat intensify the previously existing cold-weather conditions, and throughout the week a fairly steady north-westerly and northerly wind current has prevailed over the province, which has, in addition to the low temperature, given rather low humidity, an almost complete absence of cloud, and an entire absence of rain in Bengal.

Pressure—As stated above, at the beginning of the week was slightly in excess of the normal; it then fell for three or four days and became in decided defect, while there was a rapid increase towards the close of the week, when it became in excess of the normal. Hence it will be seen that the variations have to a great extent compensated for each other. Thus the mean pressure for the week at most stations does not vary from the normal by more than a few thousandths of an inch, and while fifteen stations in Bengal show a slight excess, twenty-five stations show a slight defect. Speaking broadly, the south-western stations show slight excess pressures, and the defects are largest towards the east of the province, while in Assam they are considerable, this district showing a general defect of 0·026", while at Sibsagar the defect equals no less than 0·050".

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the province of Bengal for the week has been 2·7° in defect of the normal. This defect is on the whole very evenly distributed, except in North Bengal, where a defect of only 1·2° has been recorded. On the other hand the largest defect has been registered in Orissa, where it has equalled 3·6°. In Assam the defect has been comparatively small, and it is only 1·0°.

Rainfall has been entirely absent from Bengal throughout the week; 0·10 inch of rain was, however, reported at the beginning of the week from Gnatong in Sikkim, but this fell probably during a snowstorm, and it may have indicated there was a light general fall of snow in the Himalayas to the north of Bengal, and the wave of cold air from this may have contributed to the rapid setting in of the cold weather conditions in Bengal.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 12th of November 1892:—

† Railway plant and rolling-stock 221 tons and 163 tons for the years 1892 and 1891, respectively, for which no "Up" and "Down" register maintained.

Comparative statement of principal commodities carried on the Bengal Central Railway during the month of August 1892.

INCREASES.

	Tons.
Cotton piece-goods	463
Jute, unscrewed	2,178

Cotton piece-goods: Possibly due to traffic in anticipation of the pujahs, which fall earlier this year than last.

Jute, unscrewed: The increase was almost exclusively in despatches from Khulna and Nawapora, due to favourable market.

LAKES ALBERT AND ALEXANDRINA AND THE RIVER MURRAY.

The practice of fixing poles or stakes for fishing purposes prohibited.

THE following Notice to Mariners (No. 9 of 1892), issued by the Secretary to the Marine Board, port Adelaide, is republished :—

It having been reported to the Marine Board that in lakes Albert and Alexandrina, and the river Murray, a dangerous practice by fishermen exists, namely, that of fixing poles or stakes for fishing purposes, to the danger of other vessels navigating the lakes and river, notice is hereby given that no piles, poles, or stakes shall be erected, fixed, or driven within the navigable waters of lakes Albert and Alexandrina, and river Murray, and that all such piles, poles, or stakes at present erected, fixed, or driven shall be removed forthwith.

Attention is called to "The Marine Board and Navigation Act," part 10, section 395, which, among other things, provides that, if any person shall erect, drive, or fix any such pile, pole or stake within the jurisdiction of the Board without permission in writing from the Board, shall, on conviction, be liable to forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds ; and any such person who neglects or fails to remove any such pile, &c., so placed after notice to remove the same, he shall for every such offence be liable to forfeit and pay a further penalty not exceeding five pounds for every day that he fails or neglects to remove such pile, pole, or stake.

N. B.—The Board will offer no objection to anchors or sinkers, with small buoys attached, being used in place of the abovementioned poles, &c.

AUSTRALIA, NORTH COAST—TORRES STRAIT.

Proudfoot shoal light-vessel—intended withdrawal.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 437 of 1893) that on 14th January 1893, Proudfoot shoal light-vessel will be withdrawn from her station in the western approach to Torres strait, and not replaced.

Approximate position: lat. 10° 32½′ S., long. 141° 28½′ E.

CAUTION.—As the withdrawal of this light-vessel will leave the dangerous Proudfoot shoal unmarked, care should be taken in approaching Booby island from the westward to keep well to the southward.

AFRICA, NORTH-EAST COAST—RED SEA, WESTERN SHORE.

Shoal reported north-west of Difnein Island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 448 of 1892) that information has been received from H. B. M. Consul at Jidda that Mr. Baldwin, commanding the British S.S. Akbar, reports that, when approaching North Massawa channel from the northward on 1st July 1892, the ship, drawing nearly 20 feet water, touched slightly at 8 P.M. on a shoal (probably composed of coral) lying with Difnein island bearing about S.S E. ½ E., distant 12 miles. A sounding of 5 fathoms was obtained near the spot, and soon after the ship was anchored in 22 fathoms. The weather at the time was hazy, and there was a slight swell from the southward.

Position as given to be considered very doubtful, lat. 16° 47′ N., long. 39° 12′ E.

CAUTION.—There being many indications of shoal patches northward of Difnein, and the area being but imperfectly examined, caution is necessary in approaching that island. A note to this effect has been placed on Admiralty chart No. 164.

Alteration in buoyage—Coles and South channels.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 426 of 1892) that the following alterations will be made in the buoyage of Coles and South channels, port Phillip entrance, during the last week of September and on 6th October 1892, respectively:—

1. COLES CHANNEL.—The existing North, South, and Wreck buoys will be withdrawn, and in lieu thereof three conical buoys, painted red, will be moored as follows:—

North buoy in 18 feet water, on north-west edge of West sand, with Pile lighthouse, West channel, bearing E. ¾ S., distant $1\frac{2}{10}$ miles, and high lighthouse, Queenscliff, S.S.-W.

Middle buoy in 20 feet water, on west edge of West sand, with Pile lighthouse, West channel, bearing N.-E. ¾ E., and South Red bluff beacon N. by W., distant $1\frac{6}{10}$ miles.

South buoy in 18 feet water, on south-west edge of West sand, with Pile lighthouse, West channel, bearing N.-E. by N., and north extreme of Duck island N.-W. by W. ¾ W., distant $1\frac{2}{10}$ miles.

2. SOUTH CHANNEL.—The green light now shown from No. 15 black buoy, at East end of Middle ground, will be discontinued, and in lieu thereof an occulting white light, occulted eight times every minute, will be exhibited.

NOTIFICATION.

The 15*th November* 1892.—The following rules for the examination for admission to the Executive branch of the Provincial Civil Service and to the Subordinate Civil Service to be held in 1893 are published for general information:—

1. An examination of candidates for appointment as Deputy Collectors and Magistrates and as Sub-Deputy Collectors will be held in Calcutta in March 1893 on dates to be notified hereafter.

2. All candidates for examination shall apply in writing to the Under-Secretary in the Appointment Department not later than the 1st of February 1893. The application shall be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 20 and by certificates to the following effect:—

(1) That on the date fixed for the examination the candidate's age will not exceed 25 years. This certificate should be supported by the candidate's horoscope, or if the horoscope cannot for sufficient reason be produced, by other sufficient evidence, such as the sworn affidavit of a near relation. [Persons already in the Government service, who may be candidates for these appointments, will not be subject to this condition of age.]

(2) That he is of good moral character.

(3) That he has passed the B.A. examination of the Calcutta University, or that he has received an education not below the standard of such examination.

(4) That he is of sound health, good physique, and capable of bearing fatigue and exposure. This certificate must be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate resides, or if in Calcutta by the Resident Physician or the Resident Surgeon of the Calcutta Medical College Hospital. The fee for medical examination will in all cases be Rs. 4.

(5) That he is of active habits and able to ride. The certificate must be signed by a District Officer (or in his absence from head-quarters by the Joint-Magistrate in charge), or by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.

Each candidate shall also submit a statement showing the landed property owned by him, or in which he may have any interest, or which may be held by and managed by his wife or by any other member of his family, living with or in any way dependent on him.

The Lieutenant-Governor may, at his discretion, call for such additional proof as he may think fit in reference to any of the above points.

3. No candidate, who is already serving under another Government, will be allowed to compete, unless he obtains the previous permission of that Government.

4. The subjects of examination and the marks to be awarded will, until further orders, be as follows:—

(a) English.—The examination will be so arranged as to test a candidate's ability to write correct and idiomatic English, and will include précis-writing and letter-drafting. In awarding marks in these papers, great weight will be attached to good and legible handwriting.

(b) Vernacular.—Candidates will be examined in one of the following languages at their option:—Bengali, Urdu, Hindi, and Uriya. The examination will include—

(1) Translation into English of proceedings, petitions, reports, &c., written in manuscript.
(2) Translation from English into the vernacular selected.

(c) Law—

(1) Regulation I of 1793 and Field's Introduction to the Regulations; Act VIII of 1885; Regulation VII of 1822; Act X of 1870;
(2) The Penal Code; the Code of Criminal Procedure; the Code of Civil Procedure; the Evidence Act.

(d) Surveying.—Survey and mensuration.

The marks will be given on the following scale:—

English	...	...	...	300
Vernacular	...	...	...	100
Law	...	...	...	300
Surveying	...	...	...	100
		Total	...	800

5. It is at present proposed to select seven candidates for Deputy Collectorships and seven for Sub-Deputy Collectorships. These will at first be appointed as probationers, on salaries of Rs. 50 and Rs. 30 a month, respectively. Four of the probationers for Deputy Collectorships will be appointed from the first four candidates on the list in order of merit; and three will be selected by the Lieutenant-Governor from among those who have obtained a minimun of one-third of the total marks. From the remainder of those qualified by obtaining one-third of the marks, the Lieutenant-Governor will select seven more candidates as probationers for Sub-Deputy Collectorships.

6. No probationer will be appointed to officiate as a Deputy Collector and Magistrate or as a Sub-Deputy Collector unless he has given satisfactory proof, during his period of probation, of physical and mental capacity and of general good conduct. He must before appointment afford such further evidence of his ability to ride as may be required.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

IN pursuance of the decision contained in this Government's Resolution, dated the 14th July, 1884, it is hereby declared that a competitive examination for two appointments in the Opium Department will be held in February, 1893. At this examination only such European and Eurasian candidates as have been nominated by the Lieutenant-Governors of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, and the Opium Agents of Bihár and Benares, each of whom is authorised to make one nomination for each vacancy subject to ultimate nomination by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, will be permitted to present themselves. It must also be clearly understood by intending competitors that those who may be declared successful will not be entitled to obtain permanent appointments in the Probationary grade of Assistant Sub-Deputy Opium Agents till a permanent vacancy occurs in that grade, but it is the intention of Government to appoint them at once to duty in the Department.

2. A certificate of health and physical fitness, signed by a Convenanted Medical Officer in the form appended to this Notification, will be required from each candidate, who should also furnish a copy of his baptismal certificate, in the absence of which sufficient evidence as to age should be forwarded with the application for admission to the examination. With reference to the orders of the Government of India, No. 4843, dated the 20th September, 1889, no one whose age on the 1st February, 1893, exceeds 22 years, or who is under 18 years, will be permitted to appear at the examination.

A certificate that the candidate is able to ride and is of active habits, signed by a District Magistrate, or by a Presidency Magistrate or Commissioner of Police in the case of applicants residing in Presidency towns, should also be submitted.

3. Applications, accompanied by the necessary certificates, must be sent on or before the 15th January next to the Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Revenue Department. Such applicants as are granted nominations will receive an intimation to that effect, and be required to pay a fee of Rs. 20 before they can appear at the examination. The fee is payable to the Under-Secretary aforesaid.

4. The examination will be held at Calcutta, and the date and place will be notified to such candidates as are allowed to present themselves at the competition.

5. The examination will be by written questions and answers, and the subjects will be as follow:—

NOTIFICATION No. 4057L.R.

The 22nd November, 1892.—Babu Lalit Kumar Das, Deputy Collector, employed on partition work in the district of Dacca, is granted leave for two months, under article 291 of the Civil Service Regulations, with effect from the date on which he may avail himself of it.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION No. 3301.

The 22nd November 1892.—In exercise of the powers conferred by the Inland Emigrants Health Act I (B.C.) of 1889, the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to issue the following amended rules, any objections to which will be considered on the 20th December next

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Secy to the Govt. of Bengal.

RULES FOR THE SUPERVISION OF FREE EMIGRANTS.

1. In these rules, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context—

Free Recruiter means any person who, whether in the employment of an agent as defined by Act I (B.C.) of 1889, or otherwise, makes a profit out of recruiting any native of India for emigration to the labour districts under the saving clause contained in section 7, Act I of 1882.

Manager means any person appointed by an agent to be in charge on his account of any free depôt, sub-depôt, or rest-house.

Free Depôt means any place of accommodation for emigrants as defined by Act I (B.C.) of 1889, from which the emigrants are despatched direct by an agent or free recruiter to their destination in the labour districts.

Sub-depôt means any place of accommodation for emigrants kept by an agent, manager, or free recruiter, from which the emigrants are ordinarily despatched to a free depôt.

Rest-house means any place of accommodation for emigrants on railway routes in which the emigrants are halted between the time of leaving a free depôt or sub-depôt and arriving at their destination.

2. (1) Every free recruiter shall be registered and licensed by the District Magistrate having jurisdiction throughout the local area within which he has been employed to recruit. (2) Every free recruiter employed by another person shall hold (a) a certificate in writing signed by his employer authorizing him to act in that capacity, and (b) a descriptive roll (in the Form A attached to these rules) signed by his employer.

3. Every license to a free recruiter shall be in force for one year, and shall be in the Form B attached to these rules. For each free recruiter working independently, the District Magistrate shall prepare a descriptive roll with particulars as in Form A, and may cause them to be verified in such manner as may seem to him expedient.

4. The District Magistrate shall keep a register of licensed free recruiters in the Form C attached to these rules.

5. Every agent shall be licensed by the District Magistrate within whose jurisdiction his main place of business is situated, and such license shall only be given to a person of good character, and possessing sufficient property to enable him to be held responsible for any breach of rules. The license of an agent shall remain in force for one year, and shall be in the Form D attached to these rules.

6. No free depôt, sub-depôt, or rest-house shall be allowed for the accommodation of emigrants until the agent has obtained from the District Magistrate a license in Form E annexed. A fee of Rs. 10 a year shall be paid for the license for each free depôt or sub-depôt, and a fee of Re. 1 a year for the license of each rest-house.

7. The District Magistrate may refuse to give a license for a free depôt, sub-depôt or rest-house unless he is satisfied that the situation is suitable, that the building is not so constructed as to make it possible to retain any person in it in a state of confinement or secluded from communication with outside, and that it fulfils all sanitary requirements. The District Magistrate may require the agent to make such arrangements for the supply of drinking water as may seem to him necessary.

8. Any agent who considers the conditions imposed by District Magistrates before giving a license under Rule 7 to be too onerous may appeal to the Commissioner with a view to their relaxation. The sanitary arrangements in such places shall be regulated generally by the rules prescribed under Act I of 1882 for depôts, subject to such modification as the District Magistrate may consider necessary, where the accommodation provided is for a small number of occupants, or is for temporary use only.

9. The District Magistrate shall maintain a register of the licensed free depôts, sub-depôts and rest-houses in the Form F attached to these rules.

10. For each free depôt, sub-depôt or rest-house, the agent shall, unless he himself lives on the premises, appoint a manager, to be approved by the District Magistrate.

11. The agent or manager in charge of a free depôt, sub-depôt or rest-house shall be responsible for the maintenance in the Form G attached to these rules of a register of the intending emigrants passing through.

12. The agent or manager in charge of a free depôt, sub-depôt or rest-house shall also be responsible that all the rules regarding the equipment of emigrants with clothing, and the provision of food previous to a journey, are duly carried out.

13. The agent or manager in charge of a free depôt shall be responsible for the vaccination of every emigrant unprotected from small-pox as soon as possible after admission into the depôt.

14. The District or Sub-divisional Magistrate, or a Magistrate subordinate to him, or an officer of police above the rank of Sub-Inspector authorised by the District Magistrate in this behalf, or a Civil or Assistant Surgeon when appointed by the District Magistrate, or a special officer appointed by Government, may visit and inspect such accommodation, and all agents, managers and other persons in charge of such free depôts, sub-depôts, or rest-houses shall afford to such officer every facility for making such visits and inspections. All inspection notes made shall be entered in an inspection book to be kept up in the free depôt or sub-depôt, and copies thereof shall be forwarded at once by the inspecting officer to the District Magistrate.

15. The agent or manager, or any of their employés, shall be bound to carry out any order given by the District Magistrate, or a special officer appointed by Government, for the purpose of securing compliance with the rules for depôts referred to in rule 8.

16. Emigrants recruited or admitted to depôts in the (a) Lohardaga, (b) Palámau, and (c) Hazáribágh districts, and in the (d) Sonthal Parganas (none of which are on a railway), shall travel by the following routes to the railway stations at which they are to take the train en route to Dhubri or Goalundo:—

(a) Ranchi to Purulia Railway station.
(b) Daltonganj to Gaya ditto.
(c) Hazáribágh to Giridih Railway station or to Raniganj Railway station viâ Bogodar and Dumri.
(d) Godda to Ghoga or Colgong Railway station.
(e) Dumka to Rampur Hat Railway station.

17. Emigrants despatched by railway to Goalundo, from any point above Hooghly on the East Indian or connected railways, shall travel by Hooghly and Naihati to that station. Those despatched to Dhubri from any such point shall either travel by Hooghly, Naihati and Sara Ghat, or by Manihari Ghat and Katihar to Parbatipur, and thence to Kaunia and Dhubri.

18. Every agent or manager shall report to the police station within the jurisdiction of which the free depôt, sub-depôt, or rest-house of which he is in charge is situated, the occurrence of every death which takes place at such free depôt, sub-depôt or rest-house. Such report should be made within 24 hours of the occurrence of such death.

19. An agent shall either himself accompany the emigrants engaged or assisted by him throughout their journey to the labour districts, or shall send with them some competent person furnished by him with a chálán showing particulars of the emigrants whom he accompanies in the following form :—

Depôt from which despatched.	Date when despatched.	Name and father's name of person in charge of party.	Name of emigrant or dependent.	Destination.	Route to be taken.

20. When the number of emigrants (exclusive of dependents) proceeding on their journey to a labour district is more than twenty, for every twenty emigrants so in excess, or for any number of emigrants less than twenty in excess, one additional agent, or person appointed by him, shall accompany the emigrants so proceeding.

21. Every agent or person appointed by him as aforesaid, who accompanies emigrants to the labour districts, shall provide such emigrants and their dependents (if any) with proper and sufficient food and lodging throughout the journey. He shall also supply each emigrant or dependent, besides the clothing ordinarily provided, with a thick and warm blanket and a woollen jacket in the case of males, and with a thick and warm blanket and a woollen kurta in the case of females.

22. The agent or person appointed as aforesaid shall take all possible care of the emigrants during the journey. He shall provide a cooked meal for emigrants to be started on a railway journey after 9 A.M., and for those to be started at or before that hour, if a cooked meal cannot be provided, a dry meal instead, consisting of bread or biscuit and sugar in the proportion of one pound of bread or two large biscuits, and one ounce of sugar to each emigrant of and above ten years of age, and half the above quantities to each emigrant under the age of ten years; also, if the journey between two halting stations is likely to occupy more than six hours, bread or biscuit and sugar in the same proportions shall be given by the agent for distribution to the emigrants for consumption during the journey: and if more than eight hours, dry provision shall be supplied, such as choora, suttoo, and the like, in such quantity as may be determined by the Superintendent of Emigration or other authorized officer. It shall be seen that the clothing provided is worn by the emigrants whenever the weather renders such a precaution necessary.

23. Any Magistrate or any Embarkation Agent may, if himself a medical man, examine, and, if not himself a medical man, send for examination by a medical man, any emigrant or dependent who, while on the journey to the labour district to which he intends to proceed, appears to such Magistrate or Embarkation Agent to be suffering from cholera, small-pox, or any dangerous communicable disease.

24. If such emigrant or dependent is on such examination declared to be suffering from such disease, the Magistrate or Embarkation Agent may order him to be detained at such place as he thinks fit until the emigrant or dependent is in a fit state of health to undertake such journey, when he shall either be forwarded to such district or sent back to the place from which he came according as the agent or person appointed by him accompanying such labourer or dependent may direct.

While any emigrant or dependent is so detained, he shall be entitled to be fed, lodged, clothed, and (if necessary) medically treated at the cost of the agent.

25. When an order under Rule 24 has been made with reference to any emigrant, any person dependent upon, and any labourer being the wife or husband of such emigrant, shall be entitled—

(a) until such emigrant is in a fit state of health to undertake such journey, to be fed, lodged, clothed, and (if necessary) medically treated at the place where such emigrant is detained and at the cost of the agent;

(b) if such emigrant is sent back to the place from which he came, to be sent back to such place at the cost of the agent.

When any such order has been made with reference to any dependent, the emigrant to whom he is attached shall thereupon, until such dependent is in a fit state of health to undertake the journey to the labour district, be entitled, if the emigrant so wishes, and if he, or she, be the husband, wife, son, or daughter of such dependent, to be fed, lodged, clothed, and (if necessary) medically treated at the place where such dependent is detained and at the cost of the agent; and if such dependent is sent back to the place from which he came, such emigrant shall, if he or she so wishes, and if he or she be the husband, wife, son, or daughter of such dependent, be sent back to such place.

If such emigrant is entitled and claims to be so fed, lodged, clothed, and (if necessary) medically treated, or to be so sent back, his or her dependents, and any other emigrant being the wife or husband of such emigrant, shall be entitled, as the case may be—

(a) to be fed, lodged, clothed, and (if necessary) medically treated at the place where such dependent is detained and at the cost of such agent until such dependent is in a fit state of health to undertake the journey to the labour district, or

(b) to be sent back to the place from which he or she came at the cost of the agent.

26. If the agent or person appointed by him accompanying any emigrant or dependent fails to provide such emigrant or dependent with food, lodging, clothing, and medical treatment, or to send him back as required by Rule 24 or 25, the Magistrate or Embarkation Agent may order such agent or person to pay such sum as is necessary to provide such food, lodging, clothing, and medical treatment, or to defray the cost of the return journey of such emigrant or dependent, as the case may be, to the place from which he came, and on failure for twenty-four hours of such agent or person to comply with such order, he may pay the sum specified in the order to or on behalf of such emigrant or dependent, and recover the amount from the agent.

27. In the event of an emigrant or dependent dying on the journey by road to any Railway station on the way to the labour district, the person in charge of the party shall arrange promptly for the disposal of the dead body in a suitable manner. If he fails to do so, the District Magistrate, or any one appointed by the District Magistrate in that behalf, may dispose of the dead body, and the cost shall be recoverable from the agent.

28. If an emigrant or dependent is attacked by cholera, small-pox, or other dangerous communicable disease, he shall, on recovery, be supplied with clothing by the agent on the scale provided in the case of contractors' emigrants by the rules made under Act I of 1882. If he fails to do so, the District Magistrate, or any one appointed by him in that behalf, may supply such clothing, and the cost shall be recoverable from the agent.

29. Agents or Managers of free depôts situated at Raniganj or at Railway stations to the west or north-west of Raniganj shall give the Superintendent of Emigration at Raniganj at least 24 hours' notice of the number of emigrants they intend to despatch, and by what train they will reach Raniganj.

30. The despatch of emigrants by train, either by Manihari ghat or by Hooghly and Naihati, shall be arranged for by the Superintendent of Emigration at Raniganj with the Railway authorities concerned, so as to prevent overcrowding by the securing of sufficient carriage accommodation for the whole number of emigrants intending to travel. Accommodation for emigrants travelling from Calcutta will be arranged for by the Superintendent of Emigration at that place.

31. When a medical officer has been appointed by Government to examine emigrants despatched from any Railway station, no emigrant shall be put into the train without being inspected and passed as fit to undertake the journey by such officer. The medical officer shall report to the District Magistrate any breach of Rule 22 which may come to his notice, and also of Rule 21 in respect of the prescribed clothing to be supplied to emigrants before commencing the train journey.

32. When emigrants are about to be despatched by train, the purest drinking water obtainable shall be supplied by the Agent in a sufficient number of suitable vessels conveniently placed with the emigrants in the carriages. Emigrants shall be afforded during the journey opportunities for leaving their carriages at suitable places to be fixed from time to time by the Superintendent of Emigration.

33. Emigrants about to travel by train shall be accommodated in third class carriages specially reserved for them, and the number in each carriage shall in no case exceed the regulation number.

34. If cholera occurs on the journey by train, the patient shall, as soon as possible, be removed by the Railway authorities to the nearest cholera hospital on the line, or other suitable place for medical treatment; and particulars of the case, furnishing name of emigrant, batch to which belonging, and depôt from which originally despatched, shall be forwarded by the Station-master to the officers concerned. The expense incurred in removal to a suitable place for medical treatment shall be debited to the Inland Labour Transport Fund, and subsequently recovered from the forwarding agent or employer interested in the patient.

35. At the close of every day's march or of a train journey, the emigrants shall be properly housed and provided with a cooked meal and wholesome supply of water for drinking and ablution purposes.

36. It shall be the duty of the Superintendent of Inland Emigration to inspect places of accommodation provided for emigrants in Calcutta, and to arrange with the Railway authorities the times and places at which the journey shall be broken.

37. Every Agent forwarding emigrants to Cachar or Sylhet by steamer or country boat from or through Goalundo shall cause the emigrants, previous to embarkation or continuation of journey, to be placed for inspection before the Embarkation Officer appointed for that purpose at Goalundo.

38. Whoever commits a breach of any of the above rules, or knowingly makes or abets the making of any incorrect entry in Form G prescribed above, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and if a licensed agent or free recuiter, shall be liable to have his license cancelled by the District Magistrate.

Civil Engineering College, Sibpur.

AN examination for admission to the Mechanical Apprentice Department will be held at the College on Monday and Tuesday, the 9th and 10th January 1893.

Candidates must apply in writing to the Principal not later than the 31st December 1892 for permission to appear at the examination, enclosing a fee of Rs. 2, a certificate of good conduct, and a certificate of age. Applications unaccompanied by fee and certificates will not be considered.

For admission to this Department, candidates must be between the ages of 15 and 17 years.

The subjects of examination are—

Arithmetic	...	...	... The whole
Algebra	...	...	... To Simple Equations.
Euclid	...	...	... Books I and II.

English Grammar and composition.

Every applicant before admission to the College will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour, and eyesight. If this officer's report is unsatisfactory, the applicant will not be admitted, and his examination fee will be returned.

There will be one vacancy on the free list for Christian apprentices in February next, and sixteen on the reduced* fee list.

* Rs. 5 per mensem.

For Natives there will be at least eighteen vacancies, possibly more, on the reduced† fee list. These vacancies will be filled up after the opening of the session by the Board of Visitors from those apprentices who join the College. No guarantee can therefore be given beforehand; but Forms to be filled in for the consideration of the Board can be had on application to the Principal.

† Rs. 2 per mensem.

Owing to want of accommodation, the number of Hindu apprentices to be admitted is limited. Candidates will be selected in order of merit.

J. S. SLATER,
Principal, Civil Engineering College.

NOTIFICATION.

BURDWAN DIVISION.

Entrance Examination.

PRIVATE students from the Burdwan Division who intend to go in for the ensuing Entrance Examination are required to appear at the test examination of one of the under-mentioned schools. Only those candidates who have not read in any institution from the 1st September 1892 will be recognised as private students. They will be required to furnish satisfactory proof that they have not read in any school from that date. They must also produce certificates of conduct and progress in studies from the authorities of the last school where they read, or from other respectable and well-known gentlemen. Candidates who have been transferred since the 1st of September next preceding the examination without the consent of the Inspector to the school in which they are reading will also be regarded as private students. "Private students" includes schoolmasters :—

Name of school.			First day of test examination.
Midnapore Collegiate School	...	...	5th December 1892.
Utterpara ditto	...	...	7th " "
Birbhum Government School	...	...	5th " "

Bali Rivers Thompson School	...	...	7th " "

Each candidate will be admitted to the test examination on his handing over to the head-master of the school where he will be examined a receipt showing the previous payment by him of Rs. 2 into any Government treasury. Should the head-master certify that there is, in his opinion, a reasonable probability of his passing the Entrance Examination, the application of the candidate for admission to the examination, signed by him in the presence of the head-master, should be forwarded to this office for countersignature, and it will be returned to the candidate, who will have to send it along with the entrance fee to the Registrar of the University.

Rules for appearing at the F.A. and B.A. Examinations for candidates, from the Burdwan Division who are not students of an affiliated institution.

DEPUTY INSPECTORS of Schools, Sub-Inspectors of Schools, and Schoolmasters of two years' standing or of six months' standing in the case of those who were admitted to a former examination of the same class will be admitted to the abovementioned examinations. The applications of schoolmasters should be accompanied by a certificate of length of service from the Secretaries or Managers of the schools in which they are employed, and should reach this office not later than the 15th December 1892. The application of a schoolmaster should be signed by him in the presence of the Secretary or a member of the school in which he is employed, and it will be returned to him (the candidate) for transmission along with the examination fee to the Registrar of the University direct. Schoolmasters are not required to pay any fee for getting their application for permission to appear at either of the abovementioned examinations countersigned by this office.

Candidates for the B.A. Examination who are schoolmasters must also send in the Registrar's certificate, showing that they have passed the F.A. Examination.

Candidates should read carefully the form of certificate which this office is required to sign, and should be careful also to supply all information and documents required, including the Registrar's receipt in the case of those schoolmasters who were admitted to a former examination of the same class, without which the Inspector will decline to sign the certificate.

BENI MADHAV DE,
Offg. Inspr. of Schools, Western Circle.

NOTICE.

Entrance Examination.

A TEST examination of private students for admission to the ensuing Entrance Examination will be held at the Office of the Inspector of Schools, Presidency Circle, 4, Dalhousie Square, Calcutta, on Thursday, the 1st, and Friday, the 2nd December 1892. Only candidates residing in any of the districts of the Presidency and Chota Nagpur Divisions will be admitted to the examination.

2. Only those candidates who have not studied in any institution since the 1st September 1892 will be recognized as private students. They will be required to furnish satisfactory proof that they have not read in any school from that date. They must also produce certificates of conduct and progress in studies from the authorities of the last school where they read.

3. Bonâ fide teachers employed in any of the schools in the Presidency Circle may be admitted to the examination, if they can produce certificates of service and character from their employers.

4. Each candidate should submit to this Office, not later than the 21st November 1892, his application for admission to the test examination, stating the following particulars:—

(1) Age; (2) residence; (3) father's name; (4) second language besides English; and (5) whether he appeared at any previous Entrance Examination.

5. The admission-fee for the examination is Rs. 4 for each candidate, and is to be remitted with the application within the prescribed date, after which a fine of Rs. 2 is to be imposed for each week's delay.

6. Candidates who are sent up by this Office must appear at the Calcutta Examination Centre.

Those that reside at a distance from Calcutta are to present themselves at the test examination held by the head-master of the local zillah school, on condition that they appear at the centre selected by the candidates from that institution.

F. A. and B. A. Examinations.

Deputy Inspectors, Sub-Inspectors, and bonâ fide teachers of recognized English schools, in the Presidency and Chota Nagpur Divisions, who have served as such for full two academical years, or for six months in the case of those who have been admitted to a former examination of the same class, will be admitted to the above examinations on production of certificates of character and length of service (with dates) from their employers. Their applications must reach this Office on or before the 25th November 1892.

SARUN COLLECTORATE, the 9th November 1892.

M. SERAJAL HUQ, for Offg. Collector.

APPENDIX XXIV.

SEE CHAPTER II, PART 3, RULE 26.

Advertisement of Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undermentioned plots of land no longer required by Government, situated along the East Indian Railway, in the district of Hooghly, will be put up to sale at 12 o'clock on the 12th January 1893, corresponding with the 29th Pous 1299 B.S.

The purchasers of the several plots of land will be subject to the following conditions:—

1st.—The purchasers will have no power to make any excavations on the lands nearer than fifteen feet from the Railway fencing, or plough the land closer than three feet from its foundation.

2nd.—If the amount of purchase-money does not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount must be paid down at once.

3rd.—If the amount of purchase-money exceeds Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount must be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale shall be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the lot again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser after issue of advertisement, as in the case of original sale.

4th.—The plots of land will be sold revenue-free to the highest bidders.

5th.—The purchaser shall be put in possession on receipt by the Collector of the orders of the Board confirming the sale.

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and comprise four series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat, and the Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad respectively.

In supersession of the previous advertisements, on and from the 1st January 1889 the terms of subscription and sale will be as follows for current issues as well as for back numbers of the Reports from 1876:—

* Mean of 6 days.

[illegible]—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period [illegible] humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10 [illegible] rainfall the normal mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional station [illegible], i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one of

for the week ending Saturday, the 19th of November 1892.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are [wa]nting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least [...] inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 22nd November 1892.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 19TH OF NOVEMBER 1892.

THE changes of meteorological conditions during the past week have been of little importance and have been of the slight oscillatory character usual during fine settled weather. At the close of the past week the cold weather conditions were distinctly more pronounced than is usual in the early part of November, pressure was above the normal, temperature was in defect, and fine clear dry weather obtained in all districts. With slight unimportant changes similar conditions have also prevailed during the whole of the present week, though perhaps the tendency has been for the cold season conditions to become rather less strongly pronounced than they were in the previous week.

On the 13th instant pressure was falling slowly to moderately over the whole province, and had become almost normal for the day; temperature had also fallen by small amounts and was below the normal by about 2° to 3°. On the 14th a slight rise of pressure commenced which continued on the 15th, and on these two days temperature also rose generally, and the mean temperature became very nearly normal except in the south-western districts, where a considerable defect still existed. On the 16th, 17th and 18th instants the changes of both pressure and temperature were small, and though pressure was falling slowly, the general temperature and pressure distribution for the whole province were fairly normal. On the 19th, or the last day of the week, pressure began to rise in all districts, but the rise was so slight that the general pressure remained practically normal for the day, while also in the case of temperature the changes were small, but the mean temperature had become slightly below the normal in the majority of districts, the defect as before being most pronounced in South-West Bengal and Orissa. Thus it will be seen the meteorological changes for the week have been unusually small in every respect.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week in most districts has been very nearly normal, and about two-thirds of the stations report slight excess pressures, in the majority of cases less than a hundredth of an inch, while about one-third of the stations report defects of about similar amount. Speaking generally, the excess pressures are registered in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and the western stations generally, and also at the stations in the east of the province, while slightly defective pressures have been recorded at the Central Bengal stations. For the whole province the mean pressure for the week has thus been almost normal.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the whole province of Bengal for the week has been 1·2° in defect of the normal; the variation, however, has been largest in the west and south-west of the province, where Chota Nagpur and Orissa show defects of from 2° to 3°. On the other hand, temperature has been very nearly normal in Bihár, and quite normal in North Bengal.

The defect in most districts has been rather more marked in the night than in the day temperatures. This will be clearly seen in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week for nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with their normal values for the same period. The usual range of temperature during the week in various districts can therefore also be very clearly seen and has equalled about 20° to 25°:—

Rainfall.—With the very doubtful exception of 0·40 inch of rain reported in two showers on the 13th and 14th instants at Gournadi in the Backergunge district, the whole province has been rainless throughout the week.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 19th of November 1892:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

LAKES ALBERT AND ALEXANDRINA AND THE RIVER MURRAY.

The practice of fixing poles or stakes for fishing purposes prohibited.

THE following Notice to Mariners (No. 9 of 1892), issued by the Secretary to the Marine Board, port Adelaide, is republished :—

It having been reported to the Marine Board that in lakes Albert and Alexandrina, and the river Murray, a dangerous practice by fishermen exists, namely, that of fixing poles or stakes for fishing purposes, to the danger of other vessels navigating the lakes and river, notice is hereby given that no piles, poles, or stakes shall be erected, fixed, or driven within the navigable waters of lakes Albert and Alexandrina, and river Murray, and that all such piles, poles, or stakes at present erected, fixed, or driven shall be removed forthwith.

Attention is called to "The Marine Board and Navigation Act," part 10, section 395, which, among other things, provides that, if any person shall erect, drive, or fix any such pile, pole or stake within the jurisdiction of the Board without permission in writing from the Board, shall, on conviction, be liable to forfeit and pay a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds ; and any such person who neglects or fails to remove any such pile, &c., so placed after notice to remove the same, he shall for every such offence be liable to forfeit and pay a further penalty not exceeding five pounds for every day that he fails or neglects to remove such pile, pole, or stake.

N. B.—The Board will offer no objection to anchors or sinkers, with small buoys attached, being used in place of the abovementioned poles, &c.

AUSTRALIA, NORTH COAST—TORRES STRAIT.

Proudfoot shoal light-vessel—intended withdrawal.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 437 of 1893) that on 14th January 1893, Proudfoot shoal light-vessel will be withdrawn from her station in the western approach to Torres strait, and not replaced.

Approximate position: lat. 10° 32½′ S., long. 141° 28½′ E.

CAUTION.—As the withdrawal of this light-vessel will leave the dangerous Proudfoot shoal unmarked, care should be taken in approaching Booby island from the westward to keep well to the southward.

[Third Publication.]

AFRICA, NORTH-EAST COAST—RED SEA, WESTERN SHORE.

Shoal reported north-west of Difnein Island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 448 of 1892) that information has been received from H. B. M. Consul at Jidda that Mr. Baldwin, commanding the British S.S. Akbar, reports that, when approaching North Massawa channel from the northward on 1st July 1892, the ship, drawing nearly 20 feet water, touched slightly at 8 P.M. on a shoal (probably composed of coral) lying with Difnein island bearing about S.S.E. ½ E., distant 12 miles. A sounding of 5 fathoms was obtained near the spot, and soon after the ship was anchored in 22 fathoms. The weather at the time was hazy, and there was a slight swell from the southward.

Position as given to be considered very doubtful, lat. 16° 47′ N., long. 39° 12′ E.

CAUTION.—There being many indications of shoal patches northward of Difnein, and the area being but imperfectly examined, caution is necessary in approaching that island. A note to this effect has been placed on Admiralty chart No. 164.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period

The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10 rainfall the normal mean are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional station district, i.e. from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one of

for the week ending Saturday, the 19th of November 1892.

CALCUTTA, the 22nd November 1892.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 19TH OF NOVEMBER 1892.

THE changes of meteorological conditions during the past week have been of little importance and have been of the slight oscillatory character usual during fine settled weather. At the close of the past week the cold weather conditions were distinctly more pronounced than is usual in the early part of November, pressure was above the normal, temperature was in defect, and fine clear dry weather obtained in all districts. With slight unimportant changes similar conditions have also prevailed during the whole of the present week, though perhaps the tendency has been for the cold season conditions to become rather less strongly pronounced than they were in the previous week.

On the 13th instant pressure was falling slowly to moderately over the whole province, and had become almost normal for the day; temperature had also fallen by small amounts and was below the normal by about 2° to 3°. On the 14th a slight rise of pressure commenced which continued on the 15th, and on these two days temperature also rose generally, and the mean temperature became very nearly normal except in the south-western districts, where a considerable defect still existed. On the 16th, 17th and 18th instants the changes of both pressure and temperature were small, and though pressure was falling slowly, the general temperature and pressure distribution for the whole province were fairly normal. On the 19th, or the last day of the week, pressure began to rise in all districts, but the rise was so slight that the general pressure remained practically normal for the day, while also in the case of temperature the changes were small, but the mean temperature had become slightly below the normal in the majority of districts, the defect as before being most pronounced in South-West Bengal and Orissa. Thus it will be seen the meteorological changes for the week have been unusually small in every respect.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week in most districts has been very nearly normal, and about two-thirds of the stations report slight excess pressures, in the majority of cases less than a hundredth of an inch, while about one-third of the stations report defects of about similar amount. Speaking generally, the excess pressures are registered in Orissa, Chota Nagpur and the western stations generally, and also at the stations in the east of the province, while slightly defective pressures have been recorded at the Central Bengal stations. For the whole province the mean pressure for the week has thus been almost normal.

Temperature.—The mean temperature of the whole province of Bengal for the week has been 1·2° in defect of the normal; the variation, however, has been largest in the west and south-west of the province, where Chota Nagpur and Orissa show defects of from 2° to 3°. On the other hand, temperature has been very nearly normal in Bihár, and quite normal in North Bengal.

The defect in most districts has been rather more marked in the night than in the day temperatures. This will be clearly seen in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week for nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with their normal values for the same period. The usual range of temperature during the week in various districts can therefore also be very clearly seen and has equalled about 20° to 25°:—

Rainfall.—With the very doubtful exception of 0·40 inch of rain reported in two showers on the 13th and 14th instants at Gournadi in the Backergunge district, the whole province has been rainless throughout the week.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NOTIFICATION.

The 15th November 1892.—The following rules for the examination for admission to the Executive branch of the Provincial Civil Service and to the Subordinate Civil Service to be held in 1893 are published for general information:—

1. An examination of candidates for appointment as Deputy Collectors and Magistrates and as Sub-Deputy Collectors will be held in Calcutta in March 1893 on dates to be notified hereafter.

2. All candidates for examination shall apply in writing to the Under-Secretary in the Appointment Department not later than the 1st of February 1893. The application shall be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 20 and by certificates to the following effect:—

(1) That on the date fixed for the examination the candidate's age will not exceed 25 years. This certificate should be supported by the candidate's horoscope, or if the horoscope cannot for sufficient reason be produced, by other sufficient evidence, such as the sworn affidavit of a near relation. [Persons already in the Government service, who may be candidates for these appointments, will not be subject to this condition of age.]

(2) That he is of good moral character.

(3) That he has passed the B.A. examination of the Calcutta University, or that he has received an education not below the standard of such examination.

(4) That he is of sound health, good physique, and capable of bearing fatigue and exposure. This certificate must be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate resides, or if in Calcutta by the Resident Physician or the Resident Surgeon of the Calcutta Medical College Hospital. The fee for medical examination will in all cases be Rs. 4.

(5) That he is of active habits and able to ride. The certificate must be signed by a District Officer (or in his absence from head-quarters by the Joint-Magistrate in charge), or by the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police, Calcutta.

Each candidate shall also submit a statement showing the landed property owned by him, or in which he may have any interest, or which may be held by and managed by his wife or by any other member of his family, living with or in any way dependent on him.

The Lieutenant-Governor may, at his discretion, call for such additional proof as he may think fit in reference to any of the above points.

3. No candidate, who is already serving under another Government, will be allowed to compete, unless he obtains the previous permission of that Government.

4. The subjects of examination and the marks to be awarded will, until further orders, be as follows:—

(a) English.—The examination will be so arranged as to test a candidate's ability to write correct and idiomatic English, and will include précis-writing and letter-drafting. In awarding marks in these papers, great weight will be attached to good and legible handwriting.

(b) Vernacular.—Candidates will be examined in one of the following languages at their option:—Bengali, Urdu, Hindi, and Uriya. The examination will include—

(1) Translation into English of proceedings, petitions, reports, &c., written in manuscript.

(2) Translation from English into the vernacular selected.

(c) Law—

(1) Regulation I of 1793 and Field's Introduction to the Regulations; Act VIII of 1885; Regulation VII of 1822; Act X of 1870;

(2) The Penal Code; the Code of Criminal Procedure; the Code of Civil Procedure; the Evidence Act.

(d) Surveying.—Survey and mensuration.

The marks will be given on the following scale:—

English	...	...	...	300
Vernacular	...	...	...	100
Law	...	...	...	300
Surveying	...	...	...	100
		Total	...	800

5. It is at present proposed to select seven candidates for Deputy Collectorships and seven for Sub-Deputy Collectorships. These will at first be appointed as probationers, on salaries of Rs. 50 and Rs. 30 a month, respectively. Four of the probationers for Deputy Collectorships will be appointed from the first four candidates on the list in order of merit; and three will be selected by the Lieutenant-Governor from among those who have obtained a minimun of one-third of the total marks. From the remainder of those qualified by obtaining one-third of the marks, the Lieutenant-Governor will select seven more candidates as probationers for Sub-Deputy Collectorships.

6. No probationer will be appointed to officiate as a Deputy Collector and Magistrate or as a Sub-Deputy Collector unless he has given satisfactory proof, during his period of probation, of physical and mental capacity and of general good conduct. He must before appointment afford such further evidence of his ability to ride as may be required.

The 29th November 1892.

No. 112*Marine.*—Whereas it appears that the actual income of the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta under Act III of 1890 up to the 31st October 1892, and the estimated income of the residue of the year ending the 31st March 1893, after deducting therefrom the actual expenditure for the above period and the estimated expenditure of the remaining portion of the year, will be insufficient for the payment of the sums which, under the provisions of the said Act, are payable during the year to the Secretary of State for India in Council, and to the holders of debentures under the said Act, it is hereby notified that from the 1st of January 1893 the Port Commissioners shall charge upon all goods landed from or shipped into any vessel lying or being within the limits of the Port, whether such goods shall or shall not be so landed or shipped at any dock, wharf, quay, stage or jetty belonging to the Commissioners, in addition to, or other than those prescribed by any scale of tolls, dues, rates and charges now in force, a toll which shall approximate four annas per ton, except for export coal, the charge on which shall be two annas per ton and on bunker coal which shall be free. For the purpose of levying such toll on miscellaneous general cargo landed or shipped at the Kidderpore Docks, or at the Jetties, the Commissioners will follow the schedules of charges prescribed for the Docks and the Jetties and charge one-fifth of the rates therein specified, but where the landing or shipping charge is in these schedules levied on the ton by weight, then the special charge under this notification shall be four annas per ton. For the purpose of levying such toll on goods landed or shipped over the Inland Vessels Wharves, the ton shall be reckoned at the respective weights and measurements given in the schedule in force for those wharves.

C. H. TAWNEY,
Offg. Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

Orders by the Vice-Chancellor and Syndicate of the Calcutta University.

THE following changes in the Regulations of the University in Arts, Law, and Medicine have been sanctioned by the Senate and approved by His Excellency the Governor-General of India in Council:—

(i) In Appendix A to the Regulations the words "the Principal of an Affiliated College or" and "or by the Head Master of a High School under public management" have been omitted from the marginal note to the certificate appended to the application form for admission to the Entrance Examination, and the following foot-note has been added:—

"It shall be in the power of the Inspector to instruct a private student to attend the test-examination of a Government or other High School, instead of holding a test-examination himself, and to authorise the Head Master of such school to sign the application from the student which must afterwards be countersigned by the Inspector.

No private student will be admitted to a test-examination unless accompanied for the purpose of identification by some person known to the officer conducting the test-examination."

(ii) The following paragraph has been added to the Regulations for the B.A. Examination of female candidates (page 48 of the University Calendar for 1892):—

"2. Every female candidate shall be allowed to take up the subjects prescribed by the University of Calcutta for the B.A. Course, with the option of substituting French for the second language."

(iii) In paragraph 3 of the Regulations for the examination for Honours in Law, the words "three months" have been substituted for "one month."

(iv) The following changes have been adopted in the Regulations for the examinations in Medicine:—

(a) The following has been substituted for paragraph 1 of the Regulations for a Licence in Medicine and Surgery:—

"An examination for a Licence in Medicine and Surgery shall be held in Calcutta, and shall commence at such times as the Syndicate shall determine, the dates to be approximately notified in the Calendar for the year. The examination shall consist of three parts, entitled respectively the Preliminary Scientific, the First and the Second Licentiate Medical Examination. The Preliminary Scientific and the First Licentiate Medical Examinations shall be held annually; the Second Licentiate Medical Examination shall be held twice a year."

(b) In the foot-note to paragraph 18 of the Regulations for the Licence in Medicine and Surgery (Calendar for 1892, Addenda, page XIV), the words "in other subjects, attendance at one course of lectures, as defined in paragraph 16," have been omitted, and the following words substituted in their place:—

"in Pathology, attendance at six post-mortem pathological demonstrations by a Professor of Pathology; in Medical Jurisprudence, attendance at six medico-legal post-mortems by a Professor of Medical Jurisprudence, or by a Civil Surgeon."

(c) After paragraph 18 of the Regulations for the Licence in Medicine and Surgery he following new paragraphs have been added:—

"19. A candidate who fails at the Second L.M.S. Examination shall be re-examined only in the subject or subjects in which he has failed, provided he presents himself for re-examination within one year from the date of the examination at which he failed. If he fails to present himself for re-examination within one year, he shall be re-examined in all the prescribed subjects.

"20. A candidate who fails in more than two of the four subjects, Medicine, Surgery, Midwifery, and Pathology, or in two of these subjects and in Medical Jurisprudence and Hygiene, shall not be admitted to the examination next following that at which he failed."

(d) The following new paragraph has been added after paragraph 15 of the Regulations for the M.B. Examination:—

"16. A candidate who has failed at the Second L.M.S. Examination shall not be admitted to the Second M.B. Examination till six months have expired from the date of such failure."

The changes in the Regulations instituting half-yearly examinations in Medicine will come into effect in March 1893, and the first re-examination under the new rules will commence on the 1st March 1893.

W. GRIFFITHS, Offg. Registrar.

SENATE HOUSE, the 25th November 1892.

Civil Engineering College, Sibpur.

AN examination for admission to the Mechanical Apprentice Department will be held at the College on Monday and Tuesday, the 9th and 10th January 1893.

Candidates must apply in writing to the Principal not later than the 31st December 1892 for permission to appear at the examination, enclosing a fee of Rs. 2, a certificate of good conduct, and a certificate of age. Applications unaccompanied by fee and certificates will not be considered.

For admission to this Department, candidates must be between the ages of 15 and 17 years.

The subjects of examination are—

Arithmetic	...	...	...	The whole
Algebra	...	...	...	To Simple Equations.
Euclid	...	...	...	Books I and II.

English Grammar and composition.

Every applicant before admission to the College will be examined by the College Surgeon as to his physical strength, fitness for manual labour, and eyesight. If this officer's report is unsatisfactory, the applicant will not be admitted, and his examination fee will be returned.

There will be one vacancy on the free list for Christian apprentices in February next, and sixteen on the reduced* fee list.

* Rs. 5 per mensem.

For Natives there will be at least eighteen vacancies, possibly more, on the reduced† fee list. These vacancies will be filled up after the opening of the session by the Board of Visitors from those apprentices who join the College. No guarantee can therefore be given beforehand; but Forms to be filled in for the consideration of the Board can be had on application to the Principal.

† Rs. 2 per mensem.

Owing to want of accommodation, the number of Hindu apprentices to be admitted is limited. Candidates will be selected in order of merit.

Each candidate will be admitted to the test examination on his handing over to the head-master of the school where he will be examined a receipt showing the previous payment by him of Rs. 2 into any Government treasury. Should the head-master certify that there is, in his opinion, a reasonable probability of his passing the Entrance Examination, the application of the candidate for admission to the examination, signed by him in the presence of the head-master, should be forwarded to this office for countersignature, and it will be returned to the candidate, who will have to send it along with the entrance fee to the Registrar of the University.

Rules for appearing at the F.A. and B.A. Examinations for candidates, from the Burdwan Division who are not students of an affiliated institution.

DEPUTY INSPECTORS of Schools, Sub-Inspectors of Schools, and Schoolmasters of two years' standing or of six months' standing in the case of those who were admitted to a former examination of the same class will be admitted to the abovementioned examinations. The applications of schoolmasters should be accompanied by a certificate of length of service from the Secretaries or Managers of the schools in which they are employed, and should reach this office not later than the 15th December 1892. The application of a schoolmaster should be signed by him in the presence of the Secretary or a member of the school in which he is employed, and it will be returned to him (the candidate) for transmission along with the examination fee to the Registrar of the University direct. Schoolmasters are not required to pay any fee for getting their application for permission to appear at either of the abovementioned examinations countersigned by this office.

Candidates for the B.A. Examination who are schoolmasters must also send in the Registrar's certificate, showing that they have passed the F.A. Examination.

Candidates should read carefully the form of certificate which this office is required to sign, and should be careful also to supply all information and documents required, including the Registrar's receipt in the case of those schoolmasters who were admitted to a former examination of the same class, without which the Inspector will decline to sign the certificate.

1.—The opium will be sold for exportation by sea only, and no certificate will be granted except to cover such export.

2.—The opium will be ordinarily offered for sale at an upset price of Rs. 800 per chest, and sold to the highest bidder above that price, except under the circumstances for which provision is made by clause 13 of these conditions of sale. The bids must advance by Rs. 5 at a time.

3.—The sale shall commence at the hour of 11 A.M. of the day fixed by previous notification, and shall not be continued after the hour of 5 P.M.; but if at that hour any of the lots advertised for sale shall remain unsold, the sale may, at the discretion of the Board of Revenue, be resumed on the next day following (not being Sunday or a public holiday), at the hour of 11 A.M., and so on until the whole of the remaining lots are disposed of; or, if the whole quantity advertised shall not be sold on the day appointed, the Board of Revenue may dispose of the lots which remain on hand at a future sale.

4.—Each lot shall contain five chests.

5.—A Promissory Note for a sum, calculated according to the scale noted in the margin, shall be taken as a deposit on each lot from the purchaser in the sale-room and before the lot is registered in the sale-book, and all such Promissory Notes shall be redeemed on the part of the purchasers at this Office by Bank of Bengal receipts or by substitution of other public securities of the Government of India, on or before 3-30 P.M. in the afternoon of the fifth day after the sale, provided it does not fall on a Saturday; if it falls on a Saturday, the said notes must be redeemed by 1-30 P.M., or, on the other hand, failing such redemption by the time aforesaid, then the lot or lots for which no Bank of Bengal receipts or deposit of other public securities as aforesaid shall have been delivered in, shall be re-sold at such time or times and under such conditions of re-sale as the Board of Revenue shall see fit; and all losses and expenses whatsoever attending such re-sale shall be borne and paid by the defaulters, whilst any profit accruing from such re-sale shall be forfeited to Government.

DEPOSIT.

When the amount bid is less than Rs. 1,200 per chest, Rs. 200 per chest.
On bids of Rs. 1,200 and upwards, but less than Rs. 1,600 per chest, Rs. 300 per chest.
On bids of Rs. 1,600 and upwards, but less than Rs. 2,000 per chest, Rs. 400 per chest.
And so on, Rs. 100 being added to the deposit for every bid additional, to the extent of Rs. 400.

6.—The said Promissory Notes shall be absolutely payable in any event, and the amount thereof shall be absolutely forfeited upon such default as before mentioned, and the amount thereof shall not go or be credited in reduction of any loss on re-sale or expenses thereby incurred, but shall be recoverable whether such re-sale shall be had or not, or whether there shall be a loss on such re-sale or not.

7.—The Promissory Notes taken on the day of sale under the fifth condition, if remaining unredeemed at 3-30 P.M. of the fifth day following the day of sale, or 1-30 P.M. if the last day falls on a Saturday, will be placed in the hands of the Solicitor to the Government for realization in such manner as to him shall seem fit.

8.—No tender of money, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or public securities, on account of opium upon which the prescribed deposit may not have been made before the prescribed time in clause 5 on the fifth day following the day of sale will be afterwards accepted. Provided always that money so subsequently tendered may be taken in payment of the said Promissory Note, but such acceptance of money shall in no way entitle the payer thereof to any right to delivery of the lot or lots in respect whereof the said note was given, or to any of the rights of a purchaser thereof, or release the payer from liability for any unpaid balance of such notes or from the additional liability for the loss and expenses of such re-sale as provided for in clauses No. 5 and No. 6.

9.—The opium advertised for sale shall be paid for not later than by 3-30 P.M. of the fifteenth day from the day of sale, provided it does not fall on a Saturday; if it falls on a Saturday, the opium must be paid for by 1-30 P.M.; and in case any lots of such opium shall not be so paid for and adjusted, then the cash deposit made under the fifth condition, or any public securities that may have been deposited on account of such lots or chests, shall be forfeited, and the opium shall be disposed of on account of Government at such time and in such manner as the Board of Revenue shall think fit; and the first purchaser shall further be required to make good all expenses and any loss or difference of price between that obtained at the re-sale and the amount at which the opium was first purchased, forfeiting all advantages that may arise from such re-sale, and the liability for the loss or difference of price and expenses shall be in addition to, and wholly independent of, the amount of the deposit so forfeited.

10.—Purchasers taking out certificates or orders for the delivery of opium, after making full payment as above prescribed, shall have the option of naming the number of lots of their purchase, which they may desire to be included in each certificate or order; and it is to be clearly understood that the certificates or orders so taken out shall be considered final, and not afterwards changeable for other certificates or orders authorizing the delivery of single lots, or of a different number of lots or chests, whether more or less, than the number of lots or chests originally required to be included in each certificate or order.

11.—No deposit of public securities under the fifth of the present conditions will be received in this office except from the party recorded as the purchaser in the sale-book, or his authorized agent. The receipt for deposit of public securities will be granted only in the name of such purchaser, and the securities so deposited will be returned when payment in full has been made by the said purchaser or his order.

12.—The officer superintending the sale on the part of the Government is empowered to reject, at his discretion, the bid of any individual, unless such individual shall on demand render at the time a deposit either in Government of India Notes, Bank of Bengal Receipts, or Government Securities, a sum equal to the amount for which a Promissory Note would otherwise be taken under the fifth of these conditions.

13.—With a view to prevent fictitious biddings designed to obstruct the sale, it is hereby notified that the officer of Government superintending the sale shall be competent, at any time during the sale, to withdraw any unsold lot, and immediately to put it up again for sale at a maximum upset price, diminishing the same gradually by Rs. 5 at a time until a bid is obtained; and the first bonâ fide bidder for a lot after it has been offered for sale in the mode here described shall be held and declared to be the purchaser of the said lot, and the officer of Government superintending the sale shall also be competent to dispose, in the same manner, of as many of the subsequent lots as he may think proper, provided always that no lot shall be sold below the minimum price of Rs. 800 specified in the second of these conditions.

14.—The purchaser of any lot shall have the option of naming and purchasing in immediate succession, at the same price and under the same conditions, any number of lots of the same Agency opium not exceeding altogether twenty-five lots, provided always that there remain a sufficient number of lots of the opium to complete the said twenty-five.

15.—In the event of any dispute or difference touching or concerning any matter or question arising out of the sale of the opium included in this notification, or adjustment of the account thereof, the same shall and may be tried and decided in the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

16.—The following papers will be exhibited for inspection on the day of sale, or may be seen previously to that date by personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue:—No. 1, certificate of the opium advertised for sale; No. 2, report of the examination of such opium.

17.—The public are hereby informed that in providing the investment of the opium manufactured at the Patna Factory and the opium manufactured at the Ghazeepore Factory for the year 1891-92, the same precautions have been taken as those which have been observed during past years to have the drug procured and sent down in a pure state, to have only the prescribed quantity of leaves used in forming the cakes, and to have the due proportion of opium put into each cake. An account of the weight of the drug when packed at the Patna and Ghazeepore

Factories, and a statement of the average weight of the chests, indiscriminately taken, for the purpose of comparison, from the despatches on arrival at Calcutta, may be seen on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue.

18.—Any further information respecting weight or quality of the opium advertised for sale that may be desired by parties connected with the trade will, as heretofore, be furnished to them on personal application at the Office of the Board of Revenue. But, in accordance with established usage, under no circumstances will the Board of Revenue entertain or recognize any claim to compensation for loss from any alleged deficiency of weight, abstraction of opium, or adulteration of the drug, which may be preferred on reference to chests after the sale and delivery of the opium for shipment.

By order of the Board of Revenue, L. P.,

T. INGLIS, Secretary.

R. CARSTAIRS,
Deputy Commissioner, Sonthal Parganas.

No. 1563J., Camp Monghyr, the 2nd September 1892.

From—C. C. QUINN, ESQ., Commissioner of the Bhágalpur Division,

To—The Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, P. W. Dept.

I HAVE the honour to submit herewith the annual account and report of the District Road Fund of the Sonthal Parganas for the year 1891-92. The Deputy Commissioner of the Sonthal Parganas has been requested to explain how the entry Rs. 150-1-2 against one Overseer for four months at Rs. 37-8-0 per month has been arrived at.

2. There is no Road Cess Committee in the Sonthal Parganas as it is a non-cess district.

3. There was an opening balance of Rs.26,666 on the 1st April 1891. The income of the year 1891-92 amounted to Rs. 81,470. The total income of the year, including the balance of the previous year was Rs. 1,08,136.

4. The income under the head of Miscellaneous receipts was Rs. 13,830 against Rs. 528 of the previous year. The increase is due to the grant of Rs. 13,551-8 by the Maharaja of Darbhanga and received and made over by the Sub-divisional Officer of Deoghur to the Deputy Commissioner, Sonthal Parganas, for clearing out and preventing the further silting up of the Sivagunga tank at Deoghur and for diverting the drainage of the town clear of this and other neighbouring tanks.

5. The income under the head Grant from Government is Rs. 54,576 against Rs. 46,328 of the previous year. The increase is owing to a special grant of Rs. 5,000 made by Government for the construction of a bridge over the Haripore stream and the completion of the pucka causeways over the Ramgurh and Semanjore streams and to the allotment of Rs. 3,165 by the Board of Revenue for the improvement of Government estates during the year 1891-92

6. The advances recovered during the year amounted to Rs. 11,321 against Rs. 8,699 of the year 1890-91.

7. The security deposit received during the year was Rs. 1,743 against Rs. 725, of the year 1890-91.

Expenditure.

8. The expenditure of the year, inclusive of advances, was Rs. 71,814 against Rs. 45 520 of the previous year. The following table compares the expenditure incurred on account of public works as compared with the figures of the previous years :—

Year.	Original works.	Repairs.	Establishment.	Tools and plant.	Total.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1890-91	3,284	25,739	6,784	544	36,351
1891-92	16,927	29,777	7,368	499	54,571

The percentage of the cost of establishment on the total expenditure on public works, exclusive of advances, is Rs. 13 5 against Rs. 18·6 (corrected figures) of the previous year.

Original Works—District Road Fund Works.

9. A masonry bridge over the Nunhochee nala on the Dumka and Rampur Hát road was completed during the year. The following works undertaken from the Government Estates Improvement Fund were also completed :—

A masonry bridge over the Audrisole nala and another on the Ero nala on the 15th mile of the Dumka-Pakour road.

10. As mentioned above the Maharaja of Darbhanga presented a sum of Rs. 13,551-8 for the improvement of the Sivagunga tank and of the drainage system at Deoghur. An estimate, amounting to Rs. 13,229, was sanctioned by this office for the work, but a sum of Rs. 4,104 only was expended during the year.

Repairs.

11. All the roads entered in the printed schedule were repaired during the year. There are 749 miles of roads in the district, of which 183 miles are metalled and 566 miles unmetalled. The average cost per mile of maintaining the metalled and unmetalled roads was Rs. 70 and Rs. 18, respectively.

12. All the buildings including the staging bungalows at Sahibganj and Rajmahal, were maintained in repair.

Village roads.

13. There are three village roads maintained out of the District Road Fund. The aggregate length of these roads is 17½ miles, and the cost of their maintenance during the year was Rs. 415.

Arboriculture.

14. No new trees were planted during the year but those already in existence were maintained.

Sanitation.

15. A sum of Rs. 122 only was expended on sanitary improvements in the Government estates.

16. In the current year besides the works in hand and the ordinary repairs, it is proposed to construct a masonry bridge over the Jeebunpore stream on the Bhágalpur and Suri road at an estimated cost of Rs. 1,030.

No. 133P.W., dated Dumka, the 10th September 1892.

From—R. CARSTAIRS, ESQ., Deputy Commissioner of the Sonthal Parganas,
To—The Commissioner of the Bhágalpur Division.

REFERRING to your No. 1536J., dated the 1st current, I have the honour to state that the overseer was paid in excess anna one and pies two only. His salary from the 3rd September 1891 to 2nd January 1892 at Rs. 37-8 per mensem comes to Rs. 150, and not Rs. 150-1-2. The excess payment will be recovered and credited into the treasury.

LAND SALE NOTICES.

NOTICE is hereby given, under sections 6 and 13, Act XI of 1859, that the undermentioned estates or shares of estates in the district of Tippera will be put up for sale at the Collector's Office of that district on the 8th December 1892 for arrears of revenue and other demands, which, by the Regulations and Acts in force, are directed to be realized in the same manner as arrears of revenue.

Sarun Collectorate, the 9th November 1892.

M. SERAJAL HUQ, for Offg. Collector.

APPENDIX XXIV.

SEE CHAPTER II, PART 3, RULE 26.

Advertisement of Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undermentioned plots of land no longer required by Government, situated along the East Indian Railway, in the district of Hooghly, will be put up to sale at 12 o'clock on the 12th January 1893, corresponding with the 29th Pous 1299 B.S.

The purchasers of the several plots of land will be subject to the following conditions:—

1st.—The purchasers will have no power to make any excavations on the lands nearer than fifteen feet from the Railway fencing, or plough the land closer than three feet from its foundation.

2nd.—If the amount of purchase-money does not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount must be paid down at once.

3rd.—If the amount of purchase-money exceeds Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount must be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale shall be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the lot again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser after issue of advertisement, as in the case of original sale.

4th.—The plots of land will be sold revenue-free to the highest bidders.

5th.—The purchaser shall be put in possession on receipt by the Collector of the orders of the Board confirming the sale.

DHANESH CHUNDER ROY, for Collector.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undermentioned plot of land no longer required by Government, situated along the Tirhut State Railway, in the district of Monghyr, will be put up to sale at 12 o'clock on Wednesday, the 18th January 1893, corresponding with the 16th Pous 1300 Fusli, at Begamsurai Station, Tirhut State Railway.

The purchaser of the plot of land will be subject to the following conditions :—

1st.—The purchasers will have no power to make any excavations on the land nearer than 15 feet from the railway fencing, or plough the land closer than 3 feet from its foundation.

2nd.—If the amount of purchase-money does not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount must be paid down at once.

3rd.—If the amount of purchase-money exceeds Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount must be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the 15th day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale shall be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the lot again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser, after issue of advertisement, as in the case of original sale.

4th.—The plot of land will be sold revenue free to the highest bidders.

MUZAFFARPUR, the 25th November 1892. T. W FISCHER, for Collector.

NOTICE is hereby given, under sections 6 and 13, Act XI of 1859, that the undermentioned estates or shares of estates in the district of Balasore will be put up for sale at the Collector's Office of that district on the 30th December 1892 for arrears of revenue and other demands which, by the Regulations and Acts in force, are directed to be realized in the same manner as arrears of revenue.

When in columns 5, 7, and 9 of the appended statement it is stated that only a share is to be sold, a separate account is kept for such share, and the other share or shares in the estate are excluded from the sale.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part I.—Chapter I.—Preliminary.—Sections 1-2.)

A Bill to consolidate and amend certain Indian enactments relating to Merchant Shipping and the carriage of passengers by sea.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend certain Indian enactments relating to Merchant Shipping and the carriage of passengers by sea; [Bill of 1867, preamble.]

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

Title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1892; and

(2) Except as provided in section 6 and section 351, sub-section (2), it shall come into force on the first day of April, 1893.

Repeal.

2. (1) On and from the first day of April, 1893, the enactments mentioned in Part A of Schedule I shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

(2) But all offices established or constituted, officers appointed, persons nominated or authorised, powers conferred, ports and places appointed, directions given, rules, declarations and exemptions made, bonds executed, forms sanctioned, fees or scales fixed, investigations held, certificates granted, suspended or cancelled, agreements made, proceedings commenced and other things duly done under any enactment repealed by sub-section (1) or under any enactment repealed by any enactment repealed by sub-section (1), shall, so far as may be practicable, be deemed to have been respectively constituted, established, appointed, nominated, authorised, conferred, given, made, executed, sanctioned, fixed, held, granted, suspended or cancelled, commenced and done under this Act. [Act IX of 1879, s. 2; Act V of 1883, s. 2; Act VI of 1884, s. 3 (2); Act X of 1887, s. 4 (2); Bill of 1867, s. 2; Bill of 1882, s. 2.]

(3) For the purposes of sub-section (2), certificates of the kinds mentioned in the first column of Schedule II, granted under the Acts mentioned in that column, shall be deemed, respectively, to be certificates of the kinds mentioned in the second column of that schedule, and to have been granted under the provisions of this Act mentioned respectively in the third column thereof. [Act VI of 1884, s. 3 (3).]

(4) Any enactment or document referring to any enactment repealed by sub-section (1), or to any enactment repealed by any enactment repealed by sub-section (1), shall, so far as may be practicable, be construed to refer to this Act or the corresponding portion thereof. [Act VI of 1884, s. 4; Act X of 1887, s. 4 (3); and of Act XIII of 1889, s. 2 (3).]

(6) "Board of Trade certificate" means a certificate, either of competency or service, as master, mate or engineer, as the case may be, granted by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, as amended by subsequent Acts:

17 & 18 Vict., c. 104, &c.

(7) "Colonial certificate" means a certificate of competency as master, mate or engineer, as the case may be, granted—

(a) in British India, under Chapter IV of this Act, or

(b) in any other British Possession, under the authority of the Legislature of that Possession, and which has been declared by Order in Council under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, to be of the same force as if it had been granted under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same:

32 & 33 Vict., c. 11. 17 & 18 Vict., c. 104, &c.

(8) "local certificate" means—

(i) a certificate, either of competency or service, as master or mate, as the case may be, or

(ii) a certificate of competency as engineer or engine-driver, as the case may be, granted by a Local Government under Chapter IV of this Act and which has not been declared as aforesaid:

[Act IX of 1879, s. 3.] VII of 1878.

(9) "Customs-collector" means a Customs-collector appointed under the Sea Customs Act, 1878, and includes, for the purposes of Chapter XXXV, any person appointed by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge the functions of a Customs-collector under that chapter at any port:

[Act VII of 1884, s. 3.]

(10) "passenger" includes any person carried in a ship other than the master and crew and (11) "prescribed" means prescribed by a rule made under this Act.

[Act VII of 1880, s. 4; Act VII of 1884, s. 3. Cf. 1876, s. para. 2.] Cf. 1889, s.

4. The provisions of Parts II to IX with respect to steam-ships shall apply to ships propelled by electricity or other mechanical power, with such modifications as the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct for purposes of adaptation.

Provisions as to steam-ships to apply to ships propelled by electricity, &c.

[Act I of 1859, s. ; Act IX of 1879, s. 1; Act VII of 1880, ss. 80; Act V of 1883, s.; Act VII of 1884, s. 5; Act X of 1... s. 2 (2) (i); Bill of 18.. s. 4; Bill 1882, s. 4; Cf. 1854, 4, 396; (Passeng.. s. 4.]

5. (1) Nothing in Parts II to IX, except Chapters II and XVIII, shall apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or the Government of India.

Exemption of public ships.

[Act IX 1879, s. 1; Act X of 1887, s. (iii).] [Act I of 1859, s. 114; Act VII of 1... s. 80; A.. of 1883, Act VII 1884, s.; Bill of 1.. s. 4; Bill 1882, s.]

(2) Nothing in Part VII or Part VIII shall apply to any ship of war belonging to any foreign Prince or State, and nothing in Parts II, III, IV, V, VI and IX, except Chapter XVIII, shall apply to any ship belonging to any foreign Prince or State, when employed mainly on the public service of the Prince or State.

PART II.

CHAPTER II.

MEASUREMENT AND REGISTRY OF BRITISH SHIPS.

WHEREAS certain classes of British ships are now registered in British India under Act XIX of 1838, and others under Act X of 1841, as amended by Act XI of 1850 and other Acts, passed by the Governor General of India in Council;

And whereas, since the said Acts XIX of 1838 and X of 1841 were passed, provision has been made, by an Act of the Imperial Parliament called the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, for the registry of British ships throughout Her Majesty's dominions, and certain classes of ships have long been registered in British India under the latter Act;

17 & 18 c. 104.

And whereas it is expedient that the said Act XIX of 1838, and so much of Act X of 1841, as amended by subsequent Acts, as relates to the registry of British ships, should be repealed, and that such registry should in future be made in all cases under the said Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, as amended for the time being by subsequent Acts;

And whereas it is enacted in section 547 of the said Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, that "the legislative authority of any British Possession shall have power, by any Act or Ordinance, confirmed by Her Majesty in Council, to repeal wholly or in part, any provisions

(Part II.—Chapter II.—Measurement and Registry of British Ships.—Sections 6-12.)

Possession; but no such Act or Ordinance shall take effect until such approval has been proclaimed in such Possession, or until such time thereafter as may be fixed by such Act or Ordinance for the purpose;"

18 & 19 Vict., c. 91, &c. 17 & 18 Vict., c. 104.

And whereas, by an Act of the Imperial Parliament called the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, and later Acts of Parliament, certain provisions in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, relating to the registry of British ships have been amended, and it is directed that the said Acts shall be construed as one with the said Merchant Shipping Act, 1854;

And whereas it is expedient that certain provisions of the said Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and of Acts amending the same, should be repealed in view of the application of the said Acts to the registry of British ships in British India, and that other provisions should be enacted in place thereof;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Commencement.

6. This chapter shall come into force—

(a) if Her Majesty's approval has been published in the Gazette of India on or before the first day of April, 1893, then on that day, or

(b) if Her Majesty's approval has not been so published on or before that day, then on the day on which Her Majesty's approval is so published.

Repeal.

7. (1) On and from the commencement of this chapter, the enactments mentioned in Part B of Schedule I shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof.

17 & 18 Vict., c. 104, &c.

(2) Any enactment or document referring to any enactment repealed by sub-section (1) shall, so far as may be practicable, be construed to refer to the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, as amended by subsequent Acts (including this chapter).

Meaning of "native coasting-ship."

8. In this chapter, "native coasting-ship" means a sailing ship not square-rigged, which is owned by one or more Indian subjects of Her Majesty and is a coasting-vessel within the meaning of the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

VIII of 1878.

Re-registration of ships registered under Indian Acts.

17 & 18 Vict., c. 104.

9. (1) Section 19, clause (1), and section 2 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, are hereby repealed.

(2) Any British ship registered under Act XIX of 1838 or Act X of 1841 may, within a period of twelve months after the commencement of this chapter,

Cf. 1873, s. 3, last proviso.

or, if the ship is not within a port of registry in British India at any time before the expiration of the said period, then within one month after her next return to a port of registry in British India, be re-registered under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, as amended by subsequent Acts (including this chapter).

17 & 18 Vict., c. 104, &c.

(3) No fee shall be payable for the measurement of the tonnage of any ship for the purposes of re-registration under sub-section (2).

(4) If any ship registered under Act XIX of 1838 or Act X of 1841 is not re-registered as provided by sub-section (2), she shall cease to be recognised as a British ship:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply in the case of any ship referred to in section 10.

Registration of inland ships not to be required.

17 & 18 Vict., c. 104.

10. (1) Notwithstanding anything in section 19 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, it shall not be obligatory on any person to register under that Act any British ship which is for the time being registered under Bombay Act I of 1863 (an Act for the registry of vessels and levy of pilotage fees on the river Indus) or any other British ship which plies solely on inland water.

Cf. Act of 1884, s. clause (3) (am. by III of 1890, 1) and cl. (4) and s.

(2) The expression "inland water" means any canal, river, lake or navigable water in British India.

(3) The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, define how much of any tidal water shall be deemed to be an inland water for the purposes of this section.

Measurement and marking of tonnage of native coasting-ships.

17 & 18 Vict., c. 104, &c.

11. (1) So far as regards any ship the tonnage of which is measured, ascertained and marked in accordance with rules made under sub-section (2), the rules and orders on the same subjects prescribed by or under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, as amended by subsequent Acts of the Imperial Parliament, are hereby repealed.

[Act XI 1850, s.

(2) The Local Government may make rules to provide for measuring and ascertaining, whether for the purpose of registry or otherwise, the tonnage of native coasting-ships, and for marking the tonnage on such ships; and it shall be optional to the owner of any such ship to have her tonnage measured, ascertained and marked in accordance either with rules made under this sub-section or with the rules and orders referred to in sub-section (1).

(3) Rules made under sub-section (2) may provide, among other matters, that if any alteration be made in a native coasting-ship after she has been registered in pursuance of the said rules the certificate of registry shall be cancelled and the ship re-measured in accordance with the said rules

(4) The word "alteration" in sub-section (3) means any change, whether temporary or permanent, either in the structure of a native coasting-ship or in the use to which any part of a native coasting-ship is put, by which the capacity of the ship for carrying cargo is, either directly or indirectly, increased.

Substitution of Local Government for Board of Trade.

12. (1) The references to the Board of Trade in the following enactments, namely:—

17 & 18 Vict., c. 104.

(a) the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 21, clause (4),

(b) the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 23, clause (b), section 28 and section 29 (so far as it relates to the making of regulations for the purpose of the survey and admeasurement of ships),

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part II.—Chapter II.—Measurement and Registry of British Ships.—Sections 13-16.)

as amended by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1872, section 3,

(c) the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, section 14, as amended by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1872, section 3.

(d) the Merchant Shipping Act, 1871, sections 5 and 6,

(e) the Merchant Shipping Act, 1872, section 15 (so far as it relates to surveyors),

(f) the Merchant Shipping Act, 1873, sections 3, 5 and 6,

(g) the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, section 23, and

(h) the Merchant Shipping (Tonnage) Act, 1889

are hereby repealed; and the said enactments shall, in their application to British India, be read and construed as if the Local Government were therein named instead of the Board of Trade.

(2) Section 29 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, in so far as it relates to the appointment of persons to superintend the survey and admeasurement of ships, and section 13 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1872, are hereby repealed.

Deduction from register tonnage on account of crew space.

13. (1) Clauses (3), (4), (5) and (7) of section 9 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1867, are hereby repealed.

(2) No place in any British ship registered in British India which is occupied by seamen or apprentices engaged under this Act and appropriated to their use shall be deemed to be such as to authorise a deduction from register tonnage, unless there is or are in the ship one or more properly constructed privy or privies for the use of the crew; such privy or privies to be of such number and of such construction as may be approved by a surveyor appointed under section 3 of the Colonial Shipping Act, 1868.

(3) If any deduction as aforesaid is claimed in respect of any such place as aforesaid, such place shall, whenever the ship is registered or re-registered in British India, be inspected by a surveyor appointed as aforesaid, who shall, if satisfied that the same is in all respects such as is required by section 113 of this Act, give to the Registrar a certificate to that effect, and thereupon the area of such place shall be deducted from the register tonnage:

(4) Provided that no such deduction shall be authorised unless there is permanently cut in a beam, and cut in or painted on or over the doorway or hatchway of such place, the number of men which it is constructed to accommodate, with the words "Certified to accommodate seamen."

(5) Upon any complaint concerning any such place as aforesaid, any surveyor appointed as aforesaid may inspect the same, and, if he finds that any of the provisions of section 113 of this Act with respect thereto are not complied with, he shall report the fact to the Registrar at the port where the ship is registered, and thereupon the registry of the ship shall be altered, and the deduction aforesaid disallowed, unless and until it is certified by the same surveyor, or by some other surveyor appointed as aforesaid, that the provisions of the said section in respect of such place are fully complied with.

Fees.

14. (1) The following enactments, namely:—

(a) section 92 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (as amended by section 4 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1872),

(b) section 107 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854,

(c) section 14 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855; and

(d) section 30 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1873,

are hereby repealed in so far as they relate to the fees referred to in sub-sections (2) and (3) of this section.

(2) The fees payable in British India in respect of the matters mentioned in Schedule III shall be such sums, not exceeding those specified in that Schedule, as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint.

(3) The fee payable in British India for a certified copy of a document furnished by a Registrar or other person under section 107 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, shall be such sum, not exceeding eight annas, as the person furnishing the copy may think fit to demand.

Registrars.

15. (1) Clause (5) of section 30 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and section 6 of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, are hereby repealed.

(2) The following persons are required to register British ships in British India, and shall be deemed Registrars for the purposes of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, as amended by subsequent Acts (including this Part), that is to say:

at the ports of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karachi, Aden and Rangoon, the Port Officer or any other person appointed by the Local Government in this behalf by notification in the official Gazette, and at any other port which has been approved under section 31 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, as explained by section 3 of the Merchant Shipping (Miscellaneous) Act, 1887, for the registry of ships, any person appointed by the Local Government in this behalf by a like notification.

Transfers, transmissions and mortgages of native coasting-ships.

16. (1) Sections 55, 57, and 66 to 83 (both inclusive) of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, are hereby repealed, so far as regards native coasting-ships.

(2) Section 60 of the said Act shall apply to declarations made under section 56 by transferees of native coasting-ships or shares therein, as well as to declarations made under section

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part II.—Chapter II.—Measurement and Registry of British Ships.—Section 17. Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter III.—Mercantile Marine Offices.—Sections 18-21.)

Space occupied by deck-cargo to be liable to dues.

17. The following portions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, namely:—

(a) in section 23, the words and figures "other than home-trade ships as defined by the Merchant Shipping Act 1854," and

(b) in section 44, the words "and the provisions of this Act relating to deck-cargo shall not apply to deck cargo carried by a ship while engaged in the coasting trade of any British Possession," are hereby repealed.

MASTERS, SEAMEN AND APPRENTICES.

Whereas by section 288 of an Act of the Imperial Parliament called the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, it is enacted that "if the Governor General of India in Council, or the respective Legislative Authorities in any British Possession abroad, by any Acts, Ordinances or other appropriate legal means, apply or adapt any of the provisions in the Third Part of this Act contained to any British ships registered at, trading with or being at any place within their respective jurisdictions and to the owners, masters, mates and crews thereof, such provisions, when so applied and adapted as aforesaid, and as long as they remain in force, shall in respect of the ships and persons to which the same are applied, be enforced, and penalties and punishments for the breach thereof shall be recovered and inflicted, throughout Her Majesty's dominions, in the same manner as if such provisions had been hereby so adapted and applied, and such penalties and punishments had been hereby expressly imposed;"

And whereas by an Act of the Imperial Parliament called the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, and later Acts of Parliament, certain of the said provisions have been amended, and it is directed that the said Acts shall be construed as one with the said Merchant Shipping Act, 1854;

And whereas certain of the said provisions have, by Act I of 1859 (an Act for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Seamen) and later Acts passed by the Governor General of India in Council, been applied or adapted as aforesaid;

And whereas it is expedient that the provisions of the said Acts passed by the Governor General of India in Council relating to British ships and the owners, masters, mates and crews thereof should be re-enacted with the amendments hereinafter appearing;

And whereas, by the said Act I of 1859 and later Acts passed by the Governor General of India in Council, certain provisions were enacted with respect to foreign ships and the owners, masters, mates and crews thereof, and it is expedient that the said provisions should be re-enacted with the amendments hereinafter

CHAPTER III.

MERCANTILE MARINE OFFICES.

Mercantile Marine Offices and establishments.

18. (1) A Mercantile Marine Office shall be established at such ports as the Governor General in Council may deem necessary.

(2) For every such office there shall be a Superintendent, with such Deputy Superintendents, clerks and servants (if any) as the Local Government may consider necessary.

(3) Superintendents and Deputy Superintendents of Mercantile Marine Offices shall be appointed by the Local Government.

(4) Every act done by or before a Deputy Superintendent shall have the same effect as if done by or before a Superintendent.

Power to direct that business of Mercantile Marine Office be transacted at Custom-house or elsewhere.

19. The Local Government may direct that at any port at which no separate Mercantile Marine Office is established the whole or any part of the business of the Mercantile Marine Office shall be conducted at the Custom-house, or at the office of the Port Officer, or at such other office as the Local Government shall direct, and thereupon the same shall be there conducted accordingly; and in respect of such business such Custom-house or office as aforesaid shall for all purposes be deemed to be a Mercantile Marine Office, and the officer to whom such business is committed shall for all purposes be deemed to be a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office within the meaning of this Act.

Power to dispense with superintendence of Superintendent of Mercantile Marine Office.

20. The Local Government may, by special order in any particular case, dispense with the transaction before a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office or in a Mercantile Marine Office of any matters required by this Act to be so transacted; and thereupon such matters shall if otherwise duly transacted in accordance with law, be as valid as if transacted before a Superintendent of, or in, a Mercantile Marine Office.

Business of Superintendents of Mercantile Marine Offices.

21. It shall be the general business of Superintendents of Mercantile Marine Offices—

(a) to superintend and facilitate the engagement of seamen for, and the discharge of seamen from, British ships, in manner hereinafter mentioned,

(b) to provide means for securing the presence on board at the proper times of men who are so engaged,

(c) to give to all persons desirous of apprenticing boys to the sea-service, and duly authorised so to do by Act XIX of 1850 (concerning the binding of apprentices), and also to owners and masters of British ships requiring apprentices, such assistance as may be in their power for facilitating the making of such apprenticeships, and

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter III.—Mercantile Marine Offices.—Sections 22-23. Chapter IV.—Examination of, and Grant of Certificates to, Masters, Mates, Engineers and Engine-drivers.—Sections 24-26.)

(d) to perform such other duties relating to seamen and British or foreign ships as are for the time being committed to them by or under this Act or the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1892.

Fees to be paid upon engagements and discharges of seamen.

22. (1) Such fees, not exceeding those specified in Table A in Schedule IV, as may be fixed by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council and published in the local official Gazette shall be payable—

(a) by owners or masters of British ships, upon all engagements and discharges of seamen effected before a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, and

(b) by masters of foreign ships, upon all engagements and discharges before a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office of seamen who have been engaged under section 63.

(2) Scales of the fees payable for the time being shall be conspicuously placed in the Mercantile Marine Offices; and all Superintendents, Deputy Superintendents, clerks and servants may refuse to proceed with any engagement unless the fees payable thereon are first paid.

(3) Any owner or master who has paid the fees fixed under sub-section (1) in respect of any engagement or discharge of seamen may, for the purpose of in part reimbursing himself, deduct, in respect of each such engagement or discharge, from the wages of all seamen so engaged or discharged, and retain, any sums not exceeding the sums specified in that behalf in Table B in Schedule IV:

Provided as follows:—

(i) if the Local Government has in any case fixed, under sub-section (1), fees lower than those specified in the said Table A, the sums which may be deducted and retained by owners or masters shall not exceed such sums as may be fixed in this behalf by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council and published in the local official Gazette;

(ii) the sums so fixed shall bear as nearly as may be the same proportion to the sums specified in the said Table B as the fees fixed under sub-section (1) bear to the fees specified in the said Table A;

(iii) if in any case the sums which an owner or master is authorised by this sub-section to deduct exceed the amount of the fee payable by him, such excess shall be paid by him to the Superintendent in addition to such fee.

(4) For the purpose of determining the fees to be paid upon the engagement and discharge of seamen engaged under a running agreement made under Chapter VII, the crew shall be considered to be engaged when the agreement is first signed, and to be discharged on the termination of the agreement; and all intermediate engagements and discharges shall be considered to be engagements and discharges of single seamen.

(5) In sub-section (4) "termination" means, when an agreement has been renewed under section 61, the termination of the period for (6) The Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, if it thinks fit, at any time abolish or suspend, by notification in the local official Gazette, the fees payable under sub-section (1) upon engagements and discharges; and in the event of such abolition, or during such suspension, no deduction shall be made under sub-section (3) from the wages of any person engaged or discharged.

Penalty on Superintendent, &c., taking other remuneration.

23. Any Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent, or any clerk or servant in a Mercantile Marine Office, who demands or receives any remuneration whatever, either directly or indirectly, for hiring or supplying any seaman for any ship, excepting the fees payable under section 22, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and shall also be dismissed from his office.

CHAPTER IV.

EXAMINATION OF, AND GRANT OF CERTIFICATES TO, MASTERS, MATES, ENGINEERS AND ENGINE-DRIVERS.

Appointment of examiners.

24. The Local Government may appoint persons for the purpose of examining the qualifications of persons desirous of obtaining—

(a) certificates of competency as masters or mates, or (b) certificates of competency as engineers or engine-drivers.

Grant of certificates of competency as master, mate, engineer or engine-driver.

25. The Local Government shall grant—

(a) to every person who is reported by the examiners to possess the necessary qualifications and to have given satisfactory evidence of his sobriety, experience, ability and general good conduct on boardship, a certificate of competency to the effect that he is competent to act as master or first mate or only mate or second mate of a foreign-going ship, or as master or mate of a home-trade ship, as the case may be, and

(b) to every person who is reported by the examiners to possess the necessary qualifications and to have given satisfactory evidence of his sobriety, experience and ability a certificate of competency to the effect that he is competent to act as a first-class engineer, or as a second-class engineer, or as an engine-driver, as the case may be:

Provided that the Local Government may, in any case in which it has reason to believe that the report has been unduly made, require, before granting a certificate, a re-examination of the applicant or a further enquiry into his testimonials and character.

Grant of local certificates of service as master or mate of a foreign-going ship.

26. (1) Local certificates of service, differing in form from certificates of competency, shall be granted by the Local Government as follows, that is to say,—

(a) any person who has attained or master, passed mate or second mate, or any corresponding or higher rank, in the service of Her Majesty, or the rank of commander or first grade officer in the Royal Indian Marine, shall be entitled to a local certificate of service as master for a foreign-going ship:

(b) any person who has attained or shall attain the rank of second grade officer in the Royal Indian Marine shall be entitled to a local certificate of service as first mate for a foreign-going ship.

(2) A certificate of service granted under this section shall have the same effect as a local certificate of competency granted under section 25, clause (a).

Certificates to be in prescribed form and to be made in duplicate.

27. Every certificate of competency or service granted under this chapter shall be in the prescribed form, and shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate, and the other shall be kept by the Local Government and recorded in the prescribed manner.

Record of orders affecting certificates.

28. A note of all orders made for suspending, cancelling, altering or otherwise affecting any certificate of competency or service in pursuance of the powers contained in this Act shall be entered on the copy of the certificate kept by the Local Government.

Copy of certificate to be granted in certain cases.

29. Whenever a master, mate, engineer or engine-driver proves, to the satisfaction of the Local Government which granted his certificate, that he has, without fault on his part, lost or been deprived of it, a copy of the certificate to which, by the record kept as provided by law, he appears to be entitled shall be granted to him, and shall have all the effect of the original.

Power to make rules as to grant of certificates of competency or service.

30. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules to regulate the granting of certificates of competency under this chapter, and may by such rules—

(a) provide for the conduct of the examination of persons desirous of obtaining certificates of competency as masters, mates, engineers or engine-drivers;

(b) prescribe the qualifications to be respectively required of persons desirous of obtaining certificates of competency as masters, first mates, only mates, second mates, first-class engineers, second-class engineers, or engine-drivers;

(c) fix the fees to be paid by all applicants for examination; and

(d) prescribe the form in which such certificates are to be framed, and the manner in which the copy of the certificate which is kept by the Local Government is to be recorded.

(2) The Governor General in Council may also make rules with respect to the grant of local certificates of service to masters and mates under this chapter, and may by such rules—

(e) fix the fees to be paid for such certificates, and

(f) prescribe the form in which such certificates are to be framed, and the manner in which the copy of the certificate which is kept by the Local Government is to be recorded.

CHAPTER V.

SHIPS REQUIRED TO CARRY CERTIFICATED OFFICERS.

British ships required to carry certificated master and mate or mates.

31. (1) A foreign-going British ship shall not proceed to sea from any port in British India unless she has, as her master, a person possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as master of a foreign-going ship.

(2) A foreign-going British ship of a burden of one hundred tons or upwards shall not proceed to sea from any port in British India unless she has—

(a) as her only mate, a person possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as only mate or first mate or master of a foreign-going ship, or

(b) as her first and second mates, two certificated mates,

(i) the first possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as first mate or master of a foreign-going ship, and

(ii) the second possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as second mate or only mate or first mate or master of a foreign-going ship.

(3) A home-trade British ship carrying passengers, or a home-trade British ship of a burden of one hundred tons or upwards not carrying passengers, shall not proceed to sea from any port in British India unless she has as her master, a person possessing a local certificate as master of a home-trade ship, or a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as master of a foreign-going ship.

(4) A home-trade British ship of a burden of one hundred tons or upwards shall not proceed to sea from any port in British India unless she has, as her only or first mate, a person possessing a local certificate as mate or master of a home-trade ship, or a Board of Trade Colonial or local certificate as only mate, first mate or master of a foreign-going ship.

(5) This section shall not apply to any sailing ship not carrying passengers which is navigated and manned exclusively by Arabs, lascars or other Asiatic masters and seamen.

British steam-ships required to carry certificated engineers, engineer or engine-driver.

32. (1) A foreign-going British steam-ship shall not proceed to sea from any port in British India unless she has,—

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.
(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter V.—Ships required to carry Certificated Officers.—Sections 33-34. Chapter VI.—Suspension and Cancellation of Certificates of Masters, Mates, Engineers and Engine-drivers, and Grant of New Certificates.—Sections 35-36.)

upwards, as her first and second engineers, two certificated engineers,—

(i) the first possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as first-class engineer, and

(ii) the second possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as second class engineer or first class engineer ;

(b) if the steam-ship has engines of under one hundred nominal horse-power, as her only or first engineer, an engineer possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as second-class engineer or first-class engineer.

(2) A home-trade British steam-ship shall not proceed to sea from any port in British India unless she has,—

(c) if the steam-ship has engines of fifty nominal horse-power or upwards, as her only or first engineer, an engineer possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as second-class engineer or first-class engineer ;

(d) if the steam-ship has engines of under fifty nominal horse-power, as her engineer, a person possessing a local certificate as engine-driver, or a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as second-class engineer or first-class engineer.

(3) This section shall not apply to any steam-ship to which the provisions of Part X are applicable.

Foreign steam-ships required to carry British certificated master, mate, engineer or engine-driver.

33. (1) A foreign steam-ship shall not carry passengers from any port in British India to any other port in British India unless she has—

(a) as her master, a person possessing a local certificate as master of a home-trade ship or a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as master of a foreign-going ship ;

(b) if the steam-ship is of a burden of one hundred tons or upwards, as her only or first mate, a person possessing a local certificate as mate or master of a home-trade ship or a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as mate or master of a foreign-going ship ;

(c) if the steam-ship has engines of fifty nominal horse-power or upwards, as her only or first engineer, an engineer possessing a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as second-class engineer or first-class engineer ;

(d) if the steam-ship has engines of under fifty nominal horse-power, as her engineer, a person possessing a local certificate as engine-driver or a Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate as second-class engineer or first-class engineer :

Provided that the Local Government may by notification in the official Gazette,—

(i) exempt from the operation of clause (a), or as her only or first mate, or as her only or first engineer, as the case may be, a master, mate or engineer possessing a certificate which is recognised by the Local Government as valid under the law of the country to which the ship belongs, and

(ii) cancel any such exemption ;

but no application for such an exemption shall be refused, and no such exemption shall be made or cancelled, without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

(2) So much of this section as relates to engineers or engine-drivers shall not apply to any steam-ship to which the provisions of Part X are applicable. [Act VII of 1884, s. 33.]

Penalty for serving, or engaging a person to serve, as master, mate, engineer or engine-driver without a certificate.

34. (a) If any person who has been engaged to serve in any of the capacities referred to in section 31, section 32 or section 33 in any ship to which those sections apply, respectively, proceeds in the ship in that capacity without being at the time entitled to, and possessed of, the certificate thereby required, or [Act I of 1859, s. 13; Act VII of 1884, s. 34; Bill of 1867, s. 112; Bill of 1882, s. 16.] Cf. 1854, s. 136; 1862, s. 5 (5).

(b) if any person employs any person in any capacity referred to in section 31, section 32 or section 33 in any ship to which those sections apply, respectively, without ascertaining that he is at the time entitled to, and possessed of, the certificate thereby required, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

CHAPTER VI.

SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION OF CERTIFICATES OF MASTERS, MATES, ENGINEERS AND ENGINE-DRIVERS, AND GRANT OF NEW CERTIFICATES.

Saving of powers conferred by English Acts and Orders in Council in reference to Board of Trade and Colonial certificates.

35. Nothing in this Act shall affect— [Act V of 1883, s. 18; Bill of 1882 s. 147.]

(a) the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1892, on Courts making investigations referred to in section 260 or section 263 or holding enquiries under section 262 of this Act to suspend or cancel Board of Trade or Colonial certificates, or 17 & 18 Vict c. 104, &c.

(b) any powers conferred on any Local Government by Order in Council made under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, for dealing with, or granting Colonial certificates in place of, Board of Trade or Colonial certificates which have been suspended or cancelled. 32 & 33 Vict c. 11.

Power to issue local certificates in lieu of Board of Trade or Colonial certificates which have been suspended or cancelled.

36. (1) When any Court referred to in clause (a) of section 35 suspends or cancels any Board of Trade or Colonial certificate, the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, whether or not a recommendation to that effect has been made by the Court, [Act V of 1883, s. 19; Bill of 1882 s. 147.]

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.
(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter VI.—Suspension and Cancellation of Certificates of Masters, Mates, Engineers and Engine-drivers, and Grant of New Certificates.—Sections 37-43.)

as master, a local certificate of competency as mate, and, when the certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a local certificate of competency as mate or engineer, as the case may be, of a grade lower than that which he held at the time of the suspension or cancellation :

Provided that the power conferred by this sub-section shall not be exercised by any Local Government which is for the time being empowered to grant Colonial certificates in place of Board of Trade or Colonial certificates which have been suspended or cancelled.

(2) A certificate granted under sub-section (1) shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

Power for Court to suspend or cancel local certificates of masters, mates or engineers.

37. (1) A local certificate (whether of competency or service) granted to a master, mate or engineer may, if a Court conducting an investigation under Chapter XXVII finds that the loss, abandonment or stranding of or damage to any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by the wrongful act or default of the master, mate or engineer, or that he is incompetent or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct, be suspended or cancelled by the Court:

Provided that the Court shall not suspend or cancel a certificate unless the holder of the certificate was furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section 262 or section 263, as the case may be.

(2) At the conclusion of the investigation, or as soon afterwards as possible, the Court shall state in open sitting the decision to which it may have come with respect to the suspension or cancellation of any certificate.

Power for Local Government to suspend or cancel local certificates of masters, mates or engineers

38. A local certificate (whether of competency or service) granted to a master, mate or engineer may be suspended or cancelled, either by the Local Government which granted the same or by any other Local Government, in any of the following cases, that is to say :—

(a) if, on any investigation made beyond British India under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1892, or on any investigation made beyond British India by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorised by the Legislature of any British Possession to make inquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that the master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default;

(b) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony;

(c) if, in the case of a master, he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force. [17 & 18 V. c. 104.]

Power for Local Government to suspend or cancel local certificates of engine-drivers.

39. Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing provisions of this chapter, the Local Government may at any time, without any formal investigation, suspend or cancel any local certificate granted by it to an engine-driver, if, in its opinion, the holder is, or has become, unfit to act as an engine-driver. [Act VI 1884, s. 2]

Obligation to deliver up local certificate on suspension or cancellation.

40. (1) Every master, mate or engineer, whose certificate has been suspended or cancelled by a Court under section 37, shall deliver the certificate to the Court, and the Court shall forward the same to the Local Government, together with the report which it is required by section 269, sub-section (1), to transmit to that Government. [Act V of 1883, s. 24A (4) (added by Act V 1891, s. 1; Bill of 1882, s. 200; Bill of 1882, s. 1; Cf. 1854, 242; ss. 15, 23, 24.]

(2) Every master, mate, engineer or engine-driver whose certificate has been suspended or cancelled under section 38 or section 39 shall deliver the certificate to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office or to such other person as the Local Government which suspended or cancelled the certificate may direct.

(3) Any master, mate, engineer or engine-driver failing to deliver a certificate as required by this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Report to other Local Governments.

41. If the Local Government which suspends or cancels a certificate under section 38 is not the Local Government which granted the certificate, the Local Government so suspending or cancelling the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of suspension or cancellation, to the Local Government which granted the certificate. [Act V of 1883, s. ; Bill of 1882, ss. 196, Bill of 1882, s. 150.]

Report to Board of Trade.

42. Every Local Government suspending or cancelling a certificate under section 38 shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such suspension or cancellation. [Act V 1883, s. ; Bill of 1882, s. 196; 1882, s.]

Power to revoke suspension or cancellation and to grant new local certificate.

43. (1) Any Local Government may, at any time, revoke any order of suspension or cancellation which it may have made under section 38 or section 39, or grant, without examination, to any person whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new local certificate of the same or of any lower grade. [Act V 1883, s. ; Bill of 1867, s ; Bill of 1852.] Cf. 1854, 242; 1862, s. 23 (4)

(2) A certificate granted under sub-section (1) shall have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

(3) A local certificate for a home-trade ship shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a local certificate for a foreign-going ship.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.
(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter VI.—Suspension and Cancellation of Certificates of Masters, Mates, Engineers and Engine-drivers, and Grant of New Certificates.—Sections 44-45. Chapter VII.—Engagement of Seamen.—Sections 46-50.)

Duties and powers of Local Government where a local certificate has been suspended or cancelled by a Court.

44. The duties imposed and powers conferred by sections 41, 42 and 43 on the Local Government which suspends or cancels a local certificate shall, when a Court has under section 37 suspended or cancelled a local certificate, be performed and exercised by the Local Government to which the Court has forwarded the certificate under section 40, sub-section (1), as if such Local Government had itself suspended or cancelled the certificate under section 38.

General provision with respect to surrender of certificates.

45. (1) When any Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate of a master, mate, engineer or engine-driver is suspended or cancelled under any law for the time being in force, he shall deliver to the Court or person entitled to receive delivery from him of such suspended or cancelled certificate every other Board of Trade, Colonial or local certificate, if any, held by him.

(2) If any master, mate, engineer or engine-driver fails to comply with the requirement of sub-section (1), he shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

CHAPTER VII.

ENGAGEMENT OF SEAMEN.

Licenses to procure seamen.

46. (1) The Local Government, or any Board or officer authorised by the Local Government in this behalf, may grant to such persons as may be deemed fit licenses to engage or supply seamen for ships.

(2) Such licenses shall be granted on such terms, shall continue for such periods, and shall be revocable on such conditions, as the Local Government may think proper.

Penalty for supplying seamen without license, employing unlicensed person or receiving seamen illegally supplied.

47. (1) If any person not licensed as aforesaid (other than the owner or master or mate of the ship, or some person who is bonâ fide the servant and in the constant employ of the owner, or a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office) engages or supplies any seaman to be entered on board any ship, he shall for each seaman so engaged or supplied be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(2) If any person employs any unlicensed person (not being a person excepted by sub-section (1)), for the purpose of engaging or supplying any seaman to be entered on board any ship, he shall for each seaman so engaged or supplied be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and, if licensed as aforesaid, shall in addition forfeit his license.

(3) If any person knowingly receives or accepts to be entered on board any ship any seaman who has been engaged or supplied contrary to the provisions of this Act, he shall for each seaman so engaged or supplied be pun-

Penalty for receiving remuneration from seamen for shipping them.

48. If any person demands or receives, either directly or indirectly, from any seaman, or from any person seeking employment as a seaman, or from any person on his behalf, any remuneration whatever (except in accordance with section 22), for providing him with employment on board a ship, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and, if licensed as aforesaid, shall in addition forfeit his license.

Masters of foreign-going British ships to enter into agreements with seamen.

49. The master of every foreign-going British ship shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he engages at, and carries to sea from, any port in British India as one of his crew.

Form and contents of agreement.

50. (1) Every such agreement shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof (that is to say)—

(a) either—

(i) the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or

(ii) the maximum period of the voyage or engagement and (i) the places or parts of the world to which the voyage or engagement is to extend, or (ii) the places or parts of the world to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(b) the number and description of the crew, specifying how many are engaged as sailors;

(c) the time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work;

(d) the capacity in which each seaman is to serve;

(e) the amount of wages which each seaman is to receive;

(f) a scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman, such scale being, in the case of lascars or other native seamen, not less than a scale to be fixed by the Governor General in Council and published in the Gazette of India;

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt; and

(h) where it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, a stipulation—that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on or of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on.

(2) Every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to merchant shipping) as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

Signature of agreement, explanation of agreement to seamen, and disposal of copies.

51. (1) Every such agreement shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and every stipulation referred to in clause (h) of section 50 shall be signed by the owner of the ship or his agent.

(2) Every such agreement shall (subject to the provisions of sub-section (5)) be signed by each seaman in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office.

(3) The Superintendent shall cause the agreement to be read over and explained to each seaman, in a language understood by him, or shall otherwise ascertain that each seaman understands the same before he signs it, and shall attest each signature.

(4) When the crew is first engaged the agreement shall be signed in duplicate. One copy shall be retained by the Superintendent, and the other shall contain a special place or form for the descriptions and signatures of substitutes or persons engaged subsequently to the first departure of the ship, and shall be delivered to the master.

(5) In the case of substitutes engaged in the place of seamen who have duly signed the agreement, and whose services are lost within twenty-four hours immediately before the ship puts to sea, by death, desertion or other unforeseen cause, the engagement shall, when practicable, be made before some Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office; and, whenever the engagement cannot be so made, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and, if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to the seamen; and the seamen shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest their signatures.

Engagement of a single seaman for a foreign-going ship belonging to the United Kingdom or a British Possession.

52. (1) If the master of any foreign-going British ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British Possession other than British India has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which the ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman, not being a lascar or other native seaman, at any port in British India, the seaman may sign the agreement so made, and, notwithstanding anything in section 50, it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement in the form required by that section.

(2) Every seaman signing an agreement under sub-section (1) shall do so in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office.

seaman, in a language understood by him, or shall otherwise ascertain that the seaman understands the same before he signs it, and shall attest his signature.

Running agreements for foreign-going British ships making short voyages.

53. (1) In the case of any foreign-going British ship making voyages averaging not more than six months in duration, a running agreement with the crew may be made to extend over two or more voyages, but every such agreement shall terminate either within six months from the date on which it was executed, or on the first arrival of the ship at her port of destination in British India after the expiration of that period, or on the discharge of cargo consequent upon such arrival:

Provided that no such agreement shall continue in force if, after the expiration of such period as aforesaid, the ship proceeds on a voyage from a port out of British India to any other such port which is not on the direct road to her port of destination in British India.

(2) The provisions of sections 50 and 51 shall apply to every running agreement made under sub-section (1); and every seaman shall sign the same, whether engaged upon the first commencement thereof or otherwise.

Agreements for home-trade British ships.

54. (1) The master of every home-trade British ship of a burden of eighty tons or upwards shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he engages at, and carries to sea from, any port in British India as one of his crew.

(2) The provisions of sections 50 to 53 (both inclusive) shall apply to every such agreement, as if the ship were a foreign-going ship:

Provided as follows:—

(a) the agreement need not, unless the master thinks fit, be signed by the seamen in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office;

(b) where any seaman has not so signed the agreement, the master shall, before the ship puts to sea, if practicable, and, if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to him, and the seaman shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest his signature;

(c) where several home-trade ships of a burden of eighty tons or upwards belong to the same owner, then—

(i) the agreement with the seamen may be made by the owner instead of by the master, and the seamen may be engaged to serve in any two or more of such ships, provided that the names of the ships and the nature of the service are specified in the agreement; and

(ii) the owner or his agent may enter into time-agreements, in forms to be sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, with individual seamen to serve in any one six months from the dates on which they were respectively executed.

Penalties.

55. (1) If in any case a master of a British ship carries any seaman to sea without entering into an agreement with him in the form and manner and at the place and time hereby in such case required, the master, in the case of a foreign-going ship, and the master or the owner or his agent, in the case of a home-trade ship, shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees for each such seaman.

(2) If any master or owner of a British ship enters into an agreement with a lascar or other native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale fixed under section 50, clause (f), he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees for each such seaman.

Power to board British ship and muster seamen.

56. (1) For the purpose of preventing seamen from being taken on board any British ship at any port in British India contrary to the provisions of this Act, any Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office may enter at any time on board any such ship upon which he has reason to believe that seamen have been shipped, and may muster and examine the several seamen employed therein.

(2) Any person who obstructs a Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent in the exercise of his powers under sub-section (1) shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Irregular stipulations and alterations in agreements to be void.

57. (1) If any agreement made under this chapter (other than an agreement signed under section 52) between a master or owner of a British ship and a seaman contains a stipulation which is inconsistent with any provision of this Act, such stipulation shall be void.

(2) Every erasure, interlineation or alteration in any agreement as aforesaid (except additions made under this chapter for shipping substitutes or persons engaged subsequently to the first departure of the ship) shall be inoperative, unless proved to have been made with the consent of all the persons interested in such erasure, interlineation or alteration by the written attestation—

(a) (if made in Her Majesty's dominions) of some Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, Justice, officer of Customs or other public functionary, or (b) (if made out of Her Majesty's dominions) of a British consular officer, or, where there is no such officer, of two respectable British merchants.

Copy of agreement to be made accessible to crew.

58. The master of every British ship for which an agreement has been made under this chapter (other than an agreement signed under section 52) shall, at the commencement of every voyage or engagement, cause a legible copy of the agreement, and if necessary a translation thereof in a language up in the ship so as to be accessible to the crew, and in default shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Changes in crew of foreign-going British ship to be reported.

59. (1) The master of every foreign-going British ship of which the crew has been engaged before a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, whether in British India or elsewhere, shall, before finally leaving British India, sign and send to the nearest Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office a full and accurate statement, in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, of every change which takes place in his crew before finally leaving British India, and in default shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(2) Such statements shall be admissible in evidence.

Discharge and engagement of seamen of foreign-going British ship during pendency of a running agreement.

60. (1) The master of every foreign-going British ship for which a running agreement is made under section 53 shall, upon every return to any port in British India before the termination of the agreement, discharge or engage before the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at such port any seaman whom he is required by law so to discharge or engage ; and shall, upon every such return, endorse on the agreement a statement (as the case may be) either that no such discharges or engagements have been made or are intended to be made before the ship again leaves port, or that all such discharges or engagements have been duly made as hereinbefore required ; and shall deliver the agreement so endorsed to the Superintendent.

(2) Any master who wilfully makes a false statement in such endorsement shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

(3) The Superintendent shall also sign an endorsement on the agreement to the effect that the provisions of this Act relating to such agreement have been complied with, and shall re-deliver the agreement so endorsed to the master.

(4) In this section "termination" means when an agreement has been renewed under section 61, the termination of the period for which the agreement has been so renewed.

Renewal of running agreement for foreign-going British ship.

61. (1) When a running agreement with the crew of a foreign-going British ship has been made under section 53, and the ship arrives, after the expiration of a period of six months from the date on which the agreement was executed, at a port of destination in British India which is not the port at which the crew have agreed to be discharged, the master may, with the previous sanction of the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office, renew the agreement, or he may be required by the Superintendent to renew the same, for the voyage from such port of destination to the port in British India at which the crew have agreed to be discharged.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter VII.—Engagement of Seamen.—Sections 62-66. Chapter VIII.—Production of Certificates of Officers and Agreements with Seamen.—Section 67.)

and refuses so to do, any expenses which may be incurred by the Government for the subsistence of the crew and their conveyance to the port at which they have agreed to be discharged shall be a charge upon the ship, and shall be recoverable as if they were expenses incurred in respect of distressed seamen under the provisions of Chapter XVIII.

Seamen of British ship discharged before voyage to have compensation.

62. Any seaman belonging to a British ship who has signed an agreement under this chapter, and is afterwards discharged before the commencement of the voyage or before one month's wages are earned, without fault on his part justifying such discharge and without his consent, shall be entitled to receive from the master or owner, in addition to any wages he may have earned, due compensation for the damage thereby caused to him, not exceeding one month's wages, and may, on adducing such evidence as the Court or Magistrate hearing the case may deem satisfactory of his having been discharged as aforesaid, recover such compensation as if it were wages duly earned.

Engagements between masters of foreign ships and native seamen.

63. (1) Whenever the master of a foreign-going foreign ship or a home-trade foreign ship of a burden of eighty tons or upwards makes an engagement—

(a) at Aden, with a seaman being a native of Asia or Africa, or

(b) at any other port in British India, with a seaman being a native of India, to proceed to sea, he shall enter into an agreement with such seaman.

(2) The provisions of section 50, section 51, sub-sections (1), (2) and (3), and sections 57, 58, 59 and 62 shall apply to every agreement made for a foreign-going foreign ship under this section, as if the ship were a British ship.

(3) The provisions of section 50, section 51, sub-sections (1), (2) and (3), and sections 57, 58 and 62 shall apply to every agreement made for a home-trade foreign ship under this section, as if the ship were a British ship:

Provided as follows:—

(i) the agreement need not, unless the master thinks fit, be signed by the seaman in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office;

(ii) where any seaman has not so signed the agreement the master shall, before the ship puts to sea if practicable, and, if not, as soon afterwards as possible, cause the agreement to be read over and explained to him, and the seaman shall thereupon sign the same in the presence of a witness, who shall attest his signature.

(4) Whenever an agreement for a foreign-going foreign ship has been made under this section, the master shall give to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office before whom the agreement was signed a bond, with the security of some approved person resident in British [illegible] at the rate of one hundred rupees for every seaman signing the agreement, and conditioned for the due observance of the agreement and of the provisions referred to in sub-section (2), and for the repayment to the Secretary of State for India in Council of all expenses which may be incurred by the Government in respect of any such seaman who may be discharged or left behind at any port out of India and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 211, and the enactments amending the same Penalty for master of foreign ship illegally engaging native seamen.

64. If any master of a foreign ship engages any seaman referred to in section 63 to proceed to sea, otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of that section, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for each such seaman.

Power to board foreign ship and muster seamen.

65. (1) Any Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office may enter at any time on board any foreign ship upon which he has reason to believe that any such seaman has been shipped, and may muster and examine the several seamen employed therein.

(2) Any person who obstructs a Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent in the exercise of his powers under sub-section (1) shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Power to prohibit engagement of native seamen.

66. (1) The Local Government, or such officer as it may appoint in this behalf, may, by order in writing signed by one of its Secretaries or by such officer, prohibit any person from engaging in the territories subject to the said Government, or in any specified portion of such territories, any native of India to serve as a seaman on board any ship, whether British or foreign, specified in the order; but in every case the reasons for the prohibition shall be stated in writing.

(2) Whoever wilfully disobeys any such prohibition shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

CHAPTER VIII.

PRODUCTION OF CERTIFICATES OF OFFICERS AND AGREEMENTS WITH SEAMEN.

Production of certificates and agreements in the case of foreign-going British ships.

67. (1) The master of every foreign-going British ship for which an agreement is made under Chapter VII (other than an agreement signed under section 52) shall, on signing the agreement, produce to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office before whom the same is signed the certificate or certificates which the master, mate or mates (if any) and engineer or engineers (if any) are required by Chapter V to possess; and upon such production being duly made, and the agreement being duly executed as required by Chapter VII, the Superintendent shall sign and give to the master a certificate to that effect.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.
(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter VIII.—Production of Certificates of Officers and Agreements with Seamen.—Sections 68-69.)

(2) Where a running agreement for a foreign-going British ship has been made under section 53, the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office shall, before the second and every subsequent voyage made after the commencement of the agreement, sign and give to the master, on his complying with the provisions contained in Chapter VII with respect to such agreements, and producing to the Superintendent the certificate of any mate or engineer then first engaged by him, a certificate to that effect.

(3) The master of every ship referred to in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall, before proceeding to sea, produce the certificate given to him thereunder to the officer authorised to grant a port-clearance.

(4) No officer as aforesaid shall grant a port-clearance for any such ship unless such certificate is so produced; and, if any attempt is made to take any such ship to sea without a clearance the Local Government may detain her until such certificate is so produced.

(5) The master of every foreign-going British ship shall, within forty-eight hours after the ship's arrival at her final port of destination in British India, or upon the discharge of the crew at that port, whichever first happens, deliver the agreement with the crew (whether the same was made under this Act or any other law) to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office.

(6) Such Superintendent shall thereupon give to the master a certificate of such delivery; and no officer of Customs shall permit the entry of any such ship inwards unless such certificate is produced to him.

(7) If any master fails to deliver the agreement with the crew to the Superintendent as directed by sub-section (6) he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

68. (1) Within a period of twenty-one days after the thirtieth day of June and the thirty-first day of December in every year, or, if the ship is not at any port in British India within such period in any year, then within forty-eight hours after her next arrival at any port in British India,—

Production of certificates and agreements in the case of home-trade British ships.

(a) the master or owner of every home-trade British ship which is required by Chapter V to carry a certificated officer or certificated officers shall produce to some Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office in British India the certificate or certificates which the master, only or first mate (if any) and only or first engineer (if any) are required by that chapter to possess, and (b) the master or owner of every home-trade British ship of a burden exceeding eighty tons shall transmit or deliver to some Superintendent as aforesaid every agreement made with the crew within the six calendar months next preceding the said thirtieth day of June or thirty-first day of December, as the case may be.

(2) Such Superintendent shall thereupon sign and give to the master or owner a certificate of such production, transmission or delivery, as the case may be.

(3) The master of every ship referred to in sub-section (1) shall, before proceeding to sea, produce the certificate or certificates given to him under sub-section (2) to the officer authorised to grant a port-clearance.

(4) No officer as aforesaid shall grant a *port-*clearance for any such ship unless such certificate or certificates is or are so produced; and, if any attempt is made to take any such ship to sea without a clearance, the Local Government may detain her until such certificate or certificates is or are so produced.

(5) If any agreement made with the crew of any such ship is not transmitted or delivered to a Superintendent as directed by sub-section (1), the master and owner shall each be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

69. (1) The master of every foreign steam-ship which is required by section 33 to carry an officer or officers possessing a local, Board of Trade or Colonial certificate shall, before leaving any port in British India, produce the said certificate or certificates to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office; and, upon such production being duly made, the Superintendent shall sign and give to the master a certificate to that effect.

Production of certificates and agreements in the case of foreign ships.

(2) When any agreement between the master of a foreign ship and a seaman has been duly executed under Chapter VII at any port, and (in the case of a foreign-going ship) the master has given a bond under section 63, sub-section (4), the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at that port shall sign and give to the master a certificate to that effect.

(3) The master of every ship referred to in sub-sections (1) and (2) shall, before proceeding to sea, produce the certificate or certificates given to him thereunder to the officer authorised to grant a port-clearance.

(4) No officer as aforesaid shall grant a port-clearance for any such ship unless such certificate or certificates is or are so produced; and if any attempt is made to take any such ship to sea without a clearance the Local Government may detain her until such certificate or certificates is or are so produced.

(5) The master of every foreign ship for which an agreement has been made under section 63 shall, within forty-eight hours after the ship's arrival at her port of final destination in British India, or upon the discharge of the crew at that port, whichever first happens, deliver the agreement to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office.

(6) Such Superintendent shall thereupon give to the master a certificate of such delivery; and no officer of Customs shall permit the entry of any such ship inwards unless such certificate is produced to him.

(7) If any master fails to deliver the agreement with the crew to the Superintendent as directed by sub-section (5), he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.
(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter IX.—Wages and Discharge of Seamen and Apprentices, and Settlement of Claims.—Sections 70-76.)

CHAPTER IX.

WAGES AND DISCHARGE OF SEAMEN AND APPRENTICES, AND SETTLEMENT OF CLAIMS.

Advance of Wages.

Advance of wages.

70. (1) Any agreement with a seaman of a British ship made under Chapter VII (other than an agreement signed under section 52) may contain a stipulation for payment to the seaman, conditionally on his going to sea in pursuance of the agreement, of a sum not exceeding the amount of one month's wages payable to the seaman under the agreement.

(2) No advance of wages shall be made, and no advance-note shall be given, to any person but the seaman himself, and, where a seaman signs the agreement in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, no advance-note shall be given to him except in the presence of such Superintendent.

(3) Any agreement made otherwise than as authorised by this section, by or on behalf of the employer of a seaman of a British ship, for the payment of money to or on behalf of the seaman conditionally on his going to sea from any port in British India.

and any advance made or advance-note given in contravention of this section, shall be void, and no money paid in satisfaction or in respect of any such agreement or advance-note shall be deducted from the seaman's wages, and no person shall have any right of action, suit or set-off against the seaman or his assignee in respect of any money so paid or purporting to have been so paid.

(4) Nothing in this section shall affect any allotment made under this chapter.

Allotment of Wages.

Stipulation for allotment to be inserted in the agreement.

71. (1) Every agreement with a seaman of a British ship made under Chapter VII (other than an agreement signed under section 52) shall, if the seaman so require, stipulate for the allotment during his absence of any part not exceeding one-half of the wages of the seaman in favour of any relatives of the seaman or members of his family.

(2) Every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship or his agent.

Allotment-notes.

72. (1) Every such allotment shall be made by means of an allotment-note.

(2) Every allotment-note shall be in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, and shall be made for the benefit only of a relative of the seaman or some member of his family to be named in the note.

Payment of sums allotted.

73. (1) A payment under an allotment-note shall begin at the expiration of one month from the date of the agreement, or at such later date as may be fixed by the agreement, and shall be made at the expiration of every subsequent month, or of such other periods as may be fixed by the agreement, and shall be made only in respect of wages earned before the date of payment.

(2) The owner or any agent who has authorised the drawing of an allotment-note shall pay to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office on demand the sums due under the note, and, if he fails to do so, the Superintendent may sue for and recover the same with costs :

Provided as follows :—

(a) no such sum shall be recoverable if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate trying the case that the seaman has forfeited, or ceased to be entitled to, the wages out of which the allotment was to have been paid ;

(b) the seaman shall be presumed to be duly earning his wages unless the contrary is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate, either by a statement made under section 59 of the change in the crew caused by his absence, or by a duly certified copy of some entry in the official log to the effect that he has died or left the ship, or by a credible letter from the master of the ship to the same effect, or by such other evidence, of whatever description, as the Court or Magistrate may consider sufficient.

(3) The Superintendent, on receiving any such sum as aforesaid, shall pay it over to the person named in that behalf in the allotment-note.

(4) All such receipts and payments shall be entered in a book to be kept for the purpose, and all entries in the said book shall be authenticated by the signature of the Superintendent or the Deputy Superintendent.

(5) The said book shall be at all reasonable times open to the inspection of the parties concerned.

Legal Rights to Wages and Salvage.

Right to wages when to commence.

74. The right of a seaman of a British ship to wages shall be taken to commence either at the time at which he begins work, or at the time specified in the agreement for his being on board or beginning work, whichever first happens.

Seamen not to forfeit lien on ship, remedy for recovery of wages, or salvage rights.

75. (1) No seaman of a British ship shall by any agreement forfeit his lien upon the ship or be deprived of any remedy for the recovery of his wages to which he would otherwise have been entitled.

(2) Every stipulation in any agreement by which a seaman of a British ship consents to abandon his rights to wages in case of the wreck or loss of the ship, or to abandon any right which he may have or obtain in the nature of salvage, shall be wholly inoperative.

(3) Nothing in this section shall apply to any stipulation made by the seamen belonging to any British ship which, according to the terms of the agreement, is to be employed on salvage service, with respect to the remuneration to be paid to them for salvage services to be rendered by such ship to any other ship.

Wages not to be dependent on the earning of freight.

76. (1) The right of a seaman of a British ship to wages shall not be dependent on the earning of freight.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter IX.—Wages and Discharge of Seamen and Apprentices, and Settlement of Claims.—Sections 77-82.)

(2) Every seaman and apprentice of a British ship who would be entitled to demand and recover any wages if the ship had earned freight shall, subject to all other rules of law and conditions applicable to the case, be entitled to claim and recover the same notwithstanding that freight has not been earned; but, in all cases of wreck or loss of the ship, proof that he has not exerted himself to the utmost to save the ship, cargo and stores shall bar his claim.

Right of seaman to wages to cease with termination of service by wreck or by being left on shore under a certificate.

77. Where the service of any seaman of a British ship terminates before the period contemplated in the agreement, by reason of the wreck or loss of the ship, or by reason of his being left on shore under a certificate of unfitness or inability to proceed to sea granted under section 207 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or section 150 of this Act, the seaman shall be entitled to wages for the time of service prior to such termination as aforesaid, but not for any further period.

Wages not to accrue during refusal to work or imprisonment.

78. No seaman or apprentice of a British ship shall be entitled to wages for any period during which he unlawfully refuses or neglects to work when required, whether before or after the time specified in the agreement for his beginning work; nor, unless the Court or Magistrate hearing the case otherwise directs, for any period during which he is lawfully imprisoned for any offence committed by him.

Discharge and Payment of Wages, and Settlement of Claims.

Discharge and payment before Superintendent.

79. (1) All seamen discharged from any foreign-going British ship at any port in British India shall be discharged and receive their wages in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, except in cases where some competent Court otherwise directs.

(2) Any master or owner who discharges any seaman or pays his wages in contravention of the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(3) In the case of home-trade British ships of a burden exceeding eighty tons, seamen may, if the owner or master so desires, be discharged and receive their wages in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, except in cases where some competent Court otherwise directs.

Account of wages and deductions.

80. (1) Every master of a British ship shall, not less than twenty-four hours before paying off or discharging any seaman, deliver to him, or, if he is to be discharged in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, to such Superintendent, a full and true account, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, of his wages and of all deductions to be made therefrom on any account whatever, and in default shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees:

Provided that, when a seaman is to be discharged in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, such account may be delivered to the seaman himself at or before the time when he leaves the ship.

(2) No deduction from the wages of any seaman of a British ship (except in respect of any matter happening after such delivery as aforesaid) shall be allowed unless it is included in the account delivered under sub-section (1).

(3) Every master of a British ship shall during the voyage enter the various matters in respect of which such deductions are made, with the amounts of the respective deductions, as they occur, in a book to be kept for the purpose, and shall, if required, produce such book at the time of the payment of wages and also upon the hearing before any competent authority of any complaint or question relating to such payment.

On discharge, master to give seamen certificates of discharge, and return certificates to mates and engineers.

81. (1) Every master of a British ship shall, upon the discharge of any seaman, or upon payment of his wages, sign and give him a certificate of discharge, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, specifying the period of his service and the time and place of his discharge; and shall in default be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(2) Every such certificate shall contain columns for the entry of particulars as to the conduct, character and qualifications of the seaman; but the master shall not be bound to enter any such particulars therein.

(3) Every master of a British ship shall, upon the discharge of any certificated mate or engineer whose certificate has been delivered to and retained by him, return such certificate, and shall in default be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Release to be signed on settlement of claims.

82. (1) Upon the completion in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office of any discharge and settlement, as between the master or owner of a British ship and a seaman, the master or owner and the seaman shall respectively, in the presence of the Superintendent, sign, in a form sanctioned by the Local Government, a mutual release of all claims in respect of the past voyage or engagement, and the Superintendent shall also sign and attest the release and shall retain the same.

(2) Such release, so signed and attested, shall operate as a mutual discharge and settlement of all demands between the parties thereto in respect of the past voyage or engagement.

(3) A copy of such release, certified under the hand of such Superintendent to be a true copy, shall be given by him to any party to the release who may require the same, and such copy shall be admissible in evidence upon any future question touching such claims as aforesaid, and shall have all the effect of the original.

(4) In cases in which discharge and settlement in the presence of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office are required by section 79, sub-section (1), no payment, receipt, settlement or discharge otherwise made shall operate as, or be admissible in evidence of, the release or satisfaction of any claim.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.
(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter IX.—Wages and Discharge of Seamen and Apprentices, and Settlement of Claims.—Sections 83-90.)

Settlement of wages by Superintendent.

83. Notwithstanding anything in section 82, the final settlement of the wages of a seaman of a British ship may, if the seaman consents, be left to the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office under rules (if any) made by the Local Government; and the receipt of the Superintendent shall in that case operate as a release by the seaman under section 82.

Statement of payments made to be given to master, and to be evidence.

84. Upon any payment being made by a master of a British ship to a seaman in the presence of the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office the Superintendent shall, if so required, sign and give to the master a statement of the whole amount so paid; and such statement shall, as between the master and his employer, be admissible in evidence that he has made the payments therein mentioned.

Period within which wages are to be paid.

85. (1) The owner or master of every British ship shall pay to each seaman his wages within one week after the delivery of the cargo has been commenced:

Provided that when a seaman lawfully leaves his ship at the end of his engagement he shall be paid on account at that time twenty rupees, or one-fourth of the balance due to him, whichever is least, and shall be paid the remainder of his wages within two clear days (exclusive of any Sunday or public holiday) after he so leaves the ship.

(2) In the event of a seaman's wages or any part thereof not being paid or settled as by this section required, then, unless the delay is due to the act or default of the seaman, or to some reasonable dispute as to liability, or to some other cause not being the act or default of the owner or master, the seaman's wages shall continue to run and be payable until the time of the final settlement thereof.

Rate of exchange for payment of seamen or apprentices in British Indian money.

86. (1) Where an agreement with the master of a British ship stipulates for the payment of wages or any other money to a seaman or apprentice in British sterling or any other currency not being British Indian currency, any payment in British India, if made in British Indian currency, shall, notwithstanding anything in the agreement, be made at the rate of exchange for the time being current at the place where the payment is made.

(2) The Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare what shall be deemed, for the purposes of sub-section (1), to be the rate of exchange for the time being current at any place in British India.

Award by Superintendent.

87. (1) Any Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office may hear and decide any question as to wages which is raised before him between the master or owner of a British ship and a seaman or apprentice, provided the amount in question does not exceed fifty rupees and the Superintendent does not consider that the question ought to be decided by a Court of law.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1), every Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office shall hear and decide any question whatever between a master or owner of a British ship and a seaman or apprentice which both parties agree in writing to submit to him

(3) Every award made by a Superintendent under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall be binding on both parties, and shall, in any legal proceeding which may be taken in the matter before any Court or Magistrate, be deemed to be conclusive as to the rights of the parties.

(4) Any document purporting to be an agreement or award made under this section shall be admissible in evidence.

Master and others to produce ship's papers to Superintendents, and give evidence.

88. (1) In any proceeding relating to the wages, discharge or claims of any seaman or apprentice of a British ship which is carried on before a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office under the provisions of this Act, the Superintendent may call upon the owner or his agent, the master, or any mate or other member of the crew, to produce any logs, papers or other documents in their respective possession or power relating to any matter in question in such proceeding, and may call before him and examine on any such matter any of such persons being then at or near the place where such office is situate.

(2) Every owner, agent, master or mate or other member of the crew who, when so called upon by the Superintendent, does not produce any such paper or document as aforesaid if in his possession or power, or does not appear and give evidence, shall, unless he furnishes some reasonable excuse for such default, be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Application to Magistrate for recovery of wages not exceeding five hundred rupees.

89. (1) Any seaman or apprentice of a British ship, or any person duly authorised on his behalf may apply to any Magistrate acting in or near the place at which the service has terminated or at which the seaman or apprentice has been discharged, or at which any person upon whom the claim is made is or resides, for the recovery of any amount of wages due to such seaman or apprentice not exceeding five hundred rupees:

Provided that any Magistrate to whom an application is made under this section may instead of dealing with the same himself, refer the parties to a Colonial Court of Admiralty or a Civil Court.

(2) Every application dealt with by a Magistrate under sub-section (1) shall be heard and determined in a summary manner, and the order of the Magistrate thereon shall be final.

Bar of jurisdiction of superior Civil Courts in suits for wages not exceeding five hundred rupees.

90. No suit or proceeding for the recovery of wages not exceeding the sum of five hundred rupees shall be instituted by or on behalf of any seaman or apprentice of a British ship in any Colonial Court of Admiralty or (where there is a Court of Small Causes) in any Civil Court other than a Court of Small Causes, unless the owner of the ship is adjudged bankrupt or declared insolvent, or unless the ship is under arrest or has been sold by the authority of any such Court, or unless the Magistrate, acting under the authority of section 89, refers the parties to such Court.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter IX.—Wages and Discharge of Seamen and Apprentices, and Settlement of Claims.—Section 91. Chapter X.—Master's Wages, Disbursement and Liabilities.—Section 92. Chapter XI.—Power to rescind Contracts.—Section 93. Chapter XII.—Wages and Effects of Deceased Seamen and Apprentices.—Sections 94-98.)

Application of chapter to certain seamen of foreign ships.

91. The provisions of this chapter, so far as they may be applicable, shall apply in the case of agreements made under section 63 to serve in foreign ships, and in the case of seamen executing such agreements, as if such ships were British ships.

CHAPTER X.

MASTER'S WAGES, DISBURSEMENTS AND LIABILITIES.

Remedies for recovery of master's wages and disbursements and for liabilities incurred by master.

92. (1) Every master of a British ship shall, so far as the case permits, have the same rights, liens and remedies for the recovery of his wages as by this Act or any other law or any custom a seaman has for the recovery of his wages.

(2) Every master of a British ship, and every person lawfully acting as master of a British ship by reason of the decease or incapacity from illness of the master of the ship, shall, so far as the case permits, have the same rights, liens and remedies for the recovery of disbursements properly made by him on account of the ship and for liabilities properly incurred by him on account of the ship, as a master of a British ship has, by sub-section (1) or any other law or any custom, for the recovery of his wages.

(3) If in any proceeding in any Colonial Court of Admiralty touching the claim of a master of a British ship, or any person lawfully acting as master of a British ship, to wages , or such disbursements as aforesaid, or on account of such liabilities as aforesaid, any right of set-off or counterclaim is set up, it shall be lawful for the Court to enter into and adjudicate upon all questions and to settle all accounts then arising or outstanding and unsettled between the parties to the proceeding, and to direct payment of any balance which is found to be due.

CHAPTER XI.

POWER TO RESCIND CONTRACTS.

Power to rescind contracts.

93. (1) Where a proceeding is instituted in or before any Court in relation to any dispute between an owner or master of a British ship and a seaman or apprentice, arising out of or incidental to their relation as such, or is instituted for the purposes of this section, the Court, if, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, it thinks it just so to do, may rescind any contract between the owner or master and the seaman or apprentice, or any contract of apprenticeship, upon such terms as the Court may think just.

(2) The power conferred by this section shall be in addition to any other jurisdiction which the Court can exercise independently of this section.

(3) For the purposes of this section, "Court" includes any Magistrate having jurisdiction in the matter to which the proceeding relates.

CHAPTER XII.

WAGES AND EFFECTS OF DECEASED SEAMEN AND APPRENTICES.

Master to take charge of money and effects of seamen and apprentices dying during voyage.

94. Whenever a seaman or apprentice dies during a voyage in a British ship which is to terminate at a port in British India, the master shall take charge of all money and effects which he leaves on board, and shall enter or cause to be entered in the official log (if any) a statement of the amount of such money and a description of such effects and, in case of a sale of any such effects, the sum received for each article sold.

Effects to be delivered, and money and wages paid, to Superintendent, with full account.

95. (1) The master shall, within forty-eight hours after his arrival at his port of destination in British India, deliver such effects as aforesaid remaining in his hands, and pay all money which he has so taken charge of or received, and also the wages due to the deceased, to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at such port, and shall give to such Superintendent an account of the effects, money and wages so to be delivered and paid.

(2) No deductions claimed in such account shall be allowed unless verified,—

(a) if there is an official log, by the entry therein required by section 106, clause (i), and (b) by such other vouchers (if any) as may be reasonably required by the Superintendent.

Penalties for contravening section 94 or section 95.

96. If any master fails to take charge of any money or effects of a seaman or apprentice, or to make or cause to be made entries in respect thereof, or to make delivery or payment, or to give an account, as hereinbefore directed, he shall be accountable for the money, wages and effects of the seaman or apprentice to such Superintendent as aforesaid, and shall pay and deliver the same accordingly; and shall in addition be punished with fine which may extend to treble the value of the money, wages and effects, or, if such value is not ascertained, to five hundred rupees.

Wages of seamen and apprentices lost with their ship to be paid to Superintendent.

97. Where a seaman or apprentice of a British ship registered in British India has been lost with his ship, his wages shall be paid by the owner of the ship to some Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office in British India.

Wages and effects of seamen and apprentices dying in British India to be made over to Superintendent.

98. Whenever any seaman or apprentice dies in British India, and is at the time of his death entitled to claim from the master or owner of any British ship in which he has served any unpaid wages or undelivered effects, such master or owner shall pay such wages, and deliver or account for such effects, to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at the port at which the seaman or apprentice was discharged or was to have been discharged, and in default of so doing shall be punished with fine which may extend to treble the value of the money and effects, or, if such value is not ascertained, to five hundred rupees.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892. (Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter XII.—Wages and Effects of Deceased Seamen and Apprentices.—Sections 99-104. Chapter XIII.—Provisions, Health and Accommodation.—Sections 105-106.)

Procedure for recovery of money, wages and effects of deceased seamen and apprentices.

99. Any money, wages or effects referred to in section 94, section 95, section 97 or section 98 may be recovered by the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office in the manner provided by Chapter IX or any other law for the time being in force for the recovery of a seaman's wages.

Evidence as to loss of ship.

100. (1) In any proceeding for the recovery of the wages of a seaman or apprentice of a British ship registered in British India who has been lost with his ship,—

(a) if it is shown by some official return produced out of the custody of any officer authorised to grant a port-clearance, or by other evidence, that the ship has, twelve months or upwards before the institution of the proceeding, left a port of departure in British India, and

(b) if a certificate from the Local Government is produced to the effect that the ship has not been heard of within a period of twelve months after such departure, and

(c) if it is not shown that the ship has been heard of within such period,

the ship shall be deemed to have been lost with all hands on board, either immediately after the time at which she was last heard of, or at such later time as the Court may think probable.

(2) The production out of the custody of the Superintendent of any Mercantile Marine Office of any duplicate agreement or list of the crew made out at the time of the last departure of the ship from British India, or the production of a certificate purporting to be a certificate from a Consular or other public officer at any port beyond British India, stating that certain seamen or apprentices were shipped in the ship from such port, shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that the seamen or apprentices therein named were on board at the time of the loss.

Disposal by Superintendent of money, wages and effects of deceased seamen and apprentices.

101. When money, wages or effects left by or due to any deceased seaman or apprentice who belonged to a British ship is or are received by a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, then, subject to such deductions for expenses incurred in respect of the seaman or apprentice or of his said money, wages or effects as the Superintendent may think proper to allow, the Superintendent may pay and deliver the said money, wages and effects to any claimants who can prove themselves to his satisfaction to be entitled thereto, and the Superintendent shall be thereby discharged from all further liability in respect thereof; or, if he thinks fit so to do, the Superintendent may require probate or letters of administration, or a certificate under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889, to be taken out, and thereupon pay and deliver the said money, wages and effects to the legal representative of the deceased.

Procedure where money, wages or effects of deceased seaman or apprentice not claimed within one year.

102. (1) Where the money, wages or effects of any deceased seaman or apprentice who belonged to a British ship has or have been received by a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, and no claim thereto is substantiated within one year from such receipt, the Superintendent shall cause such effects to be sold and pay the proceeds of the sale, together with the unclaimed money and wages, into the public treasury.

(2) If, after any money has been so paid into the public treasury, any claim is made thereto, then if the claim is established to the satisfaction of the Superintendent, the amount or so much as shall appear to be due to the claimant shall be paid to him, and if the claim is not so established, the claimant may apply by petition to a Magistrate; and such Magistrate, after taking evidence, either orally or on affidavit, shall make such order on the petition as shall seem just:

Provided that, after the expiration of six years from the receipt of such unclaimed money, wages or effects by the Superintendent, no claim to such money or wages or to the proceeds of the sale of such effects shall be entertained without the sanction of the Local Government.

Recovery of wages where freight has not been earned.

103. The provisions of this chapter as to wages shall apply to wage due to any seaman or apprentice of a British ship under section 76 and remaining unpaid at the date of his death.

Application of chapter to certain seamen of foreign ships.

104. The provisions of this chapter shall apply in the case of money, wages and effects of seamen with whom an agreement has been made by the master of a foreign ship under section 63, as if the ship were a British ship.

CHAPTER XIII.

PROVISIONS, HEALTH AND ACCOMMODATION.

Right to provisions when to commence.

105. The right of a seaman of a British ship to provisions shall be taken to commence either at the time at which he begins work, or at the time specified in the agreement for his being on board or beginning work, whichever first happens.

Inspection of provisions and water for crew of foreign-going ship, prior to departure of ship.

106. (1) All beef or pork in barrels, preserved meat or vegetables in tins, and flour or biscuits in casks, and all water, intended for the use of the crew of any foreign-going

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter XIII.—Provisions, Health and Accommodation.—Sections 107-109.)

British ship which is about to proceed to sea from a port in British India shall be inspected by an officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf.

(2) Such inspection shall be made, if practicable, before the articles are placed on board the ship, and shall be made in the prescribed manner.

(3) If the said officer is satisfied that the said articles are fit for such use as aforesaid, he shall sign and give to the master of the ship a certificate to that effect.

(4) The master of every ship referred to in sub-section (1) shall, before proceeding to sea, produce the certificate given to him under sub-section (3) to the officer authorised to grant a port-clearance.

(5) No officer as aforesaid shall grant a port-clearance for any such ship unless such certificate is so produced; and, if any attempt is made to take any such ship to sea without a clearance, the Local Government may detain her until such certificate is so produced.

(6) The Local Government may make rules to regulate the inspection of provisions and water under sub-section (1).

Examination of provisions or water on complaint of crew.

107. (1) Any three or more members of the crew of any British ship may complain to any Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office or to any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf that the provisions or water provided for the use of the crew are or is at any time of bad quality, unfit for use or deficient in quantity.

(2) Any officer to whom such complaint is made may thereupon examine the said provisions or water or cause them or it to be examined; and if, on examination, any of such provisions or water are or is found to be of bad quality and unfit for use or to be deficient in quantity, the person making such examination shall signify the same in writing to the master of the ship.

(3) If the master does not thereupon provide other proper provisions or water in place of any so signified to be of bad quality and unfit for use, or does not procure the requisite quantity of any so signified to be deficient in quantity, or uses any provisions or water which have or has been so signified to be of bad quality and unfit for use, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

(4) When any such examination as aforesaid has been made, the officer to whom complaint was made as aforesaid shall enter a statement of the result of the examination in the official log (if any), and shall, unless he is himself the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, send a report thereof to such Superintendent.

(5) Such report, if produced out of the custody of such Superintendent, shall be admissible in evidence.

Forfeiture for frivolous complaint.

108. If any officer to whom a complaint is made under section 107 certifies in such statement as aforesaid that there was no reasonable ground for the complaint, each of the parties so complaining shall be liable to forfeit to the owner out of his wages a sum not exceeding the amount of one week's wages.

Inspection of provisions or water by Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent.

109. (1) The Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at any port in British India may enter at any time on board of any British ship upon which seamen or apprentices have been shipped at such port, and inspect any of the provisions or water provided for the use of the crew, other than provisions or water which have been inspected under section 106.

(2) If on any such inspection any of the provisions or water are or is found to be of bad quality and unfit for use, or deficient in quantity, the Superintendent shall proceed as provided in section 107, and the penalty provided by that section shall be incurred by any default of the master of the ship in respect of such provisions or water.

Allowance for short or bad provisions.

110. In either of the following cases (that is to say)—

(a) if during a voyage in a British ship the allowance of any of the provisions for which a seaman has stipulated by his agreement is reduced; or the seaman shall receive by way of compensation for such reduction or bad quality, according to the time of its continuance, the following sums, to be paid to him in addition to and to be recoverable as wages (that is to say)—

(i) if his allowance is reduced by any quantity not exceeding one-third of the quantity specified in the agreement, a sum not exceeding four annas per diem in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, or one anna per diem in the case of a lascar or other native seaman:

(ii) if his allowance is reduced by more than one-third of such quantity, eight annas per diem in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman or two annas per diem in the case of a lascar or other native seaman:

(iii) in respect of such bad quality as aforesaid, a sum not exceeding twelve annas per diem in the case of a European seaman or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman or three annas per diem in the case of a lascar or other native seaman:

Provided that, if it is shown to the satisfaction of the Court or Magistrate trying the case that any provisions, the allowance of which has been reduced, could not be procured, or supplied in proper quantities, and that proper and equivalent substitutes were supplied in place thereof the Court or Magistrate shall take such circumstances into consideration, and shall modify or refuse the compensation payable under this section as the justice of the case may require.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter XIII.—Provisions, Health and Accommodation.—Sections 111-116.)

Medicines, medical stores, disinfectants and medical appliances to be provided and kept on board certain ships.

111. (1) All foreign-going British ships, all home-trade British ships carrying passengers, and all home-trade British ships of a burden of eighty tons or upwards not carrying passengers shall have always on board a sufficient supply of medicines, medical stores, disinfectants and medical appliances, suitable for diseases and accidents likely to happen on sea voyages, according to such scale as may be fixed by the Governor General in Council and published in the Gazette of India.

(2) If in any ship medicines, medical stores, disinfectants or medical appliances are not provided or kept on board as required by sub-section (1), the owner or master of the ship shall be deemed to be in fault and shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, unless he can prove that the non-compliance with the said requirements was not caused by any inattention, neglect or wilful default on his part ; and, if it is proved that some person other than the owner or master is in fault, such person shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Weights and measures.

112. (1) Every master of a British ship shall keep on board proper weights and measures for the purpose of determining the quantities of the several provisions and articles served out to the crew, and shall allow the same to be used at the time of serving out such provisions and articles in the presence of a witness whenever any dispute arises in regard to such quantities.

(2) Any master failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Provision of accommodation for seamen and apprentices.

113. (1) Every place in any British ship which is occupied by seamen or apprentices engaged under this Act and appropriated to their use shall have,—

(a) for each European seaman or apprentice or other person shipped on the same footing as a European seaman, a space of twelve superficial and seventy-two cubic feet, and

(b) for each lascar or other native seaman or person shipped on the same footing as a lascar, a space of six superficial and thirty-six cubic feet, measured on the deck or floor of such place.

(2) Every such place shall be such as to make the space aforesaid available for the proper accommodation of the seamen or apprentices who are to occupy it, shall be securely constructed, properly lighted and ventilated, properly protected from weather and sea, and, as far as practicable, properly shut off and protected from effluvium which may be caused by cargo or bilge-water.

(3) No place under the top-gallant forecastle shall be occupied by or appropriated to the use of any lascar or other native seaman or person shipped on the same footing as a lascar unless the forecastle deck is not less than five feet six inches above the deck immediately below it.

(4) Every place referred to in sub-section (1) shall be kept free from stores or goods of any kind, not being the personal property of the crew in use during the voyage.

(5) If any such place is not kept free from goods and stores as aforesaid, the master of the ship shall be deemed to be in fault, and shall forfeit and pay to each seaman or apprentice lodged therein the sum of eight annas per diem for each day after complaint made to him by any two or more of such seamen or apprentices during which any goods or stores, not being the personal property of the crew, are stored or kept therein.

(6) If in any other respect the provisions of this section are not observed with respect to any such place, the owner of the ship shall be deemed to be in fault, and shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Prohibition as to size of lascars' chests.

114. The master of any British ship may refuse to allow any lascar or other native seaman, or person shipped on the same footing as a lascar, to carry in any place occupied by him and appropriated to his use in the ship any chest or other receptacle of a greater capacity than six cubic feet, or any chests or other receptacles of a greater aggregate capacity than six cubic feet.

Inspection of medicines, medical stores, disinfectants, medical appliances and accommodation.

115. The Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at any port in British India may enter at any time on board of any British ship upon which seamen or apprentices have been shipped at such port, and inspect the medicines, medical stores, disinfectants and medical appliances, and the accommodation for seamen or apprentices, prescribed by or under this Act or the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1892.

Expenses consequent upon illness of master, seaman or apprentice, how to be defrayed.

116. (1) The following expenses in respect of the illness or burial of the master or any seaman or apprentice of any British ship registered in British India shall be defrayed by the owner of the ship, without any deduction on that account from the wages of the master, seaman or apprentice :—

(a) when any such master, seaman or apprentice receives any hurt or injury in the service of the ship—the expenses of providing the necessary surgical and medical advice and attendance, with medicines, and of his subsistence, until he is cured, or is brought back to the port from which he was shipped or other port agreed upon, or dies, and the expenses of his conveyance to such port and the expenses (if any) of his burial ;

(b) when any such master, seaman or apprentice is, on account of illness, temporarily removed from the ship for the purpose of preventing infection, or otherwise for the convenience of the ship, and subsequently returns to his duty,—the expenses of such removal, and of providing the necessary surgical, and medical advice and attendance, with medicines, and of his subsistence, while away from the ship ;

(c) when any such master, seaman or apprentice is ill otherwise than as mentioned in clause (a)—the expenses of all medicines and surgical or medical advice and attendance given to him while on board his ship :

Provided that where a seaman or apprentice is during any period, by reason of illness, incapable of performing his duty, and it is proved that such illness has been caused by his own wilful act or default, he shall not be entitled to wages for that period.

(2) Whenever it is shown that any seaman or apprentice of any British ship registered in British India is ill and has, through the neglect of the owner or master, not been provided with proper food or water according to his agreement, or with such medicines, medical stores, medical appliances, anti-scorbutics or accommodation as are required by or under this Act or the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1892, as the case may be, then, unless it can be shown that the illness has been produced by other causes, the owner or master shall be liable to pay all expenses properly and necessarily incurred by reason of such illness (not exceeding in the whole three months' wages), either by the seaman or apprentice himself or on his behalf by—

(d) any Local Government or Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office in British India, or

(e) any officer authorised in that behalf by the Government of any other British Possession, or

(f) any British Consular officer.

(3) Nothing in sub-section (2) shall affect—

(g) any further liability to which any owner or master is subject in respect of such neglect as aforesaid, or

(h) any remedy which any seaman or apprentice would have but for that sub-section.

(4) In cases not provided for by sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), any reasonable expenses duly incurred by the owner of a British ship registered in British India— shall, if duly proved, be deducted from the wages of such master, seaman or apprentice.

(i) for a master or seaman in respect of illness, or

(5) Where any expenses referred to in sub-section (1) have been paid by the master, seaman or apprentice himself, or where any expenses are payable under sub-section (2), the same may be recovered as if they were wages duly earned; and, if any such expenses are paid or allowed out of any moneys forming part of the revenues of India, the amount shall be a charge upon the ship, and may be recovered with full costs of suit by the Secretary of State for India in Council.

117. The provisions of this chapter, so far as they may be applicable, shall apply in the case of seamen with whom an agreement has been made by the master of a foreign ship under section 63, and in the case of ships to which any such agreement relates, as if such seamen had engaged to serve in a British ship.

Application of chapter to certain seamen of foreign ships.

CHAPTER XIV.

COMPLAINTS BY SEAMEN AND APPRENTICES.

118. (1) If any seaman or apprentice, while on board any British ship, states to the master that he desires to make complaint to a Magistrate or a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office against the master or any member of the crew, the master shall,

Seaman or apprentice to be allowed to go ashore to make complaint to a Magistrate or Superintendent.

if the ship is then at a place where there is a Magistrate or a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, so soon as the service of the ship will permit, or, if the ship is not then at such a place, so soon after her first arrival at such a place as the service of the ship will permit, allow such seaman or apprentice to go ashore, or send him ashore in proper custody, so that he may be enabled to make such complaint.

(2) Any master failing to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees

119. The provisions of section 118 shall apply in the case of seamen with whom an agreement has been made by the master of a foreign ship under section 63, as if such ship were a British ship.

Application of section 118 to certain seamen of foreign ships.

PROTECTION OF SEAMEN AND APPRENTICES FROM IMPOSITION.

120. (1) No wages due or accruing due to any seaman or apprentice of a British ship shall be subject to attachment by order of any Court.

Protection of wages and salvage from encumbrances.

(2) Every payment of wages to a seaman of a British ship shall be valid in law, notwithstanding any previous sale or assignment of such wages or any encumbrance thereon.

(3) No assignment or sale of wages or salvage made by a seaman of a British ship prior to the accruing thereof shall bind the seaman, and no power-of-attorney or authority for the receipt of wages or salvage due or accruing due to such a seaman shall be irrevocable.

121. No debt exceeding in amount three rupees, incurred by any seaman of a British ship after he has engaged to serve, shall be recoverable until the service agreed for is concluded.

Debt exceeding three rupees when recoverable.

122. If any person demands or receives from any seaman or apprentice of a British ship payment in respect of his board or lodging in the house of such person for a longer period than that during which the seaman or apprentice has actually boarded or lodged therein, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

[Act I of 1859, s. 76; Bill of 1867, s. 190; Bill of 1882, s. 89.] Cf. 1854, s. 236.

Penalty for retaining money or effects of seaman or apprentice.

123. (1) If any person receives or takes into his possession or under his control any moneys or effects of any seaman or apprentice of a British ship, and does not return the same or pay the value thereof when so required by the seaman or apprentice, subject to the deduction of any sum which may be justly due to him from the seaman or apprentice in respect of board or lodging or otherwise, or absconds with any such moneys or effects, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

(2) Any Magistrate imposing a fine under sub-section (1) may direct the amount or value of such moneys or effects as aforesaid, subject to such deduction as aforesaid, to be forthwith paid to the seaman or apprentice.

[Act I of 1859, s. 77; Bill of 1867, s. 191; Bill of 1882, s. 90.] Cf. 1854, s. 237, and 1880 (Wages, &c.), s. 5.

Penalty for being on board ship without permission before seamen leave.

124. Where a British ship is about to arrive, is arriving or has arrived at the end of her voyage, every person, not being in Her Majesty's service or not being duly authorised by law for the purpose, who—

(a) goes on board the ship, without the permission of the master, before the seamen lawfully leave the ship at the end of their engagement, or are discharged (whichever last happens); or,

(b) being on board the ship, remains there after being warned to leave by the master, or by a police-officer, shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months; and the master of the ship may take him into custody, and deliver him up forthwith to a police-officer to be taken before a Court or Magistrate capable of taking cognizance of the offence, and dealt with according to law.

[Act I of 1859, s. 78; Bill of 1867, s. 192; Bill of 1882, s. 91.] Cf. 1854, s. 238.

Penalty for solicitations by lodging-house-keepers.

125. If, within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any British ship at any port in British India, any person then being on board the ship solicits any seaman or apprentice to become a lodger at the house of any person letting lodgings for hire, or takes out of the ship any effects of any seaman or apprentice, except under the personal direction of the seaman or apprentice and with the permission of the master, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Application of sections 120 to 123 to certain seamen of foreign ships.

126. The provisions of sections 120 to 123 (both inclusive) shall apply in the case of seamen with whom an agreement has been made by the master of a foreign ship under section 63, as if such seamen had engaged to serve in a British ship.

CHAPTER XVI.
DISCIPLINE.

[Act I of 1859, s. 80; Act V of 1883, s. 4 (2); Act XVI of 1891; Bill of 1867, ss. 194, 201; Bill of 1882, s. 107.] Cf. 1854, s. 240.

Power of Admiralty and Criminal Courts to remove master and appoint a new master.

127. Any Colonial Court of Admiralty in British India, or the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at any port in British India where there is no Colonial Court of Admiralty, may, upon application by the owner, a part owner, the agent of the owner, the consignee, any certificated mate, or one-third or more of the members of the crew, of any British ship being within the jurisdiction of the Court, and upon proof on oath to the satisfaction of the Court that the removal of the master of the ship is necessary, remove him accordingly; and may, with the consent of the owner or his agent, or the consignee of the ship, or, if there is no owner or agent of the owner or consignee of the ship within the jurisdiction of the Court, then without such consent, appoint a new master in his stead; and may make such order, and require such security, in respect of costs in the matter, as it may think fit.

On change of master, documents to be handed over to successor.

[Act I of 1859, s. 9[illegible]; Bill of 18[illegible] s. 218; B[illegible] 1882, s. [illegible] Cf. 1854, 259.

128. (1) If, during the progress of a voyage, the master of any British ship registered in British India is superseded, or for any other reason quits the ship, and is succeeded in the command by some other person, he shall deliver to his successor the various documents relating to the navigation of the ship and to the crew thereof which are in his custody; and shall in default be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

(2) Such successor shall, immediately on assuming the command of the ship, enter in the official log a list of the documents so delivered to him.

Punishment for misconduct endangering ship, life or limb

[Act I of 1859, s. [illegible] (am. by A[illegible] of 1883, s[illegible] Bill of 1[illegible] s. 193; B[illegible] 1882, s. [illegible] Cf. 1854, s. 239.

129. If any master, seaman or apprentice of a British ship, by wilful breach of duty, or by neglect of duty, or by reason of drunkenness,—

(a) does any act tending to the immediate loss, destruction or material damage of the ship, or tending immediately to endanger the life or limb of any person belonging to, or on board of, the ship, or

(b) refuses or omits to do any lawful act proper and requisite to be done by him for preserving the ship from immediate loss, destruction or material damage, or for preserving any person belonging to or on board of the ship from immediate danger to life or limb, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with both.

Punishment of seamen and apprentices for certain other offences.

[Act I o[illegible] 1859, s. [illegible] Bill of [illegible] s. 202; [illegible] 1882, s. [illegible] Cf. 1854 s. 243; (Wages, ss. 10, 1[illegible] X of [illegible]

130. Whenever any seaman of a British ship who has been lawfully engaged, or any apprentice of a British ship, commits any of the following offences, he shall, notwithstanding anything in Chapter XXII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, be tried in a summary way, and shall be punishable as follows (that is to say)—

Desertion.

(1) for desertion he shall be liable—

(a) to forfeit all or any part of the wages or emoluments which he has then earned, and

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter XVI.—Discipline.—Sections 131-134.)

(b) if the desertion takes place at any place not in British India, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit all or any part of the wages or emoluments which he may earn in any other ship in which he may be employed until his next return to a port in British India, and to satisfy any excess of wages paid by the master or owner of the ship from which he deserts to any substitute engaged in his place at a higher rate of wages than the rate stipulated to be paid to him :

Failing to join ship, or absence without leave.

(2) for neglecting or refusing, without reasonable cause, to join his ship or proceed to sea in his ship, or for absence without leave at any time within twenty-four hours next preceding the ship's sailing from any port either at the commencement or during the progress of any voyage, or for absence at any time without leave and without sufficient reason from his ship or from his duty, where such absence does not amount to desertion or is not treated as such by the master, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding two days' pay, and, in addition, for every twenty-four hours of absence, either a sum not exceeding six days' pay or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute :

Quitting without leave before ship is secured.

(3) for quitting his ship without leave after her arrival at her port of delivery and before she is placed in security, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding one month's pay :

Disobedience.

(4) for wilful disobedience to any lawful command he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to four weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit out of his wages a sum not exceeding two days' pay :

Continued disobedience or neglect of duty.

(5) for continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands, or continued wilful neglect of duty he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks, and shall also be liable, at the discretion of the Court, to forfeit, out of his wages, for every twenty-four hours' continuance of such disobedience or neglect either a sum not exceeding six days' pay or any expenses which have been properly incurred in hiring a substitute :

Assault on officer.

(6) for assaulting the master or any mate of his ship he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks :

Combining to disobey, or to neglect duty, &c.

(7) for combining with any other member or members of the crew to disobey lawful commands, or to neglect duty, or to impede the navigation of the ship or the progress of the voyage, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks :

Wilful damage or theft.

(8) for wilfully damaging his ship, or committing theft in respect of, or wilfully damaging, any of her stores or cargo, he shall be liable to forfeit out of his wages a sum equal in amount to the loss thereby sustained, and also, at the discretion of the Court, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to twelve weeks :

Act of smuggling, causing loss or damage to owner or master.

(9) for any act of smuggling of which he is convicted, and whereby loss or damage is occasioned to the owner or master, he shall be liable to pay to the owner or master such sum as is sufficient to reimburse the owner or master for such loss or damage; and the whole or a proportionate part of his wages may be retained in satisfaction or on account of such liability, without prejudice to any further remedy.

Section 130 not to take away remedy for breach of contract.

131. Nothing in section 130 shall be deemed to take away or limit any remedy which an owner or master would have but for that section for any breach of contract in respect of matters constituting an offence against that section; but no owner or master shall be compensated more than once in respect of the same damage.

Cf. 1883, s. 54.

Entry of offences in official log.

132. (1) Upon the commission of any offence mentioned in section 130, the master shall make, or cause to be made, an entry thereof in the official log (if any), and such entry shall be signed by the master and also by the mate or some other member of the crew.

[Act I of 1859, s. 84; Bill of 1867, s. 203; Bill of 1882, s. 109.] Cf. 1854, s. 244.

(2) The offender, if still in the ship, shall, before the next subsequent arrival of the ship at any port, or, if she is at the time in port, before her departure therefrom, either be furnished with a copy of such entry or have the same read over distinctly and audibly to him, and may thereupon make such reply thereto as he may think fit.

(3) A statement that a copy of the said entry has been so furnished, or that the same has been so read over as aforesaid, and the reply (if any) made by the offender, shall likewise be entered and signed in manner aforesaid.

(4) In any subsequent legal proceeding, the entries hereinbefore required shall, if practicable, be produced or proved, and in default of such production or proof the Court hearing the case may, at its discretion, refuse to receive evidence of the offence.

Penalty for false statement as to last ship or as to name.

133. (1) If any seaman of a British ship, on or before being engaged, wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement as to the name of his last ship, or last alleged ship, or wilfully and fraudulently makes a false statement as to his own name, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

[Act I of 1859, s. 95; Bill of 1867, s. 214; Bill of 1882, s. 123.] Cf. 1854, s. 255.

(2) Such fine may be deducted from any wages which the seaman may earn by virtue of such engagement as aforesaid, and may be appl'ed, in whole or in part, in reimbursement of the loss and expenses (if any) occasioned by any previous desertion.

Procedure in case of desertion, failure to join ship or absence without leave.

134. (1) Whenever, either at the commencement or during the progress of a voyage, any seaman or apprentice deserts from, or neglects or refuses to join or proceed to sea in, any British ship in which he is duly engaged to serve, or is found otherwise absenting himself therefrom without leave, the master or any mate, or the owner, ship's husband or consignee may, with or without the assistance of police-officers, who are hereby directed to give the same if required, convey him on board:

Provided that, if the seaman or apprentice so requires, he shall first be taken before some Court capable of taking cognizance of the matter, to be dealt with according to law.

(2) If any master, mate, owner, ship's husband or consignee—

(a) conveys a seaman or apprentice on board without first complying with any requisition made by him to be taken before a Court as aforesaid, or

(b) conveys a seaman or apprentice on board, or takes him before a Court, on grounds which appear to the Court to be improper or insufficient, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; but such fine, if inflicted, shall be a bar to any suit for false imprisonment.

(3) Whenever any seaman or apprentice is brought before any Court on the ground of his having deserted from, or neglected or refused to join or proceed to sea in, any British ship in which he is engaged to serve, or of having otherwise absented himself therefrom without leave, the Court may, if the master or the owner or his agent so requires, cause the seaman or apprentice to be conveyed on board for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or deliver him to the master or any mate of the ship, or the owner or his agent, to be by him so conveyed, and may in such case order any costs and expenses properly incurred by or on behalf of the master or owner by reason of the offence to be paid by the seaman or apprentice, and if necessary to be deducted from any wages which he has then earned, or which by virtue of his then existing engagement he may afterwards earn.

(4) If any seaman or apprentice of a British ship intends to absent himself from his ship or his duty, he may give notice of his intention, either to the owner or to the master of the ship, not less than forty-eight hours before the time at which he ought to be on board his ship, and, in the event of such notice being given, the Court shall not exercise any of the powers conferred on it by sub-section (3).

Procedure where, in proceeding for desertion or absence without leave, seaman or apprentice alleges unseaworthiness, unsafety or insufficient accommodation.

135. (1). Whenever in any proceeding against a seaman or apprentice of a British ship for desertion, or for neglecting or refusing to join or proceed to sea in his ship, or for being otherwise absent therefrom without leave, it is alleged by one-fourth of the seamen belonging to the ship or, if the number of such seamen exceeds twenty, by not less than five such seamen,—

(a) that the ship is unseaworthy or unsafe, or

(b) that the accommodation provided for the crew is insufficient,

the Court shall take such means as may be in its power to satisfy itself concerning the truth or untruth of the allegation, and shall for that purpose receive the evidence of the persons making the allegation and may summon any other witnesses whose evidence it may think it desirable to hear.

(2) If satisfied that the allegation is untrue, the Court shall proceed to adjudicate, but if not so satisfied, it shall—in case (a), make a report to the Local Government in view to action being taken under section 4 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, or section 207 of this Act, as the case may be, or [39 & 40 Vict., c. 80.]

in case (b), make a report to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office in view to action being taken under section 115 of this Act.

(3) If any seaman or apprentice of a British ship is detained for the purpose of any proceeding referred to in sub-section (1), and if upon any further proceedings taken under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1876, or Chapter XXIV or Chapter XIII of this Act, as the case may be, it is proved that the ship is unseaworthy or unsafe, or that the accommodation provided for the crew is insufficient, the owner or master of the ship shall be liable to pay to such seaman or apprentice such compensation for his detention as the Court may direct.

Report of desertions and absences without leave.

136. (1) Whenever any seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India deserts or otherwise absents himself without leave from a British ship in which he is engaged to serve, the master of the ship shall, within forty-eight hours of discovering such desertion or absence, report the same to the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office or to such other officer (if any) as the Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint in this behalf, unless in the meantime the deserter or absentee returns. [Act XIII of 1876, s. 6; Bill of 1882, s. 113.]

(2) Any master wilfully neglecting to comply with the provisions of this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with both.

Entries and certificates of desertion abroad to be copied, sent to British India and admitted in evidence.

137. (1) Whenever a seaman or apprentice shipped in British India on a British ship registered in British India deserts therefrom while the ship is out of British India, the master shall produce the entry in the official log (if any) of such desertion to the person or persons required or authorised by section 207 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, to endorse on the agreement a certificate of such desertion. [Act I of 1859, s. 89; Bill of 1867, s. 208; Bill of 1882, s. 117.] Cf. 1854, s. 249; 1862, 15. 17 & 18 Vict., c. 104.

(2) Such person or persons shall thereupon make and certify a copy of such entry and a copy of the said certificate of desertion.

(3) The master shall forthwith transmit such copies to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at the port at which the seaman or apprentice was shipped, and the Superintendent shall, if required, cause the same to be produced in any legal proceeding.

(4) Such copies, if purporting to be so made and certified as aforesaid, shall in any legal proceeding relating to such desertion be admissible in evidence.

[Act I of 1859, s. 90; Bill of 1867, s. 209; Bill of 1882, s. 118.] Cf. 1854, s. 250.

Facilities for proving desertion so far as concerns forfeiture of wages or emoluments.

138. (1) Whenever a question arises whether the wages or emoluments of any seaman or apprentice of a British ship are forfeited for desertion, it shall be sufficient for the party insisting on the forfeiture to show that the seaman or apprentice was duly engaged in, or that he belonged to, the ship from which he is alleged to have deserted, and that he quitted such ship before the completion of the voyage or engagement, or, if the voyage was to terminate at any port in British India, and the ship has not returned to British India, that he is absent from her, and that an entry of the desertion has been duly made in the official log (if any).

(2) Thereupon the desertion shall, so far as relates to any forfeiture of wages or emoluments under the provisions hereinbefore contained, be deemed to be proved, unless the seaman or apprentice can produce a proper certificate of discharge or can otherwise show to the satisfaction of the Court that he had sufficient reason for leaving his ship.

[Act I of 1859, s. 92; Bill of 1867, s. 211; Bill of 1882, s. 120.] Cf. 1854, s. 252.

Amount of forfeiture how to be ascertained when seamen contract for the voyage.

139. (1) Where a seaman of a British ship contracts for wages by the voyage or by the run or by the share, and not by the month or any other stated period of time, the amount of forfeiture to be incurred under this Act shall be taken to be an amount bearing the same proportion to the whole wages or share as a month or other the period hereinbefore mentioned in fixing the amount of such forfeiture (as the case may be) bears to the whole time spent in the voyage.

(2) If the whole time spent in the voyage does not exceed the period for which the pay is to be forfeited, the forfeiture shall extend to the whole wages or share.

[Act I of 1859, s. 94; Bill of 1867, s. 213; Bill of 1882, s. 122.] Cf. 1854, s. 254.

Questions of forfeitures may be decided in suits for wages.

140. Any question concerning the forfeiture of or deductions from the wages of any seaman or apprentice of a British ship may be determined in any proceeding lawfully instituted with respect to such wages, notwithstanding that the offence in respect of which such question arises, though hereby made punishable by imprisonment as well as forfeiture, has not been made the subject of any criminal proceeding.

[Act I of 1859, s. 93; Bill of 1867, s. 212; Bill of 1882, s. 121]. Cf. 1854, s. 253.

Application of forfeitures.

141. (1) All wages and emoluments which under the provisions hereinbefore contained, are forfeited for desertion shall be applied in the first instance in or towards the re-imbursement of the expenses occasioned by such desertion to the master or owner of the ship from which the desertion has taken place, and may, if earned subsequently to the desertion, be recovered by such master or by the owner or his agent in the same manner as the deserter might have recovered the same if they had not been forfeited; and in any legal proceeding relating to such wages the Court may order the same to be paid accordingly; and, subject to such re-imbursement, the same shall be paid into the public treasury and carried to the account of the Government.

(2) In all other cases of forfeiture of wages under the provisions hereinbefore contained, the forfeiture shall, in the absence of any specific directions to the contrary, be for the benefit of the master or owner by whom the wages are payable.

[Act I of 1859, s. 91; Bill of 1867, s. 210; Bill of 1882, s. 119 Cf. 1854, s. 251.

Power to deduct from wages costs of procuring conviction.

142. Whenever, in any proceeding relating to a seaman's or apprentice's wages, it is shown that any seaman or apprentice of a British ship has in the course of the voyage been convicted of any offence by any competent tribunal and rightfully punished therefor by imprisonment or otherwise, the Court hearing the case may direct a part of the wages due to such seaman or apprentice, not exceeding thirty rupees, to be applied in reimbursing any costs properly incurred by the master in procuring such conviction and punishment.

[Act I of 18[illegible] s. 88; A[illegible] XIII of 187[illegible] s. 7; Bill [illegible] 1867, s. 20[illegible] Bill of 1882 ss. 114, 115. Cf. 1854, 248.

Power to send on board seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India who is undergoing imprisonment.

143. (1) If any seaman or apprentice of a British ship, who was not shipped in British India, is imprisoned for any offence for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, and if during such imprisonment and before his engagement is at an end his services are required on board his ship, any Magistrate may, at the request of the master or of the owner or his agent, cause the seaman or apprentice to be conveyed on board the ship for the purpose of proceeding on the voyage, or to be delivered to the master or any mate of the ship or to the owner or his agent, to be by him so conveyed, notwithstanding that the period for which he was sentenced to imprisonment has not terminated.

(2) The officer in charge of the jail in which such seaman or apprentice is confined shall obey all orders given by a Magistrate under this section.

[Act XIII of 1876, s. 8 (as by Act XII 1891); Bill 1882, s. 116 Cf. 186[illegible] s. 15.

Procedure where seaman or apprentice not shipped in British India is imprisoned on complaint of master or owner.

144. (1) If any seaman or apprentice of a British ship, who was not shipped in British India, is imprisoned, on complaint made by or on behalf of the master or owner of the ship, for any offence for which he has been sentenced to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month, then—

(a) while such imprisonment lasts, no person shall, without the previous sanction in writing of the Local Government or of such officer as it may appoint in this behalf, engage any native of India to serve as a seaman on board such ship; and

(b) the Local Government, or such officer as it may appoint in this behalf, may tender such seaman or apprentice to the master or owner of the ship, and if such master or owner, without assigning reasons satisfactory to the Local Government or to such officer as aforesaid, refuses to receive him on board, may require such master or owner to deposit in the local Mercantile Marine Office—

(i) the wages due to such seaman or apprentice, and his money and effects, and

(ii) such sum as may in the opinion of the Local Government or such officer as aforesaid be sufficient to defray the cost of the passage of the said seaman or apprentice to the port at which he was shipped, according to the scale of cost usual in the case of distressed seamen.

(2) Whoever wilfully disobeys the prohibition contained in clause (a) of sub-section (1) shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

(3) Any master or owner refusing or neglecting to deposit any wages, money, effects or sum when required under clause (b) of sub-section (1) so to do shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Entry in official log, and recovery, of fines levied under agreement.

145. (1) Whenever any seaman of a British ship commits an act of misconduct for which his agreement imposes a fine, and which it is intended to punish by exacting such fine, the master shall make, or cause to be made, an entry thereof in the official log (if any), and such entry shall be signed by the master and also by the mate or some other member of the crew.

(2) The provisions of section 132, sub-sections (2) and (3), shall apply to every such entry.

(3) Such fine shall be deducted and paid over as follows (that is to say),—

(a) if the offender is discharged at any port in British India, and the offence, and the entries in respect thereof required by sub-sections (1) and (2), are proved, in the case of a foreign-going ship, to the satisfaction of the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office before whom the offender is discharged, and, in the case of a home-trade ship, to the satisfaction of the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged, the master or owner shall deduct the fine from the wages of the offender and pay the same over to such Superintendent:

(b) if, before the final discharge of the crew in British India, the offender enters into any of Her Majesty's ships or is discharged at any place not in British India, and the offence and such entries as aforesaid are proved to the satisfaction of the officer in command of the ship into which he so enters, or of the consular officer, officer of Customs or other person by whose sanction he is so discharged, the master or owner shall deduct the fine from the wages of the offender, and the master shall make, or cause to be made, an entry of such deduction in the official log (if any), and such entry shall be signed by such officer or other person as aforesaid, and, on the return of the ship to British India, the master or owner shall pay over the fine, in the case of a foreign-going ship to the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office before whom the crew is discharged, and in the case of a home-trade ship to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office at or nearest to the place at which the crew is discharged.

(4) If any master or owner neglects or refuses to pay over any fine to a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, as required by sub-section (3), he shall be punished with fine which may extend to six times the amount of the fine retained by him.

(5) No act of misconduct for which a fine has been deducted under sub-section (2) shall be otherwise punished under the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for enticing to desert or harbouring deserter.

[Act XIII 1856, s. .. Act I of 1859, s. .. Bengal .. IV of 186.. 42; Madras Act III of .. s. 70; Bill of 18.. s. 216; Bill of 18.. s. 125.] Cf. 1854, 257.

146. Every person who abets any seaman or apprentice of a British ship in deserting from, or neglecting or refusing to join or proceed to sea in, his ship, or in otherwise absenting himself from his duty, and every person who wilfully harbours or secretes any seaman or apprentice of a British or foreign ship who has deserted from or wilfully neglected or refused to join or proceed to sea in his ship, knowing or having reason to believe such seaman or apprentice to have so done, shall for each such seaman or apprentice be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees:

Provided that a wife shall not be punished for harbouring or secreting her husband.

Penalty for obtaining passage surreptitiously.

CHAPTER XVII.

LEAVING SEAMEN OR APPRENTICES IN BRITISH INDIA.

[...f 1867, ... 154, s.]

Discharge of seamen or apprentices on disposal of ship in British India, and procedure thereupon.

149. (1) Whenever a British ship, other than a home-trade ship of a burden of less than eighty tons, is transferred or disposed of at any port in British India, and any seaman or apprentice belonging to the ship does not, in the presence of the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office, signify his consent in writing to complete the voyage if continued, the master— shall give to each such seaman or apprentice a certificate of discharge, in the form mentioned in section 81, and, where a certificated mate or engineer whose certificate has been delivered to and retained by the master is so discharged, shall return such certificate, and shall, besides paying the wages to which such seaman or apprentice is entitled, either—

(a) provide him with adequate employment on board some other British ship bound to the port in Her Majesty's dominions at which he was originally shipped, or to such other port in Her Majesty's dominions as may be agreed to by him, or

(b) provide the means of sending him back to such a port, or

(c) provide him with a passage home, or

(d) deposit with such Superintendent as aforesaid such a sum of money as may by such Superintendent be deemed sufficient to defray the expenses of his subsistence and passage home.

(2) Such Superintendent shall indorse upon the agreement of the ship which the seaman or apprentice is leaving the particulars of every such payment, provision or deposit.

(3) If any master of a British ship refuses or neglects to comply with the requirements of this section in respect of any seaman or apprentice, the expenses of the subsistence of the seaman or apprentice and of his passage home shall, unless the seaman or apprentice has been guilty of barratry, be recoverable as follows, that is to say:—

(i) if such expenses are defrayed by such Superintendent as aforesaid, they shall be a charge upon the ship and upon the owner for the time being thereof, and may be recovered from such owner, with costs, as a debt due to the Secretary of State for India in Council, either by ordinary process of law, or in the manner provided by Chapter IX or any other law for the time being in force for the recovery of a seaman's wages;

(ii) if such expenses are defrayed by the seaman or apprentice himself, they may be recovered as wages due to him.

[Act XIII of 1876, s. 4; Bill of 1867, ss. 149, 158; Bill of 1882, s. 58.] Cf. 1854, s. 207 (1), (3); 1862, s. 15.

Discharge, or leaving behind, in British India, of seamen or apprentices not shipped in British India.

150. (1) No seaman or apprentice of a British ship who was not shipped in British India—

(a) shall be discharged at any port in British India without the previous sanction in writing of the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office, or

(b) shall be left behind at any place in British India without a certificate in writing previously obtained from some Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office and indorsed on the agreement with the crew, stating the fact and whether the cause thereof is unfitness or inability to proceed to sea, desertion or disappearance.

(2) Such sanction or certificate shall be given or withheld at the discretion of the Superintendent; but, whenever it is withheld, the reasons for withholding it shall be recorded by him in writing.

(3) The Superintendent to whom any application for a certificate is made under sub-section (1) shall enquire in a summary way into any allegation of unfitness, inability, desertion or disappearance as aforesaid, and may for that purpose, if he thinks fit so to do, administer oaths.

(4) Any person discharging or leaving behind a seaman or apprentice in wilful disobedience to the prohibition contained in sub-section (1) shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

[Bill of 1867, s. 150.] Cf. 1854, s. 208.

Proof of sanction or certificate on whom to lie.

151. Upon the trial of any proceeding against any person for discharging or leaving behind any seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section 150, it shall lie upon such person either to produce the sanction or certificate, as the case may be, required by that section, or to prove that he had obtained the same previously to having discharged or left behind such seaman or apprentice, or that it was impracticable for him to obtain such sanction or certificate.

Wages to be paid when seaman or apprentice is left behind on ground of unfitness or inability.

152. (1) Every master of a British ship who leaves any seaman or apprentice on shore at any place in British India under a certificate of his unfitness or inability to proceed to sea shall deliver to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office by whom such certificate is granted a full and true account of the wages due to such seaman or apprentice, and shall pay such wages to the seaman or apprentice himself, either in money or by a bill drawn upon the owner:

Provided that, whenever it is practicable so to do, such payment shall be made in money and not by bill.

(2) Whenever a bill is so drawn, such Superintendent shall by indorsement certify thereon that the same is drawn for money due on account of a seaman's or apprentice's wages, and shall indorse the amount for which such bill is drawn, with such further particulars in respect of the case as the Board of Trade may require, upon the agreement of the ship.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter XVIII.—Distressed Seamen and Apprentices.—Sections 153-158.)

(3) Where a bill is so drawn, the owner of the ship shall be liable to pay the amount of the same to the holder or indorsee thereof; and it shall not be necessary in any proceeding against the owner upon any such bill to prove that the master had authority to draw the same.

(4) Any bill produced out of the custody of a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office and purporting to be drawn in pursuance of this section, and to be indorsed as herein required, and any indorsement on any such bill purporting to be made in pursuance of this section, and to be signed by the Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office, shall be admissible in evidence.

(5) Any master who refuses or neglects to deliver an account of wages, or to pay any wages, as required by sub-section (1), shall be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees; and any master who delivers a false account of such wages shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees; without prejudice in either case to his liability to pay the said wages

CHAPTER XVIII.

DISTRESSED SEAMEN AND APPRENTICES.

[Act VII of 1880, s. 54; Bill of 1882, s. 92.]

Definition of "Local authority."

153. In this chapter "Local Authority" means such person as the Local Government may, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, appoint by name or in virtue of his office to exercise the powers conferred, and to perform the duties imposed, on the local authority under this chapter.

[Act VII of 1880, s. 55; Bill of 1867, s. 153; Bill of 1882, s. 93.] Cf. 1854, s. 211; 1855, s. 16.

Relief of distressed seamen and apprentices at British Indian ports.

154. Subject to any rules made under section 162, the Local Authority may provide for the subsistence—

(a) of all seamen and apprentices, being Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India, whether from any British ship employed in the merchant service, or from any of Her Majesty's ships, or who have been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign Prince or State, or to the subject of any foreign Prince or State, and who are in distress in any such place; and

(b) of all seamen and apprentices, not being Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India from any British ship registered in British India and who are in distress in any such place, until such time as such Authority is able to provide them with a passage under the provisions hereinafter contained.

[Act VII of 1880, ss. 56, 57; Bill of 1867, s. 153; Bill of 1882, ss. 94, 95.] Cf. 1854, s. 211; 1855, Distressed seamen and apprentices to be sent home.

155. (1) Subject as aforesaid, the Local Authority may cause such seamen or apprentices to be put on board some ship belonging to any subject of Her Majesty which is in want of men to make up its complement, and is bound—

(a) in the case of seamen or apprentices who are Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, to their home or to a port in British India near their home;

(b) in the case of other British seamen or apprentices, to any port in the United Kingdom or the British Possession to which they belong (as the case requires); and

(c) in the case of seamen or apprentices not being subjects of Her Majesty, to such place as the local authority, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, may in each case determine.

(2) In default of any such ship, the Local Authority may, subject as aforesaid, provide such seamen or apprentices with a passage in any ship (whether British or foreign) bound as aforesaid.

Name and other particulars with regard to seamen and apprentices to be indorsed on agreement of British ship.

156. The Local Authority shall indorse on the agreement of any British ship on board of which any seaman or apprentice is sent under section 155 the name of every person so sent on board thereof, with such particulars concerning the case as may be prescribed.

Master of British ship compelled to convey and give subsistence to such seamen and apprentices.

157. (1) The master of every British ship bound as aforesaid shall receive and afford a passage and subsistence to all seamen and apprentices whom he is required to take on board his ship under the provisions of section 155, not exceeding one for every fifty tons burden, and shall, during the passage, provide every such seaman or apprentice with a proper berth or sleeping-place effectually protected against sea and weather.

(2) If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of sub-section (1), he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Conditions under which master may claim payment.

158. (1) When any master of a British ship has conveyed a seaman or apprentice in excess of the number (if any) wanted to make up the complement of his crew to any place in accordance with the requisition of a Local Authority under this chapter, such master shall be entitled to be paid by the Secretary of State for India in Council in respect of the subsistence and passage of such seaman or apprentice such sum per diem as the Governor General in Council may appoint:

Provided that no payment shall be made under this section except on the production of the following documents (that is to say):—

(a) a certificate signed by the Local Authority by whose direction such seaman or apprentice was received on board, specifying the name of such seaman or apprentice and the time when he was received on board; and

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter XVIII.—Distressed Seamen and Apprentices.—Sections 159-163.)

(b) a declaration in writing by such master, stating—

(i) the number of days during which such seaman or apprentice received subsistence and was provided for as aforesaid on board his ship;

(ii) the number of men and boys forming the complement of his crew;

(iii) the number of seamen and apprentices employed on board his ship during the time such seaman or apprentice was on board; and

(iv) every variation (if any) of such number.

(2) The declaration required by clause (b) of sub-section (1) shall, in the case of a ship conveying Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty to a port in British India, be made before a Superintendent of a Mercantile Marine Office or such other officer as the Local Government may appoint; and shall, in other cases, be made and verified in the same manner as declarations made under section 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Wages of, and expenses incurred in respect of, distressed seamen and apprentices to be charged in certain cases on ship to which they belong.

159. (a) If any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and belonging to any British ship, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance on the part of the master with all the provisions in that behalf of the law for the time being in force, and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of this chapter; or

(b) if any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty, after having been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign Prince or State or to the subject of any foreign Prince or State, becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid; or

(c) if any seaman or apprentice belonging to any British ship registered in British India, and not being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance as aforesaid, and becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid, the wages (if any) due to such seaman or apprentice, and all expenses incurred for his subsistence, necessary clothing, conveyance home, and, in case he should die before reaching home, for his burial, shall be a charge upon the ship, whether British or foreign, to which he so belonged as aforesaid.

Mode of recovering such wages and expenses.

160. (1) All such wages and expenses shall be recoverable with costs either from the master of such ship or from the person who is owner thereof for the time being, or, in the case of an engagement for service in a foreign ship, from such master or owner or from the person by whom such engagement was so made, in the same manner as other debts due to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or in the manner provided by Chapter IX or any other law for the time being in force for the recovery of a seaman's wages.

(2) The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, authorise, either generally or specially, such persons as it may think fit to sue for any such wages and expenses and recover the same.

(3) Every person so authorised shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause (7):

Provided that when any such wages or expenses are due to or in respect of a seaman or apprentice referred to in section 159, clause (c), they may, instead of being recovered by a person authorised under sub-section (2), be recovered by the Board of Trade in manner provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, and when so recovered shall be paid by the said Board to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Evidence of distress and expenses incurred.

161. In all proceedings under the foregoing provisions of this chapter, whether in British India or elsewhere, the production of a certificate signed by the Local Authority by which any seaman or apprentice named therein was relieved, or any expenses were incurred, under the said provisions, to the effect that such seaman or apprentice was in distress, and that such expenses were incurred in respect of such seaman or apprentice, shall be conclusive proof that such seaman or apprentice was relieved, conveyed home or buried (as the case may be) at the expense of the revenues of India.

Power to make rules.

162. The Governor General in Council may make rules to determine under what circumstances and subject to what conditions seamen or apprentices may be relieved and provided with passages under the foregoing provisions of this chapter, and generally to carry out the said provisions.

Relief of distressed seamen to whom the English Merchant Shipping Acts apply.

163. (1) Nothing in the foregoing provisions of this chapter shall apply to seamen or apprentices to whom the provisions of section 211 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or of section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, apply.

(2) A certificate signed by a Secretary to the Local Government, or by such other officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, to the effect that any seaman named therein is distressed, shall, in all proceedings under sections 211, 212 and 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, be conclusive proof that such seaman is distressed within the meaning of those sections.

(3) Any master of a British ship refusing to accept such seaman as a distressed seaman under the provisions of the said sections shall, for each seaman with respect to whom he so refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

The Indian Merchant Shipping Bill, 1892.

(Part III.—Masters, Seamen and Apprentices.—Chapter XVIII.—Distressed Seamen and Apprentices.—Section 164. Chapter XIX.—The Official Log.—Sections 165-168.)

Recovery in British India, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 and 1855, of wages and expenses of distressed seamen and apprentices.

164. (1) Where any wages or expenses recoverable under section 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or under section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, are, under the same sections, a charge upon any ship, or recoverable from any master, owner or other person, within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India, the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India authorise, either generally or specially, such persons as he may think fit to sue for and recover those wages or expenses in the manner provided in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213.

(2) Every person so authorised shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly in any such Court, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause (7).

(3) All suits and proceedings under this section shall be instituted and carried on in the name of the Secretary of State for India in Council.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE OFFICIAL LOG.

Official log to be kept for certain ships.

165. (1) An official log, in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, shall be kept for every British ship registered in British India which is required by section 31 to have a certificated master.

(2) The official log may, at the discretion of the master or owner, either be kept distinct from the ordinary ship's log or be united therewith, provided that in the latter case all the entries required by this Act or any other law to be made in the official log be duly made.

Entries required in official log.

166. Every master of a ship for which an official log is required by section 165 shall make or cause to be made in such log entries of the following matters (in addition to all other entries which he is required by this Act or any other law to make therein), that is to say :—

(a) every offence committed by any member of the crew for which it is intended to prosecute, or to enforce a forfeiture, or to exact a fine, together with such statement concerning the furnishing of a copy of, or the reading over of, such entry and concerning the reply (if any) made to the charge, as is required by section 132, sub-sections (2) and (3) :
Offences for which it is intended to take proceedings.

(b) every offence for which punishment is inflicted on board, and the punishment inflicted : Punishments inflicted on board.

(c) every legal conviction of any member of the crew, and the punishment in- Convictions.

(d) a statement of the conduct, character and qualifications of each member of the crew, or a statement that the master declines to give an opinion on such particulars : Conduct, &c., of crew.

(e) every case of illness or injury happening to any member of the crew, with the nature thereof, and the medical treatment adopted (if any) : Illness and injuries.

(f) every marriage taking place on board, with the names and ages of the parties : Marriages.

(g) the name of every seaman or apprentice who ceases to be a member of the crew otherwise than by death, with the place, time, manner and cause thereof : Quitting ship.
